173. (1) References to Tax Court of Canada — Where the Minister and a taxpayer agree in writing that a question of law, fact or mixed law and fact arising under this Act, in respect of any assessment, proposed assessment, determination or proposed determination, should be determined by the Tax Court of Canada, that question shall be determined by that Court.

Related Provisions: 174 — Reference of common questions to Tax Court; 225.1(4) — Collection by the Minister.

(2) Time during consideration not to count — The time between the day on which proceedings are instituted in the Tax Court of Canada to have a question determined pursuant to subsection (1) and the day on which the question is finally determined shall not be counted in the computation of

(a) the periods determined under subsection 152(4),

(b) the time for service of a notice of objection to an assessment under section 165, or

(c) the time within which an appeal may be instituted under section 169, for the purpose of making an assessment of the tax payable by the taxpayer who agreed in writing to the determination of the question, for the purpose of serving a notice of objection thereto or for the purpose of instituting an appeal therefrom, as the case may be.

Definitions [s. 173]: "assessment", "Minister", "taxpayer" — 248(1); "writing" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

174. (1) Reference of common questions to Tax Court of Canada — Where the Minister is of the opinion that a question of law, fact or mixed law and fact arising out of one and the same transaction or occurrence or series of transactions or occurrences is common to assessments or proposed assessments in respect of two or more taxpayers, the Minister may apply to the Tax Court of Canada for a determination of the question.

Related Provisions: 173 — Reference to Tax Court; 225.1(4) — Collection by the Minister; 248(10) — Series of transactions.

Selected Cases [subsec. 174(1)]: Miller v. R., [2006] 1 C.T.C. 120 (FCA); rev'g [2005] 2 C.T.C. 2241 (TCC) (No prejudice suffered through process where assessment outside normal period of reassessment); Quemet Corp. v. R., [1979] C.T.C. 414 (FCTD) (Joinder of taxpayer and vendor for evidence of fictitious purchases of goods "sold").

See also Selected Cases under subsec. 174(3).

(2) Application to Court — An application under subsection (1) shall set out

(a) the question in respect of which the Minister requests a determination,

(b) the names of the taxpayers that the Minister seeks to have bound by the determination of the question, and

(c) the facts and reasons on which the Minister relies and on which the Minister based or intends to base assessments of tax payable by each of the taxpayers named in the application, and a copy of the application shall be served by the Minister on each of the taxpayers named in the application and on any other persons who, in the opinion of the Tax Court of Canada, are likely to be affected by the determination of the question.

(3) Where Tax Court of Canada may determine question — Where the Tax Court of Canada is satisfied that a determination of the question set out in an application under this section will affect assessments or proposed assessments in respect of two or more taxpayers who have been served with a copy of the application and who are named in an order of the Tax Court of Canada pursuant to this subsection, it may

(a) if none of the taxpayers so named has appealed from such an assessment, proceed to determine the question in such manner as it considers appropriate; or

(b) if one or more of the taxpayers so named has or have appealed, make such order joining a party or parties to that or those appeals as it considers appropriate and proceed to determine the question.

Selected Cases [subsec. 174(3)]: R. v. Bisson, [1978] C.T.C. 332 (FCTD) (Petition seeking joinder of parties allowed for determination of respective shareholdings); R. v. Dain, [1973] C.T.C. 801 (FCTD) (Application for joinder of parties must be made to tribunal seized with taxpayer's appeal, Federal Court had no jurisdiction from decision of Tax Review Board).

See also Selected Cases under subsec. 174(1).

(4) Determination final and conclusive — Subject to subsection (4.1), where a question set out in an application under this section is determined by the Tax Court of Canada, the determination thereof is final and conclusive for the purposes of any assessments of tax payable by the taxpayers named by it pursuant to subsection (3).

Selected Cases [subsec. 174(4)]: Stern v. R., [1984] C.T.C. 647 (FCTD) (Former wife required to participate in litigation when joined as defendant).

(4.1) Appeal — Where a question set out in an application under this section is determined by the Tax Court of Canada, the Minister or any of the taxpayers who have been served with a copy of the application and who are named in an order of the Court pursuant to subsection (3) may, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the Tax Court of Canada Act, or the Federal Courts Act, as they relate to appeals from decisions of the Tax Court of Canada, appeal from the determination.

History: Subsec. 174(4.1) amended by 2002, c. 8, para. 182(1)(t) to substitute "Federal Courts Act" for "Federal Court Act", in force July 2, 2003.

(5) Time during consideration of question not counted — The time between the day on which an application under this section is served on a taxpayer pursuant to subsection (2) and

(a) in the case of a taxpayer named in an order of the Tax Court of Canada pursuant to subsection (3), the day on which the determination becomes final and conclusive and not subject to any appeal, or

(b) in the case of any other taxpayer, the day on which the taxpayer is served with notice that the taxpayer has not been named in an order of the Tax Court of Canada pursuant to subsection (3), shall not be counted in the computation of

(c) the periods determined under subsection 152(4),

(d) the time for service of a notice of objection to an assessment under section 165, or

(e) the time within which an appeal may be instituted under section 169, for the purpose of making an assessment of the tax, interest or penalties payable by the taxpayer, serving a notice of objection thereto or instituting an appeal therefrom, as the case may be.

Definitions [s. 174]: "assessment", "Minister", "person", "series of transactions", "taxpayer" — 248(1).

175. Institution of appeals — An appeal to the Tax Court of Canada under this Act, other than one referred to in section 18 of the Tax Court of Canada Act, shall be instituted in the manner set out in that Act or in any rules made under that Act.

Related Provisions: 170(1) — Informal procedure appeals.

History: S. 175 amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 101. S. 175 formerly read:

175. (1) An appeal to the Tax Court of Canada under this Act, other than one referred to in section 18 of the Tax Court of Canada Act, shall be instituted

(a) in the manner set out in the Tax Court of Canada Act or any rules made under that Act; or

(b) by the filing by the Minister in the Registry of the Tax Court of Canada of a copy of a notice of objection pursuant to paragraph 165(3)(b).

(2) Service of originating document — Where a copy of a notice of objection is filed in the Registry of the Tax Court of Canada by the Minister pursuant to paragraph 165(3)(b) and the Minister files the copy of the notice of objection, together with two additional copies thereof and a certificate as to the latest known address of the taxpayer, an officer of the Registry of the Court shall, after verifying the accuracy of the copies, forthwith on behalf of the Minister serve the copy of the notice of objection on the taxpayer by sending the additional copies thereof by registered mail addressed to the taxpayer at the address set out in the certificate.

(3) Certificate — Where copies have been served on a taxpayer under subsection (2), a certificate signed by an officer of the Registry of the Tax Court of Canada as to the date of filing and the date of mailing of the copies shall be transmitted to the office of the Deputy Attorney General of Canada and that certificate is evidence of the date of filing and the date of service of the document referred to therein.

177, 178 [Repealed under former Act]

179. Hearings in camera — Proceedings in the Federal Court of Appeal under this Division may, on the application of the taxpayer, be held in camera if the taxpayer establishes to the satisfaction of the Court that the circumstances of the case justify in camera proceedings.

History: S. 179 amended by 2002, c. 8, para. 184(d) to substitute "Federal Court of Appeal" for "Federal Court", in force July 2, 2003.

Definitions [s. 179]: "Federal Court of Appeal" — Federal Courts Act s. 3; "taxpayer" — 248(1).

179.1 No reasonable grounds for appeal — Where the Tax Court of Canada disposes of an appeal by a taxpayer in respect of an amount payable under this Part or where such an appeal has been discontinued or dismissed without trial, the Court may, on the application of the Minister and whether or not it awards costs, order the taxpayer to pay to the Receiver General an amount not exceeding 10% of any part of the amount that was in controversy in respect of which the Court determines that there were no reasonable grounds for the appeal, if in the opinion of the Court one of the main purposes for instituting or maintaining any part of the appeal was to defer the payment of any amount payable under this Part.

History: S. 179.1 amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 102, applicable after June 10, 1993, with respect to appeals instituted after June 1992. S. 179.1 formerly read:

179.1 Where the Tax Court of Canada disposes of an appeal by a taxpayer in respect of an amount payable under this Part or where such an appeal has been discontinued or dismissed without trial, the Court may, on the application of the Minister and whether or not it awards costs, order the taxpayer to pay to the Receiver General an amount not exceeding 10% of the amount that was in controversy if it determines that there were no reasonable grounds for the appeal and one of the main purposes for instituting or maintaining the appeal was to defer the payment of an amount payable under this Part.

Definitions [s. 179.1]: "amount", "Minister", "taxpayer" — 248(1).

180. (1) Appeals to Federal Court of Appeal — An appeal to the Federal Court of Appeal pursuant to subsection 172(3) may be instituted by filing a notice of appeal in the Court within 30 days from

(a) the day on which the Minister notifies a person under subsection 165(3) of the Minister's action in respect of a notice of objection filed under subsection 168(4),

(b) the mailing of notice to a registered Canadian amateur athletic association under subsection 168(1),

(c) the mailing of notice to the administrator of the registered pension plan under subsection 147.1(11),

(c.1) the sending of a notice to a promoter of a registered education savings plan under subsection 146.1(12.1), or

(d) the time the decision of the Minister to refuse the application for acceptance of the amendment to the registered pension plan was mailed, or otherwise communicated in writing, by the Minister to any person, as the case may be, or within such further time as the Court of Appeal or a judge thereof may, either before or after the expiration of those 30 days, fix or allow.

Related Provisions: 172(4) — Deemed refusal to register; 212(14) — Certificate of exemption; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Paras. 180(1)(a) and (b) amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 40, applicable in respect of notices issued by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005. The paras. formerly read:

(a) the time the decision of the Minister to refuse the application for registration or for a certificate of exemption, to revoke the registration, to designate or to refuse to designate was mailed, or otherwise communicated in writing, by the Minister to the party instituting the appeal,

(b) the mailing of notice to the registered charity or registered Canadian amateur athletic association under subsection 149.1(2), (3), (4) or (4.1) or 168(1),

Para. 180(1)(c.1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 47, applicable after 1997.

Para. 180(1)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 142, to substitute "149.1(2), (3), (4) or (4.1) or 168(1)" for "168(1)", applicable after 1989.

Forms: T285: Appeal from Minister's refusal to register as a charity or amateur athletic association.

(2) No jurisdiction in Tax Court of Canada or Federal Court — Neither the Tax Court of Canada nor the Federal Court has jurisdiction to entertain any proceeding in respect of a decision of the Minister from which an appeal may be instituted under this section.

History: Subsec. 180(2) amended by 2002, c. 8, para. 183(1)(m) to substitute "Federal Court" for "Federal Court–Trial Division", in force July 2, 2003.

(3) Summary disposition of appeal — An appeal to the Federal Court of Appeal instituted under this section shall be heard and determined in a summary way.

Related Provisions: 172(4) — Deemed refusal to register; 176(2) — Transfer of relevant documents to the Federal Court of Appeal.

PART I.1 — INDIVIDUAL SURTAX

180.1 [Repealed]

History [Part I.1]: Part I.1 repealed by 2001, c. 17, s. 161, applicable to 2001 et seq. It formerly read:

180.1 (1) Individual surtax — Every individual shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 5% of the amount, if any, by which the tax payable under Part I by the individual for the year exceeds $15,500.

(1.1) Foreign tax deduction — There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable under this Part for a taxation year (computed without reference to subsection (1.2)) by an individual the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts that would be

(i) deductible by the individual under section 126 for the year, or

(ii) the individual's special foreign tax credit for the year determined under section 127.54,

if the references in section 126 to "the tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part by the taxpayer" were read as "the total of the tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part by the individual and the tax for the year that would be payable by the individual under Part I.1 but for subsections 180.1(1.1) and (1.2)"

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts deductible by the individual under section 126 for the year and the individual's special foreign tax credit for the year determined under section 127.54.

(1.2) Deduction from tax [investment tax credit] — There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable under this Part for a taxation year by an individual the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under paragraph 127(5)(a) in respect of the individual for the year exceeds the amount, if any, deducted under subsection 127(5) for the year by the individual other than an amount deemed by subsection (1.3) to be so deducted.

(1.3) Idem — For the purposes of this Act, the amount deducted under subsection (1.2) for a taxation year shall be deemed to be an amount deducted under subsection 127(5) for the year.

(1.4) Former resident — credit for tax paid — There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable under this Part by an individual for a taxation year (computed without reference to subsections (1.1) and (1.2)) the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount that would be deductible under section 119 in computing the individual's tax payable under Part I for the year if, in applying for that purpose paragraph (a) of the definition "tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part" in subsection 126(7), the reference in that paragraph to "tax payable under this Part for the year" were read as a reference to "the total of taxes that, but for subsections 180.1(1.1), (1.2) and (1.4), would be payable under this Part and Part I.1 for the year"

exceeds

(b) the amount deductible under section 119 in computing the individual's tax payable under Part I for the year.

(2) Meaning of tax payable under Part I — For the purposes of subsection (1), the tax payable under Part I by an individual for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount that would be the individual's tax payable under that Part for the year if that Part were read without reference to section 119, subsection 120(1) and sections 122.3, 126, 127, 127.4 and 127.54

exceeds

(b) if the individual was throughout the year a mutual fund trust, the least of the amounts determined under paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of the description of A in the definition "refundable capital gains tax on hand" in subsection 132(4) in respect of the trust for the year, and

(c) in any other case, nil.

(3) Return — Every individual liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall, on or before the day on or before which the individual is required by section 150 to file a return of income for the year under Part I, or would be so required if the individual were liable to pay tax under Part I for the year,

(a) file with the Minister, without notice or demand therefor, a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information; and

(b) pay the tax under this Part for the year for which the individual is liable.

(4) Provisions applicable to Part — Sections 151, 152, 155, 156, 156.1 and 158 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Subsec. 180.1(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 160(1), applicable to the 2000 taxation year. It formerly read:

(1) Individual surtax — Every individual shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 5% of the amount, if any, by which the tax payable under Part I by the individual for the year exceeds $12,500.

Subsec. 180.1(1.4) added, and subsec. 180.1(2) amended, by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 160(2), applicable after October 1, 1996. Subsec. 180.1(2) formerly read:

(2) Meaning of tax payable under Part I.— For the purposes of subsection (1), the tax payable under Part I by an individual for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which

(a) where section 119 is applicable in computing the individual's tax payable for the year, the amount that would be the individual's average tax for the year of averaging, as determined under paragraph 119(1)(d), if the expression "deductible under subsection 127(5)" in that paragraph were read as "added under subsection 120(1) or deductible under sections 122.3, 126, 127 and 127.2 to 127.4", and

(b) in any other case, the amount that would be the individual's tax payable under that Part for the year if that Part were read without reference to subsection 120(1) and sections 122.3, 126, 127, 127.2 to 127.4 and 127.54

(c) where the individual was throughout the year a mutual fund trust, the least of the amounts determined under paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of the description of A in the definition "refundable capital gains tax on hand" in subsection 132(4) in respect of the trust for the year, and

(d) in any other case, nil.

Subsec. 180.1(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 52(2), applicable to 2000 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(1) Individual surtax — Every individual shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to the total of

(a) ½ of the amount, if any, by which

(i) 3% of the individual's tax payable under Part I for the year

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) $250

exceeds

(B) 6% of the amount, if any, by which

(I) the individual's tax payable under Part I for the year

exceeds

(II) $8,333, and

(b) 5% of the amount, if any, by which the tax payable under Part I by the individual for the year exceeds $12,500.

Para. 180.1(1)(a) amended by the said c. 19, subsec. 52(1), applicable to the 1999 taxation year. The para. formerly read:

(a) the amount, if any, by which

Para. 180.1(1)(a) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 67, applicable to 1998 et seq. except that, in its application to the 1998 taxation year, the portion of subpara. 180.1(1)(a)(ii) before cl. (B), as amended, shall be read as follows:

(ii) 50% of the amount, if any, by which

(A) the lesser of $250 and the amount computed under subparagraph (i) for the year

exceeds

Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) 3% of the tax payable under Part I by the individual for the year, and

Subsecs. 180.1(1.2), (1.3) amended by 1994, c. 8, s. 28, applicable to taxation years beginning after 1993. Subsecs. (1.2) and (1.3) formerly read:

(1.2) There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable under this Part for a taxation year by an individual an amount not exceeding the lesser of

(a) ¾ of the amount that would be the individual's tax otherwise payable under this Part for the year if the individual deducted the amount, if any, allowed to be deducted under subsection (1.1) for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under paragraph 127(5)(b) in respect of the individual for the year exceeds the amount, if any, deducted by the individual under subsection 127(5) for the year.

(1.3) Amount deemed deducted under subsec. (1.2) — For the purposes of this Act, other than for the purpose of determining the amount under paragraph (1.2)(b) for the year, the amount deducted under subsection (1.2) for a taxation year shall be deemed to be an amount deducted under subsection 127(5) for the year.

Para. 180.1(1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 103(1), to substitute "3% of the tax" for "5% of tax", applicable to 1992 et seq. except that for the 1992 taxation year the reference to "3%" shall be read as "4½%".

Subsec. 180.1(1.1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 103(2), applicable to 1988 et seq. Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) There may be deducted from the tax otherwise payable under this Part for a taxation year by an individual the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts that would be

(i) deductible by the individual under section 126 for the year, or

(ii) the individual's special foreign tax credit for the year determined under section 127.54,

if the references in section 126 to "the tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part by the individual (or "taxpayer")" were read as "the total of the tax for the year otherwise payable under this Part by the individual (or "taxpayer") and the tax for the year that would be payable by the individual (or "taxpayer") under Part I.1 but for subsection 180.1(1.1)"

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts deductible by the individual (or "taxpayer") under section 126 for the year and the individual's special foreign tax credit for the year determined under section 127.54.

Para. 180.1(1)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 143, to substitute "5%" for "3%" and "$12,500" for "$15,000", applicable to 1991 et seq.

PART I.2 — TAX ON OLD AGE SECURITY BENEFITS

180.2 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this Part.

"adjusted income" of an individual for a taxation year means the amount that would be the individual's income under Part I for the year if no amount were included under paragraph 56(1)(q.1) or subsection 56(6) or in respect of a gain from a disposition of property to which section 79 applies in computing that income and if no amount were deductible under paragraph 60(w), (y) or (z) in computing that income;

"base taxation year", in relation to a month, means

(a) where the month is any of the first 6 months of a calendar year, the taxation year that ended on December 31 of the second preceding calendar year, and

(b) where the month is any of the last 6 months of a calendar year, the taxation year that ended on December 31 of the preceding calendar year.

"return of income" in respect of an individual for a taxation year means

(a) where the individual was resident in Canada throughout the year, the individual's return of income (other than a return of income filed under subsection 70(2) or 104(23), paragraph 128(2)(e) or subsection 150(4)) that is filed or required to be filed under Part I for the year, and

(b) in any other case, a prescribed form containing prescribed information.

Related Provisions: 60(v.1) — UI benefit repayment; 60(w) — Other deductions — tax under Part I.2.

History: The definition "adjusted income" in subsec. 180.2(1) amended to substitute "paragraph 56(1)(q.1) or subsection 56(6)" for "subsection 56(6)" and "60(w), (y) or (z)" for "60(w) or (y)", by 2007, c. 35, s. 119, applicable to 2008 et seq.

The definition "adjusted income" amended by 2006, c. 4, s. 178, applicable to 2006 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"adjusted income" of an individual for a taxation year means the amount that would be the individual's income under Part I for the year if no amount were deductible under paragraph 60(w) nor included in respect of a gain from a disposition of property to which section 79 applies.

Subsec. 180.2(1) added by 1996, c. 21, s. 46 applicable after June 1996. Former subsec. (1) (now subsec. (2)) read:

(1) Tax payable — Every individual (other than a trust) shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year that is equal to the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any pension, supplement or spouse's allowance under the Old Age Security Act included in computing the individual's income under Part I for the year, to the extent that no deduction is allowed under paragraph 60(n) for the year or any subsequent taxation year in respect of that amount, and

(b) 15% of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be the individual's income under Part I for the year if no amount were

(A) deductible under paragraph 60(w), or

(B) included in respect of a gain from a disposition of property to which section 79 applies in computing that income

exceeds

(ii) $50,000.[48]

Selected Cases [subsec. 180.2(1)]: Swantje v. Canada, [1996] 1 C.T.C. 355 (SCC) (Section not affected by Canada–Germany Tax Agreement).

(2) Tax payable — Every individual shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to the amount determined by the formula

A is the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any pension, supplement or spouse's or common-law partner's allowance under the Old Age Security Act included in computing the individual's income under Part I for the year

(ii) the amount of any deduction allowed under subparagraph 60(n)(i) in computing the individual's income under Part I for the year, and

(b) 15% of the amount, if any, by which the individual's adjusted income for the year exceeds $50,000[49]; and

B is the rate of tax payable by the individual under Part XIII on amounts described in paragraph (a) of the description of A.

Related Provisions: 117.1(1)(b) — Indexing for inflation; 180.2(3) — Withholding of tax from OAS benefits.

History: Subsec. 180.2(2) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 7, to replace "spouse's"with "spouse's or common-law partner's", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subsec. 180.2(2) renumbered (from (1)) and amended by 1996, c. 21, s. 46, applicable to 1996 et seq. Former subsec. (2) (now subsec. (5)) read:

(2) Return — Every individual liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall, on or before the day on or before which the individual is required by section 150 to file a return of income for the year under Part I, or would be so required if the individual were liable to pay tax under Part I for the year,

(a) file with the Minister, without notice or demand therefor, a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information; and

(b) pay the tax under this Part for the year for which the individual is liable.

(3) Withholding — Where at any time Her Majesty pays an amount described in paragraph (a) of the description of A in subsection (2) in respect of a month to an individual, there shall be deducted or withheld from that amount on account of the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year the amount determined under subsection (4) in respect of that amount.

Related Provisions: 227 — Rules applicable to withholding.

History: Subsec. 180.2(3) added by 1996, c. 21, s. 46, applicable to amounts paid after June 1996. Former subsec. (3) (now subsec. (6)) read:

(3) Provisions applicable to Part — Sections 151, 152 and 158 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

(4) Determination of amount to be withheld — The amount determined in respect of a particular amount described in subsection (3) is

(a) where the individual has filed a return of income for the base taxation year in relation to the month in which the particular amount is paid, the lesser of

(i) the amount by which the particular amount exceeds the amount of tax payable under Part XIII by the individual on the particular amount, and

(ii) the amount determined by the formula

$$(0.0125A - $665[49])(1–B)$$

where

A is the individual's adjusted income for the base taxation year, and

B is the rate of tax payable under Part XIII by the individual on the particular amount;

(b) where the individual has not filed a return of income for the base taxation year in relation to the month and

(i) the Minister has demanded under subsection 150(2) that the individual file the return, or

(ii) the individual was non-resident at any time in the base taxation year, the amount by which the particular amount exceeds the amount of tax payable under Part XIII by the individual on the particular amount; and

(c) in any other case, nil.

Related Provisions: 117.1(1)(b) — Indexing for inflation; 180.2(5) — Obligation to file return; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The formula in subpara. 180.2(4)(a)(ii) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 162, applicable to amounts paid after November 1999. It formerly read:

Subsec. 180.2(4) added by 1996, c. 21, s. 46, applicable to amounts paid after June 1996.

(5) Return — Every individual liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall

(a) file with the Minister, without notice or demand therefor,

(i) where the individual is resident in Canada throughout the taxation year, a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information on or before the individual's filing-due date for the year, and

(ii) in any other case, a return of income for the year on or before the individual's balance-due day for the year; and

(b) pay the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year on or before the individual's balance-due day for the year.

Related Provisions: 180.2(4)(b)(ii) — No OAS benefits paid to non-resident who does not file return.

History: Subsec. 180.2(5) renumbered (from (2)) and amended by 1996, c. 21, s. 46, applicable to 1996 et seq.

PART I.3 — TAX ON LARGE CORPORATIONS

181. (1) Definitions — For the purposes of this Part,

"financial institution", in respect of a taxation year, means a corporation that at any time in the year is

(a) a bank or credit union,

(b) an insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada,

(c) authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on the business of offering its services as a trustee to the public,

(d) authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to accept deposits from the public and carries on the business of lending money on the security of real estate or investing in mortgages or hypothecary claims on real estate,

Proposed Amendment — 181(1)"financial institution"(d)

(d) authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to accept deposits from the public and carries on the business of lending money on the security of real property or immovables or investing in indebtedness on the security of mortgages on real property or of hypothecs on immovables,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 258, will amend para. (d) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 181(1) to read as above, to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(e) a registered securities dealer,

(f) a mortgage investment corporation, or

(g) a prescribed corporation;

Proposed Amendment — 181(1)"financial institution"(g)

(g) a corporation

(i) listed in the schedule, or

(ii) all or substantially all of the assets of which are shares or indebtedness of financial institutions to which the corporation is related;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 162, will amend para. (g) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 181(1) to read as above, applicable after December 22, 1997, but in applying the para. in respect of taxation years that end before December 20, 2002, it is to be read as follows:

(g) prescribed, or listed in the schedule,

Technical Notes: Subsection 181(1) sets out definitions for the purposes of the Part I.3 tax on large corporations. Among these is the term "financial institution," which is relevant for a number of purposes. Most importantly, corporations that are financial institutions compute their capital for the purposes of Part I.3 differently from other corporations. The status of a particular corporation is also relevant to corporations that invest in the particular corporation or hold its debt, since whether certain of those investments are counted in the investor corporation's "investment allowance" — and thus whether they will reduce their own tax under Part I.3 — depends, in part, on whether the particular corporation is a financial institution.

In addition to listing several types of corporations, the definition "financial institution" provides, in its paragraph (g), that the definition applies as well to a prescribed corporation. Currently, such corporations are prescribed under section 8604 of the Regulations. Paragraph (a) of that regulation provides that a corporation of which all or substantially all of the assets of which are shares or indebtedness of a financial institution (as defined in subsection 181(1)) to which the corporation is related, is itself prescribed to be a financial institution; the remaining paragraphs list particular corporations by name.

Paragraph (g) of the definition is amended to reflect a fundamental change in the technique by which these corporations will be identified as financial institutions. Rather than listing corporations in a regulation, this new approach is to list them in a schedule to the Act. Amended paragraph (g) therefore refers to corporations that are either listed in the schedule, as per new subparagraph (g)(i), or that are described in new subparagraph (g)(ii), currently paragraph (a) of section 8604 of the Regulations.

As a consequence to the changes to paragraph (g) of the definition, section 8604 of the Regulations is to be repealed and a schedule is added at the end of the Act. Subject to a number of deletions due primarily to name changes and amalgamations, the schedule lists those corporations that are currently prescribed under section 8604 immediately before its repeal. The schedule also lists a number of corporations that are not currently prescribed, but meet the requirements for treatment as financial institutions and have asked to be treated as such.

Transitional rules for paragraph (g) of the definition ensure that corporations prescribed before the repeal of Regulation 8604 retain the status that they would have had under paragraph (g) had it not been amended to exclude prescribed corporations.

As described above, a number of corporations currently not prescribed are listed in the schedule, effective as of dates that precede December 20, 2002. Transitional rules ensure that, for any taxation year that begins before December 20, 2002, no corporation that deals at arm's length with any of these corporations will lose an investment allowance as a result the corporation's change in status to a financial institution under paragraph (g) of the definition.

"long-term debt" means,

(a) in the case of a bank, its subordinated indebtedness (within the meaning assigned by section 2 of the Bank Act) evidenced by obligations issued for a term of not less than 5 years,

(b) in the case of an insurance corporation, its subordinated indebtedness (within the meaning assigned by section 2 of the Insurance Companies Act) evidenced by obligations issued for a term of not less than 5 years, and

(c) in the case of any other corporation, its subordinated indebtedness (within the meaning that would be assigned by section 2 of the Bank Act if the definition of that expression in that section were applied with such modifications as the circumstances require) evidenced by obligations issued for a term of not less than 5 years, but does not include, where the corporation is a prescribed federal Crown corporation for the purpose of section 27, any indebtedness evidenced by obligations issued to and held by Her Majesty in right of Canada;

History: The definition "long-term debt" in subsec. 181(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 81, applicable after May 31, 1992. That definition formerly read:

"long-term debt" means

(a) in the case of a bank, its indebtedness evidenced by bank debentures within the meaning assigned by the Bank Act, and

(b) in the case of a financial institution that is not a bank, its subordinate indebtedness evidenced by obligations issued for a term of not less than 5 years (other than, where the financial institution is a prescribed federal Crown corporation for the purposes of section 27, such indebtedness evidenced by obligations issued to and held by Her Majesty in right of Canada);

(4) Deduction — There may be deducted from a corporation's tax otherwise payable under this Part for a taxation year an amount equal to the total of

(a) its Canadian surtax payable for the year, and

(b) such part as the corporation claims of its unused surtax credits for its 7 immediately preceding and 3 immediately following taxation years, to the extent that that total does not exceed the amount by which

(c) the amount that would, but for this subsection, be its tax payable under this Part for the year

exceeds

(d) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount deducted under subsection 125.3(1) in computing the corporation's tax payable under Part I for a taxation year ending before 1992 in respect of its unused Part I.3 tax credit (within the meaning assigned by section 125.3) for the year.

(6) Definitions — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (4), (5) and (7),

"Canadian surtax payable" of a corporation for a taxation year has the meaning assigned by subsection 125.3(4);

"unused surtax credit" for a taxation year ending after 1991

(a) of a corporation (other than a corporation that was throughout the year a financial institution, within the meaning assigned by section 190) means the amount, if any, by which

(i) its Canadian surtax payable for the year

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount that would, but for subsection (4), be its tax payable under this Part for the year, and

(iii) the amount, if any, deducted under section 125.3 in computing the corporation's tax payable under Part I for the year, and

(b) of a corporation that was throughout the year a financial institution (within the meaning assigned by section 190) means the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) its Canadian surtax payable for the year

exceeds the total of

(B) the amount that would, but for subsection (4), be its tax payable under this Part for the year, and

(C) the amount, if any, deducted under section 125.3 in computing the corporation's tax payable under Part I for the year, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which its tax payable under Part I for the year exceeds the amount that would, but for subsection (4) and subsection 190.1(3), be the total of its taxes payable under Parts I.3 and VI for the year.

(7) Acquisition of control — Where at any time control of a corporation has been acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of its unused surtax credit for a taxation year ending before that time is deductible by the corporation for a taxation year ending after that time and no amount in respect of its unused surtax credit for a taxation year ending after that time is deductible by the corporation for a taxation year ending before that time, except that

(a) the corporation's unused surtax credit for a particular taxation year that ended before that time is deductible by the corporation for a taxation year that ends after that time (in this paragraph referred to as the "subsequent year") to the extent of that proportion of the corporation's Canadian surtax payable for the particular year that

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is

(I) its income under Part I for the particular year from a business that was carried on by the corporation throughout the subsequent year for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit, or

(II) where properties were sold, leased, rented or developed or services were rendered in the course of carrying on that business before that time, its income under Part I for the particular year from any other business all or substantially all of the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development, as the case may be, of similar properties or the rendering of similar services

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under paragraph 111(1)(a) or (d) in computing its taxable income for the particular year in respect of a non-capital loss or a farm loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year in respect of any business referred to in clause (A)

is of the greater of

(ii) the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and

(iii) the corporation's taxable income for the particular year; and

(b) the corporation's unused surtax credit for a particular taxation year that ends after that time is deductible by the corporation for a taxation year that ended before that time (in this paragraph referred to as the "preceding year") to the extent of that proportion of the corporation's Canadian surtax payable for the particular year that

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is

(I) its income under Part I for the particular year from a business that was carried on by the corporation in the preceding year and throughout the particular year for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit, or

(II) where properties were sold, leased, rented or developed or services were rendered in the course of carrying on that business before that time, the corporation's income under Part I for the particular year from any other business all or substantially all of the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development, as the case may be, of similar properties or the rendering of similar services

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under paragraph 111(1)(a) or (d) in computing the corporation's taxable income for the particular year in respect of a non-capital loss or a farm loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year in respect of any business referred to in clause (A)

is of the greater of

(ii) the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and

Technical Notes: Section 181.2 is amended in two respects. First, subsections 181.2(3) and (5) are amended to clarify the effect of tiered partnerships: structures in which one partnership is a member of another partnership. Second, an amendment is made to subsection 181.2(3) to accommodate a change to the accounting presentation of redeemable preferred shares.

Tiered Partnerships

Subsection 181.2(3) defines the "capital" of a corporation, and in paragraph 181.2(3)(g) includes in a corporation's capital a pro-rata share of the reserves, deferred foreign exchange gains and indebtedness of any partnership of which it is a member. To determine those amounts, the relevant paragraphs of subsection 181.2(3) are applied to the partnership in the same way as they apply to corporations. Paragraph 181.2(3)(g) is amended so that it itself applies on this basis. As a result, the proration of the reserve, deferred gain and debt amounts will carry through any number of tiered partnerships.

Subsection 181.2(4) provides for the "investment allowance" by which, in broad terms, one corporation's investment in another is excluded from the first corporation's taxable capital. Subsection 181.2(5) determines the carrying value of an interest of a corporation in a partnership for this purpose. Subsection 181.2(5) is amended to ensure that the carrying value of an interest of a corporation in a particular partnership, for the purposes of subsection 181.2(4), includes the carrying value of an interest of the particular partnership in another partnership.

Technical Notes: Preferred Shares

In general, a corporation's tax payable under Part I.3 of the Act is computed with reference to amounts reflected in the balance sheet of the corporation, as prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP).

The Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants' Handbook (the Handbook), which is the principal authority of GAAP in Canada, requires that a liability of a corporation in respect of a redeemable preferred share be reflected on the corporation's balance sheet. The Handbook provides that this liability may be accounted for in one of two ways. Under the first method, the difference between the stated capital of a share and its redemption value is charged to retained earnings, which in some cases may result in the corporation having negative retained earnings or a deficit. Retained earnings are unaffected under the second method, under which a line account is set up reflecting the redemption liability of the preferred shares.

Current paragraph 181.2(3)(i) allows for a reduction of a corporation's capital, to the extent of any deficit deducted in computing the corporation's shareholders' equity. To accommodate the alternative presentation of a provision for the redemption of preferred shares, the paragraph is amended to refer explicitly to the amount of such a provision.

(j) any amount deducted under subsection 135(1) in computing its income under Part I for the year, to the extent that the amount can reasonably be regarded as being included in the amount determined under any of paragraphs (a) to (g) in respect of the corporation for the year.

(k) the amount of its deferred unrealized foreign exchange losses at the end of the year.

Proposed Amendment — 181.2(4)(d.1)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 25, 2004:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of February 3, 2004, in which you provide additional material regarding the application, to tiered partnership structures, of the investment allowance provisions in Part I.3 of the Income Tax Act. Further to our meeting on this matter, it was helpful to see set out the particular criteria that in your view ought to apply in order for a corporation that loans or advances funds to such a structure to recognize an investment allowance in respect of that debt.

As you know, although the proposed amendments to the Act announced in December 2002 and released again in February 2004 address certain issues around partnerships and the Part I.3 tax, they do not — and were not intended to — deal with the question you have raised. That question, in short, is whether under any circumstances the investment allowance of a corporation ought to include an amount in respect of the corporation's holding of debt of a partnership, not all of the members of which are corporations. In its current form, paragraph 181.2(4)(d.1) recognizes partnership debt only if all the members of the partnership are corporations (other than financial institutions) that either are not exempt from Part I.3 tax or are neither resident in Canada nor carrying on business in Canada through a permanent establishment. The provision thus has the effect that advances or loans to second- or lower-tiered partnerships do not support an investment allowance, since one or more members of such partnerships are necessarily not corporations.

You have suggested that the investment allowance ought to be available in some cases of multiple partnership tiers. That is, subject to certain additional criteria which I will return to in a moment, you propose that a debt investment in a particular partnership support an investment allowance if all of the members of the partnership that are not corporations are themselves partnerships that, either directly or through further layers of partnerships, are made up of corporations. This concept can perhaps be expressed most succinctly by defining a new term, "eligible partnership". An eligible partnership would (again, subject to some further criteria) be one all of the members of which are either corporations or other eligible partnerships. The carrying value of any loan or advance to (or bond, etc. of) an eligible partnership would be included in computing the investment allowance of a corporation other than a financial institution.

I agree that this is in principle an appropriate result. In policy terms, the fact that the debtor's corporate structure has been arranged to include more than one layer of partnerships ought not necessarily to deny the holder of a debt an investment allowance. While as a practical matter there will often be ways of avoiding such a structure, or at least of relocating the debt, it is recognized that business and other considerations may make it difficult or undesirable in a particular instance to do that. For that reason, I am prepared to recommend an amendment to paragraph 181.2(4)(d.1), to be effective for the 2004 and subsequent taxation years, that would include in the investment allowance calculation the debt of what I have called "eligible partnerships."

At the same time, it will in my view be necessary both to define "eligible partnership", and to set out additional criteria that would be applicable in respect of debt issued by partnerships within a tiered partnership structure, with some care. In this regard, we would expect to make recommendations along the following lines:

- An eligible partnership could have no member that is a financial institution, or that is corporation that is exempt from tax under Part I.3 (otherwise than because it is non-resident and does not carry on business in Canada through a permanent establishment).
- Where a partnership's status as an eligible partnership is relevant in respect of a debt for a particular taxation year, the partnership would be required to maintain that status throughout the taxation year.
- For the purposes of including amounts in capital under paragraph 181.2(3)(g) in respect of a loan or an advance to an eligible partnership, the fiscal year-end of any intervening or higher-tiered partnership would be deemed to be the same as that of the debtor partnership.

Of course, we cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will agree with the recommendations that we intend to make in this regard. Nonetheless, we trust that this statement of our position is helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislative Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — Application of 181.2(4)(b), (c) and (d.1)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 163(6), provides that in applying paras. 181.2(4)(b), (c) and (d.1) to a particular corporation in respect of an asset that is a loan or an advance to, or an obligation of, another corporation or partnership that the particular corporation holds at the end of a taxation year of the particular corporation that began before December 20, 2002, those paragraphs are to be read without reference to "(other than a financial institution)" and "(other than financial institutions)" if, at the end of the taxation year,

(a) the particular corporation deals at arm's length with the other corporation or the partnership, as the case may be; and

(b) the other corporation is a financial institution, or the partnership is not a partnership described in para. 181.2(4)(d.1), as the case may be, solely because of s. 162 and subsecs. 195(1) and (3) [of Bill C-10].

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the amount of its reserves for the year (other than its reserves in respect of amounts payable out of segregated funds) that may reasonably be regarded as having been established in respect of its insurance businesses carried on in Canada

(II) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a reserve (other than a reserve described in subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i)) to the extent that it was included in the amount determined under subclause (I) and was deducted in computing its income under Part I for the year,

(III) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a reserve described in subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i) to the extent that it was included in the amount determined under subclause (I) and was deductible under subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i) in computing its income under Part I for the year, and

(IV) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount outstanding (including any interest accrued thereon) as at the end of the year in respect of a policy loan (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)) made by the corporation, to the extent that it was deducted in computing the total determined under subclause (III),

Proposed Repeal — 181.3(1)(c)(ii)(B)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 61, will repeal cl. 181.3(1)(c)(ii)(B), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 181.3(1) provides the rules for determining the amount of a financial institution's "taxable capital employed in Canada" for the purposes of the former large corporation tax in Part I.3. Although that tax no longer applies, various aspects of its calculation are used for other purposes under the Act.

In the case of an insurance corporation ("insurer"), a "reserve adjustment" under clause 181.3(1)(c)(ii)(B) is added to taxable capital employed in Canada.

The demutualization of the insurance industry in Canada has resulted in clause 181.3(1)(c)(ii)(B) no longer being necessary. Accordingly it is repealed applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Dept. of Finance news release 2006-091, Dec. 28, 2006: See under 190.11(b)(ii).

(iii) in the case of an insurance corporation that was resident in Canada at any time in the year and throughout the year did not carry on a life insurance business, that proportion of its taxable capital for the year that the total amount of its Canadian premiums for the year is of its total premiums for the year, and

(iv) in the case of an insurance corporation that was throughout the year not resident in Canada and carried on an insurance business in Canada at any time in the year, its taxable capital for the year.

Related Provisions: 181(4) — Limitations respecting inclusions and deductions; 190.11 — Taxable capital employed in Canada for Part VI tax.

History: Cl. 181.3(1)(c)(ii)(A) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 83(1), applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after February 25, 1992; and

(b) where a corporation elects under para. 84(2)(b) of the amending legislation [see under 190.11(b)(i) below], to its 1991 and subsequent taxation years; and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), such assessments and determinations in respect of any taxation year shall be made as are consequential on the application of the above amendment to the corporation's taxation years that end before February 26, 1992.

Cl. (c)(ii)(A) formerly read:

(A) that proportion of its taxable capital for the year that its Canadian reserve liabilities as at the end of the year is of its total reserve liabilities as at the end of the year, and

Para. 181.3(1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 107, applicable to taxation years ending after June 1989. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the carrying value at the end of the year of an asset of the financial institution that is tangible property used in Canada (and, in the case of a financial institution that is an insurance corporation, that is non-segregated property, within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)),

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-532: Part I.3 — tax on large corporations.

(2) Taxable capital of financial institution — The taxable capital of a financial institution for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which its capital for the year exceeds its investment allowance for the year.

Related Provisions: 181(4) — Limitations respecting inclusions and deductions; 190.12 — Taxable capital for Part VI tax.

(3) Capital of financial institution — The capital of a financial institution for a taxation year is

(a) in the case of a financial institution, other than an authorized foreign bank or an insurance corporation, the amount, if any, by which the total at the end of the year of

(i) the amount of its long-term debt,

(ii) the amount of its capital stock (or, in the case of an institution incorporated without share capital, the amount of its members' contributions), retained earnings, contributed surplus and any other surpluses, and

exceeds the total of

(iv) the amount of its deferred tax debit balance at the end of the year,

(v) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity at the end of the year, and

Proposed Amendment — 181.3(3)(a)(v)

(v) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity (including, for this purpose, the amount of any provision for the redemption of preferred shares) at the end of the year, and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 164(1), will amend subpara. 181.3(3)(a)(v) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995.

Technical Notes: Section 181.3 provides rules for determining the capital, taxable capital, taxable capital employed in Canada and investment allowance of a financial institution (as defined in subsection 181(1)) for the purposes of the Part I.3 tax on large corporations.

Section 181.3 is amended in two respects. First, changes are made to several paragraphs of subsection 181.3(3) to accommodate a change to the accounting presentation of redeemable preferred shares. Second, a new subparagraph and a new clause are added, respectively, to paragraph 181.3(3)(c) and subparagraph 181.3(3)(d)(iv) to reflect the manner in which property and casualty insurers are required to account for claims reserves.

Preferred Shares

The accounting procedures described in the notes to amended section 181.2 are relevant to financial institutions as well as to other corporations, and readers may consult those notes for additional background. As in that section, the amendments introduced to section 181.3 include, in the computation of a deficit deducted in computing shareholders' equity, the amount of any provision for the redemption of preferred shares. This inclusion is added to three specific provisions: subparagraph 181.3(3)(a)(v) in respect of financial institutions other than insurers and authorized foreign banks; subparagraph 181.3(3)(b)(iv) in respect of Canadian-resident life insurance corporations; and subparagraph 181.3(3)(c)(v) in respect of other Canadian-resident insurance companies.

(vi) any amount deducted under subsection 130.1(1) or 137(2) in computing its income under Part I for the year, to the extent that the amount can reasonably be regarded as being included in the amount determined under subparagraph (i), (ii) or (iii) in respect of the institution for the year;

(b) in the case of an insurance corporation that was resident in Canada at any time in the year and carried on a life insurance business at any time in the year, the amount, if any, by which the total at the end of the year of

(i) the amount of its long-term debt, and

(ii) the amount of its capital stock (or, in the case of an insurance corporation incorporated without share capital, the amount of its members' contributions), retained earnings, contributed surplus and any other surpluses

(iii) the amount of its deferred tax debit balance at the end of the year, and

(iv) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity at the end of the year;

Proposed Amendment — 181.3(3)(b)(iv)

(iv) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity (including, for this purpose, the amount of any provision for the redemption of preferred shares) at the end of the year;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 164(2), will amend subpara. 181.3(3)(b)(iv) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995.

Technical Notes: See under 181.3(3)(a)(v).

(c) in the case of an insurance corporation that was resident in Canada at any time in the year and throughout the year did not carry on a life insurance business, the amount, if any, by which the total at the end of the year of

(i) the amount of its long-term debt,

(ii) the amount of its capital stock (or, in the case of an insurance corporation incorporated without share capital, the amount of its members' contributions), retained earnings, contributed surplus and any other surpluses, and

exceeds the total of

(iv) the amount of its deferred tax debit balance at the end of the year,

(v) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity at the end of the year, and

Proposed Amendment — 181.3(3)(c)(v)

(v) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity (including, for this purpose, the amount of any provision for the redemption of preferred shares) at the end of the year,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 164(3), will amend subpara. 181.3(3)(c)(v) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995.

Technical Notes: See under 181.3(3)(a)(v).

(vi) the total amount of its deferred acquisition expenses in respect of its property and casualty insurance business in Canada, to the extent that it can reasonably be attributed to an amount included in the amount determined under subparagraph (iii);

Proposed Addition — 181.3(3)(c)(vii)

(vii) any amount recoverable through reinsurance, to the extent that it can reasonably be regarded as being included in the amount determined under subparagraph (iii) in respect of a claims reserve;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 164(4), will add subpara. 181.3(3)(c)(vii), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995.

Technical Notes: Claims Reserves

In general, a corporation is required to compute amounts relevant in determining its tax payable under Part I.3 of the Act using generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP).

The Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants' Handbook (the Handbook), which is the principle authority of GAAP in Canada, requires that property and casualty insurers account for claims reserves on a gross basis, rather than net of reinsurance.

Paragraphs 181.3(3)(c) and (d) stipulate the amounts to be included in determining the capital of an insurance corporation resident in Canada (other than a life insurance corporation) and an insurance corporation not resident in Canada, respectively. Among other things, claims reserves are required under these paragraphs to be included in computing the capital of such a corporation.

New subparagraph 181.3(3)(c)(vii) and clause 181.3(3)(d)(iv)(F) allow such corporations to reduce their capital by an amount that is recoverable through reinsurance, to the extent that the amount relates to an amount that was included in capital as a claims reserve. In this way, claims reserves are included on a net of reinsurance basis under paragraphs 181.3(3)(c) and (d).

(d) in the case of an insurance corporation that was throughout the year not resident in Canada and carried on an insurance business in Canada at any time in the year, the total at the end of the year of

(i) the amount that is the greater of

(A) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the corporation's surplus funds derived from operations (as defined in subsection 138(12)) as of the end of the year, computed as if no tax were payable under this Part or Part VI for the year

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(II) an amount on which the corporation was required to pay, or would but for subsection 219(5.2) have been required to pay, tax under Part XIV for a preceding taxation year, except the portion, if any, of the amount on which tax was payable, or would have been payable, because of subparagraph 219(4)(a)(i.1), and

(III) an amount on which the corporation was required to pay, or would but for subsection 219(5.2) have been required to pay, tax under subsection 219(5.1) for the year because of the transfer of an insurance business to which subsection 138(11.5) or (11.92) has applied, and

(B) the corporation's attributed surplus for the year,

(ii) any other surpluses relating to its insurance businesses carried on in Canada,

(iii) the amount of its long-term debt that may reasonably be regarded as relating to its insurance businesses carried on in Canada, and

(iv) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount of its reserves for the year (other than its reserves in respect of amounts payable out of segregated funds) that may reasonably be regarded as having been established in respect of its insurance businesses carried on in Canada

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a reserve (other than a reserve described in subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i)) to the extent that it was included in the amount determined under clause (A) and was deducted in computing its income under Part I for the year,

(C) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a reserve described in subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i) to the extent that it was included in the amount determined under clause (A) and was deductible under subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i) in computing its income under Part I for the year,

(D) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount outstanding (including any interest accrued thereon) as at the end of the year in respect of a policy loan (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)) made by the corporation, to the extent that it was deducted in computing the amount determined under clause (C), and

(E) the total amount of its deferred acquisition expenses in respect of its property and casualty insurance business in Canada, to the extent that it can reasonably be attributed to an amount included in the amount determined under clause (A); and

Proposed Addition — 181.3(3)(d)(iv)(F)

(F) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount recoverable through reinsurance, to the extent that it can reasonably be regarded as being included in the amount determined under clause (A) in respect of a claims reserve; and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 164(5), will add cl. 181.3(3)(d)(iv)(F), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995.

Technical Notes: See under 181.3(3)(c)(vii).

(e) in the case of an authorized foreign bank, the total of

(i) 10% of the total of all amounts, each of which is the risk-weighted amount at the end of the year of an on-balance sheet asset or an off-balance sheet exposure of the bank in respect of its Canadian banking business that the bank would be required to report under the OSFI risk-weighting guidelines if those guidelines applied and required a report at that time, and

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount at the end of the year in respect of the bank's Canadian banking business that

(A) if the bank were a bank listed in Schedule II to the Bank Act, would be required under the risk-based capital adequacy guidelines issued by the Superintendent of Financial Institutions and applicable at that time to be deducted from the bank's capital in determining the amount of capital available to satisfy the Superintendent's requirement that capital equal a particular proportion of risk-weighted assets and exposures, and

(B) is not an amount in respect of a loss protection facility required to be deducted from capital under the Superintendent's guidelines respecting asset securitization applicable at that time.

History: Subsec. 181.3(4) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 163(3), applicable after June 27, 1999. Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) The investment allowance of a financial institution for a taxation year is,

(a) in the case of a financial institution that was resident in Canada at any time in the year, the total of all amounts each of which is the carrying value at the end of the year of an asset of the financial institution that is a share of the capital stock or long-term debt of another financial institution (other than an institution that is exempt from tax under this Part) that is related to the institution (and, in the case of a financial institution that is an insurance corporation, that is non-segregated property within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)),

(b) in the case of an insurance corporation that was throughout the year not resident in Canada, the total of all amounts each of which is the carrying value at the end of the year of an asset of the financial institution that

(i) is non-segregated property (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)),

(ii) is a share of the capital stock or long-term debt of another financial institution (other than an institution that is exempt from tax under this Part) that is related to the institution, and

(iii) was used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada, and

and, for the purposes of this subsection, a credit union and another credit union of which the credit union is a shareholder or member shall be deemed to be related to each other.

Para. 181.3(4)(a), subpara. (4)(b)(ii) and that portion of subsec. (4) following para. (c) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 148(3), (4), (5), applicable to taxation years ending after June 1989. Those portions formerly read:

(a) in the case of a financial institution that was resident in Canada at any time in the year, the total of all amounts each of which is the carrying value at the end of the year of an asset of the financial institution that is a share of the capital stock or long-term debt of another financial institution that is related to the institution (and, in the case of a financial institution that is an insurance corporation, that is non-segregated property, within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)),

(2) Related corporations — Subject to subsection (4.1), a corporation that is related to any other corporation at any time in a taxation year of the corporation that ends in a calendar year may file with the Minister in prescribed form an agreement on behalf of the related group of which the corporation is a member under which an amount that does not exceed $50 million is allocated among all corporations that are members of the related group for each taxation year of each such corporation ending in the calendar year and at a time when it was a member of the related group.

Related Provisions: 181.5(4) — Amount allocated; 181.5(6) — Corporations deemed not related.

History: Subsec. 181.5(2) amended by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 86(1), applicable to 2004 et seq. Subsec. 181.5(2) formerly read:

(2) A corporation that is related to any other corporation at any time in a taxation year of the corporation ending in a calendar year may file with the Minister in prescribed form an agreement on behalf of the related group of which the corporation is a member under which an amount that does not exceed $10,000,000 is allocated among all corporations that are members of the related group for each taxation year of each such corporation ending in the calendar year and at a time when it was a member of the related group.

Forms: T2 SCH 36: Agreement among related corporations — Part I.3 tax.

(3) Allocation by Minister — Subject to subsection (4.1), the Minister may request a corporation that is related to any other corporation at the end of a taxation year to file with the Minister an agreement referred to in subsection (2) and, if the corporation does not file such an agreement within 30 days after receiving the request, the Minister may allocate an amount among the members of the related group of which the corporation is a member for the taxation year not exceeding $50 million.

History: Subsec. 181.5(3) amended by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 86(1), applicable to 2004 et seq. Subsec. 181.5(3) formerly read:

> (3) Idem — The Minister may request a corporation that is related to any other corporation at the end of a taxation year to file with the Minister an agreement referred to in subsection (2) and, if the corporation does not file such an agreement within 30 days after receiving the request, the Minister may allocate an amount among the members of the related group of which the corporation is a member for the year not exceeding $10,000,000.

(4) Idem — The least amount allocated for a taxation year to a member of a related group under an agreement described in subsection (2) or by the Minister pursuant to subsection (3) is the capital deduction of that member for that taxation year.

(4.1) Exceptions — For the purposes of applying subsection 125(5.1), the definitions "unused surtax credit" in subsections 181.1(6) and 190.1(5), and subsection 225.1(8), subsections (2) to (4) are to be read as if the amount determined under subsection (2) or (3), as the case may be, in respect of the corporation for the taxation year were that proportion of $10 million that the amount otherwise determined in respect of the corporation for the taxation year under that subsection is of $50 million.

History: Subsec. 181.5(4.1) added by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 86(2), applicable to 2004 et seq.

(5) Idem — Where a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "first corporation") has more than one taxation year ending in the same calendar year and is related in 2 or more of those taxation years to another corporation that has a taxation year ending in that calendar year, the capital deduction of the first corporation for each such taxation year at the end of which it is related to the other corporation is an amount equal to its capital deduction for the first such taxation year.

(6) Idem — Two corporations that would, but for this subsection, be related to each other by reason only of

(a) the control of any corporation by Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province, or

are, for the purposes of this section and subsection 181.3(4), deemed not to be related to each other except that, where at any time a taxpayer has a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) with respect to shares and it can reasonably be considered that one of the main purposes for the acquisition of the right was to avoid any limitation on the amount of a corporation's capital deduction for a taxation year, for the purpose of determining whether a corporation is related to any other corporation, the corporations are, for the purposes of this section, deemed to be in the same position in relation to each other as if the right were immediate and absolute and as if the taxpayer had exercised the right at that time.

Related Provisions: 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "control".

> "(A) the corporation carried on an active business in Canada in the year or in its immediately preceding taxation year, and"
> (2) Instalment bases — In this section,
> (a) the first instalment base of a corporation for a particular taxation year is the product obtained when the tax payable under this Part by the corporation for its taxation year immediately preceding the particular year is multiplied by the ratio that 365 is of the number of days in that preceding year, and

(b) the second instalment base of a corporation for a particular taxation year is the amount of the first instalment base of the corporation for its taxation year immediately preceding the particular year, but where a particular taxation year of a corporation that was formed as a result of an amalgamation or merger is its first taxation year ending after the amalgamation or merger, as the case may be,

(c) its first instalment base for the particular year is the total of all amounts each of which is the product obtained when the tax payable under this Part by a corporation that entered into the amalgamation or merger, for its last taxation year preceding the amalgamation or merger is multiplied by the ratio that 365 is of the number of days in that year, and

(d) its second instalment base for the particular year is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount equal to the first instalment base of a corporation that entered into the amalgamation or merger, for its last taxation year preceding the amalgamation or merger.

181.8 (1) Interest — Where, at any time after the day on or before which a corporation is required to pay the remainder of its tax payable under this Part for a taxation year,

(a) the amount of its tax payable under this Part for the year

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount paid at or before that time on account of its tax payable and applied as at that time by the Minister against the corporation's liability for an amount payable under this Part for the year, the corporation shall pay to the Receiver General interest at a prescribed rate on the excess, computed for the period during which that excess is outstanding.

(2) Idem — Where a corporation that is required by this Part to pay an instalment of tax has failed to pay all or any part thereof on or before the day on or before which the instalment was required to be paid, it shall pay to the Receiver General, in addition to the interest payable under subsection (1), interest at a prescribed rate on the amount that it failed to pay, computed from the day on or before which the amount was required to be paid to the earlier of the day of payment and the beginning of the period in respect of which the corporation is required to pay interest thereon under that subsection.

(3) Limitation on instalments — For the purposes of subsection (2), where a corporation is required to pay an instalment of tax for a taxation year computed by reference to a method described in subsection 181.7(1), the corporation shall be deemed to have been liable to pay an instalment computed by reference to

(a) its tax payable under this Part for the year,

(b) its first instalment base for the year, or

(c) its second instalment base for the year and its first instalment base for the year, whichever method gives rise to the least amount required to be paid by the corporation on or before the days referred to in subparagraphs 181.7(1)(a)(i) to (iii).

181.9 Provisions applicable to Part — Sections 152, 158 and 159, subsections 161(2.1), (2.2) and (11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Para. 181.7(1)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 151, applicable to taxation years ending after June 1989, except that, in its application to taxation years ending before 1991, an election referred to in the para. made by a corporation by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before 1992 [1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 159 provides that where such an election is made before December 11, 1993, the election shall be deemed to have been made before 1992] shall be deemed to have been made by the corporation in its return of income under Part I.3 for the taxation year to which the election relates. Para. 181.7(1)(b) formerly read:

(b) the remainder of its tax payable under this Part for the year, on or before the day on or before which the corporation is, pursuant to paragraph 157(1)(b), required to pay the remainder of its tax payable under Part I for the year or would be so required if a remainder of that tax were payable.

PART II — TOBACCO MANUFACTURERS' SURTAX

182. (1) Surtax — Every corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 50% of the corporation's Part I tax on tobacco manufacturing profits for the year.

Related Provisions: 182(2) — Calculation of Part I tax; 183 — Return and payment of tax.

History: Subsec. 182(1) amended to replace "40%" with "50%" by 2001, c. 16, s. 43, applicable to taxation years ending after April 5, 2001, except that, in its application to a corporation's taxation year that includes that day, the subsec., as amended, shall be read as follows:

(1) Surtax — Every corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for the corporation's taxation year that includes April 5, 2001, equal to the total of

(a) 40% of that proportion of the corporation's Part I tax on tobacco manufacturing profits for the year that the number of days in the year that are before April 6, 2001, is of the total number of days in the year, and

(b) 50% of that proportion of the corporation's Part I tax on tobacco manufacturing profits for the year that the number of days in the year that are after April 5, 2001, is of the total number of days in the year.

Subsec. 182(1) amended by 2000, c. 30, s. 173, applicable to taxation years that end after February 8, 2000. The subsec. formerly read:

(1) Surtax — Every corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 40% of that proportion of the corporation's Part I tax on tobacco manufacturing profits for the year that

(a) the number of days in the year that are after February 8, 1994 and before February 9, 2000

is of

(b) the number of days in the year.

Para. 182(1)(a) amended by 1997, c. 26, s. 77, applicable to taxation years ending after February 8, 1997. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) the number of days in the year that are after February 8, 1994 and before February 9, 1997

(2) Definitions — In this Part,

"exempt activity", of a particular corporation, means

(a) farming; or

(b) processing leaf tobacco, if

(i) that processing is done by, and is the principal business of, the particular corporation,

(ii) the particular corporation does not manufacture any tobacco product, and

(iii) the particular corporation is not related to any other corporation that carries on tobacco manufacturing (determined, in respect of the other corporation, as if the particular corporation did not exist and the definition "tobacco manufacturing" were read without reference to the words "in Canada");

"Part I tax on tobacco manufacturing profits" of a corporation for a taxation year means 21% of the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount that would be the corporation's Canadian manufacturing and processing profits for the year, within the meaning assigned by subsection 125.1(3), if the total of all amounts, each of which is the corporation's loss for the year from an active business, other than tobacco manufacturing, carried on by it in Canada, were equal to the lesser of

(a) that total otherwise determined, and

(b) the total of all amounts, each of which is the amount of the corporation's income for the year from an active business, other than tobacco manufacturing, carried on by it in Canada.

B is the corporation's tobacco manufacturing capital and labour cost for the year,

C is the total of the corporation's cost of manufacturing and processing capital for the year and its cost of manufacturing and processing labour for the year, within the meanings assigned by regulations made for the purposes of section 125.1, and

D is

(a) where the corporation is a Canadian-controlled private corporation throughout the year, the corporation's business limit for the year as determined for the purpose of section 125, and

(b) in any other case, nil;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Regulations: 5202, 5204 (cost of manufacturing and processing capital, cost of manufacturing and processing labour).

"tobacco manufacturing" means any activity, other than an exempt activity, relating to the manufacture or processing in Canada of tobacco or tobacco products in or into any form that is, or would after any further activity become, suitable for smoking;

"tobacco manufacturing capital and labour cost" of a corporation for a taxation year means the total of the amounts that would be the corporation's cost of manufacturing and processing capital for the year and its cost of manufacturing and processing labour for the year, within the meanings assigned by regulations made for the purpose of section 125.1, if the manufacturing or processing referred to in the definition "qualified activities" in those regulations were tobacco manufacturing.

Regulations: 5202, 5204 (cost of manufacturing and processing capital, cost of manufacturing and processing labour).

Part II.1 — Tax on Corporate Distributions

183.1 (1) Application of Part — This Part applies to a corporation (other than a mutual fund corporation) for a taxation year in which the corporation, at any time in the year,

(a) was a public corporation; or

(b) was resident in Canada and had a class of shares outstanding that were purchased and sold in the manner in which such shares normally are purchased and sold by any member of the public in the open market.

(2) Tax payable — Where, as a part of a transaction or series of transactions or events,

(a) a corporation, or any person with whom the corporation was not dealing at arm's length, has, at any time, paid an amount, directly or indirectly, to any person as proceeds of disposition of any property, and

(b) all or any portion of the amount may reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances, to have been paid as a substitute for dividends that would otherwise have been paid in the normal course by the corporation, the corporation shall, on or before its balance-due day for its taxation year that includes that time, pay tax of 45% of that amount or portion of it, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions.

History: The closing words of subsec. 183.1(2) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 119, applicable to taxation years that begin after June 2003. The closing words formerly read:

the corporation shall, on or before the day on or before which it is required to file its return of income under Part I for its taxation year that includes that time, pay a tax of 45% of that amount or portion thereof, as the case may be.

(3) Stock dividend — Where, as a part of a transaction or series of transactions or events,

(a) a share was issued by a corporation as a stock dividend and the amount of the stock dividend was less than the fair market value of the share at the time that it was issued, and

(b) the share or any other share of the capital stock of the corporation was purchased, directly or indirectly, by the corporation, or by a person with whom the corporation was not dealing at arm's length, for an amount in excess of its paid-up capital, that excess shall, for the purposes of subsection (2), be deemed to have been paid as a substitute for dividends that would otherwise have been paid in the normal course by the corporation.

(4) Purchase of shares — Where, as a part of a transaction or series of transactions or events,

(a) a share of the capital stock of a corporation was purchased, directly or indirectly, by the corporation, or any person with whom the corporation was not dealing at arm's length, and

(b) any portion of the amount paid for the share may reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances, as consideration for a dividend that had been declared, but not yet paid, on the share, that portion of the amount shall, for the purposes of subsection (2), be deemed to have been paid as a substitute for dividends that would otherwise have been paid in the normal course by the corporation notwithstanding that the dividend was actually paid thereafter.

(5) Indirect payment — Where, as a part of a transaction or series of transactions or events, a person received a payment from a corporation, or from any person with whom the corporation was not dealing at arm's length, in consideration, in whole or in part, for paying an amount to any other person as proceeds of disposition of any property, the corporation shall, for the purposes of subsection (2), be deemed to have paid the amount indirectly to the other person.

(6) Where subsec. (2) does not apply — Subsection (2) does not apply if none of the purposes of the transaction or series of transactions or events referred to therein may reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances, to have been to enable shareholders of a corporation who are individuals or non-resident persons to receive an amount, directly or indirectly, as proceeds of disposition of property rather than as a dividend on a share that was of a class that was listed on a stock exchange or that was purchased and sold in the manner in which shares are normally purchased and sold by any member of the public in the open market.

(7) Where subsec. 110.6(8) does not apply — Where this section has been applied in respect of an amount, subsection 110.6(8) does not apply to the capital gain in respect of which the amount formed all or a part of the proceeds of disposition.

(2) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 152, 158 and 159, subsections 160.1(1) and 161(1) and (11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Definitions [s. 183.2]: "corporation" — 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "Minister", "prescribed" — 248(1); "taxation year" — 249.

PART III — ADDITIONAL TAX ON EXCESSIVE ELECTIONS

184. (1) [Repealed under former Act]

(2) Tax on excessive elections — Where a corporation has elected in accordance with subsection 83(2), 130.1(4) or 131(1) in respect of the full amount of any dividend payable by it on shares of any class of its capital stock and the full amount of the dividend exceeds the portion thereof deemed by that subsection to be a capital dividend or capital gains dividend, as the case may be, the corporation shall, at the time of the election, pay a tax under this Part equal to ¾ of the excess.

Proposed Amendment — 184(2)

(2) Tax on excessive elections — If a corporation has elected in accordance with subsection 83(2), 130.1(4) or 131(1) in respect of the full amount of any dividend payable by it on shares of any class of its capital stock (in this section referred to as the "original dividend") and the full amount of the original dividend exceeds the portion of the original dividend deemed by that subsection to be a capital dividend or capital gains dividend, as the case may be, the corporation shall, at the time of the election, pay a tax under this Part equal to ⅗ of the excess.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 165, will amend subsec. 184(2) to read as above, applicable to original dividends paid by a corporation after its 1999 taxation year.

Technical Notes: Under section 83, a private corporation can identify a dividend as a "capital dividend," with the result that the dividend is not taxable to the shareholders who receive it. In concept, a capital dividend is a distribution of the non-taxable portion of the corporation's capital gains, which portion is recorded in the corporation's "capital dividend account". A similar mechanism allows mutual fund corporations and mortgage investment corporations to designate a dividend as a "capital gains dividend" — which is taxable to the shareholder, but as a capital gain. Part III of the Act (sections 184 and 185) applies a special tax to a corporation that designates as a capital dividend or a capital gains dividend an amount that exceeds the amount available to be paid as such a dividend. If the corporation obtains the consent of its shareholders, it can avoid the special tax by treating the excess amount as a separate taxable dividend.

These amendments simplify Part III and update its language, reduce the rate of the special tax, and modify the requirement for shareholder consent to the recharacterization of an excessive dividend. These amendments apply to dividends that are paid by a corporation after its 1999 taxation year, with a special transitional rule for elections, described below in the notes to subsection 184(5).

Subsection 184(2) applies the tax under Part III of the Act to the amount by which a dividend paid by a corporation as a capital dividend or a capital gains dividend exceeds the amount eligible to be so designated. For greater clarity, the subsection is amended to refer to the full amount of the initial dividend as the "original dividend." That term is then used elsewhere in amended Part III.

The rate of tax imposed by subsection 184(2) is also changed, as part of a series of amendments that reflect recent and planned reductions in tax rates. The rate is reduced from 75% of the excess capital gains dividend to 60% of the excess.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible; 87(2)(z.2) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 184(3) — Election to treat excess as a separate dividend.

(2.1) Reduction of excess — Notwithstanding subsection (2), where a corporation has elected in accordance with subsection 83(2) in respect of the full amount of a dividend that became payable by it at a particular time in its 1988 taxation year and before June 18, 1987, the amount of the excess referred to in subsection (2) in respect of the dividend shall be deemed, for the purposes of subsection (2), to be the amount of the excess that would have been determined under subsection (2) in respect of the dividend if the corporation's taxation year had ended on December 31, 1987.

Proposed Repeal — 184(2.1)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 165, will repeal subsec. 184(2.1), applicable to original dividends paid by a corporation after its 1999 taxation year.

Technical Notes: Subsection 184(2.1) is a transitional rule that applies to certain dividends that became payable before June 18, 1987. That subsection has lapsed and is repealed.

(3) Election to treat excess as separate dividend — Where, in respect of a dividend payable at a particular time after 1971, a corporation would, but for this subsection, be required to pay a tax under this Part equal to all or a portion of an excess referred to in subsection (2) of this section or subsection 184(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, it may elect in prescribed manner on or before a day that is not later than 90 days after the day that is the later of December 15, 1977 and the day of mailing of the notice of assessment in respect of the tax that would otherwise be payable under this Part, and on such an election being made, subject to subsection (4), the following rules apply:

(a) the amount by which the full amount of the dividend exceeds the amount of the excess shall be deemed for the purposes of the election that the corporation made in respect of the dividend under subsection 83(2), 130.1(4) or 131(1) of this Act or subsection 83(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, and for all other purposes of this Act to be the full amount of a separate dividend that became payable at the particular time;

(b) such part of the excess as the corporation may claim shall, for the purposes of any election in respect thereof under subsection 83(2), 130.1(4) or 131(1) of this Act or subsection 83(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, and, where the corporation has so elected, for all purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the full amount of a separate dividend that became payable immediately after the particular time;

(c) the amount by which the excess exceeds any portion deemed by paragraph (b) to be a separate dividend for all purposes of this Act shall be deemed to be a separate dividend that is a taxable dividend that became payable at the particular time; and

(d) each person who held any of the issued shares of the class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation in respect of which the full amount of the dividend was paid shall be deemed

(i) not to have received any portion of the dividend, and

(ii) to have received at the time the dividend was paid the proportion of any separate dividend, determined under paragraph (a), (b) or (c), that the number of shares of that class held by the person at the time the dividend was paid is of the number of shares of that class outstanding at that time except that, for the purpose of Part XIII, a separate dividend that is a taxable dividend, a capital dividend or a life insurance capital dividend shall be deemed to have been paid on the day that the election in respect of this subsection is made.

(3) Election to treat excess as separate dividend — If, in respect of an original dividend payable at a particular time, a corporation would, but for this subsection, be required to pay a tax under this Part in respect of an excess referred to in subsection (2), and the corporation elects in prescribed manner on or before the day that is 90 days after the day of mailing of the notice of assessment in respect of the tax that would otherwise be payable under this Part, the following rules apply:

(a) the portion of the original dividend deemed by subsection 83(2), 130.1(4) or 131(1) to be a capital dividend or capital gains dividend, as the case may be, is deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the amount of a separate dividend that became payable at the particular time;

(b) if the corporation identifies in its election any part of the excess, that part is, for the purposes of any election under subsection 83(2), 130.1(4) or 131(1) in respect of that part, and, where the corporation has so elected, for all purposes of this Act, deemed to be the amount of a separate dividend that became payable immediately after the particular time;

(c) the amount by which the excess exceeds any portion deemed by paragraph (b) to be a separate dividend for all purposes of this Act is deemed to be a separate taxable dividend that became payable at the particular time; and

(d) each person who held any of the issued shares of the class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation in respect of which the original dividend was paid is deemed

(i) not to have received any portion of the original dividend, and

(ii) to have received, at the time that any separate dividend determined under any of paragraphs (a) to (c) became payable, the proportion of that dividend that the number of shares of that class held by the person at the particular time is of the number of shares of that class outstanding at the particular time except that, for the purpose of Part XIII, the separate dividend is deemed to be paid on the day that the election in respect of this subsection is made.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 165, will amend subsec. 184(3) to read as above, applicable to original dividends paid by a corporation after its 1999 taxation year.

Technical Notes: Subsection 184(3) allows a corporation that would otherwise be liable to tax under Part III in respect of an excessive capital dividend or capital gains dividend to treat the excess as a separate taxable dividend, and thus to avoid the tax. The subsection is amended to update and clarify its language.

(3.1) Election to treat dividend as loan — Where a corporation has elected in accordance with subsection 83(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in respect of the full amount of any dividend that became payable by it at a particular time after March 31, 1977 and before 1979 and the corporation made a reasonable attempt to correctly determine its tax-paid undistributed surplus on hand immediately before the particular time and its 1971 capital surplus on hand immediately before the particular time and all or any portion of the dividend

(a) has given rise to a gain from the disposition of a share of the corporation by virtue of subsection 40(3), or

(b) is an excess referred to in subsection 184(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, if the corporation so elects under this subsection,

(c) in any case referred to in paragraph (a), not later than December 31, 1982 or such earlier day as is 90 days after the latest of

(i) February 26, 1981,

(ii) the day on which a notice of assessment or reassessment is mailed to a shareholder of the corporation in respect of a gain referred to in paragraph (a), and

(iii) such day as is agreed to by the Minister in writing, or

(d) in any other case, not later than 90 days after the later of

(i) February 26, 1981, and

(ii) the day on which the Minister notifies the corporation by registered letter that it has an excess referred to in subsection 184(1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in respect of the dividend, and the penalty referred to in subsection (5) in respect of the election is paid by the corporation at the time the election is made, the following rules apply:

(e) the whole dividend or such portion of it as the corporation may claim shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed not to be a dividend but to be a loan made at the particular time by the corporation to the persons who received all or any portion of the dividend if the full amount of the loan is repaid to the corporation before such date as is stipulated by the Minister and the corporation satisfies such terms and conditions as are specified by the Minister, and

(4) Concurrence with election — An election under subsection (3) is not valid unless

(a) it is made with the concurrence of the corporation and all its shareholders

(i) who received or were entitled to receive all or any portion of the dividend in respect of which a tax would, but for subsection (3), be payable under this Part, and

(ii) whose addresses were known to the corporation; and

(b) either

(i) it is made on or before the day that is 30 months after the day on which the dividend became payable, or

(ii) each shareholder described in subparagraph (a)(i) concurs with the election, in which case, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessment of the tax, interest and penalties payable by each such shareholder for any taxation year may be made as is necessary to take the corporation's election into account.

(4) Concurrence with election — An election under subsection (3) is valid only if

(a) it is made with the concurrence of the corporation and all its shareholders

(i) who received or were entitled to receive all or any portion of the original dividend, and

(ii) whose addresses were known to the corporation; and

(b) either

(i) it is made on or before the day that is 30 months after the day on which the original dividend became payable, or

(ii) each shareholder described in subparagraph (a)(i) concurs with the election, in which case, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), any assessment of the tax, interest and penalties payable by each of those shareholders for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take the corporation's election into account.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 165, will amend subsec. 184(4) to read as above, applicable to original dividends paid by a corporation after its 1999 taxation year.

Technical Notes: Subsection 184(4) sets out the requirements for shareholders' consent to the recharacterization, under subsection 184(3), of an excessive capital dividend or capital gains dividend. This subsection is amended to update and clarify its language.

Related Provisions: 185 — Assessment of tax.

(5) Penalty — The penalty in respect of an election under subsection (3.1) or (3.2) in relation to a particular dividend is an amount equal to the product obtained when $500 is multiplied by the proportion that the number of months or parts of months during the period commencing on the day the dividend became payable and ending on the day on which that election was made is of 12.

Proposed Amendment — 184(5)

(5) Exception for non-taxable shareholders — If each person who, in respect of an election made under subsection (3), is deemed by subsection (3) to have received a dividend at a particular time is also, at the particular time, a person all of whose taxable income is exempt from tax under Part I,

(a) subsection (4) does not apply to the election; and

(b) the election is valid only if it is made on or before the day that is 30 months after the day on which the original dividend became payable.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 165, will amend subsec. 184(5) to read as above, applicable to original dividends paid by a corporation after its 1999 taxation year except that, for the purpose of subsec. 184(5), as amended, an election made before the 90th day after Bill C-10 is assented to is deemed to have been made in a timely manner.

Technical Notes: New subsection 184(5) provides an exception to the shareholder consent requirements of subsection 184(4). Where a corporation wishes to recharacterize an excessive dividend under subsection 184(3), and the dividend was paid on a class of shares all of the holders of which are persons all of whose taxable income is exempt from tax (for example, registered plans), the corporation need not obtain the shareholders' consent. Instead, the only requirement imposed by new subsection 184(5) is that the corporation's election be made within 30 months after the time that the original (excessive) dividend became payable.

An election under new subsection 184(5) will be deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made within 90 days after these amendments receive Royal Assent.

Part III.1 — Additional Tax on Excessive Eligible Dividend Designations

185.1 (1) Tax on excessive eligible dividend designations — A corporation that has made an excessive eligible dividend designation in respect of an eligible dividend paid by it at any time in a taxation year shall, on or before the corporation's balance-due day for the taxation year, pay a tax under this Part for the taxation year equal to the total of

(a) 20% of the excessive eligible dividend designation, and

(b) if the excessive eligible dividend designation arises because of the application of paragraph (c) of the definition "excessive eligible dividend designation" in subsection 89(1), 10% of the excessive eligible dividend designation.

(2) Election to treat excessive eligible dividend designation as an ordinary dividend — If, in respect of an excessive eligible dividend designation that is not described in paragraph (1)(b) and that is made by a corporation in respect of an eligible dividend (in this subsection and subsection (3) referred to as the "original dividend") paid by it at a particular time, the corporation would, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection, be required to pay a tax under subsection (1), and it elects in prescribed manner on or before the day that is 90 days after the day of mailing the notice of assessment in respect of that tax that would otherwise be payable under subsection (1), the following rules apply:

(a) notwithstanding the definition "eligible dividend" in subsection 89(1), the amount of the original dividend paid by the corporation is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount of the original dividend, determined without reference to this subsection

exceeds

(ii) the amount claimed by the corporation in the election not exceeding the excessive eligible dividend designation, determined without reference to this subsection;

(b) an amount equal to the amount claimed by the corporation in the election is deemed to be a separate taxable dividend (other than an eligible dividend) that was paid by the corporation immediately before the particular time;

(c) each shareholder of the corporation who at the particular time held any of the issued shares of the class of shares in respect of which the original dividend was paid is deemed

(i) not to have received the original dividend, and

(ii) to have received at the particular time

(A) as an eligible dividend, the shareholder's pro rata portion of the amount of any dividend determined under paragraph (a), and

(B) as a taxable dividend (other than an eligible dividend) the shareholder's pro rata portion of the amount of any dividend determined under paragraph (b); and

(d) a shareholder's pro rata portion of a dividend paid at any time on a class of the shares of the capital stock of a corporation is that proportion of the dividend that the number of shares of that class held by the shareholder at that time is of the number of shares of that class outstanding at that time.

(3) Concurrence with election — An election under subsection (2) in respect of an original dividend is valid only if

(a) it is made with the concurrence of the corporation and all its shareholders

(i) who received or were entitled to receive all or any portion of the original dividend, and

(ii) whose addresses were known to the corporation; and

(b) either

(i) it is made on or before the day that is 30 months after the day on which the original dividend was paid, or

(ii) each shareholder described in subparagraph (a)(i) concurs with the election, in which case, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), any assessment of the tax, interest and penalties payable by each of those shareholders for any taxation year shall be made that is necessary to take the corporation's election into account.

Related Provisions: 185.1(4) — Exception for non-taxable shareholders.

(4) Exception for non-taxable shareholders — If each shareholder who, in respect of an election made under subsection (2), is deemed by subsection (2) to have received a dividend at a particular time is also, at the particular time, a person all of whose taxable income is exempt from tax under Part I,

(a) subsection (3) does not apply to the election; and

(b) the election is valid only if it is made on or before the day that is 30 months after the day on which the original dividend was paid.

History: S. 185.1 added by 2007, c. 2, s. 51, applicable to taxation years that end after 2005 except that, in respect of a dividend paid before February 21, 2007, an election under subsec. 185.1(2) is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before August 21, 2009.

185.2 (1) Return — Every corporation resident in Canada that pays a taxable dividend (other than a capital gains dividend within the meaning assigned by subsection 130.1(4) or 131(1)) in a taxation year shall file with the Minister, not later than the corporation's filing-due date for the taxation year, a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form containing an estimate of the taxes payable by it under this Part for the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(z.2) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation.

(2) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 151, 152, 158 and 159, subsections 161(1) and (11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(z.2) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation.

(3) Joint and several liability from excessive eligible dividend designations — Without limiting the liability of any person under any other provision of this Act, if a Canadian-controlled private corporation or a deposit insurance corporation pays an eligible dividend in respect of which it has made an excessive eligible dividend designation to a shareholder with whom it does not deal at arm's length, the shareholder is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with the corporation to pay that proportion of the corporation's tax payable under this Part because of the designation that the amount of the eligible dividend received by the shareholder is of the total of all amounts each of which is a dividend in respect of which the designation was made.

Related Provisions: 185.2(4) — Assessment; 185.2(5) — Rules applicable.

(4) Assessment — The Minister may, at any time after the last day on which a corporation may make an election under subsection 185.1(2) in respect of an excessive eligible dividend designation, assess a person in respect of any amount payable under subsection (3) in respect of the designation, and the provisions of Division I of Part I (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to an assessment made under this subsection as though it were made under section 152.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(z.2) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation.

(5) Rules applicable — If under subsection (3) a corporation and a shareholder have become jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay part or all of the corporation's tax payable under this Part in respect of an excessive eligible dividend designation described in subsection (3),

(a) a payment at any time by the shareholder on account of the liability shall, to the extent of the payment, discharge their liability after that time; and

(b) a payment at any time by the corporation on account of its liability shall discharge the shareholder's liability only to the extent of the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of

(i) the amount of the corporation's liability, immediately before that time, under this Part in respect of the designation, and

(ii) the amount of the payment,

B is the amount of the corporation's liability, immediately before that time, under this Act,

C is the amount of the eligible dividend received by the shareholder, and

D the total of all amounts each of which is a dividend in respect of which the designation was made.

PART IV — TAX ON TAXABLE DIVIDENDS RECEIVED BY PRIVATE CORPORATIONS

186. (1) Tax on assessable dividends — Every corporation (in this section referred to as the "particular corporation") that is at any time in a taxation year a private corporation or a subject corporation shall, on or before its balance-due day for the year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) 1/3 of all assessable dividends received by the particular corporation in the year from corporations other than payer corporations connected with it, and

(b) all amounts, each of which is an amount in respect of an assessable dividend received by the particular corporation in the year from a private corporation or a subject corporation that was a payer corporation connected with the particular corporation, equal to that proportion of the payer corporation's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by paragraph 129(1)(a)) for its taxation year in which it paid the dividend that

(i) the amount of the dividend received by the particular corporation

is of

(ii) the total of all taxable dividends paid by the payer corporation in its taxation year in which it paid the dividend and at a time when it was a private corporation or a subject corporation exceeds 1/3 of the total of

(c) such part of the particular corporation's non-capital loss and farm loss for the year as it claims, and

(d) such part of the particular corporation's

(i) non-capital loss for any of its 20 taxation years immediately preceding or 3 taxation years immediately following the year, and

(ii) farm loss for any of its 20 taxation years immediately preceding or 3 taxation years immediately following the year as it claims, not exceeding the portion thereof that would have been deductible under section 111 in computing its taxable income for the year if subparagraph 111(3)(a)(ii) were read without reference to the words "the particular taxation year and" and if the corporation had sufficient income for the year.

Related Provisions: 15.1(1), 15.2(1) — Interest on small business development bond or small business bond not a dividend for Part IV tax; 18(1)(t) — Part IV tax is non-deductible; 87(2.11) — Losses, etc., on amalgamation with subsidiary wholly-owned corporation; 88(1.1) — Non-capital losses, etc., of subsidiary; 88(1.3) — Computation of income and tax of parent; 129(1) — Part IV tax is refundable; 129(3)(b) — "Refundable dividend tax on hand"; 131(5) — Dividend refund to mutual fund corporation; 186(6) — Partnerships; 186.1 — Exempt corporations; 186.2 — Exempt dividends; 227(14) — No tax on corporation exempt under s. 149; 227(16) — Municipal or provincial corporation excepted.

History: Subparas. 186(1)(d)(i) and (ii) amended by 2006, c. 4, s. 83 to substitute "20" for "10", applicable in respect of losses that arise in 2006 et seq.

Subpara. 186(1)(d)(i) amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 41 to substitute "10" for "7", applicable in respect of losses that arise in taxation years that end after March 22, 2004.

The opening words of subsec. 186(1) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 120, applicable to taxation years that begin after June 2003. The opening words formerly read:

(1) Every corporation (in this section referred to as the "particular corporation") that is at any time in a taxation year a private corporation or a subject corporation shall, on or before the last day of the third month after the end of the year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to the amount, if any, by which the total of

Subsec. 186(1) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 48(1), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995 except that, in respect of any such taxation year that begins before July 1995,

(a) in the application of subsec. 186(1) to amounts described in paras. 186(1)(a) and (b) that were received by the corporation in the year and before July 1995, the references to "1/3" shall be read as "1/4";

(b) amounts deducted by the corporation for the year under paras. 186(1)(c) and (d)

(i) are deemed to have been deducted in respect of amounts described in paras. 186(1)(a) and (b) that were received by the corporation in the year and after June 1995, and

(ii) to the extent that the amounts so deducted exceed the amounts referred to in subpara. (i), are deemed to have been deducted in respect of amounts described in paras. 186(1)(a) and (b) that were received by the corporation in the year and before July 1995.

Subsec. (1) formerly read:

(1) Tax on certain taxable dividends — Every corporation (in this section referred to as the "particular corporation") that was, at any time in a taxation year, a corporation (other than a private corporation) resident in Canada and controlled, whether by reason of a beneficial interest in one or more trusts or otherwise, by or for the benefit of an individual (other than a trust) or a related group of individuals (other than trusts) (in this Part referred to as a "subject corporation") or a private corporation shall, on or before the last day of the third month after the end of the year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 1/4 of the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) all amounts received by the particular corporation in the year and at a time when it was a subject corporation or a private corporation as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, taxable dividends from corporations (other than payer corporations connected with it),

(i) that are deductible under subsection 112(1) from its income for the year, or

(ii) to the extent of the amounts in respect of those dividends that are deductible under paragraph 113(1)(a), (b) or (d) or subsection 113(2) from its income for the year, and

(b) all amounts, each of which is an amount in respect of a taxable dividend, in respect of which an amount is deductible under subsection 112(1) in computing its taxable income for the year, received by the particular corporation in the year and at a time when it was a subject corporation or a private corporation from a subject corporation or a private corporation that was a payer corporation connected with the particular corporation equal to that proportion of

(i) 4 times the dividend refund of the payer corporation for its taxation year in which it paid the dividend

that

(ii) the amount in respect of the dividend so received by the particular corporation

is of

(iii) the total of all taxable dividends paid by the payer corporation in its taxation year in which it paid the dividend and at a time when it was a subject corporation or a private corporation,

(b.1) [Repealed under former Act]

exceeds the total of

(c) such part of the particular corporation's non-capital loss and such part of its farm loss for the year as it may claim, and

(d) such part of the particular corporation's

(i) non-capital loss for a taxation year that is any of the 7 taxation years immediately preceding or the 3 taxation years immediately following the year, and

(ii) farm loss for a taxation year that is any of the 10 taxation years immediately preceding or the 3 taxation years immediately following the year as it may claim, not exceeding the portion thereof that would have been deductible under section 111 in computing the corporation's taxable income for the year if subparagraph 111(3)(a)(ii) were read without reference to the words "the particular taxation year and" and if the corporation had sufficient income for the year.

That portion of para. 186(1)(a) and of 186(1)(b) preceding subpara. (i) of each amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsecs. 110(1) and (2), applicable to dividends received after 1992. Those portions formerly read:

(a) all amounts received by the particular corporation in the year as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, taxable dividends from corporations other than payer corporations connected with it,

(b) all amounts, each of which is an amount in respect of a taxable dividend, in respect of which an amount is deductible under subsection 112(1) from its income for the year, received by the particular corporation in the year from a corporation (in this section referred to as the "payer corporation") connected with the particular corporation equal to that proportion of

Subpara. 186(1)(b)(iii) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 110(3), applicable to dividends paid in the 1992 or a subsequent taxation year, except that with respect to dividends paid in a taxation year commencing before 1993 and ending after 1992, the subpara. shall be read as follows:

(iii) the total of all taxable dividends paid by the payer corporation in its taxation year in which it paid the dividend that were paid before 1993 or at a time when the payer corporation was a subject corporation or a private corporation

Subpara. (b)(iii) formerly read:

(iii) the total of all taxable dividends paid by the payer corporation in its taxation year in which it paid the dividend, corporation in a taxation year and was included in an amount in respect of which tax under Part IV.1 was payable by the corporation for the year, the tax otherwise payable under this Part by the corporation for the year shall be reduced

(a) where the assessable dividend is described in paragraph (1)(a), by 10% of the assessable dividend, and

(b) where the assessable dividend is described in paragraph (1)(b), by 30% of the amount determined under that paragraph in respect of the assessable dividend.

History: Subsec. 186(1.1) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 48(1), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995 except that, in applying amended subsec. (1.1) to any such taxation year that begins before July 1995 to amounts described in para. 186(1.1)(b) that were received by the corporation in the year and before July 1, 1995, the reference to "30%" shall be read as "40%". Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Reduction in tax — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where a taxable dividend referred to in paragraph (1)(a) or (b) was received by a corporation in a taxation year and was included in an amount in respect of which tax under Part IV.1 was payable by the corporation for the year, the tax otherwise payable under this Part by the corporation for the year shall be reduced

(a) where the dividend is a taxable dividend referred to in paragraph (1)(a), by 10% of the amount determined in respect of that dividend under that paragraph; and

(b) where the dividend is a taxable dividend referred to in paragraph (1)(b), by 10% of the amount determined in respect of that dividend under that paragraph.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-269R4: Part IV tax on taxable dividends received by a private corporation or a subject corporation.

(2) When corporation controlled — For the purposes of this Part, other than for the purpose of determining whether a corporation is a subject corporation, one corporation is controlled by another corporation if more than 50% of its issued share capital (having full voting rights under all circumstances) belongs to the other corporation, to persons with whom the other corporation does not deal at arm's length, or to the other corporation and persons with whom the other corporation does not deal at arm's length.

(3) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this Part.

"assessable dividend" means an amount received by a corporation at a time when it is a private corporation or a subject corporation as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a taxable dividend from a corporation, to the extent of the amount in respect of the dividend that is deductible under section 112, paragraph 113(1)(a), (b) or (d) or subsection 113(2) in computing the recipient corporation's taxable income for the year.

"subject corporation" means a corporation (other than a private corporation) resident in Canada and controlled, whether because of a beneficial interest in one or more trusts or otherwise, by or for the benefit of an individual (other than a trust) or a related group of individuals (other than trusts).

History: Subsec. 186(3) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 48(2), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995.

(4) Corporations connected with particular corporation — For the purposes of this Part, a payer corporation is connected with a particular corporation at any time in a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "particular year") of the particular corporation if

(a) the payer corporation is controlled (otherwise than by virtue of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) by the particular corporation at that time; or

(b) the particular corporation owned, at that time,

(i) more than 10% of the issued share capital (having full voting rights under all circumstances) of the payer corporation, and

(ii) shares of the capital stock of the payer corporation having a fair market value of more than 10% of the fair market value of all of the issued shares of the capital stock of the payer corporation.

Related Provisions: 186(2) — Extended meaning of "controlled"; 186(7) — 186(2) applies to all uses of the term "connected" in the Act.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-269R4: Part IV tax on taxable dividends received by a private corporation or a subject corporation; IT-302R3: Losses of a corporation — the effect that acquisitions of control, amalgamations, and windings-up have on their deductibility; IT-489R: Non-arm's length sale of shares to a corporation.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-42: Transfer of shares; ATR-55: Amalgamation followed by sale of shares.

(5) Deemed private corporation — A corporation that is at any time in a taxation year a subject corporation shall, for the purposes of paragraph 87(2)(aa) and section 129, be deemed to be a private corporation at that time, except that its refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3)) at the end of the year shall be determined without reference to paragraph 129(3)(a).

History: Subsec. 186(5) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 48(3), applicable to taxation years that end after June 1995. Subsec. (5) formerly read:

(5) A corporation that is at any time a subject corporation shall, for the purposes of paragraphs 87(2)(aa) and 88(1)(e.5) and section 129, be deemed to be a private corporation at that time, except that its refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of any taxation year shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) the total of the taxes under this Part payable by the corporation for the year and any previous taxation years ending after it last became a subject corporation, and

exceeds the total of

(b) the total of the corporation's dividend refunds for taxation years ending after it last became a subject corporation and before the year, and

(c) the amount, if any, of the corporation's reduction at December 31, 1987 of refundable dividend tax on hand (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(3.5)).

That portion of subsec. 186(5) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 110(4), applicable to 1993 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(5) Presumption — A corporation that was at the end of a taxation year commencing after November 12, 1981 a subject corporation or a private corporation that was at any time in the year a subject corporation shall, for the purposes of paragraphs 87(2)(aa) and 88(1)(e.5) and section 129, be deemed to have been a private corporation at the times in the year that it was a subject corporation, except that its refundable dividend tax on hand at the end of the year shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which the total of

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-269R4: Part IV tax on taxable dividends received by a private corporation or a subject corporation; IT-302R3: Losses of a corporation — the effect that acquisitions of control, amalgamations, and windings-up have on their deductibility.

(6) Partnerships — For the purposes of this Part,

(a) all amounts received in a fiscal period by a partnership as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, taxable dividends shall be deemed to have been received by each member of the partnership in the member's fiscal period or taxation year in which the partnership's fiscal period ends, to the extent of that member's share thereof; and

(b) each member of a partnership shall be deemed to own at any time that proportion of the number of the shares of each class of the capital stock of a corporation that are property of the partnership at that time that the member's share of all dividends received on those shares by the partnership in its fiscal period that includes that time is of the total of all those dividends.

(7) Interpretation — For greater certainty, where a provision of this Act or the regulations indicates that the term "connected" has the meaning assigned by subsection 186(4), that meaning shall be determined by taking into account the application of subsection 186(2) unless the provision expressly provides otherwise.

History: Subsec. 186(7) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 164, applicable after March 15, 2001, except that it does not apply for the purposes of applying the Act after March 15, 2001 with respect to actions or transactions of a taxpayer required to be carried out under an agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before March 16, 2001 if the taxpayer elects in writing that this subsection apply by filing the election including a copy of the agreement with the Minister of National Revenue before August 13, 2001 (60 days after Royal Assent).

PART IV.1 — TAXES ON DIVIDENDS ON CERTAIN PREFERRED SHARES RECEIVED BY CORPORATIONS

187.1 Definition of "excepted dividend" — In this Part, "excepted dividend" means a dividend

(a) received by a corporation on a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation, other than a dividend received by a specified financial institution on a share acquired in the ordinary course of the business carried on by the institution;

(b) received by a corporation from another corporation (other than a corporation described in any of paragraphs (a) to (f) of the definition "financial intermediary corporation" in subsection 191(1)) in which it has or would have, if the other corporation were a taxable Canadian corporation, a substantial interest (as determined under section 191) at the time the dividend was paid;

(c) received by a corporation that was, at the time the dividend was received, a private corporation or a financial intermediary corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 191(1));

(d) received by a corporation on a short-term preferred share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation other than a dividend described in paragraph (b) or (c) of the definition "excluded dividend" in subsection 191(1); or

(e) received by a corporation on a share (other than a taxable RFI share or a share that would be a taxable preferred share if the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1) were read without reference to paragraph (a) of that definition) of the capital stock of a mutual fund corporation.

Related Provisions: 191(4)(d) — Deemed excepted dividend.

History: Para. 187.1(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 154, applicable to dividends received after 1987. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) received by a corporation on a share of the capital stock of a foreign affiliate of the corporation where the share was not acquired by the corporation in the ordinary course of the business carried on by the corporation;

187.3 (1) Tax on dividends on taxable RFI shares — Every restricted financial institution shall, on or before its balance-due day for a taxation year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 10% of the total of all amounts each of which is a dividend, other than an excepted dividend, received by the institution at any time in the year on a share acquired by any person before that time and after 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 that was, at the time the dividend was paid, a taxable RFI share to the extent that an amount in respect of the dividend was deductible under section 112 or 113 or subsection 138(6) in computing its taxable income for the year or under subsection 115(1) in computing its taxable income earned in Canada for the year.

Related Provisions: 87(4.2) — Exchanged shares; 186(1.1) — Reduction in tax; 187.3(2) — Time of acquisition of share; 187.4 — Partnerships; 187.5 — Information return; 191(3) — Substantial interest.

History: Subsec. 187.3(1) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 122, applicable to taxation years that begin after June 2003. Subsec. 187.3(1) formerly read:

(1) Every restricted financial institution shall, on or before the last day of the second month after the end of each taxation year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 10% of the total of all amounts each of which is a dividend, other than an excepted dividend, received by the institution at any time in the year on a share acquired by any person before that time and after 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 that was, at the time the dividend was paid, a taxable RFI share to the extent that an amount in respect of the dividend was deductible under section 112 or 113 or subsection 138(6) in computing its taxable income for the year or under subsection 115(1) in computing its taxable income earned in Canada for the year.

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-46: Financial difficulty.

(2) Time of acquisition of share — For the purposes of subsection (1),

(a) a share of the capital stock of a corporation acquired by a person after 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before that time shall be deemed to have been acquired by that person before that time;

(b) a share of the capital stock of a corporation acquired by a person after 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 and before 1988 as part of a distribution to the public made in accordance with the terms of a prospectus, preliminary prospectus, registration statement, offering memorandum or notice filed before 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 with a public authority pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of the jurisdiction in which the shares are distributed shall be deemed to have been acquired by that person before that time;

(c) a share (in this paragraph referred to as the "new share") of the capital stock of a corporation that is acquired by a person after 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 in exchange for

(i) a share of a corporation that was issued before 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 or is a grandfathered share, or

(ii) a debt obligation of a corporation that was issued before 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987, or issued after that time pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before that time, where the right to the exchange for the new share and all or substantially all the terms and conditions of the new share were established in writing before that time shall be deemed to have been acquired by that person before that time;

(d) a share of a class of the capital stock of a Canadian corporation listed on a designated stock exchange in Canada that is acquired by a person after 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 on the exercise of a right

(i) that was issued before that time and listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada, and

(ii) the terms of which at that time included the right to acquire the share, where all or substantially all the terms and conditions of the share were established in writing before that time shall be deemed to have been acquired by that person before that time;

(e) where a share that was owned by a particular restricted financial institution at 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 has, by one or more transactions between related restricted financial institutions, been transferred to another restricted financial institution, the share shall be deemed to have been acquired by the other restricted financial institution before that time unless at any particular time after 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 and before the share was transferred to the other restricted financial institution the share was owned by a shareholder who, at that particular time, was a person other than a restricted financial institution related to the other restricted financial institution; and

(f) where, at any particular time, there has been an amalgamation within the meaning assigned by section 87, and

(i) each of the predecessor corporations was a restricted financial institution throughout the period from 8:00 p.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, June 18, 1987 to the particular time and the predecessor corporations were related to each other throughout that period, or

(ii) each of the predecessor corporations and the new corporation is a corporation described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d) of the definition "restricted financial institution" in subsection 248(1), a taxable RFI share acquired by the new corporation from a predecessor corporation on the amalgamation shall be deemed to have been acquired by the new corporation at the time it was acquired by the predecessor corporation.

PART V — TAX AND PENALTIES IN RESPECT OF REGISTERED CHARITIES

History [Part V]: The heading to Part V amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 42 to replace "Tax" with "Tax and Penalties", deemed to have come into force on March 23, 2004.

188. (1) Deemed year-end on notice of revocation — If on a particular day the Minister issues a notice of intention to revoke the registration of a taxpayer as a registered charity under any of subsections 149.1(2) to (4.1) and 168(1) or it is determined, under subsection 7(1) of the Charities Registration (Security Information) Act, that a certificate served in respect of the charity under subsection 5(1) of that Act is reasonable on the basis of information and evidence available,

(a) the taxation year of the charity that would otherwise have included that day is deemed to end at the end of that day;

(b) a new taxation year of the charity is deemed to begin immediately after that day; and

(c) for the purpose of determining the charity's fiscal period after that day, the charity is deemed not to have established a fiscal period before that day.

Related Provisions: 188(2.1) — Conditions for 188(1) not to apply.

History: Subsec. 188(1) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 43(1), applicable in respect of notices issued and certificates served by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005. The subsec. formerly read:

(1) Revocation tax — Where the registration of a charity is revoked, the charity shall, on or before the day (in this subsection referred to as the "payment day") in a taxation year that is one year after the day on which the revocation is effective,

(a) pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of an asset of the charity on the day (in this section referred to as the "valuation day") that is 120 days before the day on which

(i) the notice of the Minister's intention to revoke the charity's registration is mailed, if the registration is revoked under subsection 168(2), or

(ii) the charity is, under subsection 5(1) of the Charities Registration (Security Information) Act, served with a copy of a certificate, if the registration is revoked under subsection 168(3).

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt described in subsection 110.1(2) or 118.1(2) in the period (in this section referred to as the "winding-up period") that begins on the valuation day and ends immediately before the payment day, or an amount received by it in the winding-up period from a registered charity,

Proposed Amendment — Former 188(1)(a)B [temporary]

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 166, provides that in applying the description of B in former para. 188(1)(a) in respect of gifts made to a charity after December 20, 2002, as those gifts are relevant in respect of notices of intention to revoke the registration of the charity and certificates under subsec. 5(1) of the Charities Registration (Security Information) Act that are issued by the Minister of National Revenue before June 13, 2005, that description is to be read with "which is the eligible amount" substituted for "which is the amount".

Technical Notes: Subsection 188(1) imposes a tax payable by a registered charity in respect of the revocation of the charity's registration. The tax is generally equal to the total of the value of the assets of the charity plus the amount of receipted donations and inter-charity gifts received by the charity after the "valuation day" of the charity's assets, net of certain eligible disbursements.

Subsection 188(1) is amended consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(31), in respect of gifts made after December 20, 2002, to refer to the "eligible amount" of a gift for which a receipt was issued by the charity. For additional information, see the commentary to new subsection 248(31).

C is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value, at the time of the transfer, of an asset transferred by it in the winding-up period to a qualified donee,

D is the total of all amounts each of which is expended by it in the winding-up period on charitable activities carried on by it,

E is the total of all amounts each of which is paid by it in the winding-up period in respect of its debts that were outstanding on the valuation day and not included in determining the value of D, and

F is the total of all amounts each of which is a reasonable expense incurred by it in the winding-up period and not included in determining the value of D; and

(b) file with the Minister a return in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, without notice or demand therefor.

The description of A in para. 188(1)(a) amended by 2001, c. 41, s. 116, in force December 24, 2001. The description of A formerly read:

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of an asset of the charity on the day (in this section referred to as the "valuation day") that is 120 days before the day on which notice of the Minister's intention to revoke its registration is mailed,

Subsec. 188(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 84, applicable where the registration of a charity is revoked pursuant to a notice of intention to revoke its registration that is mailed after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(1) Where the registration of a charity is revoked, the charity shall, on or before the day in a taxation year that is one year after the day on which the revocation is effective, pay a tax for the year under this Part equal to the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) the fair market value, on the day that notice of the Minister's intention to revoke its registration is mailed, of all its assets on that day, and

(b) the total of all gifts for which it issued receipts described in subsection 110.1(2) or 118.1(2) after the day referred to in paragraph (a) and all amounts received after that day from registered charities

exceeds the total of

(c) the fair market value on the day referred to in paragraph (a) of each asset of the charity transferred by it to a qualified donee within the period commencing immediately after that day and expiring at the end of one year from the day on which the revocation is effective,

(d) amounts expended by it within the period described in paragraph (c) on charitable activities carried on by it,

(e) amounts paid by the charity after the day referred to in paragraph (a) in respect of bona fide debts of the charity that were outstanding on that day, and

(f) the amount of such reasonable expenses as are incurred by the charity within the period described in paragraph (c).

Para. 188(1)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 155, applicable to 1988 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt described in paragraph 110.1(1)(a) or subsection 118.1(2) after the day referred to in paragraph (a) or an amount received after that date from a registered charity.

Forms: RC4424: Completing the tax return where registration of a charity is revoked [guide].

(1.1) Revocation tax — A charity referred to in subsection (1) is liable to a tax, for its taxation year that is deemed to have ended, equal to the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts, each of which is

(a) the fair market value of a property of the charity at the end of that taxation year,

(b) the amount of an appropriation (within the meaning assigned by subsection (2)) in respect of a property transferred to another person in the 120-day period that ended at the end of that taxation year, or

(c) the income of the charity for its winding-up period, including gifts received by the charity in that period from any source and any income that would be computed under section 3 as if that period were a taxation year; and

B is the total of all amounts (other than the amount of an expenditure in respect of which a deduction has been made in computing income for the winding-up period under paragraph (c) of the description of A), each of which is

(a) a debt of the charity that is outstanding at the end of that taxation year,

(b) an expenditure made by the charity during the winding-up period on charitable activities carried on by it, and

(c) an amount in respect of a property transferred by the charity during the winding-up period and not later than the latter[50] of one year from the end of the taxation year and the day, if any, referred to in paragraph (1.2)(c), to a person that was at the time of the transfer an eligible donee in respect of the charity, equal to the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property, when transferred, exceeds the consideration given by the person for the transfer.

Related Provisions: 149.1(1.1)(c) — Amount transferred under B(c) deemed not expended on charitable activities; 149.1(6.4) — Application to registered national arts service organizations; 188(1.2), (1.3) — "Winding-up period", "eligible donee"; 188(2) — Transferee of property liable for tax; 188(2.1) — Conditions for 188(1.1) not to apply; 189(6.1) — Return and payment required within one year; 189(6.2) — Reduction of revocation tax liability; 189(7) — Assessment of revocation tax; 225.1(1.1)(a) — No collection action for one year; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 188(1.1) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 43(1), applicable in respect of notices issued and certificates served by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005.

(1.2) Winding-up period — In this Part, the winding-up period of a charity is the period that begins immediately after the day on which the Minister issues a notice of intention to revoke the registration of a taxpayer as a registered charity under any of subsections 149.1(2) to (4.1) and 168(1) (or, if earlier, immediately after the day on which it is determined, under subsection 7(1) of the Charities Registration (Security Information) Act, that a certificate served in respect of the charity under subsection 5(1) of that Act is reasonable on the basis of information and evidence available), and that ends on the day that is the latest of

(a) the day, if any, on which the charity files a return under subsection 189(6.1) for the taxation year deemed by subsection (1) to have ended, but not later than the day on which the charity is required to file that return,

(b) the day on which the Minister last issues a notice of assessment of tax payable under subsection (1.1) for that taxation year by the charity, and

(c) if the charity has filed a notice of objection or appeal in respect of that assessment, the day on which the Minister may take a collection action under section 225.1 in respect of that tax payable.

History: Subsec. 188(1.2) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 43(1), applicable in respect of notices issued and certificates served by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005.

(1.3) Eligible donee — In this Part, an eligible donee in respect of a particular charity is a registered charity

(a) of which more than 50% of the members of the board of directors or trustees of the registered charity deal at arm's length with each member of the board of directors or trustees of the particular charity;

(b) that is not the subject of a suspension under subsection 188.2(1);

(c) that has no unpaid liabilities under this Act or under the Excise Tax Act;

(d) that has filed all information returns required by subsection 149.1(14); and

[50] Sic. Should be "later" — ed.

(e) that is not the subject of a certificate under subsection 5(1) of the Charities Registration (Security Information) Act or, if it is the subject of such a certificate, the certificate has been determined under subsection 7(1) of that Act not to be reasonable.

History: Subsec. 188(1.3) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 43(1), applicable in respect of notices issued and certificates served by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005.

Forms: RC4424: Completing the tax return where registration of a charity is revoked [guide].

(2) Shared liability — revocation tax — A person who, after the time that is 120 days before the end of the taxation year of a charity that is deemed by subsection (1) to have ended, receives property from the charity, is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with the charity for the tax payable under subsection (1.1) by the charity for that taxation year for an amount not exceeding the total of all appropriations, each of which is the amount by which the fair market value of such a property at the time it was so received by the person exceeds the consideration given by the person in respect of the property.

Related Provisions: 160(1) — General rule making transferee of property liable.

History: Subsec. 188(2) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 43(1), applicable in respect of notices issued and certificates served by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005. The subsec. formerly read:

(2) Idem — A person (other than a qualified donee) who, after the valuation day of a charity, receives an amount from the charity is jointly and severally liable with the charity for the tax payable under subsection (1) by the charity in an amount not exceeding the amount by which the total of all such amounts so received by the person exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) a portion of such an amount that is included in determining an amount in the description of C, D, E or F in subsection (1) in respect of the charity, or

(b) the consideration given by the person in respect of such an amount.

Subsec. 188(2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 84, applicable where the registration of a charity is revoked pursuant to a notice of intention to revoke its registration that is mailed after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(2) A person (other than a qualified donee) who, on or after the day that notice of the Minister's intention to revoke the registration of a charity is mailed, receives any amount from that charity is jointly and severally liable with the charity for the tax imposed on the charity by subsection (1) in an amount not exceeding the amount by which the amount so received by the person from the charity exceeds the total of

(a) the total of amounts so received by the person from the charity each of which is an amount described in paragraph (1)(d), (e) or (f), and

(b) the consideration, if any, given by the person in respect of the amount so received by the person.

(2.1) Non-application of revocation tax — Subsections (1) and (1.1) do not apply to a charity in respect of a notice of intention to revoke given under any of subsections 149.1(2) to (4.1) and 168(1) if the Minister abandons the intention and so notifies the charity or if

(a) within the one-year period that begins immediately after the taxation year of the charity otherwise deemed by subsection (1) to have ended, the Minister has registered the charity as a charitable organization, private foundation or public foundation; and

(b) the charity has, before the time that the Minister has so registered the charity,

(i) paid all amounts, each of which is an amount for which the charity is liable under this Act (other than subsection (1.1)) or the Excise Tax Act in respect of taxes, penalties and interest, and

(ii) filed all information returns required by or under this Act to be filed on or before that time.

History: Subsec. 188(2.1) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 43(1), applicable in respect of notices issued and certificates served by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005.

(3) Transfer of property tax — Where, as a result of a transaction or series of transactions, property owned by a registered charity that is a charitable foundation and having a net value greater than 50% of the net asset amount of the charitable foundation immediately before the transaction or series of transactions, as the case may be, is transferred before the end of a taxation year, directly or indirectly, to one or more charitable organizations and it may reasonably be considered that the main purpose of the transfer is to effect a reduction in the disbursement quota of the foundation, the foundation shall pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to the amount by which 25% of the net value of that property determined as of the day of its transfer exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is its tax payable under this subsection for a preceding taxation year in respect of the transaction or series of transactions.

Related Provisions: 149.1(6.4) — Application to registered national arts service organizations; 188(3.1) — 188(3) does not apply to gift to which penalty under 188.1(11) applies; 248(10) — Series of transactions.

Forms: RC4108: Registered charities and the Income Tax Act [guide].

(3.1) Non-application of subsec. (3) — Subsection (3) does not apply to a transfer that is a gift to which subsection 188.1(11) applies.

History: Subsec. 188(3.1) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 43(2), applicable in respect of taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

(4) Idem — Where property has been transferred to a charitable organization in circumstances described in subsection (3) and it may reasonably be considered that the organization acted in concert with a charitable foundation for the purpose of reducing the disbursement quota of the foundation, the organization is jointly and severally liable with the foundation for the tax imposed on the foundation by that subsection in an amount not exceeding the net value of the property.

Proposed Amendment — 188(4)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 262, will amend subsec. 188(4) by substituting "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

(5) Definitions — In this section,

"net asset amount" of a charitable foundation at any time means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the fair market value at that time of all the property owned by the foundation at that time, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a debt owing by or any other obligation of the foundation at that time;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

"net value" of property owned by a charitable foundation, as of the day of its transfer, means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the fair market value of the property on that day, and

B is the amount of any consideration given to the foundation for the transfer.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

188.1 (1) Penalties for charities — carrying on business — Subject to subsection (2), a registered charity is liable to a penalty under this Part equal to 5% of its gross revenue for a taxation year from any business that it carries on in the taxation year, if the registered charity

(a) is a private foundation; or

(b) is not a private foundation and the business is not a related business in relation to the charity.

Related Provisions: 149.1(2)(a) — Revocation of charitable organization for carrying on unrelated business; 149.1(3)(a) — Revocation of public foundation for carrying on unrelated business; 149.1(4)(a) — Revocation of private foundation for carrying on any business; 188.1(2) — Increased penalty on second assessment; 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalty if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures; 241(3.2)(g) — Penalty notice may be disclosed to the public.

(2) Increased penalty for subsequent assessment — A registered charity that, less than five years before a particular time, was assessed a liability under subsection (1) or this subsection, for a taxation year, is liable to a penalty under this Part equal to its gross revenue for a subsequent taxation year from any business that, after that assessment and in the subsequent taxation year, it carries on at the particular time if the registered charity

(a) is a private foundation; or

(b) is not a private foundation and the business is not a related business in relation to the charity.

Related Provisions: 188.2(1)(a) — Mandatory one-year suspension of charity's ability to issue receipts; 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalty if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures; 241(3.2)(g) — Penalty notice may be disclosed to the public.

(3) Control of corporation by a charitable foundation — If at a particular time a charitable foundation has acquired control (within the meaning of subsection 149.1(12)) of a particular corporation, the foundation is liable to a penalty under this Part for a taxation year equal to

(a) 5% of the total of all amounts, each of which is a dividend received by the foundation from the particular corporation in the taxation year and at a time when the foundation so controlled the particular corporation, except if the foundation is liable under paragraph (b) for a penalty in respect of the dividend; or

(b) if the Minister has, less than five years before the particular time, assessed a liability under paragraph (a) or this paragraph for a preceding taxation year of the foundation in respect of a dividend received from any corporation, the total of all amounts, each of which is a dividend received, after the particular time, by the foundation, from the particular corporation, in the taxation year and at a time when the foundation so controlled the particular corporation.

Related Provisions: 149.1(3)(c) — Revocation of public foundation for acquiring control of a corporation; 149.1(4)(c) — Revocation of private foundation for acquiring control of a corporation; 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalty if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures; 241(3.2)(g) — Penalty notice may be disclosed to the public.

(3.1) Penalty for excess corporate holdings — A private foundation is liable to a penalty under this Part for a taxation year, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, equal to

(a) 5% of the amount, if any, determined by multiplying the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation for the taxation year in respect of the class by the total fair market value of all of the issued and outstanding shares of the class, except if the private foundation is liable for the taxation year under paragraph (b) for a penalty in respect of the class; or

(b) 10% of the amount, if any, determined by multiplying the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation for the taxation year in respect of the class by the total fair market value of all of the issued and outstanding shares of the class, if

(i) the private foundation has failed to disclose, in its return required under subsection 149.1(14) for the taxation year,

(A) a material transaction, in the taxation year, of the private foundation in respect of the class,

(B) a material interest held at the end of the taxation year by a relevant person in respect of the private foundation, or

(C) the total corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class at the end of the taxation year, unless at no time in the taxation year the private foundation held greater than an insignificant interest in respect of the class, or

(ii) the Minister has, less than five years before the end of the taxation year, assessed a liability under paragraph (a) or this paragraph for a preceding taxation year of the private foundation in respect of any divestment obligation percentage.

Related Provisions: 149.2(10) — Shares held through a trust on March 18/07; 188.1(3.2)–(3.5) — Avoidance of divestment obligation.

(3.2) Avoidance of divestiture — If, at the end of a taxation year, a private foundation would — but for a transaction or series of transactions entered into by the private foundation or a relevant person in respect of the private foundation (in this subsection referred to as the "holder") a result of which is that the holder holds, directly or indirectly, an interest (or for civil law, a right), in a corporation other than shares — have a divestment obligation percentage for that taxation year in respect of the private foundation's holdings of a class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation, and it can reasonably be considered that a purpose of the transaction or series is to avoid that divestment obligation percentage by substituting shares of the class for that interest or right, for the purposes of applying this section, subsection 149.1(1) and section 149.2,

(a) each of those interests or rights is deemed to have been converted, immediately after the time it was first held, directly or indirectly by the holder, into that number of shares of that class that would, if those shares were shares of the class that were issued by the corporation, have a fair market value equal to the fair market value of the interest or right at that time;

(b) each such share is deemed to be a share that is issued by the corporation and outstanding and to continue to be held by the holder until such time as the holder no longer holds the interest or right; and

(c) each such share is deemed to have a fair market value, at any particular time, equal to the fair market value, at the particular time, of a share of the class issued by the corporation.

Proposed Amendment — 188.1(3.2)(c)

(c) each of those shares is deemed to have a fair market value, at the particular time, equal to the fair market value, at the particular time, of a share of the class issued by the corporation, determined without reference to this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 62(1), will amend para. 188.1(3.2)(c) to read as above, applicable to taxation years, of private foundations, that begin after February 25, 2008.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 188.1(3.2) is an anti-avoidance rule that addresses any attempt by a private foundation to circumvent the reporting and divestment obligation requirements of the excess corporate holdings regime.

New subsections 188.1(3.3) to (3.5) add an anti-avoidance provision in respect of the indirect holding by a private foundation or relevant person, though an interest in a trust, of shares or certain other interests in a corporation. Subsection 188.1(3.5) deems a foundation (or, in some circumstances, a relevant person in respect of the foundation) to own shares that are actually held by a trust, in proportion to the value of the foundation's proportionate interest in the trust, where the following conditions in subsection 188.1(3.5) are met:

- the private foundation or relevant person (each of which is referred to as an "insider") is a beneficiary under the trust;
- it may reasonably be considered that one of the purposes of the establishment of a trust is to hold or acquire shares or other interests or rights in a corporation; and
- the private foundation would have a divestment obligation in respect of the particular class of shares if the private foundation held (in addition to any shares of the class that it actually owns) the shares (or deemed shares — see below) that are owned by the trust.

In this regard, where the trust owns an interest, other than shares, in a corporation, and that interest is associated with a "right under a contract" in respect of shares described in paragraph 251(5)(b), the trust is deemed by paragraph 188.1(3.4)(a) to own shares of the same class that correspond to the value of the actual non-share interest in the corporation. Such a right under a contract could include, for instance, a right to acquire shares or to control the voting rights of shares, a right to cause a corporation to redeem, acquire or cancel the shares of another shareholder, or a right to cause a reduction to the voting rights of another shareholder.

For the purpose of simplifying the valuation of a foundation's interest in a discretionary trust, paragraph 188.1(3.4)(b) removes the significance of a person exercising, or failing to exercise, a discretionary power in respect of the allocation of income or capital of the trust.

Paragraph 188.1(3.2)(c) is amended to clarify that the fair market value of a share deemed to be issued by a corporation under this subsection is determined as that of an actual share and without reference to this subsection. This amendment is made concurrently with the inclusion of identical language in new paragraph 188.1(3.5)(c).

Proposed Addition — 188.1(3.3)–(3.5)

(3.3) Where subsec. (3.5) applies — Subsection (3.5) applies to a private foundation at a particular time in a taxation year if

(a) at the particular time, a person (in this subsection and subsection (3.5) referred to as an "insider" of the private foundation) that is the private foundation, or is a relevant person in respect of the private foundation, is a beneficiary under a trust;

(b) at or before the particular time

(i) the insider acquired an interest in or under the trust, or

(ii) the trust acquired a property;

(c) it may reasonably be considered that a purpose of the acquisition described in paragraph (b) was to hold, directly or indirectly, shares of a class of the capital stock of a corporation (referred to in subsection (3.5) as the "subject corporation");

(d) the shares described in paragraph (c) would, if they were held by the insider, cause the private foundation to have a divestment obligation percentage for the taxation year; and

(e) at the particular time, the insider holds the interest described in subparagraph (b)(i), or the trust holds the property described in subparagraph (b)(ii), as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 188.1(3.4) — Interpretation.

(3.4) Rules applicable — For the purpose of subsections (3.3) and (3.5),

(a) interests (or, for civil law, rights), other than shares, of a trust in a corporation that entitle the trust to a right described in paragraph 251(5)(b) in respect of a class of the capital stock of the corporation, are deemed to be converted into shares of that class in the manner described by paragraph (3.2)(a); and

(b) if the amount of income or capital of the trust that a person may receive as a beneficiary under the trust depends on the exercise by any person of, or the failure by any person to exercise, a discretionary power, that person is deemed to have fully exercised, or to have failed to exercise, the power, as the case may be.

(3.5) Avoidance of divestiture — If this subsection applies to a private foundation at a particular time in respect of an interest of an insider of the private foundation in a trust, for the purposes of applying this section, subsection 149.1(1) and section 149.2,

(a) the insider is deemed to hold at the particular time, in addition to any shares of the capital stock of the subject corporation that it holds otherwise than because of this subsection, the number of shares, of the class of shares referred to in paragraph (3.3)(c), determined by the formula

where

A is the number of shares of that class that are held, directly or indirectly, by the trust at the particular time,

B is the total fair market value of all interests held by the insider in the trust at the particular time, and

C is the total fair market value of all property held by the trust at the particular time;

(b) each of those shares is deemed to be a share that is issued by the subject corporation and outstanding and to continue to be held by the holder until such time as the holder no longer holds the interest or right; and

(c) each of those shares is deemed to have a fair market value, at the particular time, equal to the fair market value, at the particular time, of a share of the class issued by the subject corporation, determined without reference to this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 62(2), will add subsecs. 188.1(3.3) to (3.5), applicable to taxation years, of private foundations, that begin after February 25, 2008.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Feb. 26, 2008: Avoidance Transactions Involving Trusts

The excess corporate holdings regime includes anti-avoidance rules that address attempts by private foundations to circumvent the regime's reporting or divestment obligations.

Budget 2008 proposes to extend these anti-avoidance provisions to certain inappropriate uses of trusts. In particular, the provisions will apply to circumstances in which it may reasonably be considered that one of the purposes of the establishment of a trust is to hold or acquire shares or other interests or rights in one or more corporations that would, if they were held by a beneficiary of the trust that is a private foundation or a relevant person, result in a divestment obligation to the foundation. In such a case, the foundation or relevant person will be deemed to hold shares in the corporation that reflect the value of their indirect interest in the corporation.

This anti-avoidance provision will apply in respect of private foundations' divestment obligations for taxation years that begin on or after February 26, 2008.

(4) Undue benefits — A registered charity that, at a particular time in a taxation year, confers on a person an undue benefit is liable to a penalty under this Part for the taxation year equal to

(a) 105% of the amount of the benefit, except if the charity is liable under paragraph (b) for a penalty in respect of the benefit; or

(b) if the Minister has, less than five years before the particular time, assessed a liability under paragraph (a) or this paragraph for a preceding taxation year of the charity and the undue benefit was conferred after that assessment, 110% of the amount of the benefit.

Related Provisions: 149.1(1)"charitable foundation", 149.1(1)"charitable organization"(b) — No benefit to be available to any member, shareholder, etc.; 188.1(5) — Meaning of "undue benefit"; 188.2(1)(b) — One-year suspension of charity's ability to issue receipts; 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalty if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures; 241(3.2)(g) — Penalty notice may be disclosed to the public.

(5) Meaning of undue benefits — For the purposes of this Part, an undue benefit conferred on a person (referred to in this Part as the "beneficiary") by a registered charity includes a disbursement by way of a gift or the amount of any part of the income, rights, property or resources of the charity that is paid, payable, assigned or otherwise made available for the personal benefit of any person who is a proprietor, member, shareholder, trustee or settlor of the charity, who has contributed or otherwise paid into the charity more than 50% of the capital of the charity, or who deals not at arm's length with such a person or with the charity, as well as any benefit conferred on a beneficiary by another person, at the direction or with the consent of the charity, that would, if it were not conferred on the beneficiary, be an amount in respect of which the charity would have a right, but does not include a disbursement or benefit to the extent that it is

(a) an amount that is reasonable consideration or remuneration for property acquired by or services rendered to the charity;

(b) a gift made, or a benefit conferred, in the course of a charitable act in the ordinary course of the charitable activities carried on by the charity, unless it can reasonably be considered that the eligibility of the beneficiary for the benefit relates solely to the relationship of the beneficiary to the charity; or

(c) a gift to a qualified donee.

Related Provisions: 149.1(1)"charitable foundation", 149.1(1)"charitable organization"(b) — No benefit to be available to any member, shareholder, etc.

(6) Failure to file information returns — Every registered charity that fails to file a return for a taxation year as and when required by subsection 149.1(14) is liable to a penalty equal to $500.

Related Provisions: 168(1)(c) — Revocation of registration for failing to file information return; 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalties exceeding $1,000 per taxation year if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures; 241(3.2)(g) — Penalty notice may be disclosed to the public.

(7) Incorrect information — Except where subsection (8) or (9) applies, every registered charity that issues, in a taxation year, a receipt for a gift otherwise than in accordance with this Act and the regulations is liable for the taxation year to a penalty equal to 5% of the amount reported on the receipt as representing the amount in respect of which a taxpayer may claim a deduction under subsection 110.1(1) or a credit under subsection 118.1(3).

Related Provisions: 168(1)(d) — Revocation of registration for issuing incorrect receipt; 188.1(8) — Increased penalty for subsequent assessment; 188.1(9) — Penalty for false statement relating to receipt; 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalty if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures; 225.1(1)(b) — No collection action for one year from assessment; 241(3.2)(g) — Assessment notice may be disclosed to the public.

(8) Increased penalty for subsequent assessment — Except where subsection (9) applies, if the Minister has, less than five years before a particular time, assessed a penalty under subsection (7) or this subsection for a taxation year of a registered charity and, after that assessment and in a subsequent taxation year, the charity issues, at the particular time, a receipt for a gift otherwise than in accordance with this Act and the regulations, the charity is liable for the subsequent taxation year to a penalty equal to 10% of the amount reported on the receipt as representing the amount in respect of which a taxpayer may claim a deduction under subsection 110.1(1) or a credit under subsection 118.1(3).

Related Provisions: 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalty if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures.

(9) False information — If at any time a person makes or furnishes, participates in the making of or causes another person to make or furnish a statement that the person knows, or would reasonably be expected to know but for circumstances amounting to culpable conduct (within the meaning assigned by subsection 163.2(1)), is a false statement (within the meaning assigned by subsection 163.2(1)) on a receipt issued by, on behalf of or in the name of another person for the purposes of subsection 110.1(2) or 118.1(2), the person (or, where the person is an officer, employee, official or agent of a registered charity, the registered charity) is liable for their taxation year that includes that time to a penalty equal to 125% of the amount reported on the receipt as representing the amount in respect of which a taxpayer may claim a deduction under subsection 110.1(1) or a credit under subsection 118.1(3).

Related Provisions: 163.2(2), (4) — Alternative penalties; 188.1(10) — No double penalty under 163.2 and 188.1(9); 188.2(1)(b) — Mandatory one-year suspension of charity's ability to issue receipts if penalties exceed $25,000; 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalty if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures.

(10) Maximum amount — A person who is liable at any time to penalties under both section 163.2 and subsection (9) in respect of the same false statement is liable to pay only the greater of those penalties.

(11) Delay of expenditure — If, in a taxation year, a registered charity has made a gift of property to another registered charity and it may reasonably be considered that one of the main purposes for the making of the gift was to unduly delay the expenditure of amounts on charitable activities, each of those charities is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to a penalty under this Act for its respective taxation year equal to 110% of the fair market value of the property.

Related Provisions: 149.1(4.1) — Revocation for making gift for purpose of undue delay; 188(3.1) — 188(3) does not apply to gift where 188.1(11) applies; 189(6.3) — Reduction of penalty if funds transferred to another charity; 189(7), (8) — Assessment of penalty and administrative procedures.

(2) Notice of suspension — general — The Minister may give notice by registered mail to a registered charity that the authority of the charity to issue an official receipt referred to in Part XXXV of the Income Tax Regulations is suspended for one year from the day that is seven days after the notice is mailed

(a) if the charity contravenes any of sections 230 to 231.5; or

(b) if it may reasonably be considered that the charity has acted, in concert with another charity that is the subject of a suspension under this section, to accept a gift or transfer of property on behalf of that other charity.

Related Provisions: 188.2(4) — Application to Tax Court to postpone suspension; 189(8) — Notice of objection (s. 165) may be filed against suspension; 241(3.2)(g) — Suspension letter may be disclosed to the public.

(3) Effect of suspension — If the Minister has issued a notice to a registered charity under subsection (1) or (2), subject to subsection (4),

(a) the charity is deemed, in respect of gifts made and property transferred to the charity within the one-year period that begins on the day that is seven days after the notice is mailed, not to be a donee, described in paragraph 110.1(1)(a) or in the definition "total charitable gifts" in subsection 118.1(1), for the purposes of

(i) subsections 110.1(1) and 118.1(1),

(ii) the definitions "qualified donee" and "registered charity" in subsection 248(1), and

(iii) Part XXXV of the Income Tax Regulations; and

(b) if the charity is, during that period, offered a gift from any person, the charity shall, before accepting the gift, inform that person that

(i) it has received the notice,

(ii) no deduction under subsection 110.1(1) or credit under subsection 118.1(3) may be claimed in respect of a gift made to it in the period, and

(iii) a gift made in the period is not a gift to a qualified donee.

Related Provisions: 188.2(2)(b) — Suspension for charity that accepts gift on behalf of suspended charity.

(4) Application for postponement — If a notice of objection to a suspension under subsection (1) or (2) has been filed by a registered charity, the charity may file an application to the Tax Court of Canada for a postponement of that portion of the period of suspension that has not elapsed until the time determined by the Court.

Related Provisions: 188.2(5) — Grounds for postponement by Tax Court; 189(8) — Notice of objection (s. 165) may be filed against suspension.

189. (1) Tax regarding non-qualified investment — Where at any particular time in a taxation year a debt (other than a debt in respect of which subsection 80.4(1) applies or would apply but for subsection 80.4(3)) is owing by a taxpayer to a registered charity that is a private foundation and at that time the debt was a non-qualified investment of the foundation, the taxpayer shall pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount that would be payable as interest on that debt for the period in the year during which it was outstanding and was a non-qualified investment of the foundation if the interest were payable at such prescribed rates as are in effect from time to time during the period

(b) the amount of interest for the year paid on that debt by the taxpayer not later than 30 days after the end of the year.

(2) Computation of interest on debt — For the purpose of paragraph (1)(a), where a debt in respect of which subsection (1) applies (other than a share or right that is deemed by subsection (3) to be a debt) is owing by a taxpayer to a private foundation, interest on that debt for the period referred to in that paragraph shall be computed at the least of

(a) such prescribed rates as are in effect from time to time during the period,

(b) the rate per annum of interest on that debt that, having regard to all the circumstances (including the terms and conditions of the debt), would have been agreed on, at the time the debt was incurred, had the taxpayer and the foundation been dealing with each other at arm's length and had the ordinary business of the foundation been the lending of money, and

(c) where that debt was incurred before April 22, 1982, a rate per annum equal to 6% plus 2% for each calendar year after 1982 and before the taxation year referred to in subsection (1).

Regulations: 4301(c) (prescribed rate of interest).

(3) Share deemed to be debt — For the purpose of subsection (1), where a share, or a right to acquire a share, of the capital stock of a corporation held by a private foundation at any particular time during the corporation's taxation year was at that time a non-qualified investment of the foundation, the share or right shall be deemed to be a debt owing at that time by the corporation to the foundation

(a) the amount of which was equal to,

(i) in the case of a share or right last acquired before April 22, 1982, the greater of its fair market value on April 21, 1982 and its cost amount to the foundation at the particular time, or

(ii) in any other case, its cost amount to the foundation at the particular time,

(b) that was outstanding throughout the period for which the share or right was held by the foundation during the year, and

(c) in respect of which the amount of interest paid in the year is equal to the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a dividend received on the share by the foundation in the year, and the reference in paragraph (1)(a) to "such prescribed rates as are in effect from time to time during the period" shall be read as a reference to "⅔ of such prescribed rates as are in effect from time to time during the period".

(4) Computation of interest with respect to a share — For the purposes of subsection (3), where a share or right in respect of which that subsection applies was last acquired before April 22, 1982, the reference therein to "⅔ of such prescribed rates as are in effect from time to time during the period" shall be read as a reference to "the lesser of

(a) a rate per annum equal to 4% plus 1% for each 5 calendar years contained in the period commencing after 1982 and ending before the particular time, and

(b) a rate per annum equal to ⅔ of such prescribed rates as are in effect from time to time during the year".

(5) Share substitution — For the purpose of subsection (3), where a share or right is acquired by a charity in exchange for another share or right in a transaction after April 21, 1982 to which section 51, 85, 85.1, 86 or 87 applies, it shall be deemed to be the same share or right as the one for which it was substituted.

(6) Taxpayer to file return and pay tax — Every taxpayer who is liable to pay tax under this Part (except a charity that is liable to pay tax under [sub]section 188(1)) for a taxation year shall, on or before the day on or before which the taxpayer is, or would be if tax were payable by the taxpayer under Part I for the year, required to file a return of income or an information return under Part I for the year,

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, without notice or demand therefor;

(b) estimate in the return the amount of tax payable by the taxpayer under this Part for the year; and

(c) pay to the Receiver General the amount of tax payable by the taxpayer under this Part for the year.

Related Provisions: 150.1(5) — Electronic filing.

History: The opening words of subsec. 189(6), and para. (6)(c), substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsecs. 85(1), (2), applicable after 1992. The opening words and para. (c) formerly read:

(6) Every taxpayer who is liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall, on or before the day on or before which the taxpayer is required, or would be required if tax were payable by the taxpayer under Part I or if, in the case of a charity, the registration thereof had not been revoked, to file a return of income or an information return under Part I for the year,

. . . . .

(c) except where subsection 188(1) applies with respect to the payment of the tax, pay to the Receiver General the amount of tax payable by the taxpayer under this Part for the year.

Forms: T2046: Tax return where registration of a charity is revoked; T2140: Part V tax return — Tax on non-qualified investments of a registered charity.

(6.1) Revoked charity to file returns — Every taxpayer who is liable to pay tax under subsection 188(1.1) for a taxation year shall, on or before the day that is one year from the end of the taxation year, and without notice or demand,

(a) file with the Minister

(i) a return for the taxation year, in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, and

(ii) both an information return and a public information return for the taxation year, each in the form prescribed for the purpose of subsection 149.1(14); and

(b) estimate in the return referred to in subparagraph (a)(i) the amount of tax payable by the taxpayer under subsection 188(1.1) for the taxation year; and

(c) pay to the Receiver General the amount of tax payable by the taxpayer under subsection 188(1.1) for the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 188(1) — Deemed year-end on notice of revocation.

(6.2) Reduction of revocation tax liability — If the Minister has, during the one-year period beginning immediately after the end of a taxation year of a person, assessed the person in respect of the person's liability for tax under subsection 188(1.1) for that taxation year, has not after that period reassessed the tax liability of the person, and that liability exceeds $1,000, that liability is, at any particular time, reduced by the total of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts, each of which is an expenditure made by the charity, on charitable activities carried on by it, before the particular time and during the period (referred to in this subsection as the "post-assessment period") that begins immediately after a notice of the latest such assessment was mailed and ends at the end of the one-year period

(ii) the income of the charity for the post-assessment period, including gifts received by the charity in that period from any source and any income that would be computed under section 3 if that period were a taxation year, and

(b) all amounts, each of which is an amount, in respect of a property transferred by the charity before the particular time and during the post-assessment period to a person that was at the time of the transfer an eligible donee in respect of the charity, equal to the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property, when transferred, exceeds the consideration given by the person for the transfer.

Related Provisions: 149.1(1.1)(c) — Amount transferred under (b) deemed not expended on charitable activities; 189(9)(a) — No interest on revocation tax to extent reduced by 189(6.2).

History: Subsec. 189(6.2) added by 2005, c. 19, s. 45, applicable in respect of notices issued by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005.

(6.3) Reduction of liability for penalties — If the Minister has assessed a registered charity in respect of the charity's liability for penalties under section 188.1 for a taxation year, and that liability exceeds $1,000, that liability is, at any particular time, reduced by the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount, in respect of a property transferred by the charity after the day on which the Minister first assessed that liability and before the particular time to a person that was at the time of the transfer an eligible donee in respect of the charity, equal to the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property, when transferred, exceeds the total of

(a) the consideration given by the person for the transfer, and

(b) the part of the amount in respect of the transfer that has resulted in a reduction of an amount otherwise payable under subsection 188(1.1).

Related Provisions: 149.1(1.1)(c) — Amount transferred under (b) deemed not expended on charitable activities; 189(9)(b) — No interest on penalties to extent reduced by 189(6.3).

History: Subsec. 189(6.3) added by 2005, c. 19, s. 45, applicable in respect of notices issued by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005.

(7) Minister may assess — Without limiting the authority of the Minister to revoke the registration of a registered charity, the Minister may also at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount that a taxpayer is liable to pay under this Part.

Related Provisions: 189(8) — Objection to penalty and other administrative procedures; 221.1 — Application of interest where legislation retroactive; 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

History: Subsec. 189(7) amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 45, applicable in respect of notices issued by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005. The subsec. formerly read:

(7) Interest — Where a taxpayer is liable to pay tax under this Part and has failed to pay all or any part thereof on or before the day on or before which the tax was required to be paid, the taxpayer shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the amount that the taxpayer failed to pay computed from the day on or before which the tax was required to be paid to the day of payment.

Regulations: 4301 (prescribed rate of interest).

(8) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 152 and 158, subsection 161(11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I apply in respect of an amount assessed under this Part and of a notice of suspension under subsection 188.2(1) or (2) as if the notice were a notice of assessment made under section 152, with any modifications that the circumstances require including, for greater certainty, that a notice of suspension that is reconsidered or reassessed may be confirmed or vacated, but not varied, except that

(a) section 162 does not apply in respect of a return required to be filed under paragraph (6.1)(a); and

(b) the reference in each of subsections 165(2) and 166.1(3) to the expression "Chief of Appeals in a District Office or a Taxation Centre" is to be read as a reference to the expression "Assistant Commissioner, Appeals Branch".

Related Provisions: 189(8.1)(a) — Objection to revocation is not an objection to revocation tax; 189(8.1)(b) — Revocation of registration cannot be appealed to Tax Court of Canada; 189(9) — No interest on revocation tax or penalties to extent reduced by 189(6.2) or (6.3).

History: Subsec. 189(8) amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 45, applicable in respect of notices issued by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005. The subsec. formerly read:

(8) Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 152 and 158, subsection 161(11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

PART VI — TAX ON CAPITAL OF FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

190. (1) Definitions — For the purposes of this Part,

"financial institution" means a corporation that

(a) is a bank,

(b) is authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on the business of offering its services as a trustee to the public,

(c) is authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to accept deposits from the public and carries on the business of lending money on the security of real estate or investing in mortgages or hypothecary claims on real estate,

Proposed Amendment — 190(1)"financial institution"(c)

(c) is authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to accept deposits from the public and carries on the business of lending money on the security of real property or immovables or investing in indebtedness on the security of mortgages on real property or of hypothecs on immovables,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 263, will amend para. (c) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 190(1) to read as above, to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(d) is a life insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada, or

(e) is a corporation all or substantially all of the assets of which are shares or indebtedness of corporations described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d) or this paragraph to which the corporation is related;

Related Provisions: 253 — Extended meaning of "carrying on business in Canada".

History: Para. (c) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 190(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 222, to add "or hypothecary claims", in force June 14, 2001.

Paras. (d), (e) added to "financial institution" in subsec. 190(1) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 156(1), applicable to taxation years ending after February 20, 1990.

"long-term debt" means

(a) in the case of a bank, its subordinated indebtedness (within the meaning assigned by section 2 of the Bank Act) evidenced by obligations issued for a term of not less than 5 years,

(b) in the case of an insurance corporation, its subordinated indebtedness (within the meaning assigned by section 2 of the Insurance Companies Act) evidenced by obligations issued for a term of not less than 5 years, and

(c) in the case of any other corporation, its subordinated indebtedness (within the meaning that would be assigned by section 2 of the Bank Act if the definition of that expression in that section were applied with such modifications as the circumstances require) evidenced by obligations issued for a term of not less than 5 years;

History: The definition "long-term debt" in subsec. 190(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 86(1), applicable after May 31, 1992. That definition formerly read:

"long-term debt" means

(a) in the case of a bank, its indebtedness evidenced by bank debentures, within the meaning assigned by the Bank Act, and

(b) in the case of a corporation that is not a bank, its subordinate indebtedness evidenced by obligations issued for a term of not less than 5 years.

"reserves", in respect of a financial institution for a taxation year, means the amount at the end of the year of all of the institution's reserves, provisions and allowances (other than allowances in respect of depreciation or depletion) and, for greater certainty, includes any provision in respect of deferred taxes.

History: The definition "reserves" added to subsec. 190(1) by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 86(2), applicable to 1992 et seq.

Selected Cases [subsec. 190(1)]: London Life Insurance Co. v. R., [2000] 3 C.T.C. 2622 (TCC) (Deferred taxes not included in ordinary meaning of "reserve").

(1.1) Prescribed meanings — For the purposes of this Part, the expressions "attributed surplus", "Canadian assets", "Canadian reserve liabilities", "total assets" and "total reserve liabilities" have the meanings that are prescribed.

History: Subsec. 190(1.1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 156(2), applicable to taxation years ending after February 20, 1990. Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Prescribed expressions — For the purposes of this Part, the expressions "Canadian assets" and "total assets" have the meanings as may be prescribed.

Regulations: 8603 (prescribed meanings of expressions).

(2) Application of subsecs. 181(3) and (4) — Subsections 181(3) and (4) apply to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

History: Subsec. 190(2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 86(3), applicable to 1992 et seq. That subsec. formerly read:

(2) Accounting method — For the purposes of reporting, calculating or determining an amount under this Part on a non-consolidated basis, the equity method of accounting shall not be used.

Definitions [s. 190]: "amount" — 248(1); "bank" — 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "business" — 248(1); "Canada" — 255; "carrying on business in Canada" — 253; "corporation" — 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "immovables" — Quebec Civil Code art. 900–907; "hypothecs" — Quebec Civil Code art. 2660; "life insurance corporation", "prescribed" — 248(1); "province" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

Calculation of Capital Tax

190.1 (1) Tax payable — Every corporation that is a financial institution at any time during a taxation year shall pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 1.25% of the amount, if any, by which its taxable capital employed in Canada for the year exceeds its capital deduction for the year.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible; 125.2 — Deduction of Part VI tax; 157(1) — Instalment and payment obligations; 161(1), (4.1) — Interest; 181.1(1) — Large Corporations Tax; 190.1(3)(a) — Tax reduced by Part I surtax paid; 190.15 — Capital deduction; 190.16(1) — Transitional rule for year that includes July 1, 2006; 227(14) — No tax on corporation exempt under s. 149.

Application — s. 190.1: S. 157 of 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49) provides that in its application to taxation years beginning before February 21, 1990 of corporations described in para. (d) or (e) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 190(1), s. 190.1 shall be read as follows:

> 190.1 Every corporation that is a financial institution at any time during a taxation year shall pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to that proportion of 1.25% of the amount, if any, by which its taxable capital employed in Canada for the year exceeds its capital deduction for the year that the number of days in the year that are after February 20, 1990 is of 365.

History: Subsec. 190.1(1.1) repealed by 2007, c. 2, subsec. 40(1), applicable in respect of taxation years that end after June 30, 2006. It formerly read:

> (1.1) Additional tax payable by life insurance corporations — Every life insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada at any time in a taxation year shall pay a tax under this Part for the year, in addition to any tax payable under subsection (1), equal to 1% of the amount determined by the formula
> $$(A - B) \times \frac{C}{365}$$
>
>
> A is its taxable capital employed in Canada for the year;
>
> B is its capital allowance for the year; and
> C is the number of days in the year that are after February 25, 1992 and before 2001.

The description of C in subsec. 190.1(1.1) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 165, applicable to taxation years that end after 1998. The description of C formerly read:

> C is the number of days in the year that are after February 25, 1992 and before 1999.

The description of C in subsec. 190.1(1.1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 53(1), applicable after February 25, 1992. The description of C formerly read:

> C is the number of days in the year that are after February 25, 1992 and before 1996.

Subsec. 190.1(1.1) added by 1994, c. 21, s. 87, applicable to taxation years ending after February 25, 1992 and, where a corporation elects under paragraph 88(2)(b) of the amending legislation [see under 190.11(b)(i) below], to its 1991 and subsequent taxation years, in which case:

> (a) the reference in subsec. 190.1(1.1) to "February 25, 1992" shall be read as a reference to "the day immediately preceding the first day of the corporation's first taxation year that ends after 1990", and
> (b) notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), such assessments and determinations shall be made as are consequential on the application of subsec. 190.1(1.1) to the corporation's taxation years that end before February 26, 1992.

History: Subsec. 190.1(1.2) repealed by 2007, c. 2, subsec. 40(1), applicable in respect of taxation years that end after June 30, 2006. It formerly read:

> (1.2) Additional tax payable by deposit-taking institutions — Every corporation (other than a life insurance corporation) that is a financial institution at any time in a taxation year shall pay a tax under this Part for the year, in addition to any tax payable under subsection (1), equal to the amount determined by the formula
> $$0.0015 \times (A - B) \times \frac{C}{365}$$
>
>
> A is the corporation's taxable capital employed in Canada for the year;
>
> B is its enhanced capital deduction for the year; and
> C is the number of days in the year that are after February 27, 1995 and before November 2000.

The description of C in subsec. 190.1(1.2) amended, retroactive to taxation years that end after February 27, 1995, as follows:

- by 2000, c. 19, s. 53 to substitute "2000" for "1999";
- by 1999, c. 22, s. 68 to substitute "1999" for "1998";
- by 1998, c. 19, s. 48 to substitute "1998" for "1997";
- by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 53(2) to substitute "1997" for "1996".

Subsec. 190.1(1.2) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 49(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 1995. Subsec. 49(4) of the said c. 21 provides that no interest is payable under subsec. 161(2) in respect of any amount that became payable before July 1995 because of subsec. 190.1(1.2).

(2) Short taxation years — Where a taxation year of a corporation is less than 51 weeks, the amount determined under subsection (1) for the year in respect of the corporation shall be reduced to that proportion of that amount that the number of days in the year is of 365.

History: Subsec. 190.1(2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 111, applicable to 1992 et seq. and, where a corporation that was a financial institution (within the meaning assigned by s. 190) throughout each of its taxation years ending in 1991 so elects by notifying the Minister in writing before December 11, 1993, to its taxation years ending in 1991. Subsec. 190.1(2) formerly read:

> (2) Short taxation years — Where a taxation year of a corporation is less than 51 weeks, the tax payable for the year by the corporation under this Part shall be that proportion of its tax otherwise payable under this Part for the year that the number of days in the year is of 365.

(3) Deduction — There may be deducted in computing a corporation's tax payable under this Part for a taxation year an amount equal to the total of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the corporation's tax payable under Part I for the year exceeds the lesser of

(ii) the corporation's Canadian surtax payable (within the meaning assigned by section 125.3) for the year, and

(iii) the amount that would, but for subsection 181.1(4), be its tax payable under Part I.3 for the year, and > to the extent that that amount does not exceed the amount by which

(b) such part as the corporation claims of its unused Part I tax credits and unused surtax credits for its 7 taxation years immediately before and its 3 taxation years immediately after the year.

(c), (d) [Repealed]

History: The portion of subsec. 190.1(3) after para. (b) repealed by 2007, c. 2, subsec. 40(2), applicable in respect of taxation years that end after June 30, 2006. It formerly read:

> (c) the amount that would, but for subsection (1.2) and this subsection, be its tax payable under this Part for the year
>
> (d) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount deducted under subsection 125.2(1) in computing the corporation's tax payable under Part I for a taxation year ending before 1992 in respect of its unused Part VI tax credit (within the meaning assigned by section 125.2) for the year.

Para. 190.1(3)(c) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 49(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 1995. Para. (c) formerly read:

> (c) the amount that would, but for this subsection, be its tax payable under this Part for the year

Subsec. 190.1(3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 111, applicable to 1992 et seq. and, where a corporation that was a financial institution (within the meaning assigned by s. 190) throughout each of its taxation years ending in 1991 so elects by notifying the Minister in writing before December 11, 1993, to its taxation years ending in 1991, except that, in its application to such years,

> (a) paras. (a) and (b) shall be read as follows:
>
> "(a) the corporation's tax payable under Part I for the year, and
>
> (b) such part as the corporation claims of its unused Part I tax credits for its 7 taxation years immediately before and 3 taxation years immediately after the year," and
> (b) the reference in para. (d) to "1992" shall be read as "1991".

Forms: T2 SCH 42: Calculation of unused Part I tax credit; T921: Calculation of unused Part VI tax credit and unused Part I tax credit.

(4) Idem — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (3), (5) and (6),

(a) an amount may not be claimed under subsection (3) in computing a corporation's tax payable under this Part for a particular taxation year

(i) in respect of its unused Part I tax credit for another taxation year, until its unused Part I tax credits for taxation years preceding the other year that may be claimed under this Part for the particular year have been claimed, and

(ii) in respect of its unused surtax credit for another taxation year, until its unused surtax credits for taxation years preceding the other year that may be claimed under Part I.3 or this Part for the particular year have been claimed;

(b) an amount may be claimed under subsection (3) in computing a corporation's tax payable under this Part for a particular taxation year

(i) in respect of its unused Part I tax credit for another taxation year, only to the extent that it exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the amount claimed in respect of that unused Part I tax credit in computing its tax payable under this Part for a taxation year preceding the particular year, and

(ii) in respect of its unused surtax credit for another taxation year, only to the extent that it exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the amount claimed in respect of the unused surtax credit

(A) in computing its tax payable under this Part for a taxation year preceding the particular year, or

(B) in computing its tax payable under Part I.3 for the particular year or a taxation year preceding the particular year; and

(c) an amount may be claimed under paragraph (3)(b) in computing a corporation's tax payable under this Part for a taxation year that ends before July 1, 2006 in respect of its unused Part I tax credit for a taxation year that ends after July 1, 2006 (referred to in this paragraph as the "credit taxation year") only to the extent that the unused Part I tax credit exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would, if this Part were read as it applied to the 2005 taxation year, be the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the credit taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the credit taxation year.

Related Provisions: 87(2.11) — Vertical amalgamations.

Subsec. 190.1(4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 111, applicable to 1992 et seq. and, where a corporation that was a financial institution (within the meaning assigned by s. 190) throughout each of its taxation years ending in 1991 so elects by notifying the Minister in writing before December 11, 1993, to its taxation years ending in 1991, except that, in its application to such years, subsec. (4) shall be read without reference to subparas. (a)(ii) and (b)(ii).

(5) Definitions — For the purposes of subsections (3), (4) and (6),

"unused Part I tax credit" of a corporation for a taxation year ending after 1991 means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the corporation's tax payable under Part I for the year

exceeds the total of

(b) the amount that would, but for subsection (3), be its tax payable under this Part for the year, and

(c) the corporation's Canadian surtax payable (within the meaning assigned by section 125.3) for the year;

"unused surtax credit" of a corporation for a taxation year has the meaning assigned by subsection 181.1(6).

Related Provisions: 181.1(1.2) — Calculation to be based on tax rate of 0.225%; 181.5(1.1), (4.1) — Calculation to be based on capital deduction of $10 million.

History: 1994, c. 21, subsec. 87(3), provides that where

(a) a corporation elected under subsec. 111(2) of 1993, c. 24 (Bill C-92), as described in the History annotation below,

(b) the corporation does not elect under para. 88(2)(b) of 1994, c. 21 [see under subpara. 190.11(b)(i), below], for the purposes of determining the corporation's unused Part I tax credit for the 1991 taxation year, subsec. 190.1(5) shall be read as follows:

(5) For the purpose of computing the amount that may, because of paragraph (3)(b), be deducted by a corporation in computing its tax payable under this Part for a particular taxation year, in respect of its tax payable under Part I for a taxation year ending in 1991, and for the purposes of subsections (4) and (6), the corporation's "unused Part I tax credit" for the 1991 taxation year is the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which its tax payable under Part I for the 1991 taxation year exceeds the amount that would, but for subsection (3), be its tax payable under this Part for that year, and

(b) its tax payable under this Part (determined without reference to subsections (1.1) and (3)) for the particular year.

Subsec. 190.1(5) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 111, applicable to 1992 et seq. and, where a corporation that was a financial institution (within the meaning assigned by s. 190) throughout each of its taxation years ending in 1991 so elects by notifying the Minister in writing before December 11, 1993, to its taxation years ending in 1991, except that, in its application to such years, subsec. (5) shall be read as follows [but see History annotation above]:

(5) For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (3), (4) and (6), "unused Part I tax credit" of a corporation for a taxation year ending after 1990 means the amount, if any, by which its tax payable under Part I for the year exceeds the amount that would, but for subsection (3), be its tax payable under this Part for the year.

(6) Acquisition of control — Where at any time control of a corporation was acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of its unused Part I tax credit or unused surtax credit for a taxation year ending before that time is deductible by the corporation for a taxation year ending after the time and no amount in respect of its unused Part I tax credit or unused surtax credit for a taxation year ending after that time is deductible by the corporation for a taxation year ending before that time, except that

(a) the corporation's unused Part I tax credit and unused surtax credit for a particular taxation year that ended before that time is deductible by the corporation for a taxation year that ends after that time (in this paragraph referred to as the "subsequent year") to the extent of that proportion of the corporation's tax payable under Part I for the particular year that

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is

(I) its income under Part I for the particular year from a business that was carried on by the corporation for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit throughout the subsequent year, or

(II) where properties were sold, leased, rented or developed or services were rendered in the course of carrying on that business before that time, its income under Part I for the particular year from any other business all or substantially all of the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development, as the case may be, of similar properties or the rendering of similar services

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under paragraph 111(1)(a) or (d) in computing its taxable income for the particular year in respect of a non-capital loss or a farm loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year in respect of any business referred to in clause (A)

is of the greater of

(ii) the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and

(iii) the corporation's taxable income for the particular year; and

(b) the corporation's unused Part I tax credit and unused surtax credit for a particular taxation year that ends after that time is deductible by the corporation for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "preceding year") that ended before that time to the extent of that proportion of the corporation's tax payable under Part I for the particular year that

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is

(I) its income under Part I for the particular year from a business that was carried on by the corporation in the preceding year and throughout the particular year for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit, or

(II) where properties were sold, leased, rented or developed or services were rendered in the course of carrying on that business before that time, its income under Part I for the particular year from any other business all or substantially all of the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development, as the case may be, of similar properties or the rendering of similar services

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under paragraph 111(1)(a) or (d) in computing its taxable income for the particular year in respect of a non-capital loss or a farm loss, as the case may be, for a taxation year in respect of any business referred to in clause (A)

is of the greater of

(ii) the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and

(iii) the corporation's taxable income for the particular year.

(D) all amounts each of which is the amount outstanding (including any interest accrued thereon) at the end of the year in respect of a policy loan (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)) made by the corporation, to the extent that it is deducted in computing the total determined under clause (C); and

Proposed Repeal — 190.11(b)(ii)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 63, will repeal subpara. 190.11(b)(ii), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): In the case of a life insurance corporation that was resident throughout the year, a "reserve adjustment" under subparagraph 190.11(b)(ii) is added to taxable capital employed in Canada.

The demutualization of the insurance industry in Canada has resulted in subparagraph 190.11(b)(ii) no longer being necessary. Accordingly it is repealed applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Dept. of Finance news release 2006-091, Dec. 28, 2006: Canada's New Government Releases Proposals to Improve the Taxation of Financial Institutions

[Text of news release reproduced under 142.2(1)"mark-to-market property" — ed.]

Backgrounder. . .

Taxable Capital Employed in Canada Under the Minimum Tax

The minimum tax on financial institutions applies to banks, life insurance corporations, trust companies and mortgage loan companies. As a result of changes proposed in the 2006 budget, the tax will be modified as of July 1, 2006, to a tax of 1.25% on taxable capital employed in Canada in excess of $1 billion. The taxable capital employed in Canada generally follows capital and long-term debt reported on the financial statements of financial institutions.

However, life insurance corporations are required to add a "reserve adjustment" to their taxable capital employed in Canada under section 190.11 in Part VI of the Income Tax Act. This reserve adjustment adds the amount, if any, by which the policy reserves reported on the financial statements exceed the maximum policy reserves reported for tax purposes. This reserve adjustment is no longer required and is being repealed. This change will apply to taxation years of financial institutions that begin after October 1, 2006.

(c) in the case of a life insurance corporation that was non-resident throughout the year, its taxable capital for the year.

Related Provisions: 181.3(1) — Taxable capital employed in Canada for Part I.3 tax; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero [applies to amending legislation by virtue of Interpretation Act subsec. 42(3)].

History: Clause 206 of 1998, c. 19, (as amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 252, and applicable to taxation years that end after 1998) reads as follows:

206. Where an amount in respect of deferred realized gains or losses of a life insurance corporation is added or deducted, as the case may be, in computing its taxable capital employed in Canada or capital under Part VI of the Act for a taxation year that ends after February 25, 1992 and began before 2001, the amount determined by the formula shall be deducted, or, where the amount is negative, the absolute value of the amount shall be added, in computing the corporation's taxable capital employed in Canada under Part VI of the Act for the year, where

A is the corporation's taxable capital employed in Canada for the year under Part VI of the Act (determined without reference to this section);

B is the amount that would be the value of A if no amount were added or deducted in computing the corporation's taxable capital employed in Canada or capital for the year under Part VI of the Act in respect of its deferred realized gains or losses, as the case may be;

C is the number of days in the year that are after February 25, 1992 and before 2001; and

D is the number of days in the year.

Subpara. 190.11(b)(i) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 88, applicable (by subsec. 88(2)):

(a) to taxation years that end after February 25, 1992; and

(b) where a corporation so elects by notifying Revenue Canada in writing before the end of December 1994, to its 1991 and subsequent taxation years; and where such an election is made, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), such assessments and determinations in respect of any taxation year shall be made to the corporation's taxation years ending before February 26, 1992 as are consequential on the election.

That subpara. formerly read:

(i) that proportion of its taxable capital for the year that its Canadian reserve liabilities at the end of the year is of its total reserve liabilities at the end of the year, and

S. 190.11 substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 158, applicable to taxation years ending after February 20, 1990. S. 190.11 formerly read:

190.11 For the purposes of this Part, the taxable capital employed in Canada of a corporation for a taxation year is that proportion of its taxable capital for the year that its Canadian assets for the year are of its total assets for the year.

190.13 Capital — For the purposes of this Part, the capital of a financial institution for a taxation year is,

(a) in the case of a financial institution, other than an authorized foreign bank or a life insurance corporation, the amount, if any, by which the total at the end of the year of

(i) the amount of its long-term debt,

(ii) the amount of its capital stock (or, in the case of an institution incorporated without share capital, the amount of its members' contributions), retained earnings, contributed surplus and any other surpluses, and

(iii) the amount of its reserves, except to the extent that they were deducted in computing its income under Part I for the year, exceeds the total at the end of the year of

(iv) the amount of its deferred tax debit balance, and

(v) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity;

Proposed Amendment — 190.13(a)(v)

(v) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity (including, for this purpose, the amount of any provision for the redemption of preferred shares);

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 167(1), will amend subpara. 190.13(a)(v) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995.

Technical Notes: Section 190.13 contains the rules for determining the capital of a financial institution for the purpose of Part VI of the Act. Section 190.13 is amended to accommodate a change to the accounting presentation of provisions for the redemption of preferred shares.

Generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) are relevant to the determination of amounts referred to in section 190.13. The accounting procedures described in the notes to amended section 181.2 are therefore relevant in the context of Part VI of the Act, and readers may consult those notes for additional background. As in that section, the amendments introduced to section 190.13 include, in the computation of a deficit deducted in computing shareholders' equity, the amount of any provision for the redemption of preferred shares. This inclusion is added to two specific provisions: subparagraph 190.13(a)(v), in respect of financial institutions other than life insurers and authorized foreign banks; and subparagraph 190.13(b)(iv) in respect of Canadian-resident life insurance corporations.

(b) in the case of a life insurance corporation that was resident in Canada at any time in the year, the amount, if any, by which the total at the end of the year of

(i) the amount of its long-term debt, and

(ii) the amount of its capital stock (or, in the case of an insurance corporation incorporated without share capital, the amount of its members' contributions), retained earnings, contributed surplus and any other surpluses

(iii) the amount of its deferred tax debit balance, and

(iv) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity;

Proposed Amendment — 190.13(b)(iv)

(iv) the amount of any deficit deducted in computing its shareholders' equity (including, for this purpose, the amount of any provision for the redemption of preferred shares);

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 167(2), will amend subpara. 190.13(b)(iv) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995.

Technical Notes: See under 190.13(a)(v).

(c) in the case of a life insurance corporation that was non-resident throughout the year, the total at the end of the year of

(i) the amount that is the greater of

(A) the amount, if any, by which

(I) its surplus funds derived from operations (as defined in subsection 138(12)) as of the end of the year, computed as if no tax were payable under Part I.3 or this Part for the year

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(II) an amount on which it was required to pay, or would but for subsection 219(5.2) have been required to pay, tax under Part XIV for a preceding taxation year, except the portion, if any, of the amount on which tax was payable, or would have been payable, because of subparagraph 219(4)(a)(i.1), and

(III) an amount on which it was required to pay, or would but for subsection 219(5.2) have been required to pay, tax under subsection 219(5.1) for the year because of the transfer of an insurance business to which subsection 138(11.5) or (11.92) has applied, and

(B) its attributed surplus for the year,

(ii) any other surpluses relating to its insurance businesses carried on in Canada,

(iii) the amount of its long-term debt that can reasonably be regarded as relating to its insurance businesses carried on in Canada, and

(iv) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount of its reserves for the year (other than its reserves in respect of amounts payable out of segregated funds) that can reasonably be regarded as having been established in respect of its insurance businesses carried on in Canada

(B) all amounts each of which is the amount of a reserve (other than a reserve described in subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i)), to the extent that it is included in the amount determined under clause (A) and is deducted in computing its income under Part I for the year,

(C) all amounts each of which is the amount of a reserve described in subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i), to the extent that it is included in the amount determined under clause (A) and is deductible under subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i) in computing its income under Part I for the year, and

(D) all amounts each of which is the amount outstanding (including any interest accrued thereon) at the end of the year in respect of a policy loan (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)) made by the corporation, to the extent that it is deducted in computing the amount determined under clause (C); and

Proposed Repeal — 190.13(c)(iv)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 64, will repeal subpara. 190.13(c)(iv), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): In the case of a life insurance corporation that was non-resident throughout the year, a "reserve adjustment" under subparagraph 190.13(c)(iv) is added to taxable capital employed in Canada.

The demutualization of the insurance industry in Canada has resulted in subparagraph 190.13(c)(iv) no longer being necessary. Accordingly it is repealed applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Dept. of Finance news release 2006-091, Dec. 28, 2006: See under 190.11(b)(ii).

(d) in the case of an authorized foreign bank, the total of

(i) 10% of the total of all amounts, each of which is the risk-weighted amount at the end of the year of an on-balance sheet asset or an off-balance sheet exposure of the bank in respect of its Canadian banking business that the bank would be required to report under the OSFI risk-weighting guidelines if those guidelines applied and required a report at that time, and

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount at the end of the year in respect of the bank's Canadian banking business that

(A) if the bank were a bank listed in Schedule II to the Bank Act, would be required under the risk-based capital adequacy guidelines issued by the Superintendent of Financial Institutions and applicable at that time to be deducted from the bank's capital in determining the amount of capital available to satisfy the Superintendent's requirement that capital equal a particular proportion of risk-weighted assets and exposures, and

(B) is not an amount in respect of a loss protection facility required to be deducted from capital under the Superintendent's guidelines respecting asset securitization applicable at that time.

190.14 (1) Investment in related institutions — A corporation's investment for a taxation year in a financial institution related to it is

(a) in the case of a corporation that was resident in Canada at any time in the year, the total of all amounts each of which is the carrying value (or in the case of contributed surplus, the amount) at the end of the year of an eligible investment of the corporation in the financial institution;

(b) in the case of a life insurance corporation that was non-resident throughout the year, the total of all amounts each of which is the carrying value (or is, in the case of contributed surplus, the amount) at the end of the year of an eligible investment of the corporation in the financial institution that was used or held by the corporation in the year in the course of carrying on an insurance business in Canada (or that, in the case of contributed surplus, was contributed by the corporation in the course of carrying on that business); and

(c) in the case of a corporation that is an authorized foreign bank, the total of all amounts each of which is the amount at the end of the year, before the application of risk weights, that would be required to be reported under the OSFI risk-weighting guidelines if those guidelines applied and required a report at that time, of an eligible investment of the corporation in the financial institution that was used or held by the corporation in the year in the course of carrying on its Canadian banking business or, in the case of an eligible investment that is contributed surplus of the financial institution at the end of the year, the amount of the surplus contributed by the corporation in the course of carrying on that business.

Related Provisions: 190.14(2) — Meaning of "eligible investment".

(2) Interpretation — For the purpose of subsection (1), an eligible investment of a corporation in a financial institution is a share of the capital stock or long-term debt (and, where the corporation is an insurance corporation, is non-segregated property within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)) of the financial institution or any surplus of the financial institution contributed by the corporation (other than an amount otherwise included as a share or debt) if the financial institution at the end of the year is

(a) related to the corporation; and

(b) resident in Canada or can reasonably be regarded as using the surplus or the proceeds of the share or debt in a business carried on by the financial institution through a permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) in Canada.

190.14 Investment in related institutions — A corporation's investments for a taxation year in a financial institution related to it is,

(a) in the case of a corporation that was resident in Canada at any time in the year, the total of

(i) all amounts each of which is the carrying value at the end of the year of

(A) any share of the capital stock of the financial institution, or

(B) any long-term debt of the financial institution that is owned by the corporation at the end of the year (and, where the corporation is a life insurance corporation, that is non-segregated property within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)), and

(ii) the amount of any surplus of the financial institution contributed by the corporation, other than an amount included under subparagraph (i); and

(b) in the case of a life insurance corporation that was non-resident throughout the year, the total that would, if the corporation were resident in Canada in the year, be determined under paragraph (a) in respect of the corporation for the year in respect of shares and long-term debt of the financial institution that were used by the corporation in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on an insurance business in Canada and in respect of surplus of the financial institution contributed by the corporation.

190.15 (1) Capital deduction — For the purposes of this Part, the capital deduction of a corporation for a taxation year during which it was at any time a financial institution is $1 billion unless the corporation was related to another financial institution at the end of the year, in which case, subject to subsection (4), its capital deduction for the year is nil.

History: Subsec. 190.15(1) amended by 2007, c. 2, s. 41, applicable to taxation years that end after June 30, 2006. It formerly read:

(1) For the purposes of this Part, the capital deduction of a corporation for a taxation year during which it was at any time a financial institution is the total of $200,000,000 and the lesser of

(a) $20,000,000, and

(b) 1/5 of the amount, if any, by which its taxable capital employed in Canada for the year exceeds $200,000,000, unless the corporation was related to another financial institution at the end of the year, in which case, subject to subsection (4), its capital deduction for the year is nil.

Para. 190.15(1)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 160(1), applicable to 1990 et seq. The para. formerly read:

(b) 1/5 of the amount, if any, by which the amount that would be the corporation's taxable capital for the year if its capital deduction for the year were nil exceeds $200,000,000,

(2) Related financial institution — A corporation that is a financial institution at any time during a taxation year and that was related to another financial institution at the end of the year may file with the Minister an agreement in prescribed form on behalf of the related group of which the corporation is a member under which an amount that does not exceed $1 billion is allocated among the members of the related group for the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 190.15(6) — Where corporations deemed not related; 190.16(2) — Transitional rule — proportionate allocation.

History: Subsec. 190.15(2) amended by 2007, c. 2, s. 41, applicable to taxation years that end after June 30, 2006. It formerly read:

(2) A corporation that is a financial institution at any time during a taxation year and that was related to another financial institution at the end of the year may file with the Minister an agreement in prescribed form on behalf of the related group of which the corporation is a member under which an amount that does not exceed the total of $200,000,000 and the lesser of

(a) $20,000,000, and

(b) 1/5 of the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a financial institution for the year that is a member of the related group, exceeds $200,000,000 is allocated among the members of the related group for the taxation year.

Para. 190.15(2)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 160(2), applicable to 1990 et seq. The para. formerly read:

(b) 1/5 of the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts, each of which is the amount that would be the taxable capital of a financial institution that is a member of the related group if its capital deduction for the year were nil, exceeds $200,000,000

Forms: T2 SCH 39: Agreement among related financial institutions Part VI tax.

(3) Allocation by Minister — The Minister may request a corporation that is a financial institution at any time during a taxation year and that was related to any other financial institution at the end of the year to file with the Minister an agreement referred to in subsection (2) and, if the corporation does not file such an agreement within 30 days after receiving the request, the Minister may allocate an amount among the members of the related group of which the corporation is a member for the year not exceeding $1 billion.

Related Provisions: 190.16(2) — Transitional rule — proportionate allocation.

History: Subsec. 190.15(3) amended by 2007, c. 2, s. 41, applicable to taxation years that end after June 30, 2006. It formerly read:

(3) Idem — The Minister may request a corporation that is a financial institution at any time during a taxation year and that was related to any other financial institution at the end of the year to file with the Minister an agreement referred to in subsection (2) and, if the corporation does not file such an agreement within 30 days after receiving the request, the Minister may allocate an amount among the members of the related group of which the corporation is a member for the year not exceeding the total of $200,000,000 and the lesser of

(a) $20,000,000, and

(b) 1/5 of the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a financial institution for the year that is a member of the related group, exceeds $200,000,000.

Para. 190.15(3)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 160(3), applicable to 1990 et seq. The para. formerly read:

(b) 1/5 of the amount if any, by which the total of all amounts, each of which is the amount that would be the taxable capital of a financial institution that is a member of the related group if its capital deduction for the year were nil, exceeds $200,000,000.

(4) Idem — For the purposes of this Part, the least amount allocated for a taxation year to each member of a related group under an agreement described in subsection (2) or by the Minister pursuant to subsection (3) is the capital deduction for the taxation year of that member, but, if no such allocation is made, the capital deduction of each member of the related group for that year is nil.

(5) Idem — Where a corporation (in this subsection referred to as the "first corporation") has more than one taxation year ending in the same calendar year and is related in 2 or more of those taxation years to another corporation that has a taxation year ending in that calendar year, the capital deduction of the first corporation for each such taxation year at the end of which it is related to the other corporation is, for the purposes of this Part, an amount equal to its capital deduction for the first such taxation year.

Related Provisions: 190.16(3) — Transitional rule — deemed capital deduction.

(6) Idem — Two corporations that would, but for this subsection, be related to each other solely because of

(a) the control of any corporation by Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province, or

(b) a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b), are, for the purposes of this section and section 190.14, deemed not to be related to each other except that, where at any time a taxpayer has a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) with respect to shares and it can reasonably be considered that one of the main purposes for the acquisition of the right was to avoid any limitation on the amount of a corporation's capital deduction for a taxation year, for the purpose of determining whether a corporation is related to any other corporation, the corporations are, for the purpose of this section, deemed to be in the same position in relation to each other as if the right were immediate and absolute and as if the taxpayer had exercised the right at that time.

Related Provisions: 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "control".

History: The closing words of subsec. 190.15(6) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 204, applicable after April 26, 1995. The closing words formerly read:

shall, for the purposes of this section and section 190.14, be deemed not to be related to each other except that, where at any time a taxpayer has a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) with respect to shares and it can reasonably be considered that one of the main purposes of the acquisition of the right was to avoid any limitation on the amount of a corporation's capital deduction for a taxation year, for the purpose of determining whether a corporation is related to any other corporation, the corporations shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be in the same position in relation to each other as if the taxpayer owned the shares.

190.16 Transitional provisions — (1) Application to taxation year including July 1, 2006 — If a taxation year of a corporation begins before and ends on or after July 1, 2006, notwithstanding any other provision of this Part, the tax payable under this Part by the corporation for the taxation year is equal to the total of

(a) that proportion of the amount that would be the tax payable by the corporation under this Part for the taxation year, if this Part were read as it applied to the 2005 taxation year, that the number of days in the taxation year that are before that day is of the number of days in the taxation year, and

(b) that proportion of the amount that would, if this Part were read without reference to this section, be the tax payable by the corporation under this Part for the taxation year that the number of days in the taxation year that are on or after that day is of the number of days in the taxation year.

(2) Proportionate allocation — Any allocation made for the purpose of paragraph (1)(a) under subsection 190.15(2) or (3) shall be in the same proportion as the allocation, if any, made for the purpose of paragraph (1)(b) under subsection 190.15(2) or (3).

(3) Capital deduction deemed — For the purpose of applying subsection 190.15(5) to a corporation for a taxation year that is described in that subsection in circumstances where the "first such taxation year" referred to in that subsection is a taxation year to which subsection (1) applies, the capital deduction of the corporation for that "first such taxation year" is deemed to be the total of

(a) that proportion of the capital deduction amount allocated to the corporation for the purposes of paragraph (1)(a) that the number of days in the taxation year that are before July 1, 2006 is of the number of days in the taxation year, and

(b) that proportion of the capital deduction amount allocated to the corporation for the purposes of paragraph (1)(b) that the number of days in the taxation year that are after June 30, 2006 is of the number of days in the taxation year.

History [s. 190.16]: S. 190.16 replaced by 2007, c. 2, s. 42, applicable to taxation years that end after June 30, 2006. It formerly read:

190.16 (1) Capital allowance [of life insurer] — For the purposes of this Part, the capital allowance for a taxation year of a life insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada at any time in the year is the total of

(a) $10,000,000,

(b) ½ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $50,000,000, and

(ii) its taxable capital employed in Canada for the year

exceeds $10,000,000,

(c) ¼ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $100,000,000, and

(ii) its taxable capital employed in Canada for the year

exceeds $50,000,000,

(d) ½ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $300,000,000, and

(ii) its taxable capital employed in Canada for the year

exceeds $200,000,000, and

(e) ¾ of the amount, if any, by which its taxable capital employed in Canada for the year exceeds $300,000,000, unless the corporation is related at the end of the year to another life insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada, in which case, subject to subsection (4), its capital allowance for the year is nil.

(2) Related life insurance corporation — A life insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada at any time in a taxation year and that is related at the end of the year to another life insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada may file with the Minister an agreement, in prescribed form on behalf of the related group of life insurance corporations of which the corporation is a member, under which an amount that does not exceed the total of

(a) $10,000,000,

(b) ½ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $50,000,000, and

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a life insurance corporation for the year that is a member of the related group,

exceeds $10,000,000,

(c) ¼ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $100,000,000, and

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a life insurance corporation for the year that is a member of the related group,

exceeds $50,000,000,

(d) ½ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $300,000,000, and

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a life insurance corporation for the year that is a member of the related group,

exceeds $200,000,000, and

(e) ¾ of the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a life insurance corporation for the year that is a member of the related group, exceeds $300,000,000 is allocated among the members of that related group for the year.

(3) Idem — The Minister may request a life insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada at any time in a taxation year and that, at the end of the year, is related to any other life insurance corporation that carries on business in Canada to file with the Minister an agreement referred to in subsection (2) and, if the corporation does not file such an agreement within 30 days after receiving the request, the Minister may allocate among the members of the related group of life insurance corporations of which the corporation is a member for the year an amount not exceeding the total of

(a) $10,000,000,

(b) ½ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $50,000,000, and

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a life insurance corporation for the year that is a member of the related group,

exceeds $10,000,000,

(c) ¼ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $100,000,000, and

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a life insurance corporation for the year that is a member of the related group,

exceeds $50,000,000,

(d) ½ of the amount, if any, by which the lesser of

(i) $300,000,000, and

(ii) the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a life insurance corporation for the year that is a member of the related group,

exceeds $200,000,000, and

(e) ¾ of the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts, each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada of a life insurance corporation for the year that is a member of the related group, exceeds $300,000,000.

(4) Idem — For the purposes of this Part, the least amount allocated for a taxation year to a member of a related group under an agreement described in subsection (2) or by the Minister under subsection (3) is the capital allowance for that year of the member.

(5) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 190.15(5) and (6) apply to this section with such modifications as the circumstances require.

S. 190.16 added by 1994, c. 21, s. 91, applicable

(a) to taxation years ending after February 25, 1992; and

(b) where a corporation elects under para. 88(2)(b) of 1994, c. 21 [see under subpara. 190.11(b)(i) above], to its 1991 and subsequent taxation years; and, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), such assessments and determinations shall be made as are consequential on the application of s. 190.16 to the corporation's taxation years ending before February 26, 1992.

History [s. 190.17]: S. 190.17 repealed by 2007, c. 2, s. 42, applicable to taxation years that end after June 30, 2006. It formerly read:

190.17 (1) Enhanced capital deduction — For the purpose of subsection 190.1(1.2), the enhanced capital deduction of a corporation for a taxation year is $400,000,000, unless the corporation was related to a financial institution (other than a life insurance corporation) at the end of the year, in which case, subject to subsection (4), the corporation's enhanced capital deduction for the year is nil.

(2) Related financial institution — A corporation that is a financial institution at any time in a taxation year and that is related to another financial institution (other than a life insurance corporation) at the end of the year may file with the Minister an agreement in prescribed form on behalf of the related group of which the corporation is a member under which an amount that does not exceed $400,000,000 is allocated among the members of the group for the year.

(3) Minister's powers — The Minister may request a corporation that is a financial institution at any time in a taxation year and that is related to any other financial institution (other than a life insurance corporation) at the end of the year to file with the Minister an agreement referred to in subsection (2) and, if the corporation does not file such an agreement within 30 days after receiving the request, the Minister may allocate an amount that does not exceed $400,000,000 among the members of the related group of which the corporation is a member for the year.

(4) Least amount allocated — The least amount allocated for a taxation year to a member of a related group under an agreement described in subsection (2) or by the Minister under subsection (3) is the enhanced capital deduction for the taxation year of the member, but, if no such allocation is made, the enhanced capital deduction of the member for the year is nil.

(5) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 190.15(5) and (6) apply to this section with such modifications as the circumstances require.

S. 190.17 added by 1996, c. 21, s. 50, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 1995.

190.18 [Substituted inter alia by ss. 190.1–190.15]

190.19 [Repealed under former Act]

Administrative Provisions

190.2 Return — A corporation that is or would, but for subsection 190.1(3), be liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall file with the Minister, not later than the day on or before which the corporation is required by section 150 to file its return of income for the year under Part I, a return of capital for the year in prescribed form containing an estimate of the tax payable under this Part by it for the year.

Related Provisions: 150.1(5) — Electronic filing; 235 — Penalty for late filing of return even where no balance owing.

> (III) the amount estimated by it to be its tax payable under this Part for the year
>
> exceeds
>
> (IV) the amount payable by the corporation on or before July 31, 1990, as would be determined under this clause if this clause were read without reference to that part thereof following subclause (II) thereof divided by the number of months ending in the year and after June 1990, or

(B) on or before July 31, 1990, an amount equal to that proportion of its first instalment base for the year that

(I) the number of days in the year that are after February 20, 1990 and before July 1990

is of

(II) the number of days in the year, and on or before the last day of each month ending in the year and after June 1990, an amount equal to its first instalment base for the year divided by the number of months in the year, and

(ii) on or before the end of the second month following the end of the year, the remainder of its tax payable under this Part for the year.

Subsec. 161(2) of 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49) provides that for the purposes of s. 190.22, the tax payable under Part VI by a corporation described in para. (d) or (e) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 190(1) shall be deemed to be

(a) for a taxation year ending before February 21, 1990, the amount that would be its tax payable under that Part for the year if that Part applied in respect of that year and its capital deduction under that Part for that year were its capital deduction under that Part for its first taxation year ending after February 20, 1990; and

(b) for its first taxation year ending after February 20, 1990, the product obtained when its tax payable under that Part for the year is multiplied by the ratio that the number of days in the year is of the number of days in the year after February 20, 1990.

Para. 161(1)(b) of 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49) provides that in its application to taxation years commencing before July 1990 of corporations described in para. (d) or (e) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 190(1), subsec. 190.23(3) shall be read as follows:

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2), where a corporation is required to pay an instalment of tax for a taxation year computed by reference to a method described in section 190.21, the corporation shall be deemed to have been liable to pay an instalment computed by reference to

(a) its tax payable under this Part for the year, or

(b) its first instalment base for the year,

whichever method gives rise to the least amount required to be paid by the corporation on or before the days referred to in clauses 190.21(b)(i)(A) and (B).

190.211 Provisions applicable — Crown corporations — Section 27 applies to this Part with any modifications that the circumstances require.

History: S. 190.211 added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 205(1), applicable after May 23, 1985.

PART VI.1 — TAX ON CORPORATIONS PAYING DIVIDENDS ON TAXABLE PREFERRED SHARES

191. (1) Definitions — In this Part,

"excluded dividend" means a dividend

(a) paid by a corporation to a shareholder that had a substantial interest in the corporation at the time the dividend was paid,

(b) paid by a corporation that was a financial intermediary corporation or a private holding corporation at the time the dividend was paid,

(c) paid by a particular corporation that would, but for paragraphs (h) and (i) of the definition "financial intermediary corporation" in this subsection, have been a financial intermediary corporation at the time the dividend was paid, except where the dividend was paid to a controlling corporation in respect of the particular corporation or to a specified person (within the meaning assigned by paragraph (h) of the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1)) in relation to such a controlling corporation,

(d) paid by a mortgage investment corporation, or

(e) that is a capital gains dividend within the meaning assigned by subsection 131(1);

Related Provisions: 191(4)(d) — Deemed excluded dividend; 191(6) — Where corporation pays dividend to partnership.

"financial intermediary corporation" means a corporation that is

(a) a corporation described in subparagraph (b)(ii) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in subsection 146(1),

(b) an investment corporation,

(c) a mortgage investment corporation,

(d) a mutual fund corporation,

(e) a prescribed venture capital corporation, or

(f) a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation,

but does not include

(g) a prescribed corporation,

(h) a corporation that is controlled by or for the benefit of one or more corporations (each of which is referred to in this subsection as a "controlling corporation") other than financial intermediary corporations or private holding corporations unless the controlling corporations and specified persons (within the meaning assigned by paragraph (h) of the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1)) in relation to the controlling corporations do not own in the aggregate shares of the capital stock of the corporation having a fair market value of more than 10% of the fair market value of all of the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the corporation (those fair market values being determined without regard to any voting rights attaching to those shares), or

(i) any particular corporation in which another corporation (other than a financial intermediary corporation or a private holding corporation) has a substantial interest unless the other corporation and specified persons (within the meaning assigned by paragraph (h) of the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1)) in relation to the other corporation do not own in the aggregate shares of the capital stock of the particular corporation having a fair market value of more than 10% of the fair market value of all of the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the particular corporation (those fair market values being determined without regard to any voting rights attaching to those shares);

Related Provisions: 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

Regulations: 6700 (prescribed venture capital corporation); 6701 (prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation).

"private holding corporation" means a private corporation the only undertaking of which is the investing of its funds, but does not include

(a) a specified financial institution,

(b) any particular corporation that owns shares of another corporation in which it has a substantial interest, except where the other corporation would, but for that substantial interest, be a financial intermediary corporation or a private holding corporation, or

(c) any particular corporation in which another corporation owns shares and has a substantial interest, except where the other corporation would, but for that substantial interest, be a private holding corporation.

History: Para. (b) of "private holding corporation" in subsec. 191(1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 162, applicable to 1988 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) any particular corporation that owns shares of another corporation in which it has a substantial interest except where the other corporation is a financial intermediary corporation or a corporation that would, but for such substantial interest, be a private holding corporation, or

Related Provisions: 253.1 — Limited partner not considered to carry on business of partnership.

(2) Substantial interest — For the purposes of this Part, a shareholder has a substantial interest in a corporation at any time if the corporation is a taxable Canadian corporation and

(a) the shareholder is related (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to the corporation at that time; or

(b) the shareholder owned, at that time,

(i) shares of the capital stock of the corporation that would give the shareholder 25% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation,

(ii) shares of the capital stock of the corporation having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all the issued shares of the capital stock of the corporation,

and either

(iii) shares (other than shares that would be taxable preferred shares if the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1) were read without reference to subparagraph (b)(iv) thereof and if they were issued after June 18, 1987 and were not grandfathered shares) of the capital stock of the corporation having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all those shares of the capital stock of the corporation, or

(iv) in respect of each class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation, shares of that class having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all the issued shares of that class, and for the purposes of this paragraph, a shareholder shall be deemed to own at any time each share of the capital stock of a corporation that is owned, otherwise than by reason of this paragraph, at that time by a person to whom the shareholder is related (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)).

Related Provisions: 191(3) — Substantial interest.

(3) Idem — Notwithstanding subsection (2),

(a) where it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for a person acquiring an interest that would, but for this subsection, be a substantial interest in a corporation is to avoid or limit the application of Part I or IV.1 or this Part, the person shall be deemed not to have a substantial interest in the corporation;

(b) where it can reasonably be considered that the principal purpose for an acquisition of a share of the capital stock of a corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "issuer") by any person (in this paragraph referred to as the "acquirer") who had, immediately after the time of the acquisition, a substantial interest in the issuer from another person who did not, immediately before that time, have a substantial interest in the issuer, was to avoid or limit the application of Part I or IV.1 or this Part with respect to a dividend on the share, the acquirer and specified persons (within the meaning assigned by paragraph (h) of the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1)) in relation to the acquirer shall be deemed not to have a substantial interest in the issuer with respect to any dividend paid on the share;

(c) a corporation described in paragraphs (a) to (f) of the definition "financial intermediary corporation" in subsection (1) shall be deemed not to have a substantial interest in another corporation unless it is related (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to the other corporation;

(d) any partnership or trust, other than

(i) a partnership all the members of which are related to each other otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b),

(ii) a trust in which each person who is beneficially interested is

(A) related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to each other person who is beneficially interested in the trust and who is not a registered charity, or

(B) a registered charity and, for the purpose of this subparagraph, where a particular person who is beneficially interested in the trust is an aunt, uncle, niece or nephew of another person, the particular person and any person who is a child or descendant of the particular person shall be deemed to be related to the other person and to any person who is the child or descendant of the other person, or

(iii) a trust in which only one person (other than a registered charity) is beneficially interested, shall be deemed not to have a substantial interest in a corporation; and

(e) where at any time a shareholder holds a share of the capital stock of a corporation to which paragraph (g) of the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1) or paragraph (e) of the definition "taxable RFI share" in that subsection applies to deem the share to be a taxable preferred share or a taxable RFI share, the shareholder shall be deemed not to have a substantial interest in the corporation at that time.

Related Provisions: 248(25) — Beneficially interested.

History: Paras. 191(3)(a) and (b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 115(1), applicable to dividends paid or received after December 20, 1991. Paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

(a) where it may reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances, that the principal purpose for a person acquiring an interest that would, but for this subsection, be a substantial interest in a corporation is to avoid or limit the application of this Part or Part IV.1 the person shall be deemed not to have a substantial interest in the corporation;

(b) where it may reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances, that the principal purpose for an acquisition of a share of the capital stock of a corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "issuer") by any person (in this paragraph referred to as the "acquirer") that had, immediately after the time of the acquisition, a substantial interest in the issuer from another person that did not, immediately before that time, have a substantial interest in the issuer, was to avoid or limit the application of this Part or Part IV.1 with respect to a dividend on the share, the acquirer and specified persons (within the meaning assigned by paragraph (h) of the definition "taxable preferred share" in subsection 248(1)) in relation to the acquirer shall be deemed not to have a substantial interest in the issuer with respect to any dividend paid on the share;

Subparas. 191(3)(d)(ii) and (iii) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 115(2), applicable after 1990. Subparas. (d)(ii) and (iii) formerly read:

(ii) a trust in which all persons who are beneficially interested, within the meaning assigned by subsection 94(7), are related to each other (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) and, for the purposes of this subparagraph, where a particular person who is so beneficially interested in the trust is an aunt, uncle, niece or nephew of another person, the particular person and any person who is a child or descendant of the particular person shall be deemed to be related to the other person and any person who is a child or descendant of the other person, or

(iii) a trust in which only one person is beneficially interested, within the meaning assigned by subsection 94(7),

(4) Deemed dividends — Where at any particular time

(a) a share of the capital stock of a corporation is issued,

(b) the terms or conditions of a share of the capital stock of a corporation are changed, or

(c) an agreement in respect of a share of the capital stock of a corporation is changed or entered into,

and the terms or conditions of the share or the agreement in respect of the share specify an amount in respect of the share, including an amount for which the share is to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled (together with, where so provided, any accrued and unpaid dividends thereon) and where paragraph (a) applies, the specified amount does not exceed the fair market value of the consideration for which the share was issued, and where paragraph (b) or (c) applies, the specified amount does not exceed the fair market value of the share immediately before the particular time, the amount of any dividend deemed to have been paid on a redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share to which subsection 84(2) or (3) applies shall

(d) for the purposes of this Part and section 187.2, be deemed to be an excluded dividend and an excepted dividend, respectively, unless

(i) where paragraph (a) applies, the share was issued for consideration that included a taxable preferred share, or

(ii) where paragraph (b) or (c) applies, the share was, immediately before the particular time, a taxable preferred share, and

(e) be deemed not to be a dividend to which subsection 112(2.1) or 138(6) applies to deny a deduction with respect to the dividend in computing the taxable income of a corporation under subsection 112(1) or (2) or 138(6), unless

(i) where paragraph (a) applies, the share was issued for consideration that included a term preferred share or for the purpose of raising capital or as part of a series of transactions or events the purpose of which was to raise capital, and

(ii) where paragraph (b) or (c) applies, the share was, immediately before the particular time, a term preferred share, or the terms or conditions of the share were changed, or the agreement in respect of the share was changed or entered into for the purpose of raising capital or as part of a series of transactions or events the purpose of which was to raise capital.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(rr) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 87(4.2)(f) — Amalgamations — where amount specified for purposes of 191(4); 248(10) — Series of transactions.

(5) Where subsec. (4) does not apply — Subsection (4) does not apply to the extent that the total of

(a) the amount paid on the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share, and

(b) all amounts each of which is an amount (other than an amount deemed by subsection 84(4) to be a dividend) paid, after the particular time and before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the share, on a reduction of the paid-up capital of the corporation in respect of the share exceeds the specified amount referred to in subsection (4).

Proposed Addition — 191(6)

(6) Excluded dividend — partner — If at any time a corporation pays a dividend to a partnership, the corporation is, for the purposes of this subsection and paragraph (a) of the definition "excluded dividend" in subsection (1), deemed to have paid at that time to each member of the partnership a dividend equal to the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of the dividend paid to the partnership; and

B is the member's specified proportion for the last fiscal period of the partnership that ended before that time (or, if the partnership's first fiscal period includes that time, for that first fiscal period).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 168, will add subsec. 191(6), applicable to dividends paid after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Section 191 sets out a number of rules relating to the taxes imposed, under Part VI.1 of the Act, on taxable Canadian corporations that pay dividends of certain kinds. Those taxes are not payable in respect of "excluded dividends," a term defined in subsection 191(1). Dividends paid by a corporation to a shareholder that holds a "substantial interest" in the corporation are excluded dividends.

"Substantial interest" is itself defined in subsection 191(2). In general, a shareholder has a substantial interest in a corporation if the shareholder is related to the corporation (otherwise than because of a right under paragraph 251(5)(b)) or if the shareholder's holdings meet certain thresholds in terms of votes and value.

If a shareholder has a substantial interest in a corporation, and is also a member of a partnership that holds shares of the corporation, it is appropriate that a dividend paid by the corporation to the partnership be an excluded dividend, to the extent of the shareholder's interest in the dividend. To ensure this result, new subsection 191(6) is added to the rules that govern the Part VI taxes. The new subsection provides that a dividend paid to a partnership is, for the purposes of the "excluded dividend" definition, considered to have been paid ratably to each member of the partnership.

Three technical aspects of the new rule bear special mention. First, the apportionment of the dividend among the partners is based upon each partner's share of the partnership's income for its last fiscal period that ended before the corporation paid the dividend. (If the dividend was paid during the partnership's first fiscal period, the apportionment looks to that period.)

Second, to ensure appropriate effects where there is more than one tier of partnerships between the dividend-paying corporation and the person that holds a substantial interest in the corporation, the new provision applies to itself. That is, if a member of a partnership is itself a partnership, the rule will treat the dividend-paying corporation as having paid a proportionate amount as a dividend not only to the second partnership, but also to that second partnership's members.

Third, in apportioning a dividend among members of a partnership, new subsection 191(6) uses the new definition of "specified proportion," which is added to subsection 248(1). For further information, see the commentary to that amendment.

191.1 (1) Tax on taxable dividends — Every taxable Canadian corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of

(i) 66⅔% of the amount, if any, by which the total of all taxable dividends (other than excluded dividends) paid by the corporation in the year and after 1987 on short-term preferred shares exceeds the corporation's dividend allowance for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 191.1(1)(a)(i)

(i) 50% of the amount, if any, by which the total of all taxable dividends (other than excluded dividends) paid by the corporation in the year on short-term preferred shares exceeds the corporation's dividend allowance for the year,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 169, will amend subpara. 191.1(1)(a)(i) to read as above, applicable to dividends paid by a corporation in 2003 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 191.1(1) provides for a tax to be paid by a corporation that has paid taxable dividends on taxable preferred shares. In the case of short-term preferred shares, paragraph 191.1(1)(a) sets the rate of the tax at 66 ⅔% of the dividend. This rate produces an amount of tax equal to the amount of income tax that would have been collected had a corporate shareholder sought the same after-tax return in the form of interest. That result obtains, at the current 66 ⅔ percent rate, if interest income is assumed to be taxed at 40%.

As part of a series of amendments reflecting recent and planned reductions in income tax rates, the rate of tax under paragraph 191.1(1)(a) is reduced to 50% of the dividend amount. This provides the desired result on the basis of an assumed tax of 33.3% on interest income, as shown below.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Aug. 2, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing further to your letter of July 31, 2002, regarding the rates of tax imposed under Part VI.1 of the Income Tax Act and the treatment, under Part I of the Act, of amounts paid under Part VI.1. Specifically, you have asked for written confirmation of this Division's intention to recommend certain changes in both of these areas. You have emphasized that this matter is of pressing concern for your client, and we have accordingly given your enquiry some priority.

This will confirm that we do intend to propose such changes, as part of a series of technical measures designed to reflect recent and planned reductions in corporate income tax rates. Our recommendation in respect of Part VI.1 will be that the rate of tax imposed by subparagraph 191.1(1)(a)(i) be reduced from 66⅔% to 50%. Complementing this, we will recommend that the factor to be applied in computing the deduction for Part I purposes [110(1)(k) — ed.] in respect of Part VI.1 taxes be adjusted from ¾ to 3. Both of these measures would apply for the 2003 and subsequent taxation years.

As you know, I cannot offer any assurance that either the Minister of Finance or Parliament will endorse these proposals. Nonetheless, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(ii) 40% of the amount, if any, by which the total of all taxable dividends (other than excluded dividends) paid by the corporation in the year and after 1987 on taxable preferred shares (other than short-term preferred shares) of all classes in respect of which an election under subsection 191.2(1) has been made exceeds the amount, if any, by which the corporation's dividend allowance for the year exceeds the total of the dividends referred to in subparagraph (i),

(iii) 25% of the amount, if any, by which the total of all taxable dividends (other than excluded dividends) paid by the corporation in the year and after 1987 on taxable preferred shares (other than short-term preferred shares) of all classes in respect of which an election under subsection 191.2(1) has not been made exceeds the amount, if any, by which the corporation's dividend allowance for the year exceeds the total of the dividends referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii), and

(iv) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined for the year in respect of the corporation under paragraph 191.3(1)(d)

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined for the year in respect of the corporation under paragraph 191.3(1)(c).

(2) Dividend allowance — For the purposes of this section, a taxable Canadian corporation's "dividend allowance" for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which

(a) $500,000

exceeds

(b) the amount, if any, by which the total of taxable dividends (other than excluded dividends) paid by it on taxable preferred shares, or shares that would be taxable preferred shares if they were issued after June 18, 1987 and were not grandfathered shares, in the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which the taxation year ended exceeds $1,000,000, unless the corporation is associated in the taxation year with one or more other taxable Canadian corporations, in which case, except as otherwise provided in this section, its dividend allowance for the year is nil.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(rr) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-88R2: Stock dividends.

(3) Associated corporations — If all of the taxable Canadian corporations that are associated with each other in a taxation year and that have paid taxable dividends (other than excluded dividends) on taxable preferred shares in the year have filed with the Minister in prescribed form an agreement whereby, for the purposes of this section, they allocate an amount to one or more of them for the taxation year, and the amount so allocated or the total of the amounts so allocated, as the case may be, is equal to the total dividend allowance for the year of those corporations and all other taxable Canadian corporations with which each such corporation is associated in the year, the dividend allowance for the year for each of the corporations is the amount so allocated to it.

Forms: T761: Calculation of Parts IV.1 and VI.1 taxes payable (Box 1).

(4) Total dividend allowance — For the purposes of this section, the "total dividend allowance" of a group of taxable Canadian corporations that are associated with each other in a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which

(a) $500,000

exceeds

(b) the amount, if any, by which the total of taxable dividends (other than excluded dividends) paid by those corporations on taxable preferred shares, or shares that would be taxable preferred shares if they were issued after June 18, 1987 and were not grandfathered shares, in the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which the taxation year ended exceeds $1,000,000.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(rr) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-88R2: Stock dividends.

(5) Failure to file agreement — If any of the taxable Canadian corporations that are associated with each other in a taxation year and that have paid taxable dividends (other than excluded dividends) on taxable preferred shares in the year has failed to file with the Minister an agreement as contemplated by subsection (3) within 30 days after notice in writing by the Minister has been forwarded to any of them that such an agreement is required for the purpose of any assessment of tax under this Part, the Minister shall, for the purpose of this section, allocate an amount to one or more of them for the taxation year, which amount or the total of which amounts, as the case may be, shall equal the total dividend allowance for the year for those corporations and all other taxable Canadian corporations with which each such corporation is associated in the year, and the dividend allowance for the year of each of the corporations is the amount so allocated to it.

(6) Dividend allowance in short years — Notwithstanding any other provision of this section,

(a) where a corporation has a taxation year that is less than 51 weeks, its dividend allowance for the year is that proportion of its dividend allowance for the year determined without reference to this paragraph that the number of days in the year is of 365; and

(b) where a taxable Canadian corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "first corporation") has more than one taxation year ending in a calendar year and is associated in two or more of those taxation years with another taxable Canadian corporation that has a taxation year ending in that calendar year, the dividend allowance of the first corporation for each taxation year in which it is associated with the other corporation ending in that calendar year is, subject to the application of paragraph (a), an amount equal to the amount that would be its dividend allowance for the first such taxation year if the allowance were determined without reference to paragraph (a).

191.2 (1) Election — For the purposes of determining the tax payable by reason of subparagraphs 191.1(1)(a)(ii) and (iii), a taxable Canadian corporation (other than a financial intermediary corporation or a private holding corporation) may make an election with respect to a class of its taxable preferred shares the terms and conditions of which require an election to be made under this subsection by filing a prescribed form with the Minister

(a) not later than the day on or before which its return of income under Part I is required by section 150 to be filed for the taxation year in which shares of that class are first issued or first become taxable preferred shares; or

(b) within the 6 month period commencing on any of the following days, namely,

(i) the day of mailing of any notice of assessment of tax payable under this Part or Part I by the corporation for that year,

(ii) where the corporation has served a notice of objection to an assessment described in subparagraph (i), the day of mailing of a notice that the Minister has confirmed or varied the assessment,

(iii) where the corporation has instituted an appeal in respect of an assessment described in subparagraph (i) to the Tax Court of Canada, the day of mailing of a copy of the decision of the Court to the taxpayer, and

(iv) where the corporation has instituted an appeal in respect of an assessment described in subparagraph (i) to the Federal Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court of Canada, the day on which the judgment of the Court is pronounced or delivered or the day on which the corporation discontinues the appeal.

Related Provisions: 87(4.2)(e) — Amalgamation; 187.2 — Tax on dividends on taxable preferred shares.

191.3 (1) Agreement respecting liability for tax — Where a corporation (in this section referred to as the "transferor corporation") and a taxable Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "transferee corporation") that was related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b) or because of the control of any corporation by Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province) to the transferor corporation

(a) throughout a particular taxation year of the transferor corporation (or, where the transferee corporation came into existence in that year, throughout the part of that year in which the transferee corporation was in existence), and

(b) throughout the last taxation year of the transferee corporation ending at or before the end of the particular taxation year (or, where the transferor corporation came into existence in that last taxation year of the transferee corporation, throughout that part of that last year in which the transferor corporation was in existence)

file as provided in subsection (2) an agreement or amended agreement with the Minister under which the transferee corporation agrees to pay all or any portion, as is specified in the agreement, of the tax for that taxation year of the transferor corporation that would, but for the agreement, be payable under this Part by the transferor corporation (other than any tax payable by the transferor corporation by reason of another agreement made under this section), the following rules apply, namely,

(c) the amount of tax specified in the agreement is an amount determined for that taxation year of the transferor corporation in respect of the transferor corporation for the purpose of paragraph 191.1(1)(b),

(d) the amount of tax specified in the agreement is an amount determined in respect of the transferee corporation for its last taxation year ending at or before the end of that taxation year of the transferor corporation for the purpose of subparagraph 191.1(1)(a)(iv), and

(e) the transferor corporation and the transferee corporation are jointly and severally liable to pay the amount of tax specified in the agreement and any interest or penalty in respect thereof.

Proposed Amendment — 191.3(1)(e)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 264(1), will amend para. 191.3(1)(e) by substituting "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Related Provisions: 87(2)(ss) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 110(1)(k) — Part VI.1 tax; 191.3(1.1) — Consideration for entering into agreement deemed to be nil; 191.3(6) — Payment by transferor corporation; 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "control".

History: The opening words of subsec. 191.3(1) and paras. (a) and (b) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 207, applicable to taxation years of a transferor corporation that begin after 1994, except that the amendment to the opening words applies only to taxation years of the transferor corporation that end after April 26, 1995.

Subsec. 207(3) of the said c. 19 provides that where an agreement under subsec. 191.3(2) can be made between a transferor corporation and a transferee corporation solely because of the amendment to para. 191.3(1)(a) or (b), the agreement is deemed to have been filed on time if it is filed with the Minister of National Revenue before October 1998.

The opening words of subsec. 191.3(1) and paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

(1) Where a corporation (in this section referred to as the "transferor corporation") and a taxable Canadian corporation (in this section referred to as the "transferee corporation") which was related (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to the transferor corporation

(a) throughout a taxation year of the transferor corporation, and

(b) throughout the last taxation year of the transferee corporation ending at or before the end of that taxation year of the transferor corporation,

Forms: T2 SCH 45: Agreement respecting liability for Part VI.1 tax.

(1.1) Consideration for agreement — For the purposes of Part I of this Act, where property is acquired at any time by a transferee corporation as consideration for entering into an agreement with a transferor corporation that is filed under this section,

(a) where the property was owned by the transferor corporation immediately before that time,

(i) the transferor corporation shall be deemed to have disposed of the property at that time for proceeds equal to the fair market value of the property at that time, and

(ii) the transferor corporation shall not be entitled to deduct any amount in computing its income as a consequence of the transfer of the property, except any amount arising as a consequence of subparagraph (i);

(b) the cost at which the property was acquired by the transferee corporation at that time shall be deemed to be equal to the fair market value of the property at that time;

(c) the transferee corporation shall not be required to add an amount in computing its income solely because of the acquisition at that time of the property; and

(d) no benefit shall be deemed to have been conferred on the transferor corporation as a consequence of the transferor corporation entering into an agreement filed under this section.

History: Subsec. 191.3(1.1) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 41, applicable to 1988 et seq.

(2) Manner of filing agreement — An agreement or amended agreement referred to in subsection (1) between a transferor corporation and a transferee corporation shall be deemed not to have been filed with the Minister unless

(a) it is in prescribed form;

(b) it is filed on or before the day on or before which the transferor corporation's return for the year in respect of which the agreement is filed is required to be filed under this Part or within the 90 day period commencing on the day of mailing of a notice of assessment of tax payable under this Part or Part I by the transferor corporation for the year or by the transferee corporation for its taxation year ending in the calendar year in which the taxation year of the transferor corporation ends or the mailing of a notification that no tax is payable under this Part or Part I for that taxation year;

(c) it is accompanied by,

(i) where the directors of the transferor corporation are legally entitled to administer its affairs, a certified copy of their resolution authorizing the agreement to be made,

(ii) where the directors of the transferor corporation are not legally entitled to administer its affairs, a certified copy of the document by which the person legally entitled to administer the corporation's affairs authorized the agreement to be made,

(iii) where the directors of the transferee corporation are legally entitled to administer its affairs, a certified copy of their resolution authorizing the agreement to be made, and

(iv) where the directors of the transferee corporation are not legally entitled to administer its affairs, a certified copy of the document by which the person legally entitled to administer the corporation's affairs authorized the agreement to be made; and

(d) where the agreement is not an agreement to which subsection (4) applies, an agreement amending the agreement has not been filed in accordance with this section.

(e) [Repealed]

History: Para. 191.3(2)(e) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 163, applicable to 1989 et seq. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) no tax is payable under Part I by the transferor corporation for its taxation year in respect of which the agreement is filed.

(3) Assessment — Where an agreement or amended agreement between a transferor corporation and a transferee corporation has been filed under this section with the Minister, the Minister shall, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) and (5), assess or reassess the tax, interest and penalties payable under this Act by the transferor corporation and the transferee corporation for any relevant taxation year in order to take into account the agreement or amended agreement.

(4) Related corporations — Where, at any time, a corporation has become related to another corporation and it may reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances, that the main purpose of the corporation becoming related to the other corporation was to transfer, by filing an agreement or an amended agreement under this section, the benefit of a deduction under paragraph 110(1)(k) to a transferee corporation, the amount of the tax specified in the agreement shall, for the purposes of paragraph (1)(c), be deemed to be nil.

(5) Assessment of transferor corporation — The Minister may at any time assess a transferor corporation in respect of any amount for which it is jointly and severally liable by reason of paragraph (1)(e) and the provisions of Division I of Part I are applicable in respect of the assessment as though it had been made under section 152.

PART VII — REFUNDABLE TAX ON CORPORATIONS ISSUING QUALIFYING SHARES

192. (1) Corporation to pay tax — Every corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for a taxation year equal to the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated under subsection (4) in respect of a share issued by it in the year.

Related Provisions: 227.1(1) — Liability of directors for unpaid Part VII tax.

(2) Definition of "Part VII refund" — In this Part, the "Part VII refund" of a corporation for a taxation year means an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the total of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the share-purchase tax credit of the corporation for the year exceeds the amount, if any, deducted in respect thereof by it for the year under subsection 127.2(1) from its tax otherwise payable under Part I for the year or the amount deemed by subsection 127.2(2) to have been paid on account of its tax payable under Part I for the year, as the case may be, and

(ii) such amount as the corporation may claim, not exceeding the amount that would, if paragraph (i) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9) were read without reference to the words "the year or", be its investment tax credit at the end of the year in respect of property acquired, or an expenditure made, after April 19, 1983 and on or before the last day of the year, and

(b) the refundable Part VII tax on hand of the corporation at the end of the year.

Related Provisions: 248(1)"lawyer" — Definition applies to entire Act.

Selected Cases [subsec. 192(2)]: 598606 Ontario Ltd. v. MNR, [1993] 1 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC) (SRTC denied where issuer failed to file prescribed form within prescribed time).

(3) Definition of "refundable Part VII tax on hand" — In this Part, "refundable Part VII tax on hand" of a corporation at the end of a taxation year means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of the taxes payable by it under this Part for the year and all preceding taxation years

exceeds the total of

(b) the total of its Part VII refunds for all preceding taxation years, and

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount of tax included in the total described in paragraph (a) in respect of a share that was issued by the corporation and that, at the time it was issued, was not a qualifying share.

Related Provisions: 248(1)"refundable Part VII tax on hand" — Definition applies to entire Act.

(4) Corporation may designate amount — Every taxable Canadian corporation may, by filing a prescribed form with the Minister at any time on or before the last day of the month immediately following the month in which it issued a qualifying share of its capital stock (other than a share issued before July, 1983 or after 1986, or a share in respect of which the corporation has, on or before that day, designated an amount under subsection 194(4)), designate, for the purposes of this Part and Part I, an amount in respect of that share not exceeding 25% of the amount by which

(a) the amount of the consideration for which the share was issued

exceeds

(b) the amount of any assistance (other than an amount included in computing the share-purchase tax credit of a taxpayer in respect of that share) provided or to be provided by a government, municipality or any other public authority in respect of, or for the acquisition of, the share.

Related Provisions: 127.2(10) — Election re first holder; 127.2(11) — Calculation of consideration; 193(2) — Corporation to make payment on account of tax; 193(7) — Avoidance of tax.

Regulations: 227 (information returns).

(4.1) Computing paid-up capital after designation — Where a corporation has designated an amount under subsection (4) in respect of shares issued at any time after May 23, 1985, in computing, at any particular time after that time, the paid-up capital in respect of the class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation that includes those shares

(a) there shall be deducted the amount, if any, by which

(i) the increase as a result of the issue of those shares in the paid-up capital in respect of all shares of that class, determined without reference to this subsection as it applies to those shares,

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the total amount of consideration for which those shares were issued exceeds the total amount designated by the corporation under subsection (4) in respect of those shares; and

(b) there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the corporation after May 23, 1985 and before the particular time

exceeds

(B) the total that would be determined under clause (A) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (a), and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by paragraph (a) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares after May 23, 1985 and before the particular time.

Related Provisions: 127.2(8) — Deemed cost of designated share.

(5) Presumption — For the purposes of this Act, the Part VII refund of a corporation for a taxation year shall be deemed to be an amount paid on account of its tax under this Part for the year on the last day of the second month following the end of the year.

(6) Definition of "qualifying share" — In this Part, "qualifying share", at any time, means a prescribed share of the capital stock of a taxable Canadian corporation issued after May 22, 1985 and before 1987.

Related Provisions: 248(1)"qualifying share" — Definition applies to entire Act.

Regulations: 6203 (prescribed shares).

(7) Effect of obligation to acquire shares — When determining under section 251 whether a corporation and any other person do not deal with each other at arm's length for the purposes of any regulations made for the purposes of subsection (6), a person who has an obligation in equity, under a contract or otherwise, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to acquire shares in a corporation, shall be deemed to be in the same position in relation to the control of the corporation as if that person owned the shares.

(8) Late designation — Where a taxable Canadian corporation that issued a share does not designate an amount under subsection (4) in respect of the share on or before the day on or before which the designation was required by that subsection, the corporation shall be deemed to have made the designation on that day if

(a) the corporation has filed with the Minister a prescribed information return relating to the share-purchase tax credit in respect of the share within the time that it would have been so required to file the return had the designation been made on that day, and

(b) within 3 years after that day, the corporation has

(i) designated an amount in respect of the share by filing a prescribed form with the Minister, and except that, where the Minister has mailed a notice to the corporation that a designation has not been made in respect of the share under subsection (4), the designation and payment described in paragraph (b) must be made by the corporation on or before the day that is 90 days after the day of the mailing.

(9) Penalty for late designation — Where, pursuant to subsection (8), a corporation made a late designation in respect of a share issued in a month, the corporation shall pay, for each month or part of a month that elapsed during the period beginning on the last day on or before which an amount could have been designated by the corporation under subsection (4) in respect of the share and ending on the day that the late designation is made, a penalty for the late designation in respect of the share in an amount equal to 1% of the amount designated in respect of the share, except that the maximum penalty payable under this subsection by the corporation for a month shall not exceed $500.

(10) Deemed deduction — For the purposes of this Act, other than the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9), the amount, if any, claimed under subparagraph (2)(a)(ii) by a taxpayer for a taxation year shall be deemed to have been deducted by the taxpayer under subsection 127(5) for the year.

(11) Restriction — Where at any time a corporation has designated an amount under subsection (4) in respect of a share, no amount may be designated by the corporation at any subsequent time in respect of that share.

Selected Cases [s. 192]: 598606 Ontario Ltd. v. MNR, [1993] 1 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC) (Failure to make designation by filing prescribed form disentitles taxpayer to claim share-purchase tax credit).

193. (1) Corporation to file return — Every corporation that is liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall, on or before the day on or before which it is required to file its return of income under Part I for the year, file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form.

(2) Corporation to make payment on account of tax — Where, in a particular month in a taxation year, a corporation issues a share in respect of which it designates an amount under section 192, the corporation shall, on or before the last of the month following the particular month, pay to the Receiver General on account of its tax payable under this Part for the year an amount equal to the total of all amounts so designated.

(3) Interest — Where a corporation is liable to pay tax under this Part and has failed to pay all or any part or instalment thereof on or before the day on or before which the tax or instalment, as the case may be, was required to be paid, it shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the amount that it failed to pay computed from the day on or before which the amount was required to be paid to the day of payment.

Related Provisions: 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

Regulations: 4301(a) (prescribed rate of interest).

(4) Idem — For the purposes of computing interest payable by a corporation under subsection (3) for any month or months in the period commencing on the first day of a taxation year and ending two months after the last day of the year in which period the corporation has designated an amount under section 192 in respect of a share issued by it in a particular month in the year, the corporation shall be deemed to have been liable to pay, on or before the last day of the month immediately following the particular month, a part or an instalment of tax for the year equal to that proportion of the amount, if any, by which its tax payable under this Part for the year exceeds its Part VII refund for the year that

(a) the total of all amounts so designated by it under section 192 in respect of shares issued by it in the particular month

(b) the total of all amounts so designated by it under section 192 in respect of shares issued by it in the year.

(5) Evasion of tax — Where a corporation that is liable to pay tax under this Part in respect of a share issued by it wilfully, in any manner whatever, evades or attempts to evade payment of the tax and a purchaser of the share or, where the purchaser is a partnership, a member of the partnership knew or ought to have known, at the time the share was acquired, that the corporation would wilfully evade or attempt to evade the tax, for the purposes of section 127.2, the share shall be deemed not to have been acquired.

(6) Undue deferral — Where, in a transaction or as part of a series of transactions, a taxpayer acquires a share of a corporation that the taxpayer controls (within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2)) and it may reasonably be considered that one of the main purposes of the acquisition was to reduce for a period interest on the taxpayer's liability for tax under this Part, the share shall, for the purposes of section 127.2 and this Part (other than this subsection), be deemed not to have been acquired by the taxpayer and not to have been issued by the corporation until the end of that period.

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions.

(7) Avoidance of tax — Where, as part of a series of transactions or events one of the main purposes of which may reasonably be considered to be the avoidance of tax that might otherwise have been or become payable under Part II by any corporation, a particular corporation has issued a share in a taxation year in respect of which it has designated an amount under subsection 192(4), the particular corporation shall, on or before the last day of the second month after the end of the year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 125% of the amount of tax under Part II that is or may be avoided by reason of the series of transactions or events.

(7.1) Tax on excess — Where a corporation has in a taxation year made an election under subsection 127.2(10) in respect of any share that was part of a distribution of shares referred to in that subsection and, at the end of that year or any subsequent taxation year,

(a) the total of the amounts designated under subsection 192(4) in respect of those shares as evidenced by the prescribed information returns required by regulation to be filed with the Minister by a taxpayer other than the corporation

(b) the total of the amounts designated under subsection 192(4) in respect of those shares acquired by the taxpayer and in respect of which another taxpayer was required by regulation to provide the taxpayer with a prescribed information return relating to the designation under that subsection, the taxpayer is liable to pay a tax under this Part for the taxation year at the end of which there is such an excess equal to the amount of the excess, which tax is to be paid to the Receiver General within 60 days after the end of the taxation year, and the excess shall be included in determining the total under paragraph (b) for any taxation year of the taxpayer subsequent to that year.

(8) Provisions applicable to Part — Sections 151, 152, 158 and 159, subsection 161(11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Part VIII — Refundable Tax on Corporations in respect of Scientific Research and Experimental Development Tax Credit

194. (1) Corporation to pay tax — Every corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for a taxation year equal to 50% of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount designated under subsection (4) in respect of a share or debt obligation issued by it in the year or a right granted by it in the year.

Related Provisions: 227.1(1) — Liability of directors for unpaid Part VIII tax.

Selected Cases [subsec. 194(1)]: Revelations Research Ltd. v. MNR, [1992] 1 C.T.C. 2136 (TCC) (Development of "synthetic intelligence" hardware system not "scientific research and experimental development"); Bechthold Resources Ltd. v. MNR, [1986] 1 C.T.C. 110 (FCTD) (Filing return is condition precedent before assessment under Part VIII could issue; assessment and requirement to pay quashed).

(2) Definition of "Part VIII refund" — In this Act, the "Part VIII refund" of a corporation for a taxation year means an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the total of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the scientific research and experimental development tax credit of the corporation for the year exceeds the amount, if any, deducted by it under subsection 127.3(1) from its tax otherwise payable under Part I for the year, and

(ii) such amount as the corporation may claim, not exceeding 50% of the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all expenditures made by it after April 19, 1983 and in the year or the immediately preceding taxation year each of which is an expenditure (other than an expenditure prescribed for the purposes of the definition "qualified expenditure" in subsection 127(9)) claimed under paragraph 37(1)(a) or (b) to the extent that the expenditure is specified by the corporation in its return of income under Part I for the year

(B) the total of all expenditures each of which is an expenditure made by it in the immediately preceding taxation year, to the extent that the expenditure was included in determining the total under clause (A) and resulted in

(I) a refund to it under this Part for the immediately preceding taxation year,

(II) a deduction by it under subsection 37(1) for the immediately preceding taxation year, or

(III) a deduction by it under subsection 127(5) for any taxation year, and

(C) twice the portion of the total of amounts each of which is an amount deducted by it in computing its income for the year or the immediately preceding taxation year under section 37.1 that can reasonably be considered to relate to expenditures that were included in determining the total under clause (A), and

(b) the refundable Part VIII tax on hand of the corporation at the end of the year.

"refundable Part VIII tax on hand" of a corporation at the end of a taxation year means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of the taxes payable by it under this Part for the year and all preceding taxation years

exceeds

(b) the total of its Part VIII refunds for all preceding taxation years.

Related Provisions: 248(1)"refundable Part VIII tax on hand" — Definition applies to entire Act.

(4) Corporation may designate amount — Every taxable Canadian corporation may, by filing a prescribed form with the Minister at any time on or before the last day of the month immediately following a month in which it issued a share or debt obligation or granted a right under a scientific research and experimental development financing contract (other than a share or debt obligation issued or a right granted before October, 1983, or a share in respect of which the corporation has, on or before that day, designated an amount under subsection 192(4)) designate, for the purposes of this Part and Part I, an amount in respect of that share, debt obligation or right not exceeding the amount by which

(a) the amount of the consideration for which it was issued or granted, as the case may be,

exceeds

(b) in the case of a share, the amount of any assistance (other than an amount included in computing the scientific research and experimental development tax credit of a taxpayer in respect of that share) provided, or to be provided by a government, municipality or any other public authority in respect of, or for the acquisition of, that share.

Related Provisions: 127.3(9) — Election re first holder; 127.3(10) — Calculation of consideration; 195(2) — Corporation to make payment on account of tax; 195(3), (4) — Interest on amount in default; 195(7) — Avoidance of tax.

Regulations: 226 (information return).

(4.1) Computing paid-up capital after designation — Where a corporation has designated an amount under subsection (4) in respect of shares issued at any time after May 23, 1985, in computing, at any particular time after that time, the paid-up capital in respect of the class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation that includes those shares

(a) there shall be deducted the amount, if any, by which

(i) the increase as a result of the issue of those shares in the paid-up capital in respect of all shares of that class, determined without reference to this subsection as it applies to those shares,

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the total amount of consideration for which those shares were issued exceeds 50% of the amount designated by the corporation under subsection (4) in respect of those shares; and

(b) there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the corporation after May 23, 1985 and before the particular time

exceeds

(B) the total that would be determined under clause (A) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (a), and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by paragraph (a) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital in respect of that class of shares after May 23, 1985 and before the particular time.

Related Provisions: 127.3(6) — Deemed cost of designated share, debt obligation or right.

(4.2) Where amount may not be designated — Notwithstanding subsection (4), no amount may be designated by a corporation in respect of

(a) a share issued by the corporation after October 10, 1984, other than

(i) a qualifying share issued before May 23, 1985, or

(ii) a qualifying share issued after May 22, 1985 and before 1986

(A) under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into by the corporation before May 23, 1985, other than pursuant to an option to acquire the share if the option was not exercised before May 23, 1985, or

(B) as part of a lawful distribution to the public in accordance with a prospectus, preliminary prospectus or registration statement filed before May 24, 1985 with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province and, where required by law, accepted for filing by that public authority;

(b) a share or debt obligation issued or a right granted by the corporation after October 10, 1984, other than a share or debt obligation issued or a right granted before 1986

(i) under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into by the corporation before October 11, 1984, other than pursuant to an option to acquire the share, debt obligation or right if the option was not exercised before October 11, 1984, or

(ii) where arrangements, evidenced in writing, for the issue of the share or debt obligation or the granting of the right were substantially advanced before October 10, 1984; or

(c) a share or debt obligation issued, or a right granted, at any time after June 15, 1984, by a corporation that was an excluded corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 127.1(2)) at that time.

Selected Cases [subsec. 194(4.2)]: Donat Flamand Inc. v. MNR, [2001] 3 C.T.C. 130 (FCTD) (Opinion letter obtained on basis of fraud ineffective to establish qualified debenture even where investors unaware of misrepresentation); First Fund Genesis Corporation v. Canada, [1991] 2 C.T.C. 14 (FCTD) (Valid designation where purchase "substantially advanced" prior to statutory deadline).

(5) Presumption — For the purposes of this Act, the Part VIII refund of a corporation for a taxation year shall be deemed to be an amount paid on account of its tax under this Part for the year on the last day of the second month following the end of the year.

Selected Cases [subsec. 194(5)]: Groupmark Canada Ltd. v. Canada, [1993] 1 C.T.C. 234 (FCTD) (Amounts paid to related company before and after SRTC note issued were "consideration" for note).

(6) Definition of "scientific research and experimental development financing contract" — In this Part, "scientific research and experimental development financing contract" means a contract in writing pursuant to which an amount is paid by a person to a corporation as consideration for the granting by the corporation to that person of any right, either absolute or contingent, to receive income, other than interest or dividends.

(7) Late designation — Where a taxable Canadian corporation that issued a share or debt obligation or granted a right under a scientific research and experimental development financing contract does not designate an amount under subsection (4) in respect of the share, debt obligation or right on or before the day on or before which the designation was required by that subsection, the corporation shall be deemed to have made the designation on that day if

(a) the corporation has filed with the Minister a prescribed information return relating to the scientific research and experimental development tax credit in respect of the share, debt obligation or right within the time that it would have been so required to file the return had the designation been filed on that day, and

(b) within 3 years after that day, the corporation has

(i) designated an amount in respect of the share, debt obligation or right by filing a prescribed form with the Minister, and

except that, where the Minister has mailed a notice to the corporation that a designation has not been made in respect of the share, debt obligation or right under subsection (4), the designation and payment described in paragraph (b) must be made by the corporation on or before the day that is 90 days after the day of the mailing.

MNR*, [1992] 2 C.T.C. 214 (FCTD) (Taxpayer eligible for scientific research tax credit despite late filing since requirements for remedying delay met).

Regulations: 226(2) (prescribed information return).

Forms: T661: Claim for SR&ED in Canada; T1263: SR&ED carried out in Canada — Schedule A — third-party payment for SR&ED.

(8) Penalty for late designation — Where, pursuant to subsection (7), a corporation made a late designation in respect of a share or debt obligation issued, or a right granted, in a month, the corporation shall pay, for each month or part of a month that elapsed during the period beginning on the last day on or before which an amount could have been designated by the corporation under subsection (4) in respect of the share, debt obligation or right and ending on the day that the late designation is made, a penalty for the late designation in respect of the share, debt obligation or right in an amount equal to 1% of the amount designated in respect of the share, debt obligation or right, except that the maximum penalty payable under this subsection by the corporation for a month shall not exceed $500.

Selected Cases [subsec. 194(8)]: United Equities Ltd. v. MNR, [1992] 2 C.T.C. 214 (FCTD) (Taxpayer eligible for scientific research tax credit despite late filing since requirements for remedying delay met).

(9) Restriction — Where at any time a corporation has designated an amount under subsection (4) in respect of a share, debt obligation or right, no amount may be designated by the corporation at any subsequent time in respect of that share, debt obligation or right.

195. (1) Corporation to file return — Every corporation that is liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall, on or before the day on or before which it is required to file its return of income under Part I for the year, file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form.

Selected Cases [subsec. 195(1)]: WTC Western Technologies Corp. v. MNR, [1986] 1 C.T.C. 110 (FCTD) (Filing return is condition precedent before assessment under Part VIII could issue; assessment and requirement to pay quashed).

(2) Corporation to make payment on account of tax — Where, in a particular month in a taxation year, a corporation issues a share or debt obligation, or grants a right, in respect of which it designates an amount under section 194, the corporation shall, on or before the last day of the month following the particular month, pay to the Receiver General on account of its tax payable under this Part for the year an amount equal to 50% of the total of all amounts so designated.

Selected Cases [subsec. 195(2)]: *Eta Performance Systems Corp. v. Regulations: 4301(a) (prescribed rate of interest).

(4) Idem — For the purposes of computing interest payable by a corporation under subsection (3) for any month or months in the period commencing on the first day of a taxation year and ending two months after the last day of the year in which period the corporation has designated an amount under section 194 in respect of a share or debt obligation issued, or right granted, by it in a particular month in the year, the corporation shall be deemed to have been liable to pay, on or before the last day of the month immediately following the particular month, a part or an instalment of tax for the year equal to that proportion of the amount, if any, by which its tax payable under this Part for the year exceeds its Part VIII refund for the year that

(a) the total of all amounts so designated by it under section 194 in respect of shares or debt obligations issued, or rights granted, by it in the particular month

(b) the total of all amounts so designated by it under section 194 in respect of shares or debt obligations issued, or rights granted, by it in the year.

(5) Evasion of tax — Where a corporation that is liable to pay tax under this Part in respect of a share or debt obligation issued or a right granted by it wilfully, in any manner whatever, evades or attempts to evade payment of the tax and a purchaser of the share, debt obligation or right or, where the purchaser is a partnership, a member of the partnership knew or ought to have known, at the time the share, debt obligation or right was acquired, that the corporation would wilfully evade or attempt to evade the tax, for the purposes of section 127.3, the share, debt obligation or right shall be deemed not to have been acquired.

(6) Undue deferral — Where, in a transaction or as part of a series of transactions, a taxpayer acquires a share or debt obligation of a corporation or a right granted by a corporation and the corporation is controlled (within the meaning assigned by subsection 186(2)) by the taxpayer and it may reasonably be considered that one of the main purposes of the acquisition was to reduce for a period interest on the taxpayer's liability for tax under this Part, the share, debt obligation or right shall, for the purposes of this Part (other than this subsection) and section 127.3, be deemed not to have been acquired by the taxpayer and not to have been issued or granted, as the case may be, by the corporation until the end of that period.

(7) Avoidance of tax — Where, as part of a series of transactions or events one of the main purposes of which may reasonably be considered to be the avoidance of tax that might otherwise have been or become payable under Part II of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, by any corporation, a particular corporation has issued a share or debt obligation or granted a right in a taxation year in respect of which it has designated an amount under subsection 194(4), the particular corporation shall, on or before the last day of the second month after the end of the year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 125% of the amount of tax under Part II of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, that is or may be avoided by reason of the series of transactions or events.

(7.1) Tax on excess — Where a corporation has in a taxation year made an election under subsection 127.3(9) in respect of any share or debt obligation that was part of a distribution of shares or debt obligations referred to in that subsection and, at the end of that year or any subsequent taxation year,

(a) the total of the amounts designated under subsection 194(4) in respect of those shares or debt obligations as evidenced by the prescribed information returns required by regulation to be filed with the Minister by a taxpayer other than the corporation

(b) the total of the amounts designated under subsection 194(4) in respect of those shares or debt obligations acquired by the taxpayer and in respect of which another taxpayer was required by regulation to provide the taxpayer with a prescribed information return relating to the designation under that subsection,

the taxpayer is liable to pay a tax under this Part, for the taxation year at the end of which there is such an excess, equal to 50% of the excess, which tax is to be paid to the Receiver General within 60 days after the end of the taxation year, and the excess shall be included in determining the total under paragraph (b) for any taxation year of the taxpayer subsequent to that year.

(8) Provisions applicable to Part — Sections 151, 152, 158 and 159, subsection 161(11), sections 162 to 167 (except subsections 164(1.1) to (1.3)) and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require and, for greater certainty, the Minister may assess, before the end of a taxation year, an amount payable under this Part for the year.

Part IX — Tax on Deduction under Section 66.5

196. (1) Tax in respect of cumulative offset account — Every corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 30% of the amount deducted under subsection 66.5(1) in computing its income for the year.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible.

(2) Return — Every corporation that is liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall file with the Minister, not later than the day on or before which it is required under section 150 to file a return of its income for the year under Part I, a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form containing an estimate of the amount of tax payable by it under this Part for the year.

(3) Instalments — Where a corporation is liable to pay tax for a taxation year under this Part, the corporation shall pay in respect of the year, to the Receiver General

(a) on or before the last day of each month in the year, an amount equal to 1/12 of the amount of tax payable by it under this Part for the year; and

(b) the remainder, if any, of the tax payable by it under this Part for the year, on or before its balance-due day for the year.

History: Para. 196(3)(b) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 123, applicable to taxation years that begin after June 2003. Para. 196(3)(b) formerly read:

(b) the remainder, if any, of the tax payable by it under this Part for the year, on or before the end of the second month following the end of the year.

(4) Provisions applicable to Part — Sections 152, 158 and 159, subsections 161(1) and (2), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part, with such modifications as the circumstances require.

PART IX.1 — TAX ON SIFT PARTNERSHIPS

197. (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this Part and in section 96.

"non-portfolio earnings", of a SIFT partnership for a taxation year, means the total of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the SIFT partnership's income for the taxation year from a business carried on by it in Canada or from a non-portfolio property, other than income that is a taxable dividend received by the SIFT partnership,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the SIFT partnership's loss for the taxation year from a business carried on by it in Canada or from a non-portfolio property, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which all taxable capital gains of the SIFT partnership from dispositions of non-portfolio properties during the taxation year exceeds the total of the allowable capital losses of the SIFT partnership for the taxation year from dispositions of non-portfolio properties during the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 122.1(1)"non-portfolio earnings" — Parallel definition for SIFT trusts.

"SIFT partnership", being a specified investment flow-through partnership, for any taxation year, means a partnership that meets the following conditions at any time during the taxation year:

Proposed Amendment — 197(1)"SIFT partnership" opening words

"SIFT partnership", being a specified investment flow-through partnership, for any taxation year, means a partnership other than an excluded subsidiary entity (as defined in subsection 122.1(1)) for the taxation year that meets the following conditions at any time during the taxation year:

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 65, will amend the opening words of the definition "SIFT partnership" in subsec. 197(1) to read as above, deemed to have come into force on October 31, 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): A "SIFT partnership", being a specified flow-through investment partnership, for a taxation year means a Canadian resident partnership if, at any time in the taxation year, the partnership holds non-portfolio property and its securities are listed on a stock exchange or other public market.

The definition is amended to exclude from treatment as a SIFT partnership for a taxation year an entity that is an excluded subsidiary entity for the taxation year. For more information, readers may refer to the commentary on the new definition "excluded subsidiary entity" in subsection 122.1(1).

(a) the partnership is a Canadian resident partnership;

(b) investments (as defined in subsection 122.1(1)) in the partnership are listed or traded on a stock exchange or other public market; and

(c) the partnership holds one or more non-portfolio properties.

Proposed Amendment — SIFT partnership definition

Finance news release 2007-106 and Backgrounder, Dec. 20, 2007: See under 122.1(1)"SIFT trust". [Note footnote 1, stating: "For simplicity, these notes refer to a single SIFT definition. Both the 'SIFT trust' and 'SIFT partnership' definitions are encompassed by this description." — ed.]

Related Provisions: 85.1(8) — Rollover of partnership units to corporation; 122.2(1)"SIFT trust" — Parallel definition for trust; 197(8) — Application of definition for 2006–2010; 248(1)"SIFT partnership" — Definition applies to entire Act.

"taxable non-portfolio earnings" of a SIFT partnership, for a taxation year, means the lesser of

(a) the amount that would, if the SIFT partnership were a taxpayer for the purposes of Part I and if subsection 96(1) were read without reference to its paragraph (d), be its income for the taxation year as determined under section 3; and

(b) its non-portfolio earnings for the taxation year.

(2) Tax on partnership income — Every partnership that is a SIFT partnership for a taxation year is liable to a tax under this Part equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times (B + C)$$

where

A is the taxable non-portfolio earnings of the SIFT partnership for the taxation year;

B is the net corporate income tax rate in respect of the SIFT partnership for the taxation year; and

C is the provincial SIFT tax rate of the SIFT partnership for the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 96(1.11)(b) — Taxable non-portfolio earnings reduced by Part IX.1 tax paid by SIFT partnership; 104(16), 122(1)(b) — Parallel taxation of SIFT trust distributions; 197(4) — Partnership to file return; 197(6) — Application of Part I rules to Part IX.1 tax.

(3) Ordering — This Part and section 122.1 are to be applied as if this Act were read without reference to subsection 96(1.11).

(4) Partnership to file return — Every member of a partnership that is liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall — on or before the day on or before which the partnership return is required to be filed for the year under section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations — file with the Minister a return for the taxation year under this Part in prescribed form containing an estimate of the tax payable by the partnership under this Part for the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 197(5) — Who has authority to file return; Reg. 229 — Information return for partnerships.

(5) Authority to file return — For the purposes of subsection (4), if, in respect of a taxation year of a partnership, a particular member of the partnership has authority to act for the partnership,

(a) if the particular member has filed a return as required by this Part for a taxation year, each other person who was a member of the partnership during the taxation year is deemed to have filed the return; and

(b) a return that has been filed by any other member of the partnership for the taxation year is not valid and is deemed not to have been filed by any member of the partnership.

(6) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsection 150(2), sections 152, 156, 156.1, 158, 159 and 161 to 167 and Division J of Part I apply to this Part, with any modifications that the circumstances require, and for greater certainty,

(a) a notice of assessment referred to in subsection 152(2) in respect of tax payable under this Part is valid notwithstanding that a partnership is not a person; and

(b) notwithstanding subsection 152(4), the Minister may at any time make an assessment or reassessment of tax payable under this Part or Part I to give effect to a determination made by the Minister under subsection 152(1.4), including the assessment or reassessment of Part I tax payable in respect of the disposition of an interest in a SIFT partnership by a member of the partnership.

(7) Payment — Every SIFT partnership shall pay to the Receiver General, on or before its SIFT partnership balance-due day for each taxation year, its tax payable under this Part for the taxation year.

(8) Application of definition "SIFT partnership" — The definition "SIFT partnership" applies to a partnership for a taxation year of the partnership that ends after 2006, except that if the partnership would have been a SIFT partnership on October 31, 2006 had that definition been in force and applied to the partnership as of that date, that definition does not apply to the partnership for a taxation year of the partnership that ends before the earlier of

(a) 2011, and

(b) the first day after December 15, 2006 on which the partnership exceeds normal growth as determined by reference to the normal growth guidelines issued by the Department of Finance on December 15, 2006, as amended from time to time, unless that excess arose as a result of a prescribed transaction.

Proposed Amendment — 197(8) — SIFT transitional rules

Dec. 4, 2008 Technical Notes: Subsection 197(8) limits the application of the definition "SIFT partnership" in subsection (1) for the 2007 to 2010 taxation years. Where a partnership (in this commentary referred to as a "transitional SIFT") would, under the text of that definition, be a SIFT partnership on October 31, 2006, subsection 197(8) provides that the SIFT partnership definition will not apply until the earlier of the partnership's 2011 taxation year or the taxation year in which it exceeds certain normal growth guidelines issued by the Department of Finance on December 15, 2006 (unless that excess arose as a result of a prescribed transaction).

For this purpose, the normal growth guidelines set the maximum growth from November 2006 to December 2010 as the greater of $50 million and a safe harbour amount. That safe harbour amount is measured with respect to the transitional SIFT's market capitalization on October 31, 2006 and is staged as follows: 40% for Nov 2006–Dec 2007; 20% for 2008; 20% for 2009; and 20% for 2010. These percentages are cumulative (the $50 million "de minimis" amount is not), meaning that a transitional SIFT will be able to issue, as of January 2010, new equity of up to 100% of its October 31, 2006 market capitalization.

This note is included to serve as notification that the Department's normal growth guidelines are revised, effective December 4, 2008.

The first revision applies to certain situations involving a transitional SIFT, units of which are publicly traded, that holds securities in another transitional SIFT (whether a trust or partnership and referred to in this commentary as the "second transitional SIFT") the units of which are not publicly traded. If the transitional SIFT's securities in the second transitional SIFT are non-portfolio property of the transitional SIFT (determined for purposes of this revision to the guidelines as through the definition "non-portfolio property" in subsection 122.1(1) of the Act were read without reference to its paragraphs (b) and (c) and as though a reference to "10%" in its paragraph (a) were a reference to "25%"), then new equity issued by the second transitional SIFT will count towards the growth of the transitional SIFT and not the second transitional SIFT, provided either or both of two conditions are met. Those conditions are:

- that the new equity is convertible into the equity of the transitional SIFT; and
- that the new equity can reasonably be regarded to be funded by the issuance of new equity in the transitional SIFT.

This revision of the normal growth guidelines is intended to prevent, in the particular circumstances described, an inappropriate duplication of growth as between the transitional SIFT and the second transitional SIFT where there is a sufficient level of non-arm's length relations between the two entities.

The normal growth guidelines are also being revised to accelerate the safe harbour amount for each of 2009 and 2010 so that it is available on and after December 4, 2008. This change does not change the maximum available growth of a transitional SIFT, but allows it to use remaining growth room in a single year, rather than staging it (i.e., at 20% per year) over the 2009 and 2010 years. As a result, for the period from December 4, 2008 to the end of 2010, a grandfathered SIFT's safe harbour will be a maximum of 60% of its market capitalization on October 31, 2006. For example, a SIFT that had issued in 2008 before December 4, 2008 new equity amounting to 15% of its market capitalization on October 31, 2006, would have a remaining safe harbour for the period from December 4, 2008 to the end of 2010 of 45% (i.e., 60% – 15%) of that October 31, 2006 market capitalization.

It should be noted that the annual safe harbour amounts remains cumulative. Thus for example a transitional SIFT that had issued no new equity in the period between October 31, 2006 and December 4, 2008 would, as of December 4, 2008, be able to issue new equity up to 100% of its October 31, 2006 market capitalization without exceeding its normal growth.

History [Part IX.1]: The description of C in subsec. 197(2) amended by 2008, c. 28, s. 30, applicable to 2009 et seq., except that it also applies for a SIFT partnership's earlier taxation year if the definition "provincial SIFT tax rate" in subsec. 248(1) applies to that earlier taxation year. It formerly read:

C is the provincial SIFT tax factor for the taxation year.

Part X — Taxes on Deferred Profit Sharing Plans and Revoked Plans

198. (1) Tax on non-qualified investments and use of assets as security — Every trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan that

(a) acquires a non-qualified investment, or

(b) uses or permits to be used any property of the trust as security for a loan, shall pay a tax equal to the fair market value of

(c) the non-qualified investment at the time it was acquired by the trust, or

(d) the property used as security at the time it commenced to be so used.

Related Provisions: 147(14) — DPSP — revocation of registration; 198(4), (5) — Refund of tax on disposition of investment or release of security; 199–204 — Taxes on deferred profit sharing plans; 207.1(2) — Tax payable while non-qualifying investment held by DPSP; 259(1) — Proportional holdings in trust property.

(2) Payment of tax — A trustee of a trust liable to pay tax under subsection (1) shall remit the amount of the tax to the Receiver General within 10 days of the day on which the non-qualified investment is acquired or the property is used as security for a loan, as the case may be.

(3) Trustee liable for tax — Where a trustee of a trust liable to pay tax under subsection (1) does not remit to the Receiver General the amount of the tax within the time specified in subsection (2), the trustee is personally liable to pay on behalf of the trust the full amount of the tax and is entitled to recover from the trust any amount paid by the trustee as tax under this section.

(4) Refund of tax on disposition of non-qualified investment — Where a trust disposes of a property that, when acquired, was a non-qualified investment, the trust is, on application in accordance with section 202, entitled to a refund of an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount of the tax imposed under this section as a result of the acquisition of the property, and

(b) the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Related Provisions: 198(6) — Special rules re life insurance policies; 200 — Distribution deemed disposition; 202(4) — Application to certain provisions of Part I; 203 — Application to other taxes.

(5) Refund of tax on recovery of property given as security — Where a loan, for which a trust has used or permitted to be used trust property as security, ceases to be extant, the trust is, on application in accordance with section 202, entitled to a refund of an amount equal to the amount remaining, if any, when

(a) the net loss (exclusive of payments by the trust as or on account of interest) sustained by the trust in consequence of its using or permitting to be used the property as security for the loan and not as a result of a change in the fair market value of the property is deducted from

(6) Special rules relating to life insurance policies — For the purposes of this section,

(a) the acquisition of an interest in or the payment of an amount under a life insurance policy shall be deemed not to be the acquisition of a non-qualified investment, and

(b) the disposition of an interest in a life insurance policy shall be deemed not to be the disposition of a non-qualified investment, except that where a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan makes a payment under or to acquire an interest in a life insurance policy, other than a life insurance policy under which

(c) the trust is, or by virtue of the payment about to become, the only person entitled to any rights or benefits under the policy (other than the rights or benefits of the insurer),

(d) the cash surrender value of the policy (exclusive of accumulated dividends) is or will be, at or before the end of the year in which the insured person attains 71 years of age, if all premiums under the policy are paid, not less than the maximum total amount (exclusive of accumulated dividends) payable by the insurer under the policy, and

(e) the total of the premiums payable in any year under the policy is not greater than the total of the amounts that, if the annual premiums had been payable in monthly instalments, would have been payable as such instalments in the 12 months commencing with the date the policy was issued, the making of the payment shall be deemed to be the acquisition of a non-qualified investment at a cost equal to the amount of the payment.

204. Definitions — In this Part,

"debt obligation" means a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation;

History: The definition "debt obligation" added to s. 204 by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 26(4), applicable in determining whether a property is, at any time after March 18, 2007, a qualified investment.

"equity share" means

(a) a share, other than an excluded share or a non-participating share, the owner of which has, as owner thereof, a right

(i) to a dividend, and

(ii) to a part of the surplus of the corporation after repayment of capital and payment of dividend arrears on the redemption of the share, a reduction of the capital of the corporation or the winding-up of the corporation,

at least as great, in any event, as the right of the owner of any other share, other than a non-participating share, of the corporation, when the magnitude of the right in each case is expressed as a rate based on the paid-up capital value of the share to which the right relates, or

(b) a share, other than an excluded share or a non-participating share, the owner of which has, as owner thereof, a right

(i) to a dividend, after a dividend at a rate not in excess of 12% per annum of the paid-up capital value of each share has been paid to the owners of shares of a class other than the class to which that share belongs, and

(ii) to a part of the surplus of the corporation after repayment of capital and payment of dividend arrears on the redemption of the share, a reduction of the capital of the corporation or the winding-up of the corporation, after a payment of a part of the surplus at a rate not in excess of 10% of the paid-up capital value of each share has been made to the owners of shares of a class other than the class to which that share belongs,

at least as great, in any event, as the right of the owner of any other share, other than a non-participating share, of the corporation, when the magnitude of the right in each case is expressed as a rate based on the paid-up capital value of the share to which the right relates;

"excluded property", in relation to a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan, means a debt obligation or bankers' acceptance issued by

(a) an employer by whom payments are made in trust to a trustee under the plan for the benefit of beneficiaries under the plan, or

(b) a corporation with whom that employer does not deal at arm's length;

History: The definition "excluded property" added to s. 204 by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 26(4), applicable in determining whether a property is, at any time after March 18, 2007, a qualified investment.

"excluded share" means each share of the capital stock of a private corporation where

(a) the paid-up capital of the corporation that is represented by all its issued and outstanding shares that would, but for this definition, be equity shares is less than 50% of the paid-up capital of the corporation that is represented by all its issued and outstanding shares other than non-participating shares, or

(b) a non-participating share of the corporation is issued and outstanding and the owner of which has, as owner thereof, a right to a dividend

(i) at a fixed annual rate in excess of 12%, or

(ii) at an annual rate not in excess of a fixed maximum annual rate, if the fixed maximum annual rate is in excess of 12%, when the right to the dividend is expressed as a rate based on the paid-up capital value of the share to which the right relates;

"initial base" of a trust means the total of the values of all initial non-qualified investments held by the trust on December 21, 1966 when each such investment is valued at the lower of

(a) its cost to the trust, and

(b) its fair market value on December 21, 1966;

"initial non-qualified investment" of a trust means an investment held by the trust on December 21, 1966 that was, on that date, a non-qualified investment but does not include

(a) any interest in a life insurance policy, or

(b) an equity share that would be a qualified investment if the date of acquisition of the share were December 21, 1966;

"non-participating share" means

(a) in the case of a private corporation, a share the owner of which is not entitled to receive, as owner thereof, any dividend, other than a dividend, whether cumulative or not,

(i) at a fixed annual rate or amount, or

(ii) at an annual rate or amount not in excess of a fixed annual rate or amount, and

(b) in the case of a corporation other than a private corporation, any share other than a common share;

"non-qualified investment" means property that is not a qualified investment for a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan within the meaning of the definition "qualified investment" in this subsection;

Information Circulars: 77-1R4: Deferred profit sharing plans.

"paid-up capital value" of a share means the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{B}$$

where

A is the paid-up capital of the corporation that is represented by the shares of the class to which that share belongs, and

B is the number of shares of that class that are in fact issued and outstanding;

"qualified investment" for a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan means, with the exception of excluded property in relation to the trust,

(a) money (other than money the fair market value of which exceeds its stated value as legal tender in the country of issuance or money that is held for its numismatic value) and deposits (within the meaning assigned by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act or with a branch in Canada of a bank) of such money standing to the credit of the trust,

(b) debt obligations described in paragraph (a) of the definition "fully exempt interest" in subsection 212(3),

(c) debt obligations issued by

(i) a corporation, mutual fund trust or limited partnership the shares or units of which are listed on a designated stock exchange in Canada,

(ii) a corporation the shares of which are listed on a designated stock exchange outside Canada, or

(iii) an authorized foreign bank and payable at a branch in Canada of the bank,

(c.1) debt obligations that, at the time of acquisition by the trust, met the following criteria, namely,

(i) the debt obligations had an investment grade rating with a prescribed credit rating agency, and

(ii) either

(A) the debt obligations were issued as part of a single issue of debt of at least $25 million, or

(B) in the case of debt obligations that are issued on a continuous basis, the issuer of the debt obligations had issued and outstanding debt of that type of at least $25 million,

Proposed Amendment — 204"qualified investment"(c.1)

(c.1) debt obligations that meet the following criteria, namely,

(i) any of

(A) the debt obligations had, at the time of acquisition by the trust, an investment grade rating with a prescribed credit rating agency,

(B) the debt obligations have an investment grade rating with a prescribed credit rating agency, or

(C) the debt obligations were acquired by the trust in exchange for debt obligations that satisfied the condition in clause (A) and as part of a proposal to, or an arrangement with, the creditors of the issuer of the debt obligations that has been approved by a court under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act or the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, and

(ii) either

(A) the debt obligations were issued as part of a single issue of debt of at least $25 million, or

(B) in the case of debt obligations that are issued on a continuous basis under a debt issuance program, the issuer of the debt obligations had issued and outstanding debt under the program of at least $25 million,

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 66, will amend para. (c.1) of the definition "qualified investment" in s. 204 to read as above, applicable in determining whether a property is, at any time after March 18, 2007, a qualified investment.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The definition "qualified investment" in section 204 sets out the types of property that a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan is permitted to hold. The definition is also relevant for RRSPs, RESPs, RRIFs, registered disability savings plans (RDSPs) and tax-free savings accounts (TFSAs), as the definitions "qualified investment" in each of subsections 146(1), 146.1(1), 146.3(1), 205(1) and 207.01(1) largely adopt the list of investments described by the definition in section 204. It is also relevant for investment intermediaries that are registered investments (RIs) under any of paragraphs 204.4(2)(b), (d) or (f) of the Act and that, as a result, are required to limit their investments to qualified investments.

Paragraph (c.1) of the definition includes a debt obligation that has, at the time of acquisition, an investment grade rating with a prescribed credit rating agency and that is part of a minimum $25 million issuance. In the case of debt obligations that are issued on a continuous basis, the $25 million issuance requirement can be satisfied by having regard to all of the issuer's outstanding debt obligations of that type.

Paragraph (c.1) is amended in three respects. First, it is amended so that the investment grade rating condition may be satisfied either at the time of acquisition or on an on-going basis. This amendment is intended, in particular, to provide a means for an issuer of a previously non-rated debt obligation that had been a qualified investment under another provision of the Act or Regulations, but that later ceases to qualify under that provision, to retain qualified investment status by obtaining an investment grade rating for the debt obligation.

Second, paragraph (c.1) is amended to waive the investment grade rating condition in the case of debt obligations that are acquired pursuant to a court-approved proposal under Canadian insolvency legislation in exchange for debt obligations that previously had an investment grade rating. This amendment is intended, in particular, to ensure that any RIs or registered plan trusts that held third-party asset-backed commercial paper are not adversely impacted under the income tax rules by the restructuring plan developed by the Pan-Canadian Investors Committee.

Third, paragraph (c.1) is amended to clarify the application of the $25 million issuance condition. The existing wording caused some uncertainty in its application to debt issuance programs that involve multiple series of debt obligations. As amended, the condition looks to the issuer's outstanding debt obligations issued under the particular debt issuance program, rather than to the issuer's outstanding debt obligations of the same type.

These amendments apply in determining qualified investment status at any time after March 18, 2007, which corresponds to the introduction of paragraph (c.1).

(d) securities (other than futures contracts or other derivative instruments in respect of which the holder's risk of loss may exceed the holder's cost) that are listed on a designated stock exchange,

(e) equity shares of a corporation by which, before the date of acquisition by the trust of the shares, payments have been made in trust to a trustee under the plan for the benefit of beneficiaries thereunder, if the shares are of a class in respect of which

(i) there is no restriction on their transferability, and

(ii) in each of 4 taxation years of the corporation in the period of the corporation's 5 consecutive taxation years that ended less than 12 months before the date of acquisition of the shares by the trust, and in the corporation's last taxation year in that period, the corporation

(A) paid a dividend on each share of the class of an amount not less than 4% of the cost per share of the shares to the trust, or

(B) had earnings attributable to the shares of the class of an amount not less than the amount obtained when 4% of the cost per share to the trust of the shares is multiplied by the total number of shares of the class that were outstanding immediately after the acquisition,

(f) guaranteed investment certificates issued by a trust company incorporated under the laws of Canada or of a province,

(g) investment contracts described in subparagraph (b)(ii) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in subsection 146(1) and issued by a corporation approved by the Governor in Council for the purposes of that subparagraph, and

(h) prescribed investments;

PART X.1 — TAX IN RESPECT OF OVER-CONTRIBUTIONS TO DEFERRED INCOME PLANS

204.1 (1) Tax payable by individuals [before 1991] — Where, at the end of any month after May, 1976, an individual has an excess amount for a year in respect of registered retirement savings plans, the individual shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of that portion of the total of all those excess amounts that has not been paid by those plans to the individual before the end of that month.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible; 146(2)(c.1) — RRSP must permit payment to taxpayer to reduce overcontributions; 204.1(2.1) — Tax payable by individuals — contributions after 1990; 204.3 — Return and payment of tax.

Remission Orders: Certain Taxpayers Remission Order, 1998-2, P.C. 1998-2092, s. 2 (judges in Quebec who made contributions in 1989 or 1990).

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-24: RRSP damages suit against investment management companies.

(2) Amount deemed repaid — For the purposes of subsection (1), where an amount in respect of a plan has been included in computing an individual's income pursuant to paragraph 146(12)(b), that amount shall be deemed to have been paid to the individual by the plan at the time referred to in that paragraph.

(2.1) Tax payable by individuals — contributions after 1990 [RRSP overcontributions] — Where, at the end of any month after December, 1990, an individual has a cumulative excess amount in respect of registered retirement savings plans, the individual shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of that cumulative excess amount.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible; 146(2)(c.1) — RRSP must permit payment to taxpayer to reduce overcontributions; 146(8.2) — Withdrawal of RRSP overcontributions; 204.1(4) — Waiver of tax by CRA; 204.3 — Return and payment of tax.

(3) Tax payable by deferred profit sharing plan — Where, at the end of any month after May, 1976, a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan has an excess amount, the trust shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the excess amount.

Related Provisions: 204.2(4) — Definition of "excess amount" for a DPSP.

(4) Waiver of tax — Where an individual would, but for this subsection, be required to pay a tax under subsection (1) or (2.1) in respect of a month and the individual establishes to the satisfaction of the Minister that

(a) the excess amount or cumulative excess amount on which the tax is based arose as a consequence of reasonable error, and

(b) reasonable steps are being taken to eliminate the excess, the Minister may waive the tax.

204.2 (1) Definition of "excess amount for a year in respect of registered retirement savings plans" [before 1991] — "Excess amount for a year in respect of registered retirement savings plans" of an individual at a particular time means,

(a) where the excess amount is for a year after 1990, nil; and

(b) where the excess amount is for a year before 1991, the amount, if any, by which the total of

(i) all amounts paid by the individual to such plans under which the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner is the annuitant, other than amounts

(A) to which paragraph 60(j), (j.01), (j.1), (j.2) or (l) applies or would, if the individual were resident in Canada throughout the year, apply, or

(B) transferred to the plan in accordance with any of subsections 146(16), 147(19) and 147.3(1) and (4) to (7), and

(ii) all gifts made to such a plan under which the individual is the annuitant, other than gifts made thereto by the individual's spouse or common-law partner, in the year and before the particular time, exceeds the total of

(iii) all amounts that may be deducted in computing the individual's income for the immediately preceding year in respect of those payments, and

(iv) the greater of $5,500 and the amount that may be deducted in computing the individual's income for the year in respect of those payments.

Related Provisions: 128(2)(d), (d.2) — Where individual bankrupt; 146(8.2) — Withdrawal of RRSP overcontributions; 204.1(1) — Tax payable by individuals; 204.2(3) — When retirement savings plan deemed to be a registered plan.

History: Subsec. 204.2(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subsec. 204.2(1) substituted by 1990, c. 35, subsec. 22(1), applicable with respect to payments made to RRSPs after 1987, except that in its application with respect to such payments made in 1988,

(a) cl. 204.2(1)(b)(i)(A) shall be read without reference to "(j.2)", and

Subsec. 204.2(1) formerly read:

204.2 (1) "Excess amount for a year in respect of registered retirement savings plans" defined — "Excess amount for a year in respect of registered retirement savings plans" of an individual at a particular time means the amount by which the aggregate of

(a) all amounts paid by him to such plans under which he or his spouse is the annuitant, other than amounts to which paragraph 60(j), (j.1), (l) or subsection 146(16) applies or would, if the individual were resident in Canada throughout the year, apply, and

(b) all gifts made to such a plan under which he is the annuitant, other than gifts made thereto by his spouse, in the year and before the particular time, exceeds the aggregate of

(c) all amounts that the taxpayer is entitled to deduct in computing his income for the immediately preceding year in respect of those payments, and

(d) the greater of $5,500 and the amount the taxpayer is entitled to deduct in computing his income for the year in respect of those payments.

Para. 204.2(1)(d) substituted for paras. (d), (e) by 1986, c. 55, s. 71, applicable with respect to payments made to a registered retirement savings plan after 1985. Paras. 204.2(1)(d), (e) formerly read:

(d) $5,500, and

(e) the amount that the taxpayer would be entitled to deduct in computing his income for the year in respect of those payments by virtue of subsection 146(5.3) if section 146 were read without reference to subsection (5.5) thereof.

Para. 204.2(1)(e) added by 1984, c. 45, s. 84, applicable to 1984 et seq.

Paras. 204.2(1)(a), (4)(a) substituted by 1980-81-82-83, c. 140, subsecs. 114(1), (2), applicable, as to para. 204.2(1)(a), to 1981 et seq., and, as to para. 204.2(4)(a), to months ending after May, 1976. Paras. 204.2(1)(a), (4)(a) formerly read:

(a) all amounts paid by him to such plans under which he or his spouse is the annuitant, other than amounts to which paragraph 60(j) or (l) or subsection 146(16) have application, and

(a) the aggregate of contributions made after May 25, 1976 by an employee who is or is about to become a member of the plan, to the extent that his contributions exceed $5,500 in a year, less any such contributions that have been returned to the employee before that particular time, and

(1.1) Cumulative excess amount in respect of RRSPs — The cumulative excess amount of an individual in respect of registered retirement savings plans at any time in a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount of the individual's undeducted RRSP premiums at that time

exceeds

(b) the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B + R + C + D + E$$

where

A is the individual's unused RRSP deduction room at the end of the preceding taxation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the lesser of the RRSP dollar limit for the year and 18% of the individual's earned income (as defined in subsection 146(1)) for the preceding taxation year exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(ii) the individual's pension adjustment for the preceding taxation year in respect of an employer, or

(iii) a prescribed amount in respect of the individual for the year,

C is, where the individual attained 18 years of age in a preceding taxation year, $2,000, and in any other case, nil,

D is the group RRSP amount in respect of the individual at that time,

E is, where the individual attained 18 years of age before 1995, the individual's transitional amount at that time, and in any other case, nil, and

R is the individual's total pension adjustment reversal for the year.

Related Provisions: 204.1(2.1) — Tax payable by individuals — Contributions after 1990; 204.1(4) — Waiver of tax by CRA; 204.2(1.2) — Undeducted RRSP premiums; 204.2(1.3) — Group RRSP amount; 204.2(1.5) — Transitional amount.

History: The formula in para. 204.2(1.1)(b) amended, the description of R added, by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 49(1), (2), applicable to 1998 et seq. The formula in para. 204.2(1.1)(b) formerly read:

Para. 204.2(1.1)(b) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 51(1), applicable to 1996 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B - C + M$$

where

A is the individual's unused RRSP deduction room at the end of the immediately preceding taxation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which the lesser of the RRSP dollar limit for the year and 18% of the individual's earned income (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) for the immediately preceding taxation year exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's pension adjustment for the immediately preceding taxation year in respect of an employer or a prescribed amount in respect of the taxpayer for the year,

C is the individual's net past service pension adjustment, at that time, for the year, and

M is, where the individual attained 18 years of age in a preceding taxation year, $8,000, and otherwise, nil.

(1.2) Undeducted RRSP premiums — For the purposes of subsection (1.1) and the description of K in paragraph (1.3)(a), the amount of undeducted RRSP premiums of an individual at any time in a taxation year is the amount determined by the formula

where

H is, for taxation years ending before 1992, nil, and for taxation years ending after 1991, the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount of the individual's undeducted RRSP premiums at the end of the immediately preceding taxation year

exceeds

(b) the total of the amounts deducted under subsections 146(5) and (5.1) in computing the individual's income for the immediately preceding taxation year, to the extent that each amount was deducted in respect of premiums paid under registered retirement savings plans in or before that preceding year,

I is the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) a premium (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) paid by the individual in the year and before that time under a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) at the time the premium was paid, other than

(i) an amount paid to the plan in the first 60 days of the year and deducted in computing the individual's income for the immediately preceding taxation year,

(ii) an amount paid to the plan in the year and deducted under paragraph 60(j), (j.1), (j.2) or (l) in computing the individual's income for the year or the immediately preceding taxation year,

(iii) an amount transferred to the plan on behalf of the individual in accordance with any of subsections 146(16), 147(19) and 147.3(1) and (4) to (7) or in circumstances to which subsection 146(21) applies,

(iv) an amount deductible under subsection 146(6.1) in computing the individual's income for the year or a preceding taxation year,

(v) where the individual is a non-resident person, an amount that would, if the individual were resident in Canada throughout the year and the immediately preceding taxation year, be deductible under paragraph 60(j), (j.1), (j.2) or (l) in computing the individual's income for the year or the immediately preceding taxation year, or

(vi) an amount paid to the plan in the year that is not deductible in computing the individual's income for the year because of subparagraph 146(5)(a)(iv.1) or (5.1)(a)(iv), or

(b) a gift made in the year and before that time to a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)), other than a gift made thereto by the individual's spouse or common-law partner, and

J is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount (other than the portion thereof that reduces the amount on which tax is payable by the individual under subsection 204.1(1)) received by the individual in the year and before that time out of or under a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund and included in computing the individual's income for the year

(b) the amount deducted under paragraph 60(l) in computing the individual's income for the year.

Related Provisions: 204.2(1.4) — Deemed receipt where RRSP or RRIF amended; 204.2(3) — When retirement savings plan deemed to be registered plan; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The description of I in subsec. 204.2(1.2) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subpara. (a)(iii) of the description of I in subsec. 204.2(1.2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 92, applicable to 1992 et seq. That subpara. formerly read:

(iii) an amount transferred to the plan on behalf of the individual in accordance with any of subsections 146(16), 147(19) and 147.3(1) and (4) to (7),

(1.3) Group RRSP amount — For the purposes of this section, the group RRSP amount in respect of an individual at any time in a taxation year is the lesser of

(a) the lesser of the value of F and the amount determined by the formula

$$F - (G - K)$$

where

F is the lesser of

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is a qualifying group RRSP premium paid by the individual, to the extent that the premium is included in determining the value of I in subsection (1.2) in respect of the individual at that time, and

(ii) the RRSP dollar limit for the following taxation year,

G is the amount that would be determined under paragraph (1.1)(b) in respect of the individual at that time if the values of C, D and E in that paragraph were nil, and

K is

(i) where the year is the 1996 taxation year, the amount, if any, by which the amount of the individual's undeducted RRSP premiums at the beginning of the year exceeds the individual's cumulative excess amount in respect of registered retirement savings plans at the end of the 1995 taxation year, and

(ii) in any other case, the group RRSP amount in respect of the individual at the end of the preceding taxation year, and

(b) the amount that would be the individual's cumulative excess amount in respect of registered retirement savings plans at that time if the value of D in paragraph (1.1)(b) were nil.

Related Provisions: 146(1) — Meaning of "net past service pension adjustment" for RRSP rules; 204.2(1.2) — Undeducted RRSP premiums; 204.2(1.31) — Qualifying group RRSP premium; 257 — Formula amounts cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 204.2(1.3) repealed and substituted by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 51(3), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subsec. (1.3) formerly read:

(1.3) Net past service pension adjustment — For the purposes of subsection (1.1), the net past service pension adjustment of an individual, at any time, for a taxation year is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

$$P - G$$

where

P is the total of all amounts each of which is the accumulated PSPA of the individual for the year in respect of an employer, determined as of that time in accordance with prescribed rules; and

G is the amount of the individual's PSPA withdrawals for the year, determined as of that time in accordance with prescribed rules.

All that portion of subsec. 204.2(1.3) preceding the description of G amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 117, applicable after 1988. That portion formerly read:

(1.3) For the purposes of subsection (1.1), the net past service pension adjustment of an individual, at any time, for a taxation year is the amount determined by the formula

where

P is the total of all amounts each of which is the accumulated PSPA of the individual for the year in respect of an employer, determined as of that time in accordance with prescribed rules,

F is the amount of the individual's PSPA transfers for the year, determined as of that time in accordance with prescribed rules, and Regulations: 8303(2) (accumulated PSPA before 1996); 8307(5) (individual's PSPA withdrawals before 1996).

(1.31) Qualifying group RRSP premium — For the purpose of the description of F in paragraph (1.3)(a), a qualifying group RRSP premium paid by an individual is a premium paid under a registered retirement savings plan where

(a) the plan is part of a qualifying arrangement,

(b) the premium is an amount to which the individual is entitled for services rendered by the individual (whether or not as an employee), and

(c) the premium was remitted to the plan on behalf of the individual by the person or body of persons that is required to remunerate the individual for the services, or by an agent for that person or body, but does not include the part, if any, of a premium that, by making (or failing to make) an election or exercising (or failing to exercise) any other right under the arrangement after beginning to participate in the arrangement and within 12 months before the time the premium was paid, the individual could have prevented from being paid under the plan and that would not as a consequence have been required to be remitted on behalf of the individual to another registered retirement savings plan or to a registered pension plan in respect of a money purchase provision of the plan.

Related Provisions: 204.2(1.32) — Qualifying arrangement.

History: Subsec. 204.2(1.31) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 51(3), applicable to 1996 et seq.

(1.32) Qualifying arrangement — For the purpose of paragraph (1.31)(a), a qualifying arrangement is an arrangement under which premiums that satisfy the conditions in paragraphs (1.31)(b) and (c) are remitted to registered retirement savings plans on behalf of two or more individuals, but does not include an arrangement where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main purposes of the arrangement is to reduce tax payable under this Part.

History: Subsec. 204.2(1.32) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 51(3), applicable to 1996 et seq.

(1.4) Deemed receipt where RRSP or RRIF amended — For the purposes of subsection (1.2),

(a) where an amount in respect of a registered retirement savings plan has been included in computing an individual's income pursuant to paragraph 146(12)(b), that amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual out of the plan at the time referred to in that paragraph; and

(b) where an amount in respect of a registered retirement income fund has been included in computing an individual's income pursuant to paragraph 146.3(11)(b), that amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual out of the fund at the time referred to in that paragraph.

(1.5) Transitional amount — For the purpose of the description of E in paragraph (1.1)(b), an individual's transitional amount at any time in a taxation year is the lesser of

(a) $6,000, and

(b) where the value of L is nil, nil, and in any other case, the amount determined by the formula

$$L - M$$

where

L is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be determined under subsection (1.2) to be the amount of the individual's undeducted RRSP premiums at that time if

(A) the value of I in that subsection were determined for the 1995 taxation year without including premiums paid after February 26, 1995,

(B) the value of I in that subsection were nil for the 1996 and subsequent taxation years, and

(C) the value of J in that subsection were determined for the 1995 and subsequent taxation years without including the part, if any, of an amount received by the individual out of or under a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of premiums paid after February 26, 1995 by the individual under a registered retirement savings plan

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection 146(5) or (5.1) in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, to the extent that the amount was deducted in respect of premiums paid after that year (other than premiums paid before February 27, 1995), and

M is the amount that would be determined by the formula in paragraph (1.1)(b) in respect of the individual at that time if the values of D and E in that paragraph were nil and section 257 did not apply to that formula.

History: Subsec. 204.2(1.5) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 51(4), applicable to 1996 et seq.

(2) Where terminated plan deemed to continue to exist — Notwithstanding paragraph 146(12)(a), for the purposes of this Part, where a registered retirement savings plan ceases to exist and a payment or transfer of funds out of that plan has been made to which subsection 146(16) applied, if an individual's excess amount for a year in respect of registered retirement savings plans would have been greater had that plan not ceased to exist, for the purpose of computing the excess amount for a year in respect of registered retirement savings plans for so long as the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner is the annuitant under any registered retirement savings plan under which an annuity has not commenced to be paid to the annuitant, the plan that ceased to exist shall be deemed to remain in existence and the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner, as the case may be, shall be deemed to continue to be the annuitant thereunder.

History: Subsec. 204.2(2) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

(3) When retirement savings plan deemed to be a registered plan — Where a retirement savings plan under which an individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) is accepted by the Minister for registration, for the purpose of determining

(a) the amount of undeducted RRSP premiums of the individual at any time, and

(b) the excess amount for a year in respect of registered retirement savings plans of the individual at any time, the retirement savings plan shall be deemed to have become a registered retirement savings plan on the later of the day on which the plan came into existence and May 25, 1976.

History: Subsec. 204.2(3) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

(4) Definition of "excess amount" for a DPSP — "Excess amount" at any time for a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan means the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) such portion of the total of all contributions made to the trust before that time and after May 25, 1976 by a beneficiary under the plan, other than

(i) contributions that have been deducted by the beneficiary under paragraph 60(k) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952,

(ii) amounts transferred to the plan on behalf of the beneficiary in accordance with subsection 147(19), or

(iii) the portion of the contributions (other than contributions referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii)) made by the beneficiary in each calendar year before 1991 not in excess of $5,500, as has not been returned to the beneficiary before that time; or

(b) a gift received by the trust before that time and after May 25, 1976.

PART X.2 — TAX IN RESPECT OF REGISTERED INVESTMENTS

204.4 (1) Definition of "registered investment" — In this Part, "registered investment" means a trust or a corporation that has applied in prescribed form as of a particular date in the year of application and has been accepted by the Minister as of that date as a registered investment for one or more of the following:

(a) registered retirement savings plans,

(b) [Repealed under former Act]

(c) registered retirement income funds, and

(d) deferred profit sharing plans and that has not been notified by the Minister that it is no longer registered under this Part.

Related Provisions: 248(1)"registered investment" — Definition applies to entire Act; Reg. 4900(5) — RRSP registered investment qualifies for RESP and RDSP.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(2) Acceptance of applicant for registration — The Minister may accept for registration for the purposes of this Part any applicant that is

(a) a trust that has as its sole trustee a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee if, on the particular date referred to in subsection (1),

(i) all the property of the applicant is held in trust for the benefit of not fewer than 20 beneficiaries and

(A) not fewer than 20 beneficiaries are taxpayers described in any of paragraphs 149(1)(o) to (o.2), (o.4) or (s), or

(B) not fewer than 100 beneficiaries are taxpayers described in paragraph 149(1)(r) or (x),

(I) shares, marketable securities and cash, and

(II) bonds, debentures, mortgages, hypothecary claims, notes and other similar obligations, and

(B) the amount by which the fair market value at the time of acquisition of its real property that may reasonably be regarded as being held for the purpose of producing income from property exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is owing by it on account of its acquisition of the real property is not less than 80% of the amount by which the fair market value at the time of acquisition of all its property exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is owing by it on account of its acquisition of real property,

Proposed Amendment — 204.4(2)(a)(ii) after (A)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 265(1), will amend the portion of subpara. 204.4(2)(a)(ii) after cl. (A) by substituting "real or immovable property" for "real property" in three places, to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(iii) the fair market value at the time of acquisition of its shares, bonds, mortgages, hypothecary claims and other securities of any one corporation or debtor (other than bonds, mortgages, hypothecary claims and other securities of or guaranteed by Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province or Canadian municipality) is not more than 10% of the amount by which the fair market value at the time of acquisition of all its property exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is an amount owing by it on account of its acquisition of real property,

(iv) the amount by which

(A) the fair market value at the time of acquisition of any one of its real properties

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is owing by it on account of its acquisition of the real property is not more than 10% of the amount by which the fair market value at the time of acquisition of all its property exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is owing by it on account of its acquisition of real property,

Proposed Amendment — 204.4(2)(a)(iii), (iv)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 265(2), will amend subparas. 204.4(2)(a)(iii) and (iv) by substituting "real or immovable" for "real", once in subpara. (iii) and three times in subpara. (iv), to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(v) not less than 95% of the income of the applicant for its most recently completed fiscal period, or where no such period exists, that part of its current fiscal period before the particular date, was derived from investments described in subparagraph (ii),

(vi) the total value of all interests in the applicant owned by all trusts or corporations described in any of paragraphs 149(1)(o) to (o.2), (o.4) or (s) to which any one employer, either alone or together with persons with whom the employer was not dealing at arm's length, has made contributions does not exceed 25% of the value of all its property,

(vii) the total value of all interests in the applicant owned by all trusts described in paragraph 149(1)(r) or (x) to which any one taxpayer, either alone or together with persons with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, has made contributions does not exceed 25% of the value of all its property, and

(viii) the applicant does not hold property acquired by it after May 26, 1975 that is

(A) a mortgage or hypothecary claim (other than a mortgage or hypothecary claim insured under the National Housing Act or by a corporation that offers its services to the public in Canada as an insurer of mortgages and that is approved as a private insurer of mortgages by the Superintendent of Financial Institutions pursuant to the powers assigned to the Superintendent under subsection 6(1) of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions Act), or an interest therein, in respect of which the mortgagor or hypothecary debtor is the annuitant under a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund, or a person with whom the annuitant is not dealing at arm's length, if any of the funds of a trust governed by such a plan or fund have been used to acquire an interest in the applicant, or

Proposed Amendment — 204.4(2)(a)(viii)(A)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 265(3), will amend cl. 204.4(2)(a)(viii)(A) by substituting "mortgages or hypothecary claims" for "mortgages" in two places and "interest therein, or for civil law a right therein," for "interest therein,", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(B) a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation issued by a cooperative corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 136(2)) or a credit union that has granted any benefit or privilege to any annuitant or beneficiary under a plan or fund referred to in subsection (1) that is dependent on or related to

(I) ownership by a trust governed by any such plan or fund of shares, bonds, debentures, notes or similar obligations of the cooperative corporation or credit union, or

(II) ownership by the applicant of shares, bonds, debentures, notes or similar obligations of the cooperative corporation or credit union if the trust governed by any such plan or fund has used any of its funds to acquire an interest in the applicant;

(b) a trust that

(i) would be a trust described in paragraph (a) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraphs (a)(i), (vi) and (vii), and

(ii) holds only prescribed investments for the type of plan or fund in respect of which it has applied for registration;

(c) a mutual fund trust;

(d) a trust that

(i) would be a mutual fund trust if paragraph 132(6)(c) were not applicable, and

(ii) holds only prescribed investments for the type of plan or fund in respect of which it has applied for registration;

(e) a mutual fund corporation or investment corporation; or

(f) a corporation that

(i) would be a mutual fund corporation or investment corporation if it could have elected to be a public corporation under paragraph (b) of the definition "public corporation" in subsection 89(1) had the conditions prescribed therefor required only that a class of shares of its capital stock be qualified for distribution to the public, and

(ii) holds only prescribed investments for the type of plan or fund in respect of which it has applied for registration.

Forms: T3RI: Registered investment income tax return; T2217: Application for registration as a registered investment.

(3) Revocation of registration — The Minister shall notify a registered investment that it is no longer registered

(a) on being satisfied that, at a date subsequent to its registration date, it no longer satisfies one or more of the conditions necessary for it to be acceptable for registration under this Part, other than a condition the failure of which to satisfy would make it liable for tax under section 204.6; or

(b) within 30 days after receipt of a request in prescribed form from the registered investment for termination of its registration.

Related Provisions: 204.4(4) — Suspension of revocation; 204.4(5) — Cancellation of revocation.

(4) Suspension of revocation — Notwithstanding a notification to a taxpayer under subsection (3), for the purposes of sections 204.6 and 204.7, the taxpayer is deemed to be a registered investment for each month or part of a month after the notification during which an interest in, or a share of the capital stock of, the taxpayer continues, by virtue of having been a registered investment, to be a qualified investment for a plan or fund referred to in subsection (1).

History: Subsec. 204.4(4) amended by 2005, c. 30, subsec. 12(3), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2004. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) Notwithstanding a notification to a taxpayer under subsection (3), for the purposes of sections 204.6 and 204.7 and Part XI, the taxpayer shall be deemed to be a registered investment for each month or part thereof after the notification during which an interest in, or a share of the capital stock of, the taxpayer continues, by virtue of having been a registered investment, to be a qualified investment for a plan or fund referred to in subsection (1).

(5) Cancellation of revocation — Where a registered investment has been notified pursuant to paragraph (3)(a) and within 3 months from the date of notification it satisfies the Minister that it is acceptable for registration under this Part, the Minister may declare the notification to be a nullity.

(6) Successor trust — Where at any time in a year a particular trust described in paragraph (2)(a) or (b) has substantially the same beneficiaries and can reasonably be regarded as being a continuation of another trust that was a registered investment in the year or the immediately preceding year, for the purposes of this Part, the particular trust shall be deemed to be the same trust as the other trust.

(7) Deemed registration of registered investment — Where at the end of any month a registered investment could qualify for acceptance at that time under subsection (2), it shall be deemed for the purposes of section 204.6 to have been registered under the first of the following paragraphs under which it is registrable regardless of the paragraph under which it was accepted for registration by the Minister:

(a) paragraph (2)(c) or (e), as the case may be;

(b) paragraph (2)(a);

(c) paragraph (2)(d) or (f), as the case may be; and

(d) paragraph (2)(b).

(2) Tax payable — Where at the end of any month a taxpayer that is a registered investment described in paragraph 204.4(2)(a) or (b) holds property that is a share, bond, mortgage, hypothecary claim or other security of a corporation or debtor (other than bonds, mortgages, hypothecary claims and other securities of or guaranteed by Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province or Canadian municipality), it shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of such a property at the time of its acquisition

exceeds

(b) 10% of the amount by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value, at the time of acquisition, of one of its properties

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount owing by the trust at the end of the month in respect of the acquisition of real property.

Proposed Amendment — 204.6(2)(b)(ii)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 266(1), will amend subpara. 204.6(2)(b)(ii) by substituting "real property or immovables" for "real property", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(3) Idem — Where at the end of any month a taxpayer that is a registered investment described in paragraph 204.4(2)(a) holds real property, it shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the total of all amounts each of which is the amount by which the excess of

(a) the fair market value at the time of its acquisition of any one real property of the taxpayer

(b) the total of all amounts each of which was an amount owing by it at the end of the month on account of its acquisition of the real property was greater than 10% of the amount by which the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value at the time of its acquisition of a property held by it at the end of the month exceeds the total of all amounts each of which was an amount owing by it at the end of the month on account of its acquisition of real property.

Proposed Amendment — 204.6(3)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 266(2), will amend subsec. 204.6(3) by substituting "real or immovable property" for "real property" in four places, to come into force on Royal Assent.

PART X.3 — LABOUR-SPONSORED VENTURE CAPITAL CORPORATIONS

History: The heading "Labour-Sponsored Venture Capital Corporations" before s. 204.8 amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 50, applicable after February 18, 1997. It formerly read:

Registered Labour-Sponsored Venture Capital Corporations

Proposed Amendment — Part X.3

Federal budget, supplementary information, Feb. 16, 1999: RRSP withdrawals under the Home Buyers' Plan (HBP) and the Lifelong Learning Plan (LLP)

The HBP and the LLP allow a qualifying individual to withdraw RRSP funds on a tax-free basis to purchase a home or to pay for education. HBP withdrawals are repayable over a 15-year period, while LLP withdrawals are repayable over a 10-year period. To the extent that a scheduled repayment for a year is not made, it is added in computing the participant's income for the year.

The Quebec government has proposed to allow individuals to withdraw proceeds from the redemption of provincial LSVCC shares held within an RRSP, without the provincial LSVCC credit being recovered if the withdrawal is made under the HBP or the LLP. Under existing law, the federal credit will not be recovered in these circumstances. Individuals making such withdrawals are expected to acquire replacement shares in annual amounts determined under the existing HBP and LLP repayment schedules. These replacement purchases are not eligible for the Quebec LSVCC credit. Where an individual fails to acquire LSVCC replacement shares, a special Quebec tax of 15 per cent of the shortfall is imposed on the individual to recover the LSVCC credit that Quebec provided on the purchase of the redeemed shares.

The budget proposes that purchases of replacement shares in Quebec LSVCCs likewise not be eligible for the federal LSVCC credit. In addition, where an individual fails to acquire a replacement share, it is proposed to levy a federal penalty tax that matches the special 15 per cent Quebec tax. These proposals will apply from the date the corresponding Quebec proposals apply.

Similar changes are not contemplated for federally-registered LSVCCs or LSVCCs registered in other provinces. Because shares in Quebec LSVCCs are not normally redeemable until retirement, amounts on which an LSVCC credit was paid will be available for small business investment for a considerable period of time even if withdrawn under the HBP or the LLP for part of that time. In contrast, because shares in federally-registered LSVCCs or in LSVCCs registered in other provinces may generally be redeemed without a recovery of the federal credit after eight years, it would be inappropriate to allow the amounts invested in these shares not to be available for small business investment for any length of time in that period.

204.8 (1) Definitions — In this Part,

"annuitant" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"eligible business entity", at any time, means a particular entity that is

(a) a prescribed corporation, or

(b) a Canadian partnership or a taxable Canadian corporation, all or substantially all of the fair market value of the property of which is, at that time, attributable to

(i) property used in a specified active business carried on by the particular entity or by a corporation controlled by the particular entity,

(ii) shares of the capital stock or debt obligations of one or more entities that, at that time, are eligible business entities related to the particular entity, or

(iii) any combination of properties described in subparagraph (i) or (ii);

Related Provisions: 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

History: The definition "eligible business entity" in subsec. 204.8(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 54(2), applicable to 1999 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"eligible business entity", at any time, means a particular entity that is a Canadian partnership or a taxable Canadian corporation, all or substantially all of the fair market value of the property of which is, at that time, attributable to

(a) property used in a specified active business carried on by the particular entity or by a corporation controlled by the particular entity,

(b) shares of the capital stock or debt obligations of one or more entities that, at that time, are eligible business entities related to the particular entity, or

(c) any combination of properties described in paragraph (a) or (b);

Regulations: 4801.02 (prescribed corporation for para. (a)).

"eligible investment" of a particular corporation means

(a) a share that was issued to the particular corporation and that is a share of the capital stock of a corporation that was an eligible business entity at the time the share was issued,

(b) a particular debt obligation that was issued to the particular corporation by an entity that was an eligible business entity at the time the particular debt obligation was issued where

(i) the entity is not restricted by the terms of the particular debt obligation or by the terms of any agreement related to that obligation from incurring other debts,

(ii) the particular debt obligation, if secured, is secured solely by a floating charge on the assets of the entity or by a guarantee referred to in paragraph (c), and

(iii) the particular debt obligation, by its terms or any agreement relating to that obligation, is subordinate to all other debt obligations of the entity, except that, where the entity is a corporation, the particular debt obligation need not be subordinate to

(A) a debt obligation, issued by the entity, that is prescribed to be a small business security, or

(B) a debt obligation owing to a shareholder of the entity or to a person related to any such shareholder,

(c) a guarantee provided by the particular corporation in respect of a debt obligation that would, if the debt obligation had been issued to the particular corporation at the time the guarantee was provided, have been at that time an eligible investment because of paragraph (b), or

(d) an option or a right granted by an eligible business entity that is a corporation, in conjunction with the issue of a share or debt obligation that is an eligible investment, to acquire a share of the capital stock of the eligible business entity that would be an eligible investment if that share were issued at the time that the option or right was granted,

if the following conditions are satisfied:

(e) immediately after the time the share or debt obligation was issued, the guarantee was provided or the option or right was granted, as the case may be, the total of the costs to the particular corporation of all shares, options, rights and debt obligations of the eligible business entity and all corporations related to it and 25% of the amount of all guarantees provided by the particular corporation in respect of debt obligations of the eligible business entity and the related corporations does not exceed the lesser of $15,000,000 and 10% of the shareholders' equity in the particular corporation, determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, on a cost basis and without taking into account any unrealized gains or losses on the investments of the particular corporation, and

(f) immediately before the time the share or debt obligation was issued, the guarantee was provided or the option or right was granted, as the case may be,

(i) the carrying value of the total assets of the eligible business entity and all corporations (other than prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporations) related to it (determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles on a consolidated or combined basis, where applicable) did not exceed $50,000,000, and

(ii) the total of

(A) the number of employees of the eligible business entity and all corporations related to it who normally work at least 20 hours per week for the entity and the related corporations, and

(B) ½ of the number of other employees of the entity and the related corporations, did not exceed 500;

Proposed Amendment — 204.8(1)"reserve"

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 22, 2008:

GrowthWorks, Vancouver, BC

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter dated October 4, 2007 in which you identified an issue with respect to the application of the definition "reserve" in subsection 204.8(1) of the Income Tax Act (Act).

Under the Act, federally registered Labour-Sponsored Venture Capital Corporations ("LSVCCs") are generally required to invest at least 60% of their assets in eligible small businesses. Any amount not invested in eligible small businesses must be held in investments that meet the definition "reserve". Under this provision, "reserve" is defined as property described in any of paragraphs (a), (b), (c), (f) and (g) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 of the Act.

You have expressed a concern that deposits with credit unions are excluded from the definition "reserve" in subsection 204.8(1) of the Act. We agree with your concern, and as such, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister that the definition "reserve" be amended to include deposits with credit unions that are "member institutions", as that term is defined in subsection 137.1(5) of the Act. If our recommendation is acted upon, we anticipate that the amendments would be included in a future technical bill and would apply with respect to taxation years that end on or after January 1, 2007. While I cannot offer any assurance that the Minister will agree with our recommendation, I hope that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

"revoked corporation" means a corporation the registration of which has been revoked under subsection 204.81(6);

Related Provisions: 211.7(1)"revoked corporation" — Definition for Part XII.5.

"specified active business", at any time, means an active business that is carried on in Canada where

(a) at least 50% of the full-time employees employed at that time in respect of the business are employed in Canada, and

(b) at least 50% of the salaries and wages paid to employees employed at that time in respect of the business are reasonably attributable to services rendered in Canada by the employees;

History: The definition "specified active business" in s. 204.8 amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 209, applicable after 1988. It formerly read:

"specified active business", at any time, means an active business that is carried on in Canada where, at that time,

(a) at least 50% of the full-time employees employed in respect of the business are employed in Canada, and

(b) at least 50% of the salaries and wages paid to employees employed in respect of the business are reasonably attributable to services rendered in Canada by the employees.

"specified individual", in respect of a share, means an individual (other than a trust) whose labour-sponsored funds tax credit (as defined by subsection 127.4(6)) in respect of the original acquisition of the share is not nil or would not be nil if this Act were read without reference to paragraphs 127.4(6)(b) and (d).

History: The definition "specified individual" in s. 204.8 amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 55(3), applicable after 1995. It formerly read:

"specified individual", in respect of a share, means an individual (other than a trust) whose labour-sponsored funds tax credit for a taxation year would take into account the amount of consideration paid to acquire, or to subscribe for, the share if the information return described in paragraph 204.81(6)(c) in respect of the share were filed as required under paragraph 127.4(3)(b).

The definition "specified individual" added to s. 204.8 by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 29(2), applicable after December 2, 1992.

"start-up period" of a corporation means

(a) subject to paragraph (c), in the case of a corporation that first issued Class A shares before February 17, 1999, the corporation's taxation year in which it first issued those shares and the four following taxation years,

(b) subject to paragraph (c), in the case of a corporation that first issues Class A shares after February 16, 1999, the corporation's taxation year in which it first issues those shares and the following taxation year, or

(c) where a corporation files an election with its return under this Part for a particular taxation year of the corporation that ends after 1998 and that is referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), the period, if any, consisting of the taxation years referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), as the case may be, other than the particular year and all taxation years following the particular year.

History [204.8(1)"start-up period"]: The definition "start-up period" added to subsec. 204.8(1) by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 54(3), applicable after 1997.

History [204.8(1)]: Section 204.8 renumbered as subsec. 204.8(1) by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 54(1), applicable to 1999 et seq.

(2) When venture capital business discontinued — For the purposes of section 127.4, this Part and Part XII.5, a corporation discontinues its venture capital business

(a) at the time its articles cease to comply with paragraph 204.81(1)(c) and would so cease to comply if it had been incorporated after December 5, 1996;

(b) at the time it begins to wind-up;

(c) immediately before the time it amalgamates or merges with one or more other corporations to form one corporate entity (other than an entity deemed by paragraph 204.85(3)(d) to have been registered under this Part);

(d) at the time it becomes a revoked corporation, if one of the grounds on which the Minister could revoke its registration for the purposes of this Part is set out in paragraph 204.81(6)(a.1); or

(e) at the first time after the revocation of its registration for the purposes of this Part that it fails to comply with any of the provisions of its articles governing its authorized capital, the management of its business and affairs, the reduction of paid-up capital or the redemption or transfer of its Class A shares.

Proposed Amendment — Asset purchase merger

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Oct. 17, 2005:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter of September 26, 2005, requesting that subsection 204.8(2) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") be amended in order to accommodate "asset purchase mergers" involving labour-sponsored venture capital corporations to occur without triggering any penalty tax under Part X.3 of the Act.

As you state in your letter, it is the intention of a number of existing LSVCCs, all managed by [xxx], to consolidate their operations. It is intended that they do this, generally, in three steps. First, one LSVCC (the "Continuing Fund") will purchase, at fair market value, all the assets of one or more LSVCCs (each such LSVCC, a "Terminating Fund") in exchange for Class A shares of the Continuing Fund. Once this is done, the Terminating Fund will redeem the shares of its individual investors, providing, as payment for the redemption, the Class A shares of the Continuing Fund. Afterward, the shell Terminating Fund will be wound up or dissolved. You have informed us that you have obtained a ruling from the Canada Revenue Agency that such a transaction will qualify as a "merger" under subsection 204.85(3) of the Act so that the Continuing Fund will, for the purpose of the LSVCC rules, be treated as a continuation of both the Continuing Fund and the Terminating Fund and that there will be no recovery of the labour-sponsored funds tax credit from the existing investors in the Terminating Fund.

You have informed us that, in order to complete the merger, the articles of incorporation of the Continuing Fund will have to be amended to allow for Class A shares to be issued to a corporation, and to allow a transfer of those Class A shares from the Terminating Fund to the individual investors of the Terminating Fund. However, if the Continuing Fund amends its articles in this way, under the present wording of the Act, paragraph 204.8(2)(a) (which, in conjunction with section 204.841, levies a penalty tax on a registered LSVCC if its articles cease to comply with paragraph 204.81(1)(c)) will be triggered.

The "asset purchase merger" transaction described in your letter does not appear to contravene the tax policy underlying the labour-sponsored funds tax credit program. Consequently, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance modifications to the income tax provisions concerning the labour-sponsored funds tax credit that would permit, without triggering a penalty tax under section 204.841, a Continuing Fund to issue, in the course of an asset purchase merger of the Continuing Fund and the Terminating Fund, its Class A shares to a Terminating Fund in exchange for the net assets of the Terminating Fund if those Class A shares of the Continuing Fund are transferred to the Terminating Fund's Class A shareholders upon the redemption by the terminating fund of the Class A shares of the Terminating Fund. We would also recommend that those modifications be made effective in respect of asset purchase mergers completed after 2004.

While we cannot offer any assurance that our recommendation in this matter will be accepted, we hope our statement of intent in this matter will be helpful in responding to your concern.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

204.81 (1) Conditions for registration — The Minister may register a corporation for the purposes of this Part if, in the opinion of the Minister, it complies with the following conditions:

(a) the corporation has applied in prescribed form to the Minister for registration;

(b) the corporation was caused to be incorporated under the Canada Business Corporations Act by an eligible labour body; and

(c) the articles of the corporation provide that

(i) the business of the corporation is restricted to assisting the development of eligible business entities and to creating, maintaining and protecting jobs by providing financial and managerial advice to such entities and by investing funds of the corporation in eligible investments and reserves,

(ii) the authorized capital of the corporation shall consist only of

(A) Class A shares that are issuable only to individuals (other than trusts) and trusts governed by registered retirement savings plans, that entitle their holders

Proposed Amendment — 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(A) pre (I)

(A) Class A shares that are issuable only to individuals (other than trusts), trusts governed by registered retirement savings plans and trusts governed by TFSAs and that entitle their holders

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 67, will amend the portion of cl. 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(A) before subcl. (I) to read as above, applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 204.81(1) sets out the conditions for the registration of labour-sponsored venture capital corporations (LSVCCs). Under existing clause 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(A), LSVCCs can issue Class A shares only to individuals (other than trusts) and trusts governed by registered retirement savings plans (RRSPs).

Clause 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(A) is amended to allow LSVCCs to issue Class A shares to trusts governed by TFSAs as well. This allows LSVCCs to amend their articles of incorporation to allow the issuance of Class A shares to an individual (other than a trust), to a trust governed by an RRSP, to a trust governed by a TFSA, or to any combination thereof.

(I) to receive notice of and, subject to the Canada Business Corporations Act, to attend and vote at all meetings of the shareholders of the corporation,

(II) to receive dividends at the discretion of the board of directors of the corporation, and

(III) to receive, on dissolution of the corporation, all the assets of the corporation that remain after payment of all amounts payable to the holders of all other classes of shares of the corporation,

(B) Class B shares that are issuable only to and may be held only by eligible labour bodies, that entitle each of those shareholders

(I) to receive notice of and, subject to the Canada Business Corporations Act, to attend and vote at all meetings of the shareholders of the corporation, and

(II) to receive, on dissolution of the corporation, an amount equal to the amount of the consideration received by the corporation on the issue of the Class B shares,

but that do not entitle them to receive dividends, and

(C) any additional classes of shares that are authorized, if the rights, privileges, restrictions and conditions attached to the shares are approved by the Minister of Finance,

(iii) the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed by a board of directors, at least ½ of whom are appointed by the Class B shareholders,

(iv) the corporation shall not reduce its paid-up capital in respect of a class of shares (other than Class B shares) otherwise than by way of a redemption of shares of the corporation or in such other manner as is prescribed,

(v) the corporation shall not redeem a Class A share in respect of which an information return described in paragraph (6)(c) has been issued unless

(A) where the share is held by the specified individual in respect of the share, a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of that individual or a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which that individual, spouse or common-law partner is the annuitant,

(I) a request in writing to redeem the share is made by the holder to the corporation and the information return referred to in paragraph (6)(c) has been returned to the corporation, or

(II) [Repealed]

(III) the corporation is notified in writing that the specified individual in respect of the share became disabled and permanently unfit for work or terminally ill after the share was issued,

(B) there is no specified individual in respect of the share,

(C) [Repealed]

(D) the corporation is notified in writing that the share is held by a person on whom the share has devolved as a consequence of the death of

(I) a holder of the share, or

(II) an annuitant under a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund that was a holder of the share,

(E) the redemption occurs more than 8 years after the day on which the share was issued, or

Proposed Amendment — 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E)

(E) the redemption occurs

(I) more than eight years after the day on which the share was issued, or

(II) if the day that is eight years after that issuance is in February or March of a calendar year, in February or on March 1st of that calendar year but not more than 31 days before that day, or

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 171(1), will amend cl. 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E) to read as above, applicable after February 6, 2000 to corporations incorporated at any time.

Technical Notes: Section 204.81 sets out the conditions for the registration of labour-sponsored venture capital corporations (LSVCCs). Subsection 204.81(1) permits the Minister of National Revenue to register a corporation as an LSVCC under Part X.3 if its articles satisfy specified conditions, and other requirements are met. Subparagraph 204.81(1)(c)(v) sets out the requirements of a federally-registered LSVCC's articles regarding the circumstances in which the LSVCC may redeem shares of its capital stock. The current rule generally provides, pursuant to clause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E), a minimum holding period of eight years for corporations that are incorporated after March 5, 1996.

Clause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E) is amended to require that the articles of a federally-registered LSVCC provide that the LSVCC shall not redeem its shares unless the redemption occurs either

- more than eight years after the day on which the share was issued, or
- in February or on March 1st but not more than 31 days before the day that is eight years after the day on which the share was issued.

Dept. of Finance news release 2000-009, Feb. 7, 2000: See under 211.8(1)(a).

(F) the holder of the share has satisfied such other conditions as are prescribed,

(vi) [Repealed]

(vii) the corporation shall not register a transfer of a Class A share by the specified individual in respect of the share, a spouse or common-law partner of the specified individual or a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the specified individual or spouse or common-law partner is the annuitant, unless

(A) no information return has been issued under paragraph (6)(c) in respect of the share,

(B) [Repealed]

(C) the transfer is to the specified individual, a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the specified individual or a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the specified individual or the spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the specified individual is the annuitant,

(D) the corporation is notified in writing that the transfer occurs as a consequence of the death of the specified individual or a spouse or common-law partner of the specified individual,

(E) the corporation is notified in writing that the transfer occurs after the specified individual dies,

(F) [Repealed]

(G) the corporation is notified in writing that the specified individual became disabled and permanently unfit for work or terminally ill after the share was issued and before the transfer, or

(H) such other conditions as are prescribed are satisfied;

(viii) the corporation shall not pay any fee or remuneration to a shareholder, director or officer of the corporation unless the payment was approved by a resolution of the directors of the corporation, and

(ix) the corporation shall not make any investment in an eligible business entity with which the corporation or any of the directors of the corporation does not deal at arm's length unless

(A) the corporation would deal at arm's length with the eligible business entity but for the corporation's interest as the holder of eligible investments in such entity, or

(B) the investment was approved by special resolution of the shareholders of the corporation before the investment was made.

Related Provisions: 131(8) — Prescribed LSVCC deemed to be a mutual fund corporation; 131(11) — Rules respecting prescribed LSVCCs; 204.81(1.1), (1.2) — Application before 2004; 204.81(6)(a), (a.1) — Revocation of registration for failure to comply with conditions; 211.7 — Recovery of credit from provincial LSVCCs;

211.8(1) — Clawback of credit on disposition of approved share; 211.9(a)(ii) — Refund of clawback; 248(1)"registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation" — Definition of RLSVCC for entire Act; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

History: The opening words of cl. 204.81(1)(c)(v)(A) amended by 2000, c. 12, s. 137, applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner". The opening words formerly read:

(A) where the share is held by the specified individual in respect of the share, a spouse or former spouse of that individual or a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which that individual or spouse is the annuitant,

Subpara. 204.81(1)(c)(vii) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Cl. 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(C) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 52, applicable after 1996. Cl. 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(C) formerly read:

(C) such additional classes of shares without voting rights (except as may be required by law) as are authorized, where the rights, privileges, restrictions and conditions attached to the shares are determined by the board of directors of the corporation and approved by the Minister of Finance,

Cl. 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(B), subpara. (c)(iii), the opening words of subpara. (c)(v), subcl. (c)(v)(A)(I), cl. (c)(v)(E) amended, subcl. (c)(v)(A)(II), cl. (c)(v)(C), subpara. (c)(vi) and cl. (c)(vii)(B) repealed, by 1997, c. 25, subsecs. 56(1)-(8), applicable to corporations that are incorporated after March 5, 1996. Those provisions formerly read:

(B) Class B shares that are issuable only to and may be held only by the eligible labour body that caused the corporation to be incorporated and that entitle the eligible labour body

(I) to receive notice of and, subject to the Canada Business Corporations Act, to attend and vote at all meetings of the shareholders of the corporation, and

but that do not entitle the eligible labour body to receive dividends, and

. . . . .

(iii) the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed by a board of directors at least ½ of whom are appointed by the eligible labour body that caused the corporation to be incorporated,

. . . . .

(v) subject to the provision described in subparagraph (vi), the corporation may redeem a Class A share in respect of which an information return described in paragraph (6)(c) has been issued only if

. . . . .

(I) a request in writing to redeem the share is made by the holder to the corporation within 60 days after the day on which the share was issued to the original purchaser and the information return referred to in paragraph (6)(c) has been returned to the corporation,

(II) the corporation is notified in writing that the specified individual in respect of the share has retired from the workforce or ceased to be resident in Canada, or

(C) the time of redemption is on or after the day on which the specified individual in respect of the share attained, or would, but for death, have attained the age of 65 years,

. . . . .

(E) the redemption occurs more than 5 years after the day on which the share was issued, or

. . . . .

(vi) unless a Class A share has been issued and outstanding for at least 2 years, the corporation shall not be permitted to redeem the share solely because the specified individual in respect of the share attains 65 years of age or the corporation is notified that the specified individual

(A) has retired from the workforce, or

(B) has ceased to be resident in Canada,

. . . . .

(B) the transfer occurs more than 5 years after the day on which the share was issued,

Cl. 204.81(1)(c)(vii)(E) amended and cl. (F) repealed, by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 56(9), applicable to corporations that are incorporated after December 5, 1996. Those cls. formerly read:

(E) the corporation is notified in writing that the transfer occurs after the specified individual dies, retires from the workforce or ceases to be resident in Canada,

(F) the specified individual attains 65 years of age,

The opening words of para. 204.81(1)(c) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 30(1), applicable after 1988. They formerly read:

(c) the articles of incorporation of the corporation provide that

The opening words of cl. 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(A), that portion of subpara. 204.81(1)(c)(ii) following subcl. (A)(III) repealed, and subparas. 204.81(c)(v) to (vii) amended, by 1994, c. 8, subsecs. 30(2) to (4), applicable after December 2, 1992 except that, where a corporation was registered under subsec. 204.81(1) before December 3, 1992, the amendment applies to the corporation on and after the earlier of

(a) November 30, 1994, and

(b) the first day after December 2, 1992 on which the articles of incorporation of the corporation are amended.

The substituted and repealed portions formerly read:

(A) Class A shares that are issuable only to individuals (other than trusts), that entitle the holders thereof and that, where an information return described in paragraph (6)(c) was issued in respect thereof, are redeemable or transferable only in the circumstances described in subparagraph (v) or (vii), as the case may be,

. . . . .

(v) subject to the provision described in subparagraph (vi), the corporation may redeem a Class A share in respect of which an information return described in paragraph (6)(c) was issued only if the corporation is requested in writing by the holder of the share to redeem it and

(A) where the share is held by the original purchaser,

(I) the request is made within 60 days after the day on which the share was issued to the original purchaser, the information return referred to in paragraph (6)(c) was returned to the corporation and the share is not held as an investment of a registered retirement savings plan, or

(II) the corporation is notified in writing that the original purchaser has retired from the workforce, has attained 65 years of age, has ceased to be a resident of Canada or has, after acquiring the share, become disabled and permanently unfit for work or become terminally ill,

(B) where the holder of the share is not the original purchaser, the time of redemption is on or after the day on which the original purchaser attained, or would, but for death, have attained the age of 65 years,

(C) the share is held by an individual who notifies the corporation in writing that the share has devolved on the individual as a consequence of the death of a shareholder of the corporation,

(D) the share is held as an investment of a registered retirement savings plan under which the original purchaser or the original purchaser's spouse is the annuitant and the original purchaser has died or, where the original purchaser is living, the corporation is notified in writing that the original purchaser

(I) has retired from the workforce or has attained 65 years of age,

(II) has, after acquiring the share, become disabled and permanently unfit for work or become terminally ill, or

(III) has ceased to be a resident of Canada,

(E) the share is held as an investment of a registered retirement savings plan under which the original purchaser or the original purchaser's spouse is not an annuitant and the time of redemption is on or after the day on which the original purchaser attained, or would, but for death, have attained the age of 65 years,

(F) the redemption occurs more than 5 years after the day on which the share was issued, or

(G) the holder of the share has satisfied such other conditions as are prescribed,

(vi) the corporation shall not, because of the original purchaser of a share described in subparagraph (v)

(i) having retired from the workforce,

(ii) having attained 65 years of age, or

(iii) having ceased to be a resident of Canada, redeem the share until it has been issued and outstanding for at least 2 years,

(vii) the corporation shall not register a transfer by the original purchaser, or by a registered retirement savings plan under which the original purchaser or the original purchaser's spouse is the annuitant, of a Class A share in respect of which an information return described in paragraph (6)(c) was issued, except where the transfer occurs more than 5 years after the day on which the share was issued, or where the corporation is notified in writing that the share is being transferred

(A) to be held as an investment of a registered retirement savings plan under which the original purchaser or the original purchaser's spouse is the annuitant,

(B) as a consequence of the death of the original purchaser,

(C) at a time when the original purchaser

(I) has retired from the workforce or has attained 65 years of age,

(II) has, after acquiring the share, become disabled and permanently unfit for work or become terminally ill, or

(III) has ceased to be a resident of Canada, or

(D) in accordance with such other conditions as are prescribed,

"Eligible labour body" substituted for "national central labour body" in para. (b), cl. (c)(ii)(B) and subpara. (c)(iii) of subsec. 204.81(1) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 119, applicable to 1992 et seq.

Regulations: 6706 (prescribed conditions for 204.81(1)(c)(v)(G)).

Forms: T5005: Application to register a labour-sponsored venture capital corporation.

(1.1) Corporations incorporated before March 6, 1996 — In applying clause (1)(c)(v)(E) in relation to any time before 2004 in respect of a corporation incorporated before March 6, 1996, the references in that clause to "eight" are replaced with references to "five" if, at that time, the relevant statements in the corporation's articles refer to "five".

(1.2) Deemed provisions in articles — In applying subsection (1) in relation to any time before 2004, to a corporation incorporated before February 7, 2000, if the articles of the corporation comply with subclause (1)(c)(v)(E)(I) (as modified, where relevant, by subsection (1.1)), those articles are deemed to provide the statement required by subclause (1)(c)(v)(E)(II).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 171(2), will add subsecs. 204.81(1.1) and (1.2), applicable after February 6, 2000.

Technical Notes: However, federally-registered LSVCCs that were incorporated before March 6, 1996 may contain statements in their articles that provide that the LSVCC shall not redeem certain of its shares unless the redemption occurs more than five years after the day on which such a share was issued. New subsection 204.81(1.1) provides that in applying clause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E), at any time before 2004, in respect of a corporation incorporated before March 6, 1996, the references in that clause to the word "eight" are replaced with references to the word "five" if, at that time, the relevant statements in the corporation's articles refer to the word "five". This is intended to ensure that the extended (February, or March 1st) redemption provisions required of a federally-registered LSVCC's articles apply equally to shares originally subject to a minimum five year holding period and those subject to a minimum eight year holding period.

New subsection 204.81(1.2) is a transitional rule that provides a federally-registered LSVCC, incorporated before February 7, 2000, with a reasonable amount of time to amend its articles as required by clause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E). Subsection 204.81(1.2) provides that, in applying subsection 204.81(1) at any time before 2004 to such an LSVCC, if the LSVCC's articles comply with subclause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E)(I) (as modified by subsection 204.81(1.1)) those articles are deemed to provide the statement required by subclause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E)(II).

New subsections 204.81(1.1) and (1.2) apply after February 6, 2000. These amendments are part of a set of amendments, announced by the Minister of Finance (News Release 2000-009, dated February 7, 2000) [reproduced under 211.8(1)(a)B(i)(B), (C) — ed.] concerning the redemption requirements for federally-registered LSVCCs. For information on a related amendment, see the commentary to subsection 211.8(1).

(2) Registration number — On registering a corporation under subsection (1), the Minister shall assign to it a registration number.

(3) Successive registrations — Where an eligible labour body causes more than one corporation to be registered under this Part, for the purposes of paragraph (6)(h) and section 204.82, each of those corporations shall be deemed

(a) to have issued a Class A share at the earliest time any such corporation issued a Class A share, and, where the corporation did not exist at the time referred to in paragraph (a),

(b) to have been in existence during the particular period beginning immediately before that time and ending immediately after the corporation was incorporated, and

(c) to have had, throughout the particular period, fiscal periods ending on the same calendar day in each year in the particular period as the calendar day on which its first fiscal period after it was incorporated ended.

History: "Eligible labour body" substituted for "national central labour body" in subsec. 204.81(3) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 119, applicable to 1992 et seq.

(4) Determination of cost — For the purposes of this Part, the cost at any time to a corporation of an eligible investment that is a guarantee shall be deemed to be 25% of the amount of the debt obligation subject to the guarantee at that time.

(5) Registration date — Where the Minister registers a corporation for the purposes of this Part, the corporation shall be deemed to have become so registered on the later of

(a) the day the application for registration of the plan is received by the Minister, and

(b) where in the application for registration a day is specified as the day on which the registration is to take effect, that day.

(6) Revocation of registration — The Minister may revoke the registration of a corporation for the purposes of this Part where

(a) the articles of the corporation do not comply with paragraph (1)(c) and would not comply with that paragraph if the corporation had been incorporated after December 5, 1996;

(a.1) the corporation does not comply with any of the provisions of its articles described in paragraph (1)(c), except where there would be no failure to comply if the provisions of its articles were consistent with the articles of a corporation that would be permitted to be registered under this Part if it had been incorporated after December 5, 1996;

(b) an individual acquires or irrevocably subscribes and pays for a Class A share of the capital stock of the corporation in the period beginning on the 61st day of a calendar year and ending on the 60th day of the following calendar year and the corporation fails to file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form containing prescribed information before April of that following calendar year;

(c) an individual acquires or irrevocably subscribes and pays for a Class A share of the capital stock of the corporation in the period beginning on the 61st day of a calendar year and ending on the 60th day of the following calendar year and the corporation fails to issue to the individual before April of that following calendar year an information return in prescribed form stating the amount of the consideration paid for the share in that period;

(d) the corporation issues more than one information return described in paragraph (c) in respect of the same acquisition of or subscription for a Class A share;

(e) the financial statements of the corporation presented to its shareholders are not prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles;

(f) the corporation fails within 6 months after the end of any taxation year to have an independent valuation of its shares made as of the end of that year;

(g) [Repealed]

(h) the corporation does not pay the tax or penalty payable under section 204.82 by it on or before the day on or before which that tax or penalty is required to be paid;

(i) tax was payable under subsection 204.82(3) by the corporation for 3 or more taxation years;

(j) the corporation provides a guarantee that is an eligible investment and fails to maintain, at any time during the term of the guarantee, a reserve equal to the cost to the corporation of the guarantee at that time;

(k) the corporation pays a fee or commission in excess of a reasonable amount in respect of the offering for sale, or the sale, of its shares; or

(l) the corporation has a monthly deficiency in 18 or more months in any 36-month period.

Related Provisions: 127.4(6)(b) — No labour-sponsored funds tax credit unless return under 204.81(6)(c) filed with tax return; 204.8(1)"revoked corporation", 211.7(1)"revoked corporation" — Corporations whose registration has been revoked;

204.81(4) — Determination of cost; 204.81(7), (8) — Notice of intent to revoke registration; 204.81(8.1) — Voluntary de-registration.

History: Para. 204.81(6)(g) repealed by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 55(1), applicable after February 16, 1999. Para. (g) formerly read:

> (g) at any time in any of the first 5 taxation years of the corporation beginning with the taxation year in which the corporation first issues a Class A share, the corporation does not have eligible investments or reserves the cost to the corporation of which equals or is greater than 80% of the amount by which the total consideration received by it for Class A shares issued by it before that time exceeds the total of all amounts paid by it before that time to its shareholders as a return of capital on such shares;

Paras. 204.81(6)(a) and (a.1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 56(10), applicable after March 5, 1996. Paras. (a) and (a.1) formerly read:

> (a.1) the corporation does not comply with any of the provisions of its articles of incorporation described in paragraph (1)(c);

Paras. 204.81(6)(a), (a.1) substituted for para. (a) by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 30(5), applicable after 1988. Para. (a) formerly read:

> (a) the corporation fails to comply with any of the provisions of its articles of incorporation described in paragraph (1)(c);

Forms: T2152: Part X.3 tax return for an LSVCC; T2152-SCH1: Calculating tax under subsec. 204.82(2); T2152-SCH2: Calculating tax under subsec. 204.82(3) and (6) and s. 204.841; T2152A: Part X.3 tax return and request for a refund for an LSVCC; T5006: Statement of registered LSVCC class A shares; T5006 Summ: Summary of registered LSVCC Class A shares.

(7) Notice of intent to revoke registration — Where the Minister proposes to revoke the registration of a corporation under subsection (6), the Minister shall, by registered mail, give notice to the corporation of the proposal.

Related Provisions: 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed; 204.81(9) — Appeal of decision to revoke registration.

(8) Idem — Where the Minister gives notice under subsection (7) to a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation, the Minister may, after the expiration of 30 days after the day of mailing of the notice, or after the expiration of such extended period after the day of mailing as the Federal Court of Appeal or a judge thereof, on application made at any time before the determination of any appeal under subsection (9) from the giving of the notice, may fix or allow, publish a copy of the notice in the Canada Gazette and, on the publication of a copy of the notice, the registration of the corporation is revoked.

(8.1) Voluntary de-registration — Where at any time the Minister receives a certified copy of a resolution of the directors of a corporation seeking the revocation of the corporation's registration under this Part,

(a) the registration is revoked at that time; and

(b) the Minister shall, with all due dispatch, give notice in the Canada Gazette of the revocation.

Related Provisions: 204.81(6) — Revocation of registration; 204.81(8.2) — Actual date of receipt applies.

(8.2) Application of subsection 248(7) — Subsection 248(7) does not apply for the purpose of subsection (8.1).

History: Subsecs. 204.81(8.1) and (8.2) added by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 55(2), applicable to resolutions received by the Minister of National Revenue after June 29, 2000.

(9) Right of appeal — Where the Minister refuses to accept a corporation for registration under subsection (1) or gives notice of a proposal to revoke the registration of a corporation under subsection (7), the corporation may appeal to the Federal Court of Appeal from the decision or from the giving of the notice.

Related Provisions: 168(3) — Parallel rule for appeal of revocation of charity registration.

204.82 (1) Recovery of credit — Where, at any time that is both in a taxation year included in the start-up period of a corporation that was registered under this Part and before its venture capital business is first discontinued,

(a) 80% of the amount, if any, by which the total consideration received by it for Class A shares issued by it before that time exceeds the total of all amounts paid by it before that time to its shareholders as a return of capital on such shares

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the cost to the corporation of an eligible investment or reserve of the corporation at that time, the corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$(A \times 20\%) - B$$

where

A is the greatest amount by which the amount determined under paragraph (a) exceeds the amount determined under paragraph (b) for the year, and

B is the total of all taxes payable under this subsection by the corporation for preceding taxation years.

Related Provisions: 204.81(4) — Determination of cost; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The opening words of subsec. 204.82(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 56(1), applicable to 1999 et seq. The opening words formerly read:

> Where, at any time in a taxation year referred to in paragraph 204.81(6)(g) of a corporation that was registered under this Part,

(2) Liability for tax — Each corporation that has been registered under this Part shall, in respect of each month that ends before its venture capital business is first discontinued and in a particular taxation year of the corporation that begins after the end of the corporation's start-up period (or, where the corporation has no start-up period, that begins after the time the corporation first issues a Class A share), pay a tax under this Part equal to the amount obtained when the greatest investment shortfall at any time that is in the month and in the particular year (in this section and sections 204.81 and 204.83 referred to as the "monthly deficiency") is multiplied by 1/60 of the prescribed rate of interest in effect during the month.

Regulations: 4301 (prescribed rate of interest).

Forms: T2152-SCH1: Calculating tax under subsec. 204.82(2).

(2.1) Determination of investment shortfall — Subject to subsection (2.2), a corporation's investment shortfall at any time in a particular taxation year is the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B - C$$

where

A is 60% of the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which the amount of the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of the preceding taxation year exceeds the specified adjustment in respect of the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of that year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the amount of the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of the particular taxation year exceeds the specified adjustment in respect of the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of the particular year;

B is the greater of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the adjusted cost to the corporation of an eligible investment of the corporation at that time, and

(b) 50% of the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) the adjusted cost to the corporation of an eligible investment of the corporation at the beginning of the particular year, or

(ii) the adjusted cost to the corporation of an eligible investment of the corporation at the end of the particular year; and

C is 60% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is a tax or penalty under subsection (3) or (4), or a prescribed tax or penalty, paid before that time by the corporation (other than the portion, if any, of that tax or penalty the liability for which resulted in a reduction in the amount of the shareholders' equity at the end of any preceding taxation year)

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is a refund before that time of any portion of the total described in paragraph (a).

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The formula, and paras. (a) and (b) of the description of A, in subsec. 204.82(2.1) amended, and the description of C added to subsec. 204.82(2.1), by 1999, c. 22, subsecs. 69(1) to (3), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1997. The formula and paras. (a) and (b) of the description of A formerly read:

. . . . .

(a) the amount of the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of the preceding taxation year, and

(b) the amount of the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of the particular year; and

Subsec. 204.82(2.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 53(3), applicable to taxation years that end after February 1997 except that, for taxation years that end before 1999, the amount determined under paragraph (b) of the description of B is deemed to be nil.

(2.2) Investment shortfall — For the purpose of this subsection and for the purpose of computing a corporation's investment shortfall under subsection (2.1) at any time in a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "relevant year"),

(a) unrealized gains and losses in respect of its eligible investments shall not be taken into account in computing the amount of the shareholders' equity in the corporation;

(b) where

(i) the relevant year ends after 1998, and

(ii) it is expected that a redemption of its Class A shares will occur after the end of a particular taxation year and, as a consequence, the amount of the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of the particular year would otherwise be reduced to take into account the expected redemption, subject to paragraph (c), the amount (or, where the relevant year ends in 1999, 2000, 2001 or 2002, 20%, 40%, 60% or 80%, respectively of the amount) expected to be redeemed shall not be taken into account in determining the amount of the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of the particular year;

(c) paragraph (b) does not apply to a redemption expected to be made after the end of a taxation year where

(i) the redemption is made within 60 days after the end of the year, and

(ii) either

(A) tax under Part XII.5 became payable as a consequence of the redemption, or

(B) tax under Part XII.5 would not have become payable as a consequence of the redemption if the redemption had occurred at the end of the year; and

(c.1) the specified adjustment in respect of shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of a taxation year is the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the shareholders' equity at the end of the year,

B is the total of

(i) the fair market value at the end of the year of all Class A shares issued by it before March 6, 1996 and more than five years before the end of the year,

(ii) the fair market value at the end of the year of all Class A shares issued by it after March 5, 1996 and more than eight years before the end of the year,

(iii) the fair market value at the end of the year of all Class A shares issued by it in the last 60 days of the year, and

(iv) if the corporation so elects in writing filed with the Minister not more than six months after the end of the year and is not a revoked corporation at the end of the year, the fair market value at the end of the year of all shares of classes, of the capital stock of the corporation, to which clause 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(C) applies,

C is the fair market value at the end of the year of all shares issued by it, and

D is the amount by which the shareholders' equity in the corporation at the end of the year has been reduced to take into account the expected subsequent redemption of shares of the capital stock of the corporation; and

(d) the adjusted cost to the corporation of an eligible investment of the corporation at any time is

(i) 150% of the cost to the corporation of the eligible investment at that time where the eligible investment is

(A) a property acquired by the corporation after February 18, 1997 (other than a property to which subparagraph (i.1) applies) that would be an eligible investment of the corporation if the reference to "$50,000,000" in paragraph (f) of the definition "eligible investment" in subsection 204.8(1) were read as "$10,000,000", or

(B) a share of the capital stock of a prescribed corporation,

(i.1) 200% of the cost to the corporation of the eligible investment at that time where the eligible investment is a property acquired by the corporation after February 16, 1999 (other than a property described in clause (i)(B)) that would be an eligible investment of the corporation if the reference to "$50,000,000" in paragraph (f) of the definition "eligible investment" in subsection 204.8(1) were read as "$2,500,000", and

(ii) in any other case, the cost to the corporation of the eligible investment of the corporation at that time.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero; Reg. 5100(1)"eligible corporation"(f) — Corporation that makes election under (c.1) does not qualify for foreign property exception.

(4) Penalty — Where a corporation is liable under subsection (3) to pay a tax for a taxation year, the corporation shall pay, in addition to the tax payable under that subsection, a penalty for the year equal to that tax.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Penalty is non-deductible; 204.83(1) — Refund of 80% of penalty; 211.7 — Recovery of credit from shareholder where share redeemed or disposed of.

(5) Provincially registered LSVCCs — Where

(a) an amount (other than interest on an amount to which this subsection applies or an amount payable under or as a consequence of a prescribed provision of a law of a province) is payable to the government of a province by a corporation,

(b) the amount is payable as a consequence of a failure to acquire sufficient properties of a character described in the law of the province,

(c) the corporation has been prescribed for the purpose of the definition "approved share" in subsection 127.4(1), and

(d) the corporation is not a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation, the corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for the taxation year in which the amount became payable equal to that amount.

Related Provisions: 204.83(2) — Refund; 204.86(2) — Return and payment of tax.

History: Subsec. 204.82(5) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 53(4), applicable to liabilities arising after February 18, 1997.

Regulations: 6707 (prescribed provision of a law of a province (Ontario)).

(6) Further matching of amounts payable to a province — Where

(a) a particular amount is payable (other than interest on an amount to which this subsection applies) by a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation to the government of a province as a consequence of a failure of a prescribed corporation to acquire sufficient properties of a character described in a law of the province, and

(b) the particular amount became payable before the corporation first discontinued its venture capital business, the corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for the taxation year in which the particular amount became payable equal to that amount.

Related Provisions: 204.83(2) — Refund of tax paid under 204.82(6).

204.83 (1) Refunds for federally registered LSVCCs — If a corporation is required, under subsections 204.82(3) and (4), to pay a tax and a penalty under this Part for a taxation year, it has no monthly deficiency throughout any period of 12 consecutive months (in this section referred to as the "second period") that begins after the 12-month period in respect of which the tax became payable (in this section referred to as the "first period") and it so requests in an application filed with the Minister in prescribed form, the Minister shall refund to it an amount equal to the total of the amount that was paid under subsection 204.82(3) and 80% of the amount that was paid under subsection 204.82(4) in respect of the first period on or before the later of

(a) the 30th day after receiving the application, and

(b) the 60th day after the end of the second period.

Forms: T2152A: Part X.3 tax return and request for a refund for an LSVCC.

(2) Refunds of amounts payable to provinces — Where

(a) the government of a province refunds, at any time, an amount to a corporation,

(b) the refund is of an amount that had been paid in satisfaction of a particular amount payable in a taxation year of the corporation, and

(c) tax was payable under subsection 204.82(5) or (6) by the corporation for a taxation year because the particular amount became payable,

the corporation is deemed to have paid at that time an amount equal to the refund on account of its tax payable under this Part for the year.

History: Subsec. 204.83(2) amended by 2000, c. 19, s. 57, applicable to 1999 et seq. Subsec. 204.83(2) formerly read:

(2) Refunds for other LSVCCs — Where

(a) the government of a province refunds, at any time, an amount to a corporation,

(b) the refund is of an amount that had been paid in satisfaction of a particular amount payable in a taxation year of the corporation, and

(c) tax was payable under subsection 204.82(5) by the corporation for a taxation year because the particular amount became payable,

the corporation is deemed to have paid at that time an amount equal to the refund on account of its tax payable under this Part for the year.

Subsec. 204.83(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 70, applicable after June 16, 1999, except that for the purpose of the subsec., as amended, applications received by the Minister of National Revenue before June 17, 1999 are deemed to have been received on that day. Subsec. (1) formerly read:

(1) If a corporation is required, under subsections 204.82(3) and (4), to pay a tax and a penalty under this Part for a taxation year and, throughout any period of 12 consecutive months (in this section referred to as the "second period") that begins after the 12-month period in respect of which the tax became payable (in this section referred to as the "first period"), the corporation has no monthly deficiency and files with the Minister the return required under this Part for the taxation year in which the second period ends, the Minister shall refund to the corporation an amount equal to the total of the amount that was paid under subsection 204.82(3) and 80% of the amount that was paid under subsection 204.82(4) in respect of the first period.

S. 204.83 amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 54, applicable after February 18, 1997. S. 204.83 formerly read:

204.83 Refund of tax and penalty — Where a corporation is required, under subsections 204.82(3) and (4), to pay a tax and a penalty under this Part for a taxation year and, throughout any period of 12 consecutive months (in this section referred to as the "second period") beginning after the 12-month period in respect of which the tax became payable (in this section referred to as the "first period"), the corporation has no monthly deficiency and files with the Minister the return required under this Part for the taxation year in which the second period ends, the Minister shall refund to the corporation an amount equal to the total of the amount that was paid under subsection 204.82(3) and 80% of the amount that was paid under subsection 204.82(4) in respect of the first period.

204.841 Penalty tax where venture capital business discontinued — Where, at a particular time in a taxation year, a particular corporation that is a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation first discontinues its venture capital business, the particular corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to the total of all amounts each of which is the amount in respect of a Class A share of the capital stock of the particular corporation outstanding immediately before the particular time that is determined by the formula

where

A is

(a) if the original acquisition of the share was before March 6, 1996 and less than five years before the particular time, 4% of the consideration received by the particular corporation for the issue of the share,

(b) if the original acquisition of the share was after March 5, 1996 and less than eight years before the particular time, 1.875% of the consideration received by the particular corporation for the issue of the share, and

(c) in any other case, nil; and

B is

(a) if the original acquisition of the share was before March 6, 1996, the number obtained when the number of whole years throughout which the share was outstanding before the particular time is subtracted from five, and

(b) in any other case, the number obtained when the number of whole years throughout which the share was outstanding is subtracted from eight.

Related Provisions: 204.8(2) — Determining when an RLSVCC discontinues its business.

204.85 (1) Dissolution of federally registered LSVCCs — A registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation that has issued any Class A shares shall send written notification of any proposed amalgamation, merger, liquidation or dissolution of the corporation to the Minister at least 30 days before the amalgamation, merger, liquidation or dissolution, as the case may be.

(2) Dissolution of other LSVCCs — Where

(a) an amount (other than interest on an amount to which this subsection applies or an amount payable under or as a consequence of a prescribed provision of a law of a province) is payable to the government of a province by a corporation,

(b) the amount is payable as a consequence of the amalgamation or merger of the corporation with another corporation, the winding-up or dissolution of the corporation or the corporation ceasing to be registered under a law of the province,

(c) the corporation has been prescribed for the purpose of the definition "approved share" in subsection 127.4(1), and

(d) the corporation is not a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation,

the corporation shall pay a tax under this Part for the taxation year in which the amount became payable equal to that amount.

(3) Amalgamations and mergers — For the purposes of section 127.4, this Part and Part XII.5, where two or more corporations (each of which is referred to in this subsection as a "predecessor corporation") amalgamate or merge to form one corporate entity (in this subsection referred to as the "new corporation") and at least one of the predecessor corporations was, immediately before the amalgamation or merger, a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation,

(a) subject to paragraphs (d) and (e), the new corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation;

(b) where a predecessor corporation was authorized to issue a class of shares to which clause 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(C) applies, the new corporation is deemed to have received approval from the Minister of Finance to issue substantially similar shares at the time of the amalgamation or merger;

(c) where a share of a predecessor corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "predecessor share") is replaced on the amalgamation or merger by a new share of the new corporation,

(i) the new share

(A) is deemed not to have been issued on the amalgamation or merger, and

(B) is deemed to have been issued by the new corporation at the time the predecessor corporation issued the predecessor share, and

(ii) if the new share was issued to a person who acquired the predecessor share as a consequence of a transfer the registration of which by the predecessor corporation was permitted under paragraph 204.81(1)(c), the issuance of the new share is deemed to be in compliance with the conditions described in paragraph 204.81(1)(c);

(d) the Minister is deemed to have registered the new corporation for the purposes of this Part unless

(i) the new corporation is not governed by the Canada Business Corporations Act,

(ii) one or more of the predecessor corporations was a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation the venture capital business of which was discontinued before the amalgamation or merger,

(iii) one or more of the predecessor corporations was, immediately before the amalgamation or merger, a revoked corporation,

(iv) immediately after the amalgamation or merger, the articles of the new corporation do not comply with paragraph 204.81(1)(c), or

(v) shares other than Class A shares of the capital stock of the new corporation were issued to any shareholder of the new corporation in satisfaction of any share (other than a share to which clause 204.81(1)(c)(ii)(B) or (C) applied) of a predecessor corporation;

(e) where paragraph (d) does not apply, the new corporation is deemed to be a revoked corporation;

(f) subsection 204.82(1) does not apply to the new corporation; and

(g) subsection 204.82(2) shall, in its application to the new corporation, be read without reference to the words "that begins after the end of the corporation's start-up period (or, where the corporation has no start-up period, that begins after the time the corporation first issues a Class A share)".

Related Provisions: 87 — General rules for amalgamations; 127.4(1.1) — Application to labour-sponsored funds tax credit; 211.7(2) — Effect of amalgamation on Part XII.5 tax; 211.8(1.1) — Rule applies to 211.8(1).

History: Subsec. 204.85(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 59(1), applicable to amalgamations, mergers, liquidations and dissolutions that occur later than July 29, 2000. Subsec. 204.85(1) formerly read:

> 204.85 (1) Dissolution [or amalgamation] of federally registered LSVCCs — If a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation has issued any Class A shares, it shall not be amalgamated or merged with another corporation, or be liquidated or dissolved, except with the written permission of the Minister of Finance and on any terms and conditions that are specified by that Minister.

Subsec. 204.85(3) added by the said c. 19, subsec. 59(2), applicable to amalgamations and mergers that occur after February 16, 1999.

S. 204.85 amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 55, subsec. (1) applicable after July 1997, and subsec. (2) applicable after February 18, 1997. S. 204.85 formerly read:

> 204.85 Prohibition against dissolution — A registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation shall not, if it has issued any Class A shares, liquidate or dissolve except with the written permission of the Minister of Finance and on such terms and conditions as are specified by that Minister.

History [Part X.3]: Part X.3 (ss. 204.8 to 204.87) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 164, applicable after 1988, except that subpara. 204.81(1)(c)(vi) does not apply to shares purchased before 1991.

PART X.4 — TAX IN RESPECT OF OVERPAYMENTS TO REGISTERED EDUCATION SAVINGS PLANS

204.9 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this Part.

History: The opening words of subsec. 204.9(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 57(1), applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 1996. The opening words formerly read:

In this Part, subject to subsection (2),

"excess amount" for a year at any time in respect of an individual means

(a) for years before 2007, the amount, if any, by which the total of all contributions made after February 20, 1990 in the year and before that time into all registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the individual exceeds the lesser of

(i) the RESP annual limit for the year, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the RESP lifetime limit for the year exceeds the total of all contributions made into registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the individual in all preceding years; and

(b) for years after 2006, the amount, if any, by which the total of all contributions made in the year and before that time into all registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the individual exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the RESP lifetime limit for the year exceeds

(ii) the total of all contributions made into registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the individual in all preceding years.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2)(k) — Limit on annual RESP contributions; 204.9(2)(a) — Where agreement entered into before February 21, 1990.

History: The definition "excess amount" in subsec. 204.9(1) amended by 2007, c. 29, s. 27, applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 2006. It formerly read:

"excess amount" for a year at any time in respect of an individual means the amount, if any, by which the total of all contributions made after February 20, 1990 in the year and before that time into all registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the individual exceeds the lesser of

(a) the RESP annual limit for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which the RESP lifetime limit for the year exceeds the total of all contributions made into registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the individual in all preceding years.

Subsec. 204.9(1)"excess amount" amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 57(1), applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 1996. The definition formerly read:

"excess amount", for a year at any time in respect of a beneficiary, means the amount, if any, by which the total of all payments made after February 20, 1990 in the year and before that time into all registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the beneficiary exceeds the lesser of

(a) $2,000, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which $42,000 exceeds the total of all payments made into registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the beneficiary in all preceding years;

Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "excess amount" in subsec. 204.9(1) amended by 1997, c. 25, s. 57, applicable to months that end after 1995, except that, for payments made after 1989 and before 1996,

(a) the reference to "$2,000" in para. (a) of the definition shall be read as "$1,500" and

(b) the reference to "$42,000" in para. (b) of the definition shall be read as "$31,500".

Paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

(a) $1,500, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which $31,500 exceeds the total of all payments made into registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the beneficiary in all preceding years;

Registered Plans Compliance Bulletins: 1 (educational assistance payments (EAP) and RESP contributions).

"RESP lifetime limit" for a year means

(a) for 1990 to 1995, $31,500;

(b) for 1996 to 2006, $42,000; and

(c) for 2007 and subsequent years, $50,000.

History: The definition "RESP lifetime limit" in subsec. 204.9(1) amended by 2007, c. 29, s. 27, applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 2006. It formerly read:

"RESP lifetime limit" for a year means,

(a) for 1990 to 1995, $31,500; and

(b) for 1996 and subsequent years, $42,000.

Subsec. 204.9(1)"RESP lifetime limit" added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 57(1), applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 1996.

Registered Plans Compliance Bulletins: 1 (educational assistance payments (EAP) and RESP contributions).

"subscriber's gross cumulative excess" at any time in respect of an individual means the total of all amounts each of which is the subscriber's share of the excess amount for a relevant year at that time in respect of the individual and, for the purpose of this definition, a relevant year at any time is a year that began before that time.

History: Subsec. 204.9(1)"subscriber's gross cumulative excess" added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 57(1), applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 1996.

"subscriber's share of the excess amount" for a year at any time in respect of an individual means the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all contributions made after February 20, 1990, in the year and before that time into all registered education savings plans by or on behalf of the subscriber in respect of the individual;

B is the total of all contributions made after February 20, 1990, in the year and before that time into all registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the individual; and

C is the excess amount for the year at that time in respect of the individual.

Related Provisions: 204.9(2)(b) — Where agreement entered into before February 21, 1990.

History: Subsec. 204.9(1)"subscriber's share of the excess amount" amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 57(1), applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 1996. The definition formerly read:

"subscriber's share of the excess amount", for a year at any time in respect of a beneficiary, means the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{B} \times C$$

where

A is the total of all payments made in the year and before that time into all registered education savings plans by or on behalf of the subscriber in respect of the beneficiary,

B is the total of all payments made in the year and before that time into all registered education savings plans by or on behalf of all subscribers in respect of the beneficiary, and

C is the excess amount for the year at that time in respect of the beneficiary.

(2) Agreements before February 21, 1990 — Where a subscriber is required, pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before February 21, 1990, to make payments of specified amounts on a periodic basis into a registered education savings plan in respect of a beneficiary, and the subscriber makes at least one payment under the agreement before that day,

(a) the excess amount for a year in respect of the beneficiary shall be deemed not to exceed the excess amount for the year that would be determined under subsection (1) if the total of all such payments made in the year and, where the agreement so provides, amounts paid in the year in satisfaction of the requirement to make such payments under all such agreements by all such subscribers in respect of the beneficiary were equal to the lesser of the amounts described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of the definition "excess amount" in subsection (1); and

(b) in determining a subscriber's share of an excess amount for a year, any payment included in the total described in paragraph (a) in respect of the year shall be excluded in determining the values for A and B in the definition "subscriber's share of the excess amount" in subsection (1).

(3) Refunds from unregistered plans — For the purposes of subsection (1) and section 146.1, where an individual entered into an education savings plan before February 21, 1990, pursuant to a preliminary prospectus issued by a promoter, and the promoter refunds all payments made into the plan and all income accrued thereon to the individual, each payment made by the individual into a registered education savings plan before December 31, 1990 shall be deemed to be a payment made before February 21, 1990, to the extent that the total of all such payments does not exceed the amount so refunded to the individual.

(4) New beneficiary — For the purposes of this Part, if at any particular time an individual (in this subsection referred to as the "new beneficiary") becomes a beneficiary under a registered education savings plan in place of another individual (in this subsection referred to as the "former beneficiary") who ceased at or before the particular time to be a beneficiary under the plan,

(a) except as provided by paragraph (b), each contribution made at an earlier time by or on behalf of a subscriber into the plan in respect of the former beneficiary is deemed also to have been made at that earlier time in respect of the new beneficiary;

(b) except for the purpose of applying this subsection to a replacement of a beneficiary after the particular time, applying subsection (5) to a distribution after the particular time and applying subsection 204.91(3) to events after the particular time, paragraph (a) does not apply as a consequence of the replacement at the particular time of the former beneficiary if

(i) the new beneficiary had not attained 21 years of age before the particular time and a parent of the new beneficiary was a parent of the former beneficiary, or

(ii) both beneficiaries were connected by blood relationship or adoption to an original subscriber under the plan and neither had attained 21 years of age before the particular time; and

(c) except where paragraph (b) applies, each contribution made by or on behalf of a subscriber under the plan in respect of the former beneficiary under the plan is, without affecting the determination of the amount withdrawn from the plan in respect of the new beneficiary, deemed to have been withdrawn at the particular time from the plan to the extent that it was not withdrawn before the particular time.

History: Para. 204.9(4)(b) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 71, applicable to replacements of beneficiaries that occur after 1997. It formerly read:

(b) except for the purpose of applying this subsection to a replacement of a beneficiary after the particular time, applying subsection 204.9(5) to a distribution after the particular time and applying subsection 204.91(3) to events after the particular time, paragraph 204.9(4)(a) does not apply as a consequence of the replacement at the particular time of the former beneficiary where the new beneficiary had not attained 21 years of age at the particular time and a parent of the new beneficiary was a parent of the former beneficiary; and

Subsec. 204.9(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 57(2), applicable to replacements of beneficiaries and distributions that occur after 1996. Subsec. 204.9(4) formerly read:

(4) For the purposes of this Part,

(a) where at any time an individual (in this paragraph referred to as the "new beneficiary") becomes a beneficiary under a registered education savings plan in place of another individual (in this paragraph referred to as the "former beneficiary") who ceases at that time to be a beneficiary under the plan, all payments made before that time into the plan in respect of the former beneficiary shall be deemed to have been made in respect of the new beneficiary; and

(b) where at any time property is transferred from a trust governed by a registered education savings plan (in this paragraph referred to as the "transferor plan") to a trust governed by another registered education savings plan (in this paragraph referred to as the "transferee plan"), unless a beneficiary under the transferee plan was, immediately before that time, a beneficiary under the transferor plan, all payments made before that time in respect of all beneficiaries under the transferor plan shall be deemed to have been made in respect of the beneficiaries under the transferee plan.

(5) Transfers between plans — For the purposes of this Part, if property held by a trust governed by a registered education savings plan (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor plan") is distributed at a particular time to a trust governed by another registered education savings plan (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee plan"),

(a) except as provided by paragraphs (b) and (c), the amount of the distribution is deemed not to have been contributed into the transferee plan;

(b) subject to paragraph (c), each contribution made at any earlier time by or on behalf of a subscriber into the transferor plan in respect of a beneficiary under the transferor plan is deemed also to have been made at that earlier time by the subscriber in respect of each beneficiary under the transferee plan;

(c) except for the purpose of applying this subsection to a distribution after the particular time, applying subsection (4) to a replacement of a beneficiary after the particular time and applying subsection 204.91(3) to events after the particular time, paragraph (b) does not apply as a consequence of the distribution where

(i) any beneficiary under the transferee plan was, immediately before the particular time, a beneficiary under the transferor plan, or

(ii) a beneficiary under the transferee plan had not attained 21 years of age at the particular time and a parent of the beneficiary was a parent of an individual who was, immediately before the particular time, a beneficiary under the transferor plan;

(d) where subparagraph (c)(i) or (ii) applies in respect of the distribution, the amount of the distribution is deemed not to have been withdrawn from the transferor plan; and

(e) each subscriber under the transferor plan is deemed to be a subscriber under the transferee plan.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2)(g.2), (i.2) — Restrictions on transfers between RESPs; 146.1(6.1) — Effect of transfers between RESPs.

History: Subsec. 204.9(5) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 57(2), applicable to replacements of beneficiaries and distributions that occur after 1996.

204.91 (1) Tax payable by subscribers — Every subscriber under a registered education savings plan shall pay a tax under this Part in respect of each month equal to 1% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the subscriber's gross cumulative excess at the end of the month in respect of an individual

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of such an excess that has been withdrawn from a registered education savings plan before the end of the month.

Regulations: 103(8) (withholding of tax at source).

(2) Waiver of tax — If a subscriber under a registered education savings plan would, but for this subsection, be required to pay a tax in respect of a month under subsection (1) in respect of an individual, the Minister may waive or cancel all or part of the tax where it is just and equitable to do so having regard to all the circumstances, including

(a) whether the tax arose as a consequence of reasonable error;

(b) whether, as a consequence of one or more transactions or events to which subsection 204.9(4) or (5) applies, the tax is excessive; and

(c) the extent to which further contributions could be made into registered education savings plans in respect of the individual before the end of the month without causing additional tax to be payable under this Part if this Part were read without reference to this subsection.

(3) Marriage [or common-law partnership] breakdown — If at any time an individual (in this subsection referred to as the "former subscriber") ceases to be a subscriber under a registered education savings plan as a consequence of the settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, the marriage or common-law partnership of the former subscriber and another individual (in this subsection referred to as the "current subscriber") who is a subscriber under the plan immediately after that time, for the purpose of determining tax payable under this Part in respect of a month that ends after that time, each contribution made before that time into the plan by or on behalf of the former subscriber is deemed to have been made into the plan by the current subscriber and not by or on behalf of the former subscriber.

(4) Deceased subscribers — For the purpose of applying this section where a subscriber has died, the subscriber's estate is deemed to be the same person as, and a continuation of, the subscriber for each month that ends after the death.

Related Provisions [s. 204.91]: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible.

History: Subsec. 204.91(3) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

S. 204.91 amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 58, subsec. (1) applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 1996, subsec. (2) applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after January 1990, and subsecs. (3) and (4) applicable for the purpose of determining tax under Part X.4 of the Act for months that are after 1997. S. 204.91 formerly read:

> 204.91 Tax payable by subscribers — Each subscriber under a registered education savings plan shall, in respect of each month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the subscriber's share of each excess amount for a year at the end of that month in respect of a beneficiary or former beneficiary under the plan, to the extent that the amount of the share is not withdrawn from the plan before the end of that month.

204.92 Return and payment of tax — Every person who is liable to pay tax under this Part in respect of a month in a year shall, within 90 days after the end of the year,

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, without notice or demand therefor;

(b) estimate in the return the amount of tax, if any, payable under this Part by the person in respect of each month in the year; and

(c) pay to the Receiver General the amount of tax, if any, payable by the person under this Part in respect of each month in the year.

History [Part X.4]: Part X.4 (ss. 204.9 to 204.93) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 165, applicable to months ending after January 1990, except that a return referred to in s. 204.92 that was filed before March 16, 1992 shall be deemed to have been filed in accordance with the requirements of that section and a payment referred to in that section that was paid before March 16, 1992 shall be deemed to have been paid in accordance with the requirements of that section.

PART X.5 — PAYMENTS UNDER REGISTERED EDUCATION SAVINGS PLANS

204.94 (1) Definitions — The definitions in subsection 146.1(1) apply for the purposes of this Part, except that the definition "subscriber" in that subsection shall be read without reference to paragraph (c).

(2) Charging provision — Every person shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an accumulated income payment made at any time that is

(a) either

(i) under a registered education savings plan under which the person is a subscriber at that time, or

(ii) under a registered education savings plan under which there is no subscriber at that time, where the person has been a spouse or common-law partner of an individual who was a subscriber under the plan, and

(b) included in computing the person's income under Part I for the year;

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an accumulated income payment that is

(a) not included in the value of A in respect of the person for the year, and

(b) included in computing the person's income under Part I for the year;

C is the lesser of

(a) the lesser of the value of A in respect of the person for the year and the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection 146(5) or (5.1) in computing the person's income under Part I for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which $50,000 exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined under paragraph (a) in respect of the person for a preceding taxation year; and

D is

(a) where a tax, similar to the tax provided under this Part, is payable by the person for the year under a law of the province of Quebec, 12%, and

(b) in any other case, 20%.

Proposed Amendment — 204.94(2) — Exemption for child welfare organizations

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Jan. 7, 2008: Ms. Lenore Burton, Director General, Canada Education Savings Program, Human Resources and Social Development Canada, 140 Promenade du Portage, Phase IV, Gatineau, QC K1A 0J9

Dear Ms. Burton:

This is in reply to your letter of April 13, 2007 in which you request that we consider an amendment to the Income Tax Act (Act) to address an anomaly in the tax treatment of child welfare organizations that have established registered education savings plans (RESPs) on behalf of children in their care. We also acknowledge several discussions between our respective officials on this matter. Please excuse the delay in replying.

Under section 146.1 of the Act, an RESP may be established on behalf of a child in care by the child's "public primary caregiver", which is defined as the department, agency or institution that maintains the child or the public trustee or curator of the province in which the child resides. We understand that child welfare services generally are administered by a provincial government department. However, Ontario and Nova Scotia have created independent non-profit organizations to provide child welfare services.

We understand that, in the course of coordinating a common RESP provider for children in care across Canada, concern was raised that the child welfare agencies in Ontario and Nova Scotia may be subject to the 20 percent tax on accumulated income payments in Part X.5 of the Act.

As you know, this special tax generally applies where an RESP is terminated because the beneficiary does not pursue post-secondary education and the accumulated investment income is paid out to the subscriber. The tax is intended to discourage the use of RESPs strictly for tax deferral purposes and is in addition to regular income tax.

While paragraph 149(1)(l) of the Act will provide an exemption from regular income tax with respect to any accumulated income payments made to child welfare agencies in these provinces, there is no comparable exemption from Part X.5 tax.

We understand that this is not an issue for most provinces, as any accumulated income payments made from an RESP established by a provincial government department would be immune from taxation under the constitution [Constitution Act, 1867, s. 125 — ed.] However, because Ontario and Nova Scotia use non-profit organizations, constitutional immunity is not available.

You have asked that the Act be amended to expressly exempt child welfare organizations from being liable for Part X.5 tax. This will ensure that all child welfare organizations — regardless of legal structure — are able to reallocate the full amount of any investment income of an RESP that is not used for the beneficiary's post-secondary education to other RESPs established for other children under the organization's care.

We have considered your request and are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that Part X.5 of the Act be amended so that it does not apply to a "public primary caregiver" as defined in subsection 146.1(1) of the Act. This is consistent with the fact that non-profit child welfare organizations are already exempt from regular income tax on accumulated income payments and will provide comparable tax treatment for all RESPs established by child welfare organizations.

I trust that this statement of our intentions is helpful to you. Please feel free to share this letter with the child welfare organizations and the financial institution that was selected to be the common RESP provider.

Yours sincerely,

Gerard Lalonde, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

PART XI — TAXES IN RESPECT OF REGISTERED DISABILITY SAVINGS PLANS

205. (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this Part.

"advantage", in relation to a registered disability savings plan, means any benefit or loan that is conditional in any way on the existence of the plan other than

(a) a disability assistance payment;

(b) a contribution made by, or with the written consent of, a holder of the plan;

(c) a transfer in accordance with subsection 146.4(8);

(d) an amount paid under the Canada Disability Savings Act;

(e) a benefit derived from the provision of administrative or investment services in respect of the plan; or

(f) a loan

(i) made in the ordinary course of the lender's ordinary business of lending money if, at the time the loan was made, bona fide arrangements were made for repayment of the loan within a reasonable time, and

(ii) whose sole purpose was to enable a person to make a contribution to the plan.

Related Provisions: 206.2 — Tax on advantage.

"allowable refund" of a person for a calendar year means the total of all amounts each of which is a refund to which the person is entitled under subsection 206.1(4) for the year.

Related Provisions: 207(2) — Refund of allowable refund.

"benefit", in relation to a registered disability savings plan, includes any payment or allocation of an amount to the plan that is represented to be a return on investment in respect of property held by the plan trust, but which cannot reasonably be considered, having regard to all the circumstances, to be on terms and conditions that would apply to a similar transaction in an open market between parties dealing with each other at arm's length and acting prudently, knowledgeably and willingly.

Related Provisions: 206.2(2)(a) — Tax on benefit.

"qualified investment" for a trust governed by a registered disability savings plan means

(a) an investment that would be described by any of paragraphs (a) to (d), (f) and (g) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 if the reference in that definition to "a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan" were read as a reference to "a trust governed by a registered disability savings plan" and if that definition were read without reference to the words "with the exception of excluded property in relation to the trust";

(b) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract, and

(ii) the holder of the contract has a right to surrender the contract at any time for an amount that would, if reasonable sales and administration charges were ignored, approximate the value of funds that could otherwise be applied to fund future periodic payments under the contract;

(c) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) annual or more frequent periodic payments are or may be made under the contract to the holder of the contract,

(ii) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract,

(iii) neither the time nor the amount of any payment under the contract may vary because of the length of any life, other than the life of the beneficiary under the plan,

(iv) the day on which the periodic payments began or are to begin is not later than the end of the later of

(A) the year in which the beneficiary under the plan attains the age of 60 years, and

(B) the year following the year in which the contract was acquired by the trust,

(v) the periodic payments are payable for the life of the beneficiary under the plan and either there is no guaranteed period under the contract or there is a guaranteed period that does not exceed 15 years,

(vi) the periodic payments

(A) are equal, or

(B) are not equal solely because of one or more adjustments that would, if the contract were an annuity under a retirement savings plan, be in accordance with subparagraphs 146(3)(b)(iii) to (v) or that arise because of a uniform reduction in the entitlement to the periodic payments as a consequence of a partial surrender of rights to the periodic payments, and

(vii) the contract requires that, in the event the plan must be terminated in accordance with paragraph 146.4(4)(p), any amounts that would otherwise be payable after the termination be commuted into a single payment; and

(d) a prescribed investment.

Related Provisions: 87(10) — New share issued on amalgamation of public corporation deemed listed; 206.1 — Tax on non-qualified investments; Reg. 221(2) — Information return reporting that securities are qualified investments.

206. (1) Tax payable where inadequate consideration — A tax is payable under this Part for a calendar year in connection with a registered disability savings plan if, in the year, a trust governed by the plan

(a) disposes of property for consideration less than the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition, or for no consideration; or

(b) acquires property for consideration greater than the fair market value of the property at the time of the acquisition.

Related Provisions: 206(2) — Amount of tax; 206(4) — Payment of tax by Minister to new plan; 206.4 — Waiver of tax by Minister; 207(1) — Return and payment of tax.

(2) Amount of tax payable — The amount of tax payable in respect of each disposition or acquisition described in subsection (1) is

(a) the amount by which the fair market value differs from the consideration; or

(b) if there is no consideration, the amount of the fair market value.

(3) Liability for tax — Each person who is a holder of a registered disability savings plan at the time that a tax is imposed under subsection (1) in connection with the plan is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay the tax.

(4) Payment of amount collected to RDSP — Where a tax has been imposed under subsection (1) in connection with a registered disability savings plan of a beneficiary, the Minister may pay all or part of any amount collected in respect of the tax to a trust governed by a registered disability savings plan of the beneficiary (referred to in this subsection as the "current plan") if

(a) it is just and equitable to do so having regard to all circumstances; and

(b) the Minister is satisfied that neither the beneficiary nor any existing holder of the current plan was involved in the transaction that gave rise to the tax.

Related Provisions: 206(5) — Payment deemed not to be a contribution.

(5) Deemed not to be contribution — A payment under subsection (4) is deemed not to be a contribution to a registered disability savings plan for the purposes of section 146.4.

History [s. 206]: S. 206 added by 2007, c. 35, s. 120, applicable to 2008 et seq.

Definitions [s. 206]: "amount" — 248(1); "calendar year" — Interpretation Act 37(1)(a); "disposition" — 248(1); "holder" — 146.4(1), 205(2); "Minister", "person", "property" — 248(1); "registered disability savings plan" — 146.4(1), 248(1); "trust" — 104(1), 248(1), (3).

206.1 (1) Tax payable on non-qualified investment — A tax is payable under this Part for a calendar year in connection with a registered disability savings plan if, in the year,

(a) the trust governed by the plan acquires property that is not a qualified investment for the trust; or

(b) property held by the trust governed by the plan ceases to be a qualified investment for the trust.

Related Provisions: 206.1(2) — Amount of tax; 206.1(4) — Refund of tax on disposition of investment; 206.4 — Waiver of tax by Minister; 207(1) — Return and payment of tax.

(2) Amount of tax payable — The amount of tax payable,

(a) in respect of each property described in paragraph (1)(a), is 50% of the fair market value of the property at the time it was acquired by the trust; and

(b) in respect of each property described in paragraph (1)(b), is 50% of the fair market value of the property at the time immediately before the time it ceased to be a qualified investment for the trust.

(3) Liability for tax — Each person who is a holder of a registered disability savings plan at the time that a tax is imposed under subsection (1) in connection with the plan is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay the tax.

(4) Refund of tax on disposition of non-qualified investment — Where in a calendar year a trust governed by a registered disability savings plan disposes of a property in respect of which a tax is imposed under subsection (1), the person or persons who are liable to pay the tax are entitled to a refund for the year of an amount equal to

(a) except where paragraph (b) applies, the lesser of

(i) the amount of the tax so imposed, and

(ii) the proceeds of disposition of the property; and

(b) nil,

(i) if it is reasonable to expect that any of those persons knew or ought to have known at the time the property was acquired by the trust that it was not, or would cease to be, a qualified investment for the trust, or

(ii) if the property is not disposed of by the trust before the end of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the tax arose, or any later time that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances.

Related Provisions: 206.1(5) — Apportionment of refund.

(5) Apportionment of refund — Where more than one person is entitled to a refund under subsection (4) for a calendar year in respect of the disposition of a property, the total of all amounts so refundable shall not exceed the amount that would be so refundable for the year to any one of those persons in respect of that disposition if that person were the only person entitled to a refund for the year under that subsection in respect of the disposition. If the persons cannot agree as to what portion of the refund each can so claim, the Minister may fix the portions.

(6) Deemed disposition and reacquisition — For the purposes of this Act, where at any time property held by a plan trust in respect of which a tax was imposed under subsection (1) subsequently becomes a qualified investment for the trust, the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired it immediately after that time at a cost equal to that fair market value.

206.2 (1) Tax payable where advantage extended — A tax is payable under this Part for a calendar year in connection with a registered disability savings plan if, in the year, an advantage in relation to the plan is extended to a person who is, or who does not deal at arm's length with, a beneficiary under, or a holder of, the plan.

Related Provisions: 206.2(2) — Amount of tax; 206.4 — Waiver of tax by Minister; 207(1) — Return and payment of tax.

(2) Amount of tax payable — The amount of tax payable in respect of an advantage described in subsection (1) is

(a) in the case of a benefit, the fair market value of the benefit; and

(b) in the case of a loan, the amount of the loan.

(3) Liability for tax — Each person who is a holder of a registered disability savings plan at the time that a tax is imposed under subsection (1) in connection with the plan is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay the tax. If, however, the advantage is extended by the issuer of the plan or by a person not dealing at arm's length with the issuer, the issuer is liable to pay the tax and not the holders.

206.3 (1) Tax payable on use of property as security — Every issuer of a registered disability savings plan shall pay a tax under this Part for a calendar year if, in the year, with the consent or knowledge of the issuer, a trust governed by the plan uses or permits to be used any property held by the trust as security for indebtedness of any kind.

Related Provisions: 206.3(2) — Amount of tax; 206.4 — Waiver of tax by Minister; 207(1) — Return and payment of tax.

(2) Amount of tax payable — The amount of tax payable in respect of each property described in subsection (1) is equal to the fair market value of the property at the time the property commenced to be used as security.

206.4 Waiver of liability — If a person would otherwise be liable to pay a tax under this Part for a calendar year, the Minister may waive or cancel all or part of the liability where it is just and equitable to do so having regard to all the circumstances, including

(a) whether the tax arose as a consequence of reasonable error; and

(b) the extent to which the transaction which gave rise to the tax also gave rise to another tax under this Part.

207. (1) Return and payment of tax — Every person who is liable to pay tax under this Part for a calendar year shall within 90 days after the end of the year

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information including

(i) an estimate of the amount of tax payable under this Part by the person for the year, and

(ii) an estimate of the amount of any refund to which the person is entitled under this Part for the year; and

(b) pay to the Receiver General the amount, if any, by which the amount of the person's tax payable under this Part for the year exceeds the person's allowable refund for the year.

(2) Refund — Where a person has filed a return under this Part for a calendar year within three years after the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may, on mailing the notice of assessment for the year, refund without application any allowable refund of the person for the year, to the extent that it was not applied against the person's tax payable under paragraph (1)(b); and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make the refund referred to in paragraph (a) after mailing the notice of assessment if an application for it has been made in writing by the person within three years after the mailing of an original notice of assessment for the year.

(3) Multiple holders — Where two or more holders of a registered disability savings plan are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with each other to pay a tax under this Part for a calendar year in connection with the plan,

(a) a payment by any of the holders on account of that tax liability shall to the extent of the payment discharge the joint liability; and

(b) a return filed by one of the holders as required by this Part for the year is deemed to have been filed by each other holder in respect of the joint liability to which the return relates.

(4) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 152 and 158 to 167 and Division J of Part I apply to this Part with any modifications that the circumstances require.

History [former ss. 205-207]: Former Part XI (former ss. 205–207) repealed by 2005, c. 30, s. 14, applicable to months that end after 2004. It formerly read:

Part XI — Tax in respect of Certain Property Acquired by Trusts, etc., Governed by Deferred Income Plans

205. Application of Part — This Part applies in respect of a taxpayer that is

(a) a corporation described in paragraph 149(1)(o.1) or (o.2) or a trust described in paragraph 149(1)(o) or (o.4), other than a trust described in paragraph 149(1)(o)

(i) established for the exclusive benefit of non-residents working outside Canada, or

(ii) the only beneficiaries of which are persons whose entitlement thereunder arises by virtue of employment outside Canada;

(b) a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan;

(c) a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan;

(d) [Repealed under former Act]

(e) a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund;

(f) a registered investment; or

(g) any other person, other than a prescribed person, exempt from tax under Part I on its taxable income.

206. (1) Definitions — In this Part,

"affiliate" of a corporation (in this definition referred to as the "parent corporation") at any time is any other corporation where, at that time,

(a) the parent corporation controls the other corporation,

(b) the parent corporation or a corporation controlled by the parent corporation owns

(i) shares of the capital stock of the other corporation that would give the parent corporation or the corporation controlled by the parent corporation 25% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of that other corporation, and

(ii) shares of the capital stock of the other corporation having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all the issued shares of the capital stock of that other corporation, or

(c) the other corporation is controlled by a particular corporation and the parent corporation or a corporation controlled by the parent corporation owns

(i) shares of the capital stock of the particular corporation that would give the parent corporation or the corporation controlled by the parent corporation 25% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the particular corporation, and

(ii) shares of the capital stock of the particular corporation having a fair market value of 25% or more of the fair market value of all the issued shares of the capital stock of the particular corporation;

"carrying value" of a property of a corporation or partnership at any time means

(a) where a balance sheet of the corporation or the partnership as of that time was presented to the shareholders of the corporation or the members of the partnership and the balance sheet was prepared using generally accepted accounting principles and was not prepared using the equity or consolidation method of accounting, the amount in respect of the property reflected in the balance sheet, and

(b) in any other case, the amount that would have been reflected in a balance sheet of the corporation or the partnership as of that time if the balance sheet had been prepared in accordance with generally acceptable accounting principles and neither the equity nor consolidation method of accounting were used;

"cost amount" at any time of a taxpayer's capital interest in a trust that is foreign property is deemed to be the greater of

(a) the cost amount of the interest, determined without reference to this definition, and

(b) where that time is more than 60 days after the end of a taxation year of the trust, the amount that would be the cost amount of the interest if new units of the trust had been issued in satisfaction of each amount payable

(i) after 2000 and at or before the end of the taxation year, by the trust in respect of the interest,

(ii) to which subparagraph 53(2)(h)(i.1) applies (or would apply if that subparagraph were read without reference to clauses (A) and (B) of that subparagraph), and

(iii) that has not been satisfied at or before that time by the issue of new units of the trust or by a payment of an amount by the trust;

Proposed Amendment — Former 206(1)"cost amount"(b)(i)–(iii)

(i) after 2000 and at or before the end of the taxation year, by the trust in respect of the interest (otherwise than as proceeds of disposition of the interest), and

(ii) that has not been satisfied at or before that time by the issue of new units of the trust or by a payment of an amount by the trust;

(iii) [Repealed]

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 173(2), will replace subparas. (b)(i)–(iii) of the definition "cost amount" in former subsec. 206(1) [repealed by S.C. 2005, c. 30] with subparas. (b)(i) and (ii) to read as above, applicable to months that end after December 20, 2002 and before 2005, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Part XI of the Act set out rules for a 1% per month penalty tax on excess foreign property held by deferred income plans. Part XI was repealed, effective for months that end after 2004, in Budget Implementation Act, 2005, S.C. 2005, c. 30. A number of amendments are being made to Part XI that are effective prior to its repeal.

"Cost amount" is defined in subsection 206(1) for the purposes of Part XI. The definition was introduced in 2001 to deal with arrangements that provided for trust income to be "capitalized" without the trust issuing new units. Under the definition, the cost amount otherwise determined of a taxpayer's interest in such a trust reflects the capitalized amounts. For months that end after December 20, 2002 and before 2005, the definition is to be read to clarify that it applies to trusts under which all beneficiaries are registered plan trusts (e.g., trusts described in paragraph (e) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1)).

"designated value" of a property at any time means the greater of

(a) the fair market value at that time of the property, and

(b) the carrying value at that time of the property;

"excluded share" means

(a) a share that is of a class of shares listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada, where no share of that class has been issued after December 4, 1985 (otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on December 4, 1985),

(b) a share last acquired after 1995 that is of a class of shares listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada, where

(i) no share of that class has been issued after July 20, 1995 (otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing made before July 21, 1995), and

(ii) the share would not be foreign property if the expression "primarily from foreign property" in paragraph (d.1) of the definition "foreign property" in this subsection were read as "primarily from portfolio investments in property that is foreign property" and that paragraph were read without reference to "(other than an excluded share)", and

(c) a share last acquired after 1995 as a consequence of the exercise of a right acquired before 1996 where the share would not be foreign property if the expression "primarily from foreign property" in paragraph (d.1) of the definition "foreign property" in this subsection were read as "primarily from portfolio investments in property that is foreign property" and that paragraph were read without reference to "(other than an excluded share)";

"foreign property" means

(a) tangible property situated outside Canada except automotive equipment registered in Canada,

(b) automotive equipment not registered in Canada pursuant to the laws of Canada or a province,

(c) intangible property (other than any property described in paragraphs (d) to (g)) situated outside Canada including, without restricting the generality of the foregoing, any patent under the laws of a country other than Canada and any licence in respect thereof,

(d) any share of the capital stock of a corporation other than a Canadian corporation,

(d.1) except as provided by subsection (1.1), any share (other than an excluded share) of the capital stock of, or any debt obligation issued by, a corporation (other than an investment corporation, mutual fund corporation or registered investment) that is a Canadian corporation, where shares of the corporation can reasonably be considered to derive their value, directly or indirectly, primarily from foreign property,

Proposed Amendment — Former 206(1)"foreign property"(d.1)

(d.1) any share (other than an excluded share) of the capital stock of, or any debt obligation (other than a debt obligation described in subparagraph (g)(iii)) issued by, a corporation (other than an investment corporation, a mutual fund corporation or a registered investment) that is a Canadian corporation, if shares of the corporation can reasonably be considered to derive their value, directly or indirectly, primarily from foreign property,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 173(3), will amend para. (d.1) of the definition "foreign property" in former subsec. 206(1) [repealed by S.C. 2005, c. 30] to read as above, applicable to months that end after October 2003 and before 2005, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: "Foreign property" is defined in subsection 206(1). Under paragraph (d.1) of the definition, foreign property includes certain shares and debt issued by Canadian corporations, if shares of the corporation may reasonably be considered to derive their value primarily from foreign property. Paragraph (g) of the definition treats as foreign property the indebtedness of a non-resident person other than indebtedness issued by various international organizations or indebtedness issued by an authorized foreign bank and payable at a Canadian branch of that bank.

For months that end after October 2003 and before 2005, paragraphs (d.1) and (g) are to be read to provide that a mortgage obligation that is fully secured by real property situated in Canada is not foreign property.

(e) except as prescribed, any share of the capital stock of a mutual fund corporation or investment corporation that is not a registered investment, other than a share of the capital stock of an investment corporation that was last acquired before October 14, 1971,

(f) any property that, under the terms or conditions thereof or any agreement relating thereto, is convertible into, is exchangeable for or confers a right to acquire, property that is foreign property, but not including property that is

(i) a share of the capital stock of a Canadian corporation listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada, or

(ii) a right issued before 1984 and listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada to acquire a share of the capital stock of a Canadian corporation,

(g) indebtedness of a non-resident person, other than

(i) indebtedness issued by an authorized foreign bank and payable at a branch in Canada of the bank, or

(ii) indebtedness issued or guaranteed by

(A) the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development,

(B) the International Finance Corporation,

(C) the Inter-American Development Bank,

(D) the Asian Development Bank,

(E) the Caribbean Development Bank,

(F) the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development,

(G) the African Development Bank, or

(H) a prescribed person,

Proposed Addition — Former 206(1)"foreign property"(g)(iii)

(iii) a debt obligation that is fully secured by a mortgage, charge, hypothec or similar instrument in respect of real or immovable property situated in Canada or that would be fully secured were it not for a decline in the fair market value of the property after the debt obligation was issued,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 173(4), will add subpara. (g)(iii) to the definition "foreign property" in former subsec. 206(1) [repealed by S.C. 2005, c. 30], applicable to months that end after October 2003 and before 2005, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 206(1)"foreign property"(d.1) above.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, November 3, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

This is in reply to your letter of September 22, 2003 in which you seek an amendment to the Income Tax Act to address certain practical difficulties of monitoring the foreign property character of Canadian-based commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS).

We understand that CMBS in Canada are generally issued as certificates representing undivided co-ownership interests in a pool of mortgage loans secured by commercial real property situated in Canada. To determine the foreign property character of the certificates, it is necessary to determine the character of each of the mortgage loans in the pool based on the attributes of the issuer. As the issuers are typically private corporations, obtaining the information necessary to make on-going determinations as to the applicability of paragraphs (d.1) and (g) of the "foreign property" definition in subsection 206(1) and subsection 206(1.1) is time-consuming and expensive. Finally, we understand that the foreign property component of typical CMBS offerings in Canada is minimal.

Given these factors, we are prepared to recommend relief. In particular, we will recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Income Tax Act be amended, effective for months ending after October 2003, to exclude from the definition "foreign property" certificates representing undivided co-ownership interests in a pool of mortgage loans secured by real property situated in Canada, subject to the following conditions:

- at the time of issuance of the certificates, not more than 20% of the total amount of the mortgage loans in the pool would otherwise constitute foreign property;
- at the time of issuance of the certificates, not more than 20% of the total amount of the mortgage loans in the pool is attributable to mortgage loans issued by a single person or related group;
- the certificates are issued as part of an offering of at least $25 million;
- the amount of each mortgage loan in the pool, at the time [of] its issuance, (together with the amount of any other debt of equal or superior rank) does not exceed the fair market value, at that time, of the real property subject to the mortgage loan; and
- no mortgage loan is added to the pool after issuance of the certificates unless it is non-foreign property.

As you are aware, we are also considering possibility of providing a more general exclusion for any mortgage loan in respect of real property situated in Canada. If a decision is made to provide a general exclusion, it would be communicated by way of public announcement. [Subpara. (g)(iii) provides this more general exclusion — ed.]

I trust this addresses your concerns and thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 30, 2004: See under Reg. 4900(1)(j).

"qualified property" of a corporation means a property (other than a debt obligation or share issued by an affiliate of the corporation or by any corporation related to the corporation) owned by the corporation and used by it or an affiliate of the corporation in a specified active business carried on by it or the affiliate;

"significant interest" has the meaning that would be assigned by section 142.2 if that section were read without reference to paragraphs 142.2(3)(b) and (c);

"small business investment amount" of a taxpayer for a month means the greater of

(a) the total of the cost amounts of all small business properties to the taxpayer at the end of the month, and

(b) the quotient obtained when the total of all amounts determined for each of the three preceding months, each of which is the total of the cost amounts of all small business properties to the taxpayer at the end of that preceding month, is divided by three;

"small business property" of a taxpayer at a particular time means property acquired by the taxpayer after October 31, 1985 that is at that particular time

(a) a property prescribed to be a small business security,

(b) a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation prescribed to be a small business investment corporation,

(c) an interest of a limited partner in a partnership prescribed to be a small business investment limited partnership, or

(d) an interest in a trust prescribed to be a small business investment trust,

where

(e) the taxpayer is a prescribed person in respect of the property, or

(f) throughout the period that began at the time the property was first acquired (otherwise than by a broker or dealer in securities) and ends at the particular time, the property was not owned by any person other than

(i) the taxpayer,

(ii) a trust governed by a particular registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan if

(A) the taxpayer is another trust governed by a registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan, and

(B) the annuitant under the particular fund or plan (or the spouse, common-law partner, former spouse or former common-law partner of that annuitant) is also the annuitant under the fund or plan referred to in clause (A), or

(iii) an annuitant under a registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan that governs the taxpayer, or a spouse, common-law partner, former spouse or former common-law partner of that annuitant;

"specified active business" carried on by a corporation, at any time, means a particular business that is carried on by the corporation in Canada where

(a) the corporation employs in the particular business at that time more than 5 full-time employees and at least

(i) 50% of the full-time employees employed by the corporation at that time in the particular business are employed in Canada, and

(ii) 50% of the salaries and wages paid to employees employed at that time in the particular business are reasonably attributable to services rendered in Canada by the employees, or

(b) one or more other corporations associated with the corporation provide, in the course of carrying on one or more other active businesses, managerial, administrative, financial, maintenance or other similar services to the corporation in respect of the particular business and

(i) the corporation could reasonably be expected to require more than 5 full-time employees at that time in respect of the particular business if those services had not been provided,

(ii) at least 50% of the full-time employees employed at that time by the corporation in the particular business and by the other corporations in the other active businesses are employed in Canada, and

(iii) at least 50% of the salaries and wages paid to employees employed at that time by the corporation in the particular business and by the other corporations in the other active businesses are reasonably attributable to services rendered in Canada by the employees, but does not include a business carried on by the corporation the principal purpose of which is to derive income from, or from the disposition of, shares and debt obligations the value of which can reasonably be considered to derive, directly or indirectly, primarily from foreign property;

"specified proportion" of a member of a partnership for a fiscal period of the partnership means the proportion that the member's share of the total income or loss of the partnership for the partnership's fiscal period is of the partnership's total income or loss for that period and, for the purpose of this definition, where that income or loss for a period is nil, that proportion shall be computed as if the partnership had income for that period in the amount of $1,000,000.

Proposed Repeal — Former 206(1)"specified proportion"

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 173(1), will repeal the definition "specified proportion" in former subsec. 206(1) [repealed by S.C. 2005, c. 30], deemed to have come into force on December 21, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 206(1) includes a definition of a partner's "specified proportion" of a partnership for a fiscal period. To enable the definition to be used for other purposes as well, it is moved to subsection 248(1), and is repealed in subsection 206(1), effective after December 20, 2002.

(1.1) Exception where substantial Canadian presence — Property described in paragraph (d.1) of the definition "foreign property" in subsection (1) does not, at a particular time, include property of a taxpayer that is a share or debt obligation that was issued by a corporation that, at the particular time, is a Canadian corporation where

(a) either at any time in any of the last 15 months beginning before the time (in this subsection referred to as the "acquisition time") when the property was last acquired before the particular time by the taxpayer or at any time in the calendar year that includes the acquisition time, the total of all amounts each of which is the designated value of a qualified property of the corporation or an affiliate of the corporation exceeded $50,000,000;

(b) the particular time is not later than the end of the 15th month ending after the acquisition time and, at any time in any of the last 15 months beginning before the acquisition time, the total of all amounts each of which is the designated value of a qualified property of the corporation or another corporation controlled by the corporation exceeded 50% of the lesser of the fair market value of all of the corporation's property and the carrying value of all of the corporation's property;

(c) the particular time is after the acquisition time and, at any time in any of the first 15 months beginning after the acquisition time, the total of all amounts each of which is the designated value of a qualified property of the corporation or another corporation controlled by the corporation exceeded 50% of the lesser of the fair market value of all of the corporation's property and the carrying value of all of the corporation's property;

(d) the particular time is after 1995 and, at the particular time,

(i) either

(A) the corporation was incorporated or otherwise formed under the laws of Canada or a province, or

(B) where the corporation was not required to maintain an office under the laws by or under which it was incorporated, the maintenance of an office in Canada is required under the constitutional documents of the corporation,

(ii) the corporation maintains an office in Canada, and

(iii) any of the following conditions applies, namely,

(A) the corporation employs more than 5 individuals in Canada full time and those individuals are not employed primarily in connection with

(I) an investment activity of the corporation or another corporation with which the corporation does not deal at arm's length,

(II) a business carried on by the corporation through a partnership of which the corporation is not a majority interest partner, or

(III) a business carried on by another corporation with which the corporation does not deal at arm's length through a partnership of which that other corporation is not a majority interest partner,

(B) another corporation that is controlled by the corporation employs more than 5 individuals in Canada full time and those individuals are not employed primarily in connection with

(I) an investment activity of the other corporation or another corporation with which the other corporation does not deal at arm's length,

(II) a business carried on by the other corporation through a partnership of which the other corporation is not a majority interest partner, or

(III) a business carried on by another corporation with which the other corporation does not deal at arm's length through a partnership of which that other corporation is not a majority interest partner,

(C) the total amount incurred by the corporation for the services (other than services relating to an investment activity of the corporation or another corporation with which the corporation does not deal at arm's length) of employees and other individuals rendered in Canada in any calendar year that ends in any of the last 15 months that end before the particular time exceeds $250,000,

(D) the total amount incurred by another corporation that is controlled by the corporation for the services (other than services relating to an investment activity of the other corporation or another corporation with which the other corporation does not deal at arm's length) of employees and other individuals rendered in Canada in any calendar year that ends in any of the last 15 months that end before the particular time exceeds $250,000, or

(E) in the calendar year that includes the particular time the corporation was continued from a jurisdiction outside Canada, or incorporated or otherwise formed and the total amount incurred in the year by the corporation for the services (other than services relating to an investment activity of the corporation or another corporation with which the corporation does not deal at arm's length) of employees and other individuals rendered in Canada exceeds $250,000; or

(e) the particular time is after 1995 and, at the particular time, all or substantially all of the property of the corporation is not foreign property.

(1.2) Partnerships — For the purposes of paragraphs (1.1)(a) to (c) and this subsection,

(a) a member of a partnership

(i) is deemed not to own any interest in the partnership at any time, and

(ii) is deemed to own the member's specified proportion for the partnership's first fiscal period that ends at or after that time of each property that would, if the assumption in paragraph 96(1)(c) were made, be owned by the partnership at that time; and

(b) the carrying value at that time of that specified proportion of a partnership's property is deemed to be that specified proportion of the carrying value at that time to the partnership of that property.

(1.3) Interpretation — For the purpose of paragraph (1.1)(d),

(a) an employee of a corporation is deemed to be employed in Canada where the corporation's permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) to which the employee principally reports is situated in Canada; and

(b) services are deemed to be rendered in Canada to a corporation where the permanent establishment (as defined by regulation) for which the services are rendered is situated in Canada.

(1.4) Rights in respect of foreign property — For the purpose of determining whether a property owned by a taxpayer is foreign property at any time because of paragraph (f) or (h) of the definition "foreign property" in subsection (1), it shall be assumed that each other property not owned at that time by the taxpayer was acquired immediately before that time by the taxpayer.

(1.5) Identical property — Notwithstanding paragraphs (d.1), (f) and (h) of the definition "foreign property" in subsection (1), a property shall not be considered to be foreign property at a particular time of a taxpayer because of any of those paragraphs where

(a) the property is

(i) a share or debt obligation issued by a Canadian corporation, or

(ii) an interest in, a right to, a property that is convertible into or a property that is exchangeable for, a share or debt obligation issued by a Canadian corporation; and

(b) the property, or the share or obligation referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii), is identical to another property that is owned at the particular time by the taxpayer and that is not foreign property at the particular time of the taxpayer.

(2) Tax payable — Where, at the end of any month,

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount of a foreign property to a taxpayer described in any of paragraphs 205(a) to (f)

exceeds the total of

(ii) where the taxpayer is described in any of paragraphs 205(b), (c) and (e), all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the taxpayer of a foreign property that was not at the end of the month a qualified investment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) or 146.3(1) or section 204, as the case may be) of the taxpayer, and

(iii) all amounts (other than an amount included in respect of the taxpayer for the month under subparagraph (ii)) each of which is the cost amount to the taxpayer of foreign property that became foreign property of the taxpayer after its last acquisition by the taxpayer and at a time that is not more than 24 months before the end of the month,

exceeds the total of

(b) 30% of the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount of a property to the taxpayer, and

(c) in the case of a taxpayer described in paragraph 205(a), (b), (c) or (e), other than a taxpayer described in paragraph 149(1)(o.2), the lesser of

(i) three times the small business investment amount of the taxpayer for the month, and

(ii) 20% of the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount of a property to the taxpayer, the taxpayer shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the lesser of the excess and the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the taxpayer of each of its foreign properties that was acquired after June 18, 1971.

(2.01) [Tax payable by] Registered investments — Notwithstanding subsection (2), the tax payable under this section by a registered investment in respect of a month is equal to the lesser of

(a) the tax that would, but for this subsection, be payable by the registered investment in respect of the month, and

(b) the greater of

(i) 20% of the amount determined under paragraph (a), and

(ii) the amount determined by the formula

$$$5{,}000 + (A \times B/C)$$

where

A is equal to the amount determined under paragraph (a),

B is equal to

(A) where the registered investment is a trust, the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value at the end of the month of an interest in the registered investment that is held at that time by a taxpayer described in any of paragraphs 205(a) to (f) or by a mutual fund corporation, investment corporation, mutual fund trust, prescribed trust or prescribed partnership, and

(B) where the registered investment is a corporation, the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value at the end of the month of a share of the capital stock of the registered investment that is held at that time by a taxpayer described in any of paragraphs 205(a) to (f) or by a mutual fund corporation, investment corporation, mutual fund trust, prescribed trust or prescribed partnership, and

C is equal to

(B) where the registered investment is a corporation, the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value at the end of the month of a share of the capital stock of the registered investment that is held at that time.

(2.1) Exemption — Notwithstanding section 205, subsection (2) does not apply to a trust described in paragraph 149(1)(o.4) or a corporation described in paragraph 149(1)(o.2) in respect of any month that falls within a period for which the trustee or the corporation, as the case may be, elects in accordance with subsections 259(1) and (3).

(3) [Repealed]

(3.1) Acquisition of qualifying security — For the purpose of applying subparagraph (2)(a)(iii) at or after a particular time, where a qualifying security in relation to another security is acquired at the particular time by the taxpayer referred to in subsection (3.2) in respect of the security, and the security is foreign property at that time,

(a) the qualifying security is deemed to have been last acquired by the taxpayer at the time the other security was last acquired by the taxpayer;

(b) where the other security was not foreign property immediately before the particular time, the qualifying security is deemed to have become foreign property at the particular time; and

(c) where the other security was foreign property immediately before the particular time, the qualifying security is deemed to have become foreign property at the time the other security became foreign property.

(3.2) Qualifying security — For the purpose of subsection (3.1), a qualifying security in relation to another security means

(a) a security issued at any time by a corporation to a taxpayer

(i) in exchange for another security acquired before that time by the taxpayer, and

(ii) in the course of

(A) a corporate merger or reorganization of capital,

(B) a transaction or series of transactions in which control of the corporation that issued the other security is acquired by a person or group of persons, or

(C) a transaction or series of transactions in which all or substantially all of the issued and outstanding shares (other than shares held immediately before the transaction or the beginning of the series by a particular person or related group) of the corporation that issued the other security are acquired by the particular person or related group; or

(b) a security acquired by a taxpayer from a corporation pursuant to a distribution with respect to another security that is an eligible distribution described in subsection 86.1(2).

(4) Non-arm's length transactions — For the purposes of this Part, where at any time a taxpayer acquires property, otherwise than pursuant to a transfer of property to which paragraph (f) or (g) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) applies, from a person with whom the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length for no consideration or for consideration less than the fair market value of the property at that time, the taxpayer is deemed to acquire the property at that fair market value, and for those purposes, a particular trust is deemed not to deal at arm's length with another trust if a person who is beneficially interested in the particular trust is at that time also beneficially interested in the other trust.

206.1 Tax in respect of acquisition of shares — Where at any time a taxpayer to which this Part applies makes an agreement (otherwise than as a consequence of the acquisition or writing by it of an option listed on a prescribed stock exchange) to acquire a share of the capital stock of a corporation (otherwise than from the corporation) at a price that may differ from the fair market value of the share at the time the share may be acquired, the taxpayer shall, in respect of each month during which the taxpayer is a party to the agreement, pay a tax under this Part equal to the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount of a dividend paid on the share at a time in the month at which the taxpayer is a party to the agreement

exceeds

(b) the amount, if any, of the dividend that is received by the taxpayer.

207. (1) Return and payment of tax — Within 90 days after the end of each year after 1971, a taxpayer to whom this Part applies shall

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, without notice or demand therefor;

(b) estimate in the return the amount of tax, if any, payable by the taxpayer under this Part in respect of each month in the year; and

(c) pay to the Receiver General the amount of tax, if any, payable by the taxpayer under this Part in respect of each month in the year.

(2) Liability of trustee — Where the trustee of a taxpayer that is liable to pay tax under this Part does not remit to the Receiver General the amount of the tax within the time specified in subsection (1), the trustee is personally liable to pay on behalf of the taxpayer the full amount of the tax and is entitled to recover from the taxpayer any amount paid by the trustee as tax under this section.

(3) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 152 and 158, subsections 161(1) and (11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

The definition "cost amount" added to subsec. 206(1) by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 169(2), applicable to months that end after February 2001.

Para. (g) of the definition "foreign property" in subsec. 206(1) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 169(1), applicable after June 27, 1999. It formerly read:

(g) indebtedness of a non-resident person, other than indebtedness issued or guaranteed by

(i) the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development,

(i.1) the International Finance Corporation,

(ii) the Inter-American Development Bank,

(iii) the Asian Development Bank,

(iv) the Caribbean Development Bank,

(iv.1) the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development,

(iv.2) the African Development Bank, or

(v) a prescribed person,

Cl. (f)(ii)(B) and subpara. (f)(iii) of the definition "small business property" in subsec. 206(1) amended by the said c. 17, s. 241, applicable to 2001 et seq. except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act [2000, c. 12], in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years. Cl. (f)(ii)(B) and subpara. (f)(iii) formerly read:

(B) the annuitant under the particular fund or plan (or the spouse or former spouse of that annuitant) is also the annuitant under the fund or plan referred to in clause (A), or

(iii) an annuitant under a registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan that governs the taxpayer, or a spouse or former spouse of that annuitant;

Subsec. 206(3.1) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 169(3), applicable to months that end after 1997. Subsec. 206(3.1) formerly read:

(3.1) Reorganizations, etc. — Where

(a) a security (in this subsection referred to as the "new security") is issued at a particular time by a corporation to a taxpayer

(i) in exchange for another security acquired before the particular time by the taxpayer, and

(ii) in the course of

(A) a corporate merger or reorganization of capital, or

(B) a transaction in which control of the corporation that issued the other security is acquired by a person or a group of persons, and

(b) the new security is foreign property at the particular time, for the purposes of applying subparagraph (2)(a)(iii) to the taxpayer at or after the particular time,

(c) the new security shall be deemed to have been last acquired by the taxpayer at the time the other security was last acquired by the taxpayer,

(d) where the other security was not foreign property immediately before the particular time, the new security shall be deemed to have become foreign property at the particular time, and

(e) where the other security was foreign property immediately before the particular time, the new security shall be deemed to have become foreign property at the time the other security became foreign property.

Subsec. 206(3.2) added by the said c. 17, subsec. 169(3), applicable to months that end after 1997.

Subsec. 206(4) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 169(4), applicable in respect of property acquired after December 23, 1998. It formerly read:

(4) For the purposes of this Part, where a taxpayer has acquired property from a person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length for no consideration or for consideration less than the fair market value thereof at the time of the acquisition, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired the property at that fair market value, and for those purposes, a trust shall be deemed not to deal at arm's length with another trust if any person is beneficially interested in both trusts.

The definition "small business investment amount" and the portion of "small business property" following para. (d), in subsec. 206(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsecs. 60(1), (2), applicable to months that end after 1997. The definitions formerly read:

"small business investment amount" of a taxpayer for a month means the quotient obtained when the total of all amounts determined for each of the three preceding months, each of which is the total of the cost amounts of all small business properties to the taxpayer at the end of that preceding month, is divided by three;

. . . . .

(e) a prescribed person in respect of the property, or

(f) the first person (other than a broker or dealer in securities) to have acquired the property and the taxpayer has owned the property continuously since it was so acquired.

Subsec. 206(2) amended by 2000, c. 14, s. 41 to substitute "30%" for "20%", applicable to months that end after 1999, except that for months in 2000 the reference to "30%" shall be read as "25%".

The definitions "affiliate", "carrying value", "designated value", "excluded share", "qualified property", "specified active business" and "specified proportion" added to subsec. 206(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 210(3), applicable to shares and indebtedness acquired after December 4, 1985 (otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing made before 5:00 p.m. E.S.T. on December 4, 1985).

Paras. (d.1) and (e) of the definition "foreign property" in subsec. 206(1) amended by the said c. 19, subsec. 210(1), para. (d.1) applicable to shares and indebtedness acquired after December 4, 1985 (otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing made before 5:00 p.m. E.S.T. on December 4, 1985) except that, with respect to shares and indebtedness last acquired before 1996, the reference to "primarily from foreign property" in that paragraph shall be read as a reference to "primarily from portfolio investments in property that is foreign property", and para. (e) applicable to months that end after June 1995. Paras. (d.1) and (e) formerly read:

(d.1) any share of the capital stock of or any debt obligation issued by a Canadian corporation, if shares of the corporation may reasonably be considered to derive their value, directly or indirectly, primarily from portfolio investments in property that is foreign property, but not including a share of a corporation listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada that is of a class of the capital stock of the corporation no share of which has been issued after December 4, 1985 (otherwise than pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before 5:00 p.m. Eastern Standard Time on December 4, 1985),

(e) any share of the capital stock of a mutual fund corporation that is neither an investment corporation nor a registered investment, except as prescribed by regulation,

Subparas. (g)(iv.1) and (iv.2) added to the definition "foreign property" by the said c. 19, subsec. 210(2), (iv.1) applicable to months after March 1991, and (iv.2) applicable to months after 1996.

The definitions "investment activity" and "significant interest" added to subsec. 206(1) by the said, c. 19, subsec. 210(3), applicable after 1995.

Subsecs. 206(1.1) to (1.5) added by the said c. 19, subsec. 210(4), applicable after December 4, 1985.

Subsec. 206(2.01) added by the said c. 19, subsec. 210(5), applicable to months that end after 1992.

Subsec. 206(3) repealed by the said c. 19, subsec. 210(6), applicable to months that end after June 1995. Subsec. 206(3) formerly read:

(3) Shares in investment corporation — Notwithstanding the definition "foreign property" in subsection (1), a share of the capital stock of an investment corporation (other than a registered investment) acquired after October 13, 1971 by a taxpayer to whom this Part applies and owned by the taxpayer at a particular time shall, except as prescribed by regulation, be deemed to be a foreign property of the taxpayer at that time.

S. 206.1 amended by the said c. 19, s. 211, applicable to agreements entered into after 1992 except that, in its application to agreements entered into after 1992 and before April 26, 1995, s. 206.1 shall be read as follows:

206.1 Where at any time a taxpayer to which this Part applies enters into an agreement (otherwise than as a consequence of the acquisition or writing by it of an option listed on a prescribed stock exchange) to acquire a share of the capital stock of a corporation (otherwise than from the corporation) at a price that may differ from the fair market value of the share at the time the share may be acquired, the taxpayer shall, in respect of each month during which the taxpayer is a party to the agreement, pay a tax under this Part equal to the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount of a dividend paid on the share at a time in the month at which the taxpayer is a party to the agreement

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, of the dividend that is received by the taxpayer, and

(b) 1% of the fair market value of the share at the time the agreement is entered into.

The sec. formerly read:

206.1 Tax in respect of acquisition of shares — Where at any time a taxpayer to which this Part applies enters into an agreement (otherwise than as a consequence of the acquisition or writing by it of an option listed on a prescribed stock exchange) to acquire a share of the capital stock of a corporation (otherwise than from the corporation) at a price that may differ from the fair market value thereof at the time the share may be acquired, the taxpayer shall, in respect of each month during which the taxpayer is a party to the agreement, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the fair market value of the share at the time that the agreement is entered into.

The opening words of para. (g) of "foreign property" in subsec. 206(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 93(1), applicable to months after 1992. The opening words of that para. formerly read:

(g) any bond, debenture, mortgage, note or similar obligation of, or issued by, a person not resident in Canada, except any such bond, debenture, mortgage, note or similar obligation issued or guaranteed by

Subsec. 206(2.1) substituted by the said c. 21, subsec. 93(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. That subsec. formerly read:

(2.1) Exemption — Notwithstanding section 205, subsection (2) shall not apply in respect of a trust described in paragraph 149(1)(o.4) in respect of any month that falls within a period in respect of which the trustee has elected in accordance with subsection 259(2).

Para. 206(2)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 120(1), applicable to months ending after December 20, 1991. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount of a foreign property to a taxpayer described in any of paragraphs 205(a) to (f) (other than, where the taxpayer is described in any of paragraphs (b), (c) and (e), a foreign property that was not at the end of the month a qualified investment, within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) or 146.3(1) or section 204, as the case may be, of the taxpayer.)

Subsec. 206(3.1) added by the said, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 120(2), applicable to months ending after December 20, 1991.

Subpara. (g)(i.1) added to "foreign property" by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 166(1), applicable after July 13, 1990.

Para. 206(2)(b) amended by the said c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 166(2), to substitute "20% " for "10% ", applicable to months ending after 1989 except that for months in 1990, 1991, 1992 and 1993 the reference in para. (b) to "20%" shall be read as "12%", "14%", "16%" and "18%" respectively.

Subpara. 206(2)(c)(ii) substituted by the said c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 166(3), applicable to months ending after 1989. That subpara. formerly read:

(ii) two times the amount determined under paragraph (b),

S. 206.1 substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 167, applicable to agreements entered into after July 13, 1990. S. 206.1 formerly read:

206.1 Tax in respect of acquisition of shares — Where at any time a taxpayer to which this Part applies has entered into an agreement (otherwise than pursuant to the acquisition or writing by it of an option listed on a prescribed stock exchange) to acquire shares of the capital stock of a corporation from a person other than the corporation at a price that may differ from the fair market value thereof at the time they may be acquired, the taxpayer shall, in respect of each month during which it is a party to the agreement, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the maximum amount that the taxpayer is or may be required to pay for the shares under the agreement.

PART XI.01 — TAXES IN RESPECT OF TFSAS [TAX-FREE SAVINGS ACCOUNTS]

207.01 (1) Definitions — The definitions in subsection 146.2(1) and the following definitions apply in this Part.

"advantage", in relation to a TFSA, means

(a) any benefit, loan or indebtedness that is conditional in any way on the existence of the TFSA, other than

(i) a benefit derived from the provision of administrative or investment services in respect of the TFSA, and

(ii) a loan or an indebtedness (including the use of the TFSA as security for a loan or an indebtedness) the terms and conditions of which are terms and conditions that persons dealing at arm's length with each other would have entered into; and

Proposed Addition — 207.01(1)"advantage"(a)(iii), (iv)

(iii) a distribution under the TFSA, and

(iv) the payment or allocation of any amount to the TFSA by the issuer; and Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 68(2), will add subparas. (a)(iii) and (iv) to the definition "advantage" in subsec. 207.01(1), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Part XI.01 mposes special taxes relating to tax-free savings accounts (TFSAs), including a tax on excess contributions and taxes on supplementary advantages and non-qualified or prohibited investments.

Several amendments are being made to Part XI.01 to respond to issues identified after the introduction of S.C. 2008, c. 28 (the Budget Implementation Act, 2008), which contained the original legislation to implement TFSAs. These amendments are discussed in the commentary below.

Section 207.05 imposes a special tax if an advantage in relation to a tax-free savings account (TFSA) is extended to any person who is, or who does not deal at arm's length with, the holder of the TFSA. An "advantage" is defined as any benefit, loan or indebtedness that is, in any way, dependent on the existence of the TFSA, with certain exceptions. The definition "advantage" is amended in several respects.

First, it is amended to confirm, for greater certainty, that a distribution from a TFSA is not an advantage under paragraph (a) of the definition. "Distribution" is defined by subsection 146.2(1) as any payment made out of or under the TFSA in full or partial satisfaction of the holder's interest in the TFSA.

Second, it is amended to provide that the payment or allocation of an amount to the TFSA by the issuer is not an advantage under paragraph (a) of the definition. This exception is intended to accommodate, for example, reasonable payments of bonus interest to TFSA accounts.

It is important to note that benefits and amounts that are excluded from paragraph (a) could nevertheless be described in paragraph (b) of the definition. That is, the anti-avoidance rules in paragraph (b), described in more detail below, could apply to treat a payment of bonus interest, or another payment to or distribution from a TFSA, as an advantage where the conditions in paragraph (b) are met.

Finally, paragraph (b) of the definition is amended to provide that an advantage includes any increase in the value of the TSFA that can reasonably be considered to be attributable, directly or indirectly, to:

- a transaction or event (or series of transactions or events) that does not reflect commercial terms and a main purpose of which is to enable the holder (or other person or partnership) to benefit from the tax-exempt status of the TFSA; or
- a payment received in substitution for either (i) a payment for services rendered by the holder or non-arm's length person, or (ii) a payment of a return on investment or proceeds of disposition in respect of property held outside of the TFSA by the holder or non-arm's length person.

This provision is intended to guard against transactions designed to artificially shift taxable income away from the holder and into the shelter of a TFSA or to circumvent the TFSA contribution limits.

The definition "advantage" also includes, under paragraph (c), a prescribed benefit. At this time, it is not anticipated that any amendments will be made to the regulations to prescribe a benefit for the purpose of the definition "advantage".

(b) a prescribed benefit.

Proposed Amendment — 207.01(1)"advantage"(b), (c)

(b) a benefit that is an increase in the total fair market value of the property held in connection with the TFSA if it is reasonable to consider, having regard to all the circumstances, that the increase is attributable, directly or indirectly, to

(i) a transaction or event or a series of transactions or events that

(A) would not have occurred in an open market in which parties deal with each other at arm's length and act prudently, knowledgeably and willingly, and

(B) had as one of its main purposes to enable a person or a partnership to benefit from the exemption from tax under Part I of any amount in respect of the TFSA, or

(ii) a payment received as, on account or in lieu of, or in satisfaction of, a payment

(A) for services provided by a person who is, or who does not deal at arm's length with, the holder of the TFSA, or

(B) of interest, of a dividend, of rent, of a royalty or of any other return on investment, or of proceeds of disposition, in respect of property (other than property held in connection with the TFSA) held by a person who is, or who does not deal at arm's length with, the holder of the TFSA; and

(c) a prescribed benefit.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 68(3), will amend para. (b) and add para. (c) to the definition "advantage" in subsec. 207.01(1), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): See under 207.01(1)"advantage"(a)(iii), (iv).

"allowable refund" of a person for a calendar year means the total of all amounts each of which is a refund, for the year, to which the person is entitled under subsection 207.04(4).

Related Provisions: 207.07(2) — Refund payable by Minister.

"excess TFSA amount" of an individual at a particular time in a calendar year means the amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution made under a TFSA by the individual in the calendar year and at or before the particular time, other than a contribution that is

(a) a qualifying transfer, or

(b) an exempt contribution;

B is the individual's unused TFSA contribution room at the end of the preceding calendar year;

C is the total of all amounts each of which was a distribution made in the preceding calendar year under a TFSA of which the individual was the holder at the time of the distribution, other than a distribution that is

(a) a qualifying transfer, or

(b) a prescribed distribution;

D is

(a) the TFSA dollar limit for the calendar year if, at any time in the calendar year, the individual is resident in Canada, and

(b) nil, in any other case; and

E is the total of all amounts each of which is a distribution made in the calendar year and at or before the particular time under a TFSA of which the individual was the holder at the time of the distribution, other than a distribution that is

(a) a qualifying transfer, or

(b) a prescribed distribution.

Proposed Amendment — 207.01(1)"excess TFSA amount"E

E is the total of all amounts each of which is the qualifying portion of a distribution made in the calendar year and at or before the particular time under a TFSA of which the individual was the holder at the time of the distribution and, for this purpose, the qualifying portion of a distribution is

(a) nil, if the distribution is a qualifying transfer or a prescribed distribution, and

(b) in any other case, the lesser of

(i) the amount of the distribution, and

(ii) the amount that would be the individual's excess TFSA amount at the time of the distribution if the amount of the distribution were nil.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 68(4), will amend the description of E in the definition "excess TFSA amount" in subsec. 207.01(1) to read as above, applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The expression "excess TFSA amount" is relevant primarily for the special tax imposed under section 207.02 of the Act on excess TFSA contributions. The amount of the tax is determined on the basis of an individual's highest excess TFSA amount (determined by a formula) in a particular month.

Under variable E of the formula, an individual's excess TFSA amount is reduced by the total amount of distributions made in the year, and at or before the time, under tax-free savings accounts (TFSAs) of the individual — other than distributions made by way of a qualifying transfer and prescribed distributions. For this purpose, it had been intended that a particular distribution be prescribed to the extent that it was not required to reduce or eliminate the individual's excess TFSA amount.

The definition "excess TFSA amount" is amended to incorporate, directly into the description of variable E, what had been intended to be dealt with by regulation. As amended, variable E includes only the "qualifying portion" of a distribution, and defines "qualifying portion" as the lesser of the amount of the distribution and the amount that would have been the individual's excess TFSA amount at the time of the distribution had the distribution not been made. To illustrate, assume that an individual with an $8,000 excess TFSA amount makes a $10,000 TFSA withdrawal. Since only $8,000 is required to eliminate the excess TFSA amount, only $8,000 is included in determining the value of variable E.

In the case of a distribution that is a "qualifying transfer" (as defined in subsection 207.01(1)) or a prescribed distribution, the qualifying portion is defined by variable E to be nil. At this time, it is not anticipated that any amendments will be made to the regulations to prescribe a distribution for the purpose of variable E.

These amendments to variable E do not represent any change in policy, but are rather intended solely to improve the ease with which these rules can be applied.

The expression "excess TFSA amount" is also relevant for the purposes of paragraph 74.5(12)(c), subparagraph (d)(iii) of the new definition "exempt contribution" in subsection 207.01(1) and subsection 207.01(3), which all depend on whether an individual has an excess TFSA amount at a particular time. For the purpose of applying these provisions, it is important to note that the inclusion of the words "if any" in the preamble of the existing definition indicates that an individual is not considered to have an excess TFSA amount where the amount determined by the formula in the definition is nil (either in fact or because of the application of section 257).

Related Provisions: 207.01(1) — Definitions of "qualifying transfer" and "unused TFSA contribution room"; 207.01(2) — Exempt contribution; 207.02 — Tax on excess TFSA amount.

Regulations: No prescribed distributions yet for formula elements C, E.

Proposed Addition — 207.01(1)"exempt contribution"

"exempt contribution" means a contribution made in a calendar year under a TFSA by the survivor of an individual if

(a) the contribution is made during the period (in this definition referred to as the "rollover period") that begins when the individual dies and that ends at the end of the first calendar year that begins after the individual dies (or at any later time that is acceptable to the Minister);

(b) a payment (in this definition referred to as the "survivor payment") was made to the survivor during the rollover period, as a consequence of the individual's death, directly or indirectly out of or under an arrangement that ceased, because of the individual's death, to be a TFSA;

(c) the survivor designates, in prescribed form filed in prescribed manner within 30 days after the day on which the contribution is made, the contribution in relation to the survivor payment; and

(d) the amount of the contribution does not exceed the least of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount of the survivor payment

exceeds

(B) the total of all other contributions designated by the survivor in relation to the survivor payment,

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total proceeds of disposition that would, if section 146.2 were read without reference to subsection 146.2(9), be determined in respect of the arrangement under paragraph 146.2(8)(a), (10)(a) or (11)(a), as the case may be,

exceeds

(B) the total of all other exempt contributions in respect of the arrangement made by the survivor at or before the time of the contribution, and

(iii) if the individual had, immediately before the individual's death, an excess TFSA amount or if payments described in paragraph (b) are made to more than one survivor of the individual, nil or the greater amount, if any, allowed by the Minister in respect of the contribution.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 68(7), will add the definition "exempt contribution" to subsec. 207.01(1), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 207.01(2) defines an "exempt contribution" for the purpose of the definition "excess TFSA amount" in subsection 207.01(1). In general terms, an exempt contribution is a TFSA contribution made by an individual (the "survivor") with proceeds received from an arrangement that ceased to be a tax-free savings account (TFSA) because of the death of the survivor's spouse or common-law partner (the "deceased"). Exempt contributions are disregarded in determining if the survivor has an excess TFSA amount.

To be an exempt contribution, the contribution must be made during the period (referred to as the "rollover period") that begins when the deceased dies and that ends on the second anniversary of that death (or at any later time that is acceptable to the Minister), and the survivor must designate the contribution as an exempt contribution in their return of income for the taxation year in which the contribution is made.

The definition "exempt contribution" is amended in several ways. First, it is moved from subsection 207.01(2) to subsection 207.01(1).

Second, the deadline for making an exempt contribution without having to obtain the approval of the Minister is modified to correspond to the post-death exempt period provided under new paragraph 146.2(9)(a) for TFSA trusts — i.e., the end of the calendar year following the year of death (rather than the second anniversary of the death).

Third, to simplify administration, the definition is amended to require that the contribution designation be made by filing a prescribed form in prescribed manner within 30 days after the day on which the contribution is made (rather than on the survivor's return of income).

Finally, the definition is amended to reflect the renumbering of subsections 146.2(6), (7) and (8) as subsections 146.2(8), (10) and (11), respectively.

"non-qualified investment" for a trust governed by a TFSA means property that is not a qualified investment for the trust.

Related Provisions: 146.2(6) [proposed] — Tax on TFSA's income from non-qualified investment (NQI); 207.01(1)"prohibited investment", "qualified investment" — Definitions; 207.01(5) — Obligation of TFSA issuer; 207.04(1) — Tax on acquisition of NQI; 207.04(3) — Where NQI is also prohibited investment; 207.04(5) — Deemed disposition and reacquisition where property ceases to be NQI.

Regulations: 223(3) (notification to holder of non-qualified investments).

"prohibited investment", at any time, for a trust governed by a TFSA means property (other than prescribed property in relation to the trust) that is at that time

Proposed Amendment — 207.01(1)"prohibited investment" opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 68(5), will amend the opening words of the definition "prohibited investment" in subsec. 207.01(1) to substitute "property" for "property in relation to the trust", applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The definition "prohibited investment" is relevant for the special taxes imposed under section 207.04. The definition specifically excludes (in the preamble) a prescribed property. The existing definition also specifically includes (in paragraph (d)) a restricted property, which is defined in subsection 207.01(1) as having the meaning assigned by regulation. To date, no regulations have been made with respect to either prescribed property or restricted property.

The definition "prohibited investment" is amended to replace the expression "restricted property" in paragraph (d) with the expression "prescribed property". The definition "restricted property" is repealed. This means that there are two types of property prescribed for the definition "prohibited investment": (i) property that is prescribed for purposes of the preamble and is therefore excluded from being a prohibited investment; and (ii) property that is prescribed for purposes of paragraph (d) and is therefore a prohibited investment. These amendments do not represent any change in policy.

New sections 5000 and 5001 of the Regulations set out the property that is prescribed for these two distinct purposes. For details, readers may refer to the commentary on those sections.

(a) a debt of the holder of the TFSA;

(b) a share of the capital stock of, an interest in, or a debt of

(i) a corporation, partnership or trust in which the holder has a significant interest, or

(ii) a person or partnership that does not deal at arm's length with the holder or with a person or partnership described in subparagraph (i);

(c) an interest (or, for civil law, a right) in, or a right to acquire, a share, interest or debt described in paragraph (a) or (b); or

(d) restricted property.

Proposed Amendment — 207.01(1)"prohibited investment"(d)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 68(6), will amend para. (d) of the definition "prohibited investment" in subsec. 207.01(1) to substitute "prescribed" for "restricted", applicable to 2009 et seq.

Regulations: 5000 (prescribed property that is not prohibited, for opening words); 5001 (prescribed property for para. (d)).

"qualified investment" for a trust governed by a TFSA means

(a) an investment that would be described by any of paragraphs (a) to (d), (f) and (g) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 if the reference in that definition to "a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan" were read as a reference to "a trust governed by a TFSA" and if that definition were read without reference to the words "with the exception of excluded property in relation to the trust";

(b) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider if

(i) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract, and

(ii) the holder of the contract has a right to surrender the contract at any time for an amount that would, if reasonable sales and administration charges were ignored, approximate the value of funds that could otherwise be applied to fund future periodic payments under the contract; and

(c) a prescribed investment.

Regulations: 221(2) (information return reporting that securities are qualified investments); 4900 (prescribed investments — and note 4900(14) specifically for TFSAs).

"qualifying transfer" means the transfer of an amount from a TFSA of which a particular individual is the holder if

(a) the amount is transferred directly to another TFSA, the holder of which is the particular individual; or

(b) the amount is transferred directly to another TFSA, the holder of which is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the particular individual, and the following conditions are satisfied:

(i) the individuals are living separate and apart at the time of the transfer, and

(ii) the transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the individuals in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership.

Related Provisions: 146.2(2)(e) — Transfer to another TFSA permitted; 207.01(1)"excess TFSA amount"A(a), C(a), E(a), 207.01(1)"unused TFSA contribution room"(b)B(i), D(i) — Qualifying transfers ignored in determining contribution limit; 248(1)"disposition"(f)(vi) — Transfer from TFSA to TFSA is not a disposition; 252(3) — Extended meaning of "spouse".

"restricted property" has the meaning assigned by regulation.

Proposed Repeal — 207.01(1)"restricted property"

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 68(1), will repeal the definition "restricted property" in subsec. 207.01(1), applicable to 2009 et seq.

"TFSA dollar limit" for a calendar year means,

(a) for 2009, $5,000; and

(b) for each year after 2009, the amount (rounded to the nearest multiple of $500, or if that amount is equidistant from two such consecutive multiples, to the higher multiple) that is equal to $5,000 adjusted for each year after 2009 in the manner set out in section 117.1.

Related Provisions: 207.01(1)"excess TFSA amount"D(a) — Effect of contributions that exceed dollar limit.

"unused TFSA contribution room" of an individual at the end of a calendar year means,

(a) if the year is before 2009, nil; and

(b) in any other case, the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

$$A + B + C - D$$

where

A is the individual's unused TFSA contribution room at the end of the preceding calendar year,

B is the total of all amounts each of which was a distribution made in the preceding calendar year under a TFSA of which the individual was the holder at the time of the distribution, other than a distribution that is

(i) a qualifying transfer, or

(ii) a prescribed distribution,

C is

(i) the TFSA dollar limit for the calendar year, if at any time in the calendar year the individual is 18 years of age or older and resident in Canada, and

(ii) nil, in any other case, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution made under a TFSA by the individual in the calendar year, other than a contribution that is

(i) a qualifying transfer, or

(ii) an exempt contribution.

Related Provisions: 207.01(1)"excess TFSA amount"B — Unused contribution room can be contributed in a later year; 207.01(1) — Definition of "qualifying transfer"; 207.01(2) — Exempt contribution.

Regulations: No prescribed distributions yet for formula element B.

(2) Exempt contribution to survivor TFSA — A contribution made in a taxation year under a TFSA by the survivor of an individual is an exempt contribution if

(a) the contribution is made during the period (in this subsection referred to as the "rollover period") that begins when the individual dies and that ends on the second anniversary of the individual's death (or on any later day that is acceptable to the Minister);

(b) a payment (in this subsection referred to as the "survivor payment") was made to the survivor during the rollover period, as a consequence of the individual's death, directly or indirectly out of or under an arrangement that ceased, because of the individual's death, to be a TFSA;

(c) the survivor designates, in prescribed form filed with the survivor's return of income for the taxation year, the contribution in relation to the survivor payment; and

(d) the amount of the contribution does not exceed the least of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the amount of the survivor payment

exceeds

(B) the total of all other contributions designated by the survivor in relation to the survivor payment,

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total proceeds of disposition determined in respect of the arrangement under paragraph 146.2(6)(a), (7)(a) or (8)(a), as the case may be,

exceeds

(B) the total of all other exempt contributions in respect of the arrangement made by the survivor at or before the time of the contribution, and

(iii) if the individual had, immediately before the individual's death, an excess TFSA amount or if payments described in paragraph (b) are made to more than one survivor of the individual, nil or the greater amount, if any, allowed by the Minister in respect of the contribution.

Proposed Repeal — 207.01(2)

(3) Survivor as successor holder — If an individual's survivor becomes the holder of a TFSA as a consequence of the individual's death and, immediately before the individual's death, the individual had an excess TFSA amount, the survivor is deemed (other than for the purposes of subsection (2)) to have made, at the beginning of the month following the individual's death, a contribution under a TFSA equal to the amount, if any, by which

Proposed Amendment — 207.01(3) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 68(9), will amend the opening words of subsec. 207.01(3) to substitute "the definition "exempt contribution"" for "subsection (2)", applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 207.01(3) provides a special rule that applies for the purpose of the tax on excess TFSA contributions where an individual becomes a successor holder of a tax-free savings account (TFSA) on the death of the individual's spouse or common-law partner. Subsection 207.01(3) is amended to reflect the movement of the definition "exempt contribution" from subsection 207.01(2) to subsection 207.01(1).

(a) that excess TFSA amount

exceeds

(b) the total fair market value immediately before the individual's death of all property held in connection with arrangements that ceased, because of the individual's death, to be TFSAs.

(4) Significant interest — An individual has a significant interest in a corporation, partnership or trust at any time if

(a) in the case of a corporation, the individual is a specified shareholder of the corporation at that time;

(b) in the case of a partnership, the individual, or the individual together with persons and partnerships with which the individual does not deal at arm's length, holds at that time interests as a member of the partnership that have a fair market value of 10% or more of the fair market value of the interests of all members in the partnership; and

(c) in the case of a trust, the individual, or the individual together with persons and partnerships with which the individual does not deal at arm's length, holds at that time interests as a beneficiary (in this paragraph, as defined in subsection 108(1)) under the trust that have a fair market value of 10% or more of the fair market value of the interests of all beneficiaries under the trust.

207.03 Tax payable on non-resident contributions — If, at a particular time, a non-resident individual makes a contribution under a TFSA (other than a contribution that is a qualifying transfer or an exempt contribution), the individual shall pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the amount of the contribution in respect of each month that ends after the particular time and before the earlier of Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 69, will amend the opening words of s. 207.03 to read as above, applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 207.03 imposes a special tax on an individual who makes a TFSA contribution while non-resident. The tax is equal to one per cent of the contribution and is imposed on a monthly basis until the individual withdraws the contribution or becomes resident in Canada.

Section 207.03 is amended to exclude from its application non-residents' contributions that are made as "qualifying transfers" or "exempt contributions". In general terms, a TFSA contribution is defined by subsection 207.01(1) of the Regulations to be

- a "qualifying transfer" if it is transferred from another TFSA of the same individual or from a TFSA of the individual's spouse or common-law partner and the transfer is in connection with the breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership, and
- an "exempt contribution" if it is made with TFSA proceeds received by the individual on the death of the individual's spouse or common-law partner.

(a) the first time after the particular time at which the amount of the contribution is equalled or exceeded by the total of all amounts each of which is a distribution

(i) that is made after the particular time under a TFSA of which the individual is the holder, and

(ii) that the individual designates in prescribed manner to be a distribution in connection with the contribution and not in connection with any other contribution, and

(b) the time at which the individual becomes resident in Canada.

Related Provisions [s. 207.03]: 207.06(1) — Minister may waive or cancel tax under certain conditions; 207.07 — Return and payment of tax.

Definitions [s. 207.03]: "amount" — 248(1); "distribution" — 146.2(1); "exempt contribution" — 207.01(1); "holder" — 146.2(1); "individual" — 248(1); "month" — Interpretation Act 35(1); "non-resident", "prescribed" — 248(1); "qualifying transfer" — 207.01(1); "resident in Canada" — 250; "TFSA" — 146.2(5) [proposed], 248(1).

207.04 (1) Tax payable on prohibited or non-qualified investment — The holder of a TFSA that governs a trust shall pay a tax under this Part for a calendar year if, at any time in the year,

(a) the trust acquires property that is a prohibited investment, or a non-qualified investment, for the trust; or

(b) property held by the trust becomes a prohibited investment, or a non-qualified investment, for the trust.

Related Provisions: 207.04(2) — Amount of tax; 207.04(3) — Where investment both prohibited and non-qualified; 207.04(6) — Additional tax if prohibited investment; 207.06(2) — Minister may waive tax; 207.07 — Return and payment of tax; 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

Regulations: 223(3) (issuer must notify holder of non-qualified investments).

(2) Amount of tax payable — The amount of tax payable in respect of each property described in subsection (1) is 50% of the fair market value of the property at the time referred to in that subsection.

(3) Where both prohibited and non-qualified investment — For the purposes of subsection 146.2(4) and this section, if a trust governed by a TFSA holds property at any time that is, for the trust, both a prohibited investment and a non-qualified investment, the property is deemed at that time not to be a non-qualified investment, but remains a prohibited investment, for the trust.

Proposed Amendment — 207.04(3)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 70(1), will amend subsec. 207.04(3) to substitute "this section and subsection 146.2(6)" for "subsection 146.2(4) and this section", applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 207.04 imposes taxes on the holder of a tax-free savings account (TFSA) if a trust governed by the TFSA holds a non-qualified investment or a prohibited investment (as those terms are defined in subsection 207.01(1)).

Subsection 207.04(7) sets out the manner for determining the amount of tax payable under subsection 207.04(6) by the holder of a tax-free savings account (TFSA) if a trust governed by the TFSA holds a prohibited investment. The tax is calculated as the amount that would be payable under Part I by the trust on that investment, if the trust were taxable and certain other assumptions were made. Subsection 207.04(7) is amended to provide that the amount of the tax is 150% of that amount. This change ensures that there is no provincial income tax advantage to holding a prohibited investment in a TFSA..

Section 207.04 is also amended so that the references in that section to subsection 146.2(4) reflect the renumbering of that subsection as subsection 146.2(6).

(4) Refund of tax on disposition of investment — If in a calendar year a trust governed by a TFSA disposes of a property in respect of which a tax is imposed under subsection (1) on the holder of the TFSA, the holder is entitled to a refund for the year of an amount equal to

(a) except where paragraph (b) applies, the amount of the tax so imposed; or

(b) nil,

(i) if it is reasonable to consider that the holder knew, or ought to have known, at the time the property was acquired by the trust, that it was, or would become, a property described in subsection (1), or

(ii) if the property is not disposed of by the trust before the end of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the tax arose, or any later time that the Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances.

Related Provisions: 207.01(1) — Definition of "allowable refund"; 207.07(2) — Refund payable by Minister.

(5) Deemed disposition and reacquisition — For the purposes of this Act, if property held by a trust in respect of which a tax was imposed under subsection (1) ceases, at any particular time after the tax is imposed, to be a prohibited investment, or a non-qualified investment, for the trust, the trust is deemed to have disposed of the property immediately before the particular time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value at the particular time and to have reacquired it immediately after the particular time at a cost equal to that fair market value.

(6) Additional tax payable on prohibited investment — The holder of a TFSA that governs a trust shall pay a tax under this Part for a calendar year, in addition to any tax imposed under subsection (1) for the year, if at any time in the year the trust holds one or more properties that are prohibited investments for the trust.

Related Provisions: 207.04(7) — Amount of additional tax; 207.07 — Return and payment of tax; 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

(7) Amount of additional tax payable — The amount of tax payable under subsection (6) for a calendar year is the amount of tax that would be payable under Part I by the trust for the taxation year that ends in the calendar year if

(a) the Act were read without reference to paragraph 82(1)(b), section 121 and subsection 146.2(4); and

Proposed Amendment — 207.04(7) before (b)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 70(2), will amend the opening words of subsec. 207.04(7) to substitute "is 150% of the amount" for "is the amount", and will amend para. 207.04(7)(a) to substitute "146.2(6)" for "146.2(4)", applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): See under 207.04(3).

(b) the trust had no incomes or losses from sources other than the properties referred to in subsection (6), and no capital gains or capital losses other than from dispositions of those properties, and for that purpose,

(i) "income" includes dividends described in section 83, and

(ii) the trust's taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss from the disposition of a property is equal to its capital gain or capital loss, as the case may be, from the disposition.

Definitions [s. 207.04]: "allowable capital loss" — 38(b), 248(1); "amount" — 248(1); "calendar year" — Interpretation Act 37(1)(a); "capital gain" — 39(1)(a), 248(1); "capital loss" — 39(1)(b), 248(1); "disposition", "dividend" — 248(1); "holder" — 146.2(1); "Minister" — 248(1); "non-qualified investment", "prohibited investment" — 207.01(1); "property" — 248(1); "TFSA" — 146.2(5) [proposed], 248(1); "taxable capital gain" — 38(a), 248(1); "taxation year" — 249; "trust" — 104(1), 248(1), (3).

207.05 (1) Tax payable where advantage extended — A tax is payable under this Part for a calendar year in connection with a TFSA if, in the year, an advantage in relation to the TFSA is extended to a person who is, or who does not deal at arm's length with, the holder of the TFSA.

Related Provisions: 207.05(2) — Amount of tax; 207.05(3) — Who liable for tax; 207.06(2) — Minister may waive tax; 207.07 — Return and payment of tax.

(2) Amount of tax payable — The amount of tax payable in respect of an advantage described in subsection (1) is

(a) in the case of a benefit, the fair market value of the benefit; and

(b) in the case of a loan or an indebtedness, the amount of the loan or indebtedness.

(3) Liability for tax — The holder of a TFSA in connection with which a tax is imposed under subsection (1) is liable to pay the tax except that, if the advantage is extended by the issuer of the TFSA or by a person with whom the issuer is not dealing at arm's length, the issuer, and not the holder, is liable to pay the tax.

Definitions [s. 207.05]: "advantage" — 207.01(1); "amount" — 248(1); "arm's length" — 251(1); "calendar year" — Interpretation Act 37(1)(a); "holder", "issuer" — 146.2(1); "person" — 248(1); "TFSA" — 146.2(5) [proposed], 248(1).

207.06 (1) Waiver of tax payable — If an individual would otherwise be liable to pay a tax under this Part because of section 207.02 or 207.03, the Minister may waive or cancel all or part of the liability if

(a) the individual establishes to the satisfaction of the Minister that the liability arose as a consequence of a reasonable error; and

(b) the individual acts without delay to cause one or more distributions to be made, under one or more TFSAs, the total amount of which is not less than the amount in respect of which the individual would otherwise be liable to pay the tax.

(2) Waiver of tax payable — If a person would otherwise be liable to pay a tax under this Part because of section 207.04 or 207.05, the Minister may waive or cancel all or part of the liability where the Minister considers it just and equitable to do so having regard to all the circumstances, including

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 71, will amend the opening words of subsec. 207.06(2) to substitute "subsection 207.04(1) or section 207.05" for "section 207.04 or 207.05", applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 207.06 allows the Minister to waive all or part of any tax imposed under sections 207.02, 207.03, 207.04 and 207.05 in connection with tax-free savings accounts (TFSAs).

Subsection 207.06(2) allows the Minister to waive all or part of any tax imposed under sections 207.04 and 207.05 in connection with tax-free savings accounts (TFSAs), where it is just and equitable to do so. Among these special taxes is a tax imposed on a TFSA holder under subsection 207.04(6) on income and capital gains derived from prohibited investments.

Subsection 207.06(2) is amended to remove the Minister's authority to waive the tax on prohibited investment income. This is consistent with the fact that no authority is given to the Minister to waive the tax imposed under subsection 146.2(6) on income and capital gains derived from non-qualified investments.

(a) whether the tax arose as a consequence of reasonable error; and

(b) the extent to which the transaction that gave rise to the tax also gave rise to another tax under this Part.

Definitions [s. 207.06]: "amount", "individual", "Minister", "person" — 248(1); "TFSA" — 146.2(5) [proposed], 248(1).

207.07 (1) Return and payment of tax — A person who is liable to pay tax under this Part for all or any part of a calendar year shall within 90 days after the end of the year

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year under this subsection in prescribed form and containing prescribed information including

(i) an estimate of the amount of tax payable under this Part by the person in respect of the year, and

(ii) an estimate of the amount of the person's allowable refund, if any, for the year; and

(b) pay to the Receiver General the amount, if any, by which the amount of the person's tax payable under this Part in respect of the year exceeds the person's allowable refund, if any, for the year.

(2) Refund — If a person has filed a return under this Part for a calendar year within three years after the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may, on mailing the notice of assessment for the year, refund without application any allowable refund of the person for the year, to the extent that it was not applied against the person's tax payable under paragraph (1)(b); and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make the refund referred to in paragraph (a) after mailing the notice of assessment if an application for it has been made in writing by the person within three years after the mailing of an original notice of assessment for the year.

Related Provisions: 164(1) — Parallel rule for corporate income tax refund.

(3) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 152 and 158 to 167 and Division J of Part I apply to this Part with any modifications that the circumstances require.

Related Provisions: 150(2) — Demands for returns; 150(3) — Trustees, etc. required to file returns; 161(1) — Interest on late payment; 161(11) — Interest on penalties.

PART XI.1 — TAX IN RESPECT OF DEFERRED INCOME PLANS AND OTHER TAX EXEMPT PERSONS

History: Heading of Part XI.1 amended by 2005, c. 30, s. 15, applicable to months that end after 2004. The heading formerly read:

Tax in respect of Certain Property Held by Trusts Governed by Deferred Income Plans

207.1 (1) Tax payable by trust under registered retirement savings plan [holding non-qualified investment] — Where, at the end of any month, a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan holds property that is neither a qualified investment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) nor a life insurance policy in respect of which, but for subsection 146(11), subsection 146(10) would have applied as a consequence of its acquisition, the trust shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the fair market value of the property at the time it was acquired by the trust of all such property held by it at the end of the month, other than

(a) property, the fair market value of which was included, by virtue of subsection 146(10), in computing the income, for any year, of an annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) under the plan; and

(b) property acquired by the trust before August 25, 1972.

Related Provisions: 146(10) — Tax on beneficiary when RRSP acquires non-qualified investment; 146(10.1) — Tax on RRSP's income from non-qualified investment; 207.2 — Return and payment of tax; 259(1) — Proportional holdings in trust property.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

Registered Plans Compliance Bulletins: 3 (fraudulent RRSP arrangements).

(2) Tax payable by trust under deferred profit sharing plan [holding non-qualified investment] — Where, at the end of any month, a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan holds property that is neither a qualified investment (within the meaning assigned by section 204) nor a life insurance policy (referred to in paragraphs 198(6)(c) to (e) or subsection 198(6.1)), the trust shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the fair market value of the property at the time it was acquired by the trust of all such property held by it at the end of the month, other than

(a) property in respect of the acquisition of which the trust has paid or is liable to pay a tax under subsection 198(1); and

(b) property acquired by the trust before August 25, 1972.

Related Provisions: 198(1) — Tax on acquisition of non-qualified investment; 207.2 — Return and payment of tax; 259(1) — Proportional holdings in trust property.

(3) Tax payable by trust under registered education savings plan [holding non-qualified investment] — Every trust governed by a registered education savings plan shall, in respect of any month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of a property, at the time it was acquired by the trust, that

(a) is not a qualified investment (as defined in subsection 146.1(1)) for the trust; and

(b) is held by the trust at the end of the month.

Related Provisions: 207.2 — Return and payment of tax.

History: Subsec. 207.1(3) added by 1999, c. 22, s. 73, applicable to 1999 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(4) Tax payable by trust under registered retirement income fund [holding non-qualified investment] — Where, at the end of any month after 1978, a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund holds property that is not a qualified investment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)), the trust shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the fair market value of the property at the time it was acquired by the trust of all such property held by it at the end of the month other than property, the fair market value of which was included by virtue of subsection 146.3(7) in computing the income for any year of an annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)) under the fund.

Related Provisions: 146.3(7) — Tax on beneficiary when RRIF acquires non-qualified investment; 146.3(9) — Tax on income from non-qualified investments; 207.2 — Return and payment of tax; 259(1) — Proportional holdings in trust property.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(5) Tax payable in respect of agreement to acquire shares — Where at any time a taxpayer whose taxable income is exempt from tax under Part I makes an agreement (otherwise than as a consequence of the acquisition or writing by it of an option listed on a designated stock exchange) to acquire a share of the capital stock of a corporation (otherwise than from the corporation) at a price that may differ from the fair market value of the share at the time the share may be acquired, the taxpayer shall, in respect of each month during which the taxpayer is a party to the agreement, pay a tax under this Part equal to the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which the amount of a dividend paid on the share at a time in the month at which the taxpayer is a party to the agreement exceeds the amount, if any, of the dividend that is received by the taxpayer.

History: Subsec. 207.1(5) amended to substitute "designated stock exchange" for "prescribed stock exchange" by 2007, c. 35, s. 58, applicable after December 13, 2007.

Subsec. 207.1(5) added by 2005, c. 30, s. 16, applicable to months that end after 2004.

Former subsec. 207.1(5) repealed by 1994, c. 8, s. 31, applicable to property held after October 1985. Subsec. (5) formerly read:

(5) Tax on excessive small business property holdings — Where at the end of any month a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund holds a prescribed property, the trust shall, in respect of that month, pay a tax under this Part equal to 1% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of the fair market values, at the time of acquisition, of all prescribed properties held by the trust at the end of the month

exceeds

(b) 50% of the total of the fair market values, at the time of acquisition, of all properties held by the trust at the end of the month.

PART XI.2 — TAX IN RESPECT OF DISPOSITIONS OF CERTAIN PROPERTIES

207.3 Tax payable by institution or public authority — Every institution or public authority that, at any time in a year, disposes of an object within 10 years after the object became an object described in subparagraph 39(1)(a)(i.1) shall pay a tax under this Part, in respect of the year, equal to 30% of the object's fair market value at that time, unless the disposition was made to another institution or public authority that was, at that time, designated under subsection 32(2) of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act either generally or for a specified purpose related to that object.

Related Provisions: 118.1(7.1) — No tax on deemed disposition upon gift of cultural property.

History: S. 207.3 amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 74, applicable to dispositions made after February 23, 1998. It formerly read:

207.3 Any institution or public authority that, at any time in a year, disposes of an object within 5 years after the object became an object described in subparagraph 39(1)(a)(i.1) shall, in respect of that year, pay a tax under this Part equal to 30% of the fair market value of the object at the time the object was so disposed of, unless the disposition was made to another institution or public authority that was, at the time of the disposition, designated under subsection 32(2) of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act either generally or for a specified purpose related to that object.

S. 207.3 substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 168, applicable to dispositions after December 11, 1988. S. 207.3 formerly read:

207.3 Tax payable by institution or public authority in Canada — Any institution or public authority that, at any time in a year, disposes of an object within five years of the object becoming an object described in subparagraph 39(1)(a)(i.1) shall, in respect of that year, pay a tax under this Part equal to thirty per cent of the fair market value of the object at the time the object was so disposed of, unless the disposition was made to another institution or public authority that was, at the time of the disposition, designated under subsection 32(2) of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act either generally or for a purpose related to that object.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-407R4: Dispositions of cultural property to designated Canadian institutions.

207.31 Tax payable by recipient of an ecological gift — Any charity or municipality that at any time in a taxation year, without the authorization of the Minister of the Environment or a person designated by that Minister, disposes of or changes the use of a property described in paragraph 110.1(1)(d) or in the definition "total ecological gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) and given to the charity or municipality after February 27, 1995 shall, in respect of the year, pay a tax under this Part equal to 50% of the amount that would be determined for the purposes of section 110.1 or 118.1, if this Act were read without reference to subsections 110.1(3) and 118.1(6), to be the fair market value of the property if the property were given to the charity or municipality immediately before the disposition or change.

Proposed Amendment — 207.31

207.31 Tax payable by recipient of an ecological gift — Any charity, municipality or public body performing a function of government in Canada (referred to in this section as the "recipient") that at any time in a taxation year, without the authorization of the Minister of the Environment or a person designated by that Minister, disposes of or changes the use of a property described in paragraph 110.1(1)(d) or in the definition "total ecological gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) and given to the recipient shall, in respect of the year, pay a tax under this Part equal to 50% of the amount that would be determined for the purposes of section 110.1 or 118.1, if this Act were read without reference to subsections 110.1(3) and 118.1(6), to be the fair market value of the property if the property were given to the recipient immediately before the disposition or change.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 174, will amend s. 207.31 to read as above, applicable in respect of dispositions of or changes of use of property after July 18, 2005.

Technical Notes: Section 207.31 imposes a tax on charities and Canadian municipalities where, without the approval of the Minister of the Environment, they dispose of or change the use of property donated to them as an ecological gift. The tax is equal to 50% of the amount that is the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition or change in use as determined for the purposes of section 110.1 or 118.1.

Section 207.31 is amended, in respect of dispositions of or changes of use of property after July 18, 2005, to clarify that it also applies to a public body performing a function of government in Canada. For more information, refer to the commentary for subsection 118.1(1) and paragraph 149(1)(d.5).

Related Provisions: 110.1(5), 118.1(12) — Fair market value of ecological servitude, covenant or easement; 118.1(10.1)–(10.5) — Determination of fair market value by Minister of the Environment; 207.4(1) — Return and payment of tax.

History: S. 207.31 amended by 2001, c. 17, s.170, applicable in respect of dispositions or changes of use that occur after November 1999. It formerly read:

> 207.31 Any charity or municipality that, at any time in a taxation year, without the authorization of the Minister of the Environment, or a person designated by that Minister, disposes or changes the use of a property described in paragraph 110.1(1)(d) or in the definition "total ecological gifts" in subsection 118.1(1) and given to the charity or municipality after February 27, 1995 shall, in respect of the year pay a tax under this Part equal to 50% of the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition or change.

S. 207.31 added by 1996, c. 21, s. 53, applicable after February 27, 1995.

Definitions [s. 207.31]: "fair market value" — 110.1(5); "property" — 248(1); "taxation year" — 249.

207.4 (1) Return and payment of tax — Any institution, public authority, charity or municipality that is liable to pay a tax under subsection 207.3 or 207.31 in respect of a year shall, within 90 days after the end of the year,

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information without notice or demand therefor;

(b) estimate in the return the amount of tax payable by it under this Part in respect of the year; and

(c) pay to the Receiver General the amount of tax payable by it under this Part in respect of the year.

Related Provisions: 150.1(5) — Electronic filing.

History: The opening words of subsec. 207.4(1) amended by 1996, c. 21, s. 54, applicable after February 27, 1995. The opening words formerly read:

> (1) Any institution or public authority that is liable to pay a tax under section 207.3 in respect of a year shall, within 90 days after the end of that year,

(2) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 152 and 158, subsections 161(1) and (11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Definitions [s. 207.4]: "Minister", "prescribed" — 248(1).

History: The heading of Part XI.2 amended by 1996, c. 21, s. 52, applicable after February 27, 1995. The heading formerly read "Tax in respect of Certain Property Disposed of by Certain Public Authorities or Institutions".

PART XI.3 — TAX IN RESPECT OF RETIREMENT COMPENSATION ARRANGEMENTS

207.5 (1) Definitions — In this Part,

"RCA trust" under a retirement compensation arrangement means

(a) any trust deemed by subsection 207.6(1) to be created in respect of subject property of the arrangement, and

(b) any trust governed by the arrangement;

"refundable tax" of a retirement compensation arrangement at the end of a taxation year of an RCA trust under the arrangement means the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) 50% of all contributions made under the arrangement while it was a retirement compensation arrangement and before the end of the year, and

(b) 50% of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the income (determined as if this Act were read without reference to paragraph 82(1)(b)) of an RCA trust under the arrangement from a business or property for the year or a preceding taxation year or a capital gain of the trust for the year or a preceding taxation year,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is a loss of an RCA trust under the arrangement from a business or property for the year or a preceding taxation year or a capital loss of the trust for the year or a preceding taxation year,

exceeds

(c) 50% of all amounts paid as distributions to one or more persons (including amounts that are required by paragraph 12(1)(n.3) to be included in computing the recipient's income) under the arrangement while it was a retirement compensation arrangement and before the end of the year, other than a distribution paid where it is established, by subsequent events or otherwise, that the distribution was paid as part of a series of payments and refunds of contributions under the arrangement;

Related Provisions: 207.5(2) — Deemed refundable tax on election; 207.6(7)(c) — Where amount transferred from one RCA to another; 248(10) — Series of payments and refunds. See additional Related Provisions at end of Part XI.3.

"subject property of a retirement compensation arrangement" means property that is held in connection with the arrangement.

(2) Election — Notwithstanding the definition "refundable tax" in subsection (1), where the custodian of a retirement compensation arrangement so elects in the return under this Part for a taxation year of an RCA trust under the arrangement and all the subject property, if any, of the arrangement (other than a right to claim a refund under subsection 164(1) or 207.7(2)) at the end of the year consists only of cash, debt obligations, shares listed on a designated stock exchange, or any combination thereof, an amount equal to the total of

(a) the amount of that cash at the end of the year,

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the greater of the principal amount of such a debt obligation outstanding at the end of the year and the fair market value of the obligation at the end of the year, and

(c) the fair market value of those shares at the end of the year shall be deemed for the purposes of this Part to be the refundable tax of the arrangement at the end of the year.

History: Subsec. 207.5(2) amended to substitute "designated stock exchange" for "prescribed stock exchange" by 2007, c. 35, para. 68(2)(n), applicable after December 13, 2007.

Related Provisions [s. 207.5]: See at end of Part XI.3.

Definitions [s. 207.5]: "amount" — 248(1); "capital gain", "capital loss" — 39(1), 248(1); "custodian" — 248(1)"retirement compensation arrangement"; "designated stock exchange" — 248(1), 262; "person", "prescribed" — 248(1); "property" — 248(1); "RCA trust" — 207.5(1); "refundable tax" — 207.5(1), (2); "retirement compensation arrangement" — 248(1); "series" — 248(10); "share" — 248(1); "subject property" — 207.5(1); "taxation year" — 249; "trust" — 104(1), 248(1), (3).

Forms [s. 207.5]: T735: Application for a remittance number for tax withheld from an RCA.

207.6 (1) Creation of trust — In respect of the subject property of a retirement compensation arrangement, other than subject property of the arrangement held by a trust governed by a retirement compensation arrangement, for the purposes of this Part and Part I, the following rules apply:

(a) an inter vivos trust is deemed to be created on the day that the arrangement is established;

(b) the subject property of the arrangement is deemed to be property of the trust and not to be property of any other person; and

(c) the custodian of the arrangement is deemed to be the trustee having ownership or control of the trust property.

Related Provisions: 207.6(7) — Transfer from RCA to another RCA. See also Related Provisions at end of Part XI.3.

Forms: T4041: Retirement compensation arrangements guide.

(2) Life insurance policies — For the purposes of this Part and Part I, where by virtue of a plan or arrangement an employer is obliged to provide benefits that are to be received or enjoyed by any person on, after or in contemplation of any substantial change in the services rendered by a taxpayer, the retirement of a taxpayer or the loss of an office or employment of a taxpayer, and where the employer, former employer or a person or partnership with whom the employer or former employer does not deal at arm's length acquires an interest in a life insurance policy that may reasonably be considered to be acquired to fund, in whole or in part, those benefits, the following rules apply in respect of the plan or arrangement if it is not otherwise a retirement compensation arrangement and is not excluded from the definition "retirement compensation arrangement", in subsection 248(1), by any of paragraphs (a) to (l) and (n) thereof:

(a) the person or partnership that acquired the interest is deemed to be the custodian of a retirement compensation arrangement;

(b) the interest is deemed to be subject property of the retirement compensation arrangement;

(c) an amount equal to twice the amount of any premium paid in respect of the interest or any repayment of a policy loan thereunder is deemed to be a contribution under the retirement compensation arrangement; and

(d) any payment received in respect of the interest, including a policy loan, and any amount received as a refund of refundable tax is deemed to be an amount received out of or under the retirement compensation arrangement by the recipient and not to be a payment of any other amount.

(3) Incorporated employee — For the purpose of the provisions of this Act relating to retirement compensation arrangements, where

(a) a corporation that at any time carried on a personal services business, or an employee of the corporation, enters into a plan or arrangement with a person or partnership (referred to in this subsection as the "employer") to whom or which the corporation renders services, and

(b) the plan or arrangement provides for benefits to be received or enjoyed by any person on, after or in contemplation of the cessation of, or any substantial change in, the services rendered by the corporation, or an employee of the corporation, to the employer,

the following rules apply:

(c) the employer and the corporation are deemed to be an employer and employee, respectively, in relation to each other, and

(d) any benefits to be received or enjoyed by any person under the plan or arrangement are deemed to be benefits to be received or enjoyed by the person on, after or in contemplation of a substantial change in the services rendered by the corporation.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(p) — Limitation on deductions re incorporated employees. See additional Related Provisions at end of Part XI.3.

(4) Deemed contribution — Where at any time an employee benefit plan becomes a retirement compensation arrangement as a consequence of a change of the custodian of the plan or as a consequence of the custodian ceasing either to carry on business through a fixed place of business in Canada or to be licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee,

(a) for the purposes of this Part and Part I, the custodian of the plan is deemed to have made a contribution to the arrangement immediately after that time, in an amount equal to the fair market value at that time of all the properties of the plan; and

(b) for the purposes of section 32.1, that amount is deemed to be a payment made at that time out of or under the plan to or for the benefit of employees or former employees of the employers who contributed to the plan.

Related Provisions: See Related Provisions and Definitions at end of Part XI.3.

(5) Resident's arrangement — For the purposes of this Act, where a resident's contribution has been made under a plan or arrangement (in this subsection referred to as the "plan"),

(a) the plan is deemed, in respect of its application to all resident's contributions made under the plan and all property that can reasonably be considered to be derived from those contributions, to be a separate arrangement (in this subsection referred to as the "residents' arrangement") independent of the plan in respect of its application to all other contributions and property that can reasonably be considered to derive from those other contributions;

(b) the residents' arrangement is deemed to be a retirement compensation arrangement; and

(c) each person and partnership to whom a contribution is made under the residents' arrangement is deemed to be a custodian of the residents' arrangement.

Related Provisions: 207.6(5.1) — Resident's contribution; 252.1 — Where union is employer. See additional Related Provisions at end of Part XI.3.

History: Subsec. 207.6(5) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 94, applicable after October 8, 1986. That subsec. formerly read:

(5) For the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to retirement compensation arrangements, where a contribution has been made under a plan or arrangement (in this subsection referred to as the "plan") that would, but for paragraph (l) of the definition "retirement compensation arrangement", in subsection 248(1), be a retirement compensation arrangement, to the extent that the contribution can reasonably be considered to have been made at any particular time in respect of services rendered by an employee who

(a) was resident in Canada at the time the services were rendered, and

(b) where the employee was a member of the plan before the employee became a resident of Canada, had been so resident for more than 60 of the 72 months preceding the time the services were rendered,

the following rules apply:

(c) another plan or arrangement (in this subsection referred to as the "resident's arrangement") is deemed to be established at the particular time,

(d) the resident's arrangement is deemed to be a separate arrangement independent of the plan,

(e) the resident's arrangement is deemed to be a retirement compensation arrangement the custodian of which is the recipient of the contribution,

(f) the contribution is deemed to have been made under the resident's arrangement and not under the plan, and

(g) all property that can reasonably be considered to derive from the contribution is deemed to be property held in connection with the resident's arrangement and not in connection with the plan.

Regulations: 6804(4)–(6) (prescribed contribution).

(5.1) Resident's contribution — For the purpose of subsection (5), "resident's contribution" means such part of a contribution made under a plan or arrangement (in this subsection referred to as the "plan") at a time when the plan would, but for paragraph (l) of the definition "retirement compensation arrangement" in subsection 248(1), be a retirement compensation arrangement as

(a) is not a prescribed contribution; and

(b) can reasonably be considered to have been made in respect of services rendered by an individual to an employer in a period

(i) throughout which the individual was resident in Canada and rendered services to the employer that were primarily services rendered in Canada or services rendered in connection with a business carried on by the employer in Canada (or a combination of such services), and

(ii) at the beginning of which the individual had been resident in Canada throughout at least 60 of the 72 preceding calendar months, where the individual was non-resident at any time before the period and became a member of the plan before the end of the month after the month in which the individual became resident in Canada, and, for the purpose of this paragraph, where benefits provided to an individual under a particular plan or arrangement are replaced by benefits under another plan or arrangement, the other plan or arrangement shall be deemed, in respect of the individual, to be the same plan or arrangement as the particular plan or arrangement.

Related Provisions: 252.1 — Where union is employer.

Regulations: 6804(4)–(6) (prescribed contribution).

(6) Prescribed plan or arrangement — For the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to retirement compensation arrangements, the following rules apply in respect of a prescribed plan or arrangement:

(a) the plan or arrangement shall be deemed to be a retirement compensation arrangement;

(b) an amount credited at any time to the account established in the accounts of Canada or a province in connection with the plan or arrangement shall be, except to the extent that it is in respect of a refund determined under subsection 207.7(2), deemed to be a contribution under the plan or arrangement at that time;

(c) the custodian of the plan or arrangement shall be deemed to be

(i) where the account is established in the accounts of Canada, Her Majesty in right of Canada, and

(ii) where the account is established in the accounts of a province, Her Majesty in right of that province; and

(d) the subject property of the plan or arrangement, at any time, shall be deemed to include an amount of cash equal to the balance at that time in the account.

Related Provisions: See at end of Part XI.3.

Regulations: 103(7)(a)(ii) (no withholding on transfer under 207.6(6)); 6802 (prescribed plan or arrangement).

(7) Transfers — Where an amount (other than an amount that is part of a series of periodic payments) is transferred directly to a retirement compensation arrangement (other than an arrangement the custodian of which is non-resident or which is deemed by subsection (5) to be a retirement compensation arrangement) from another retirement compensation arrangement,

(a) the amount shall not, solely because of the transfer, be included in computing a taxpayer's income under Part I;

(b) no deduction may be made in respect of the amount in computing a taxpayer's income under Part I; and

(c) the amount is considered, for the purpose of the definition "refundable tax" in subsection 207.5(1), to be paid as a distribution to one or more persons under the arrangement from which the amount is transferred and to be a contribution made under the arrangement to which the amount is transferred.

Related Provisions: 60(t)(ii)(A), (A.1), (E), 60(u)(ii)(A), (A.1), (E) — Whether amounts transferred under 207.6(7) deductible; 212(1)(j) — Transfer not subject to non-resident withholding tax.

(2) Refund — Where the custodian of a retirement compensation arrangement has filed a return under this Part for a taxation year within three years after the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may, on mailing the notice of assessment for the year or a notification that no tax is payable for the year, refund without application therefor an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the refundable tax of the arrangement at the end of the immediately preceding year exceeds the refundable tax of the arrangement at the end of the year; and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make such a refund after mailing the notice of assessment if application therefor has been made in writing by the custodian within three years after the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment for the year or of a notification that no tax is payable for the year.

Related Provisions: 207.6(6) — Prescribed plan or arrangement. See additional Related Provisions at end of Part XI.3.

(3) Payment of tax — Every custodian of a retirement compensation arrangement shall, within 90 days after the end of each taxation year of an RCA trust under the arrangement,

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, without notice or demand therefor;

(b) estimate in the return the amount of tax, if any, payable by the custodian under this Part for the year; and

(c) pay to the Receiver General the amount of tax, if any, payable by the custodian under this Part for the year.

PART XII — TAX IN RESPECT OF CERTAIN ROYALTIES, TAXES, LEASE RENTALS, ETC., PAID TO A GOVERNMENT BY A TAX EXEMPT PERSON [REPEALED]

208. [Repealed]

History [Part XII]: Part XII repealed by 2003, c. 28, s. 15, applicable to taxation years that begin after 2006. Part XII formerly read:

208. (1) Tax payable by exempt person — Where in a taxation year an amount (other than an amount to which paragraph 18(1)(l.1) or (m) applies) was paid, payable, distributed or distributable in any manner whatever by a person (other than a prescribed person) who was exempt from tax under Part I on that person's taxable income to anyone in respect of any production from a Canadian resource property of the person of petroleum, natural gas or other related hydrocarbons or of metals or minerals to any stage that is not beyond the specified stage or in respect of any revenue or income that may reasonably be regarded as attributable to that production, the person shall, in respect of the year, pay a tax under this Part equal to 33⅓% of the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts in respect of the property, each of which is

(i) an amount that became receivable in the year and that was required by paragraph 12(1)(o) to be included in computing the person's income for the year,

(ii) an amount that was paid or became payable by the person in the year and that by virtue of paragraph 18(1)(l.1) or (m) was not deductible in computing the person's income for the year,

(iii) an amount by which the person's proceeds of disposition were increased by virtue of subsection 69(6) in the year, or

(iv) an amount by which the person's cost of acquisition was decreased by virtue of subsection 69(7) in the year, and

(b) the proportion of the amount determined under paragraph (a) that

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount (other than an amount to which paragraph 18(1)(l.1) or (m) applies) that was paid, payable, distributed or distributable by the person in the year in any manner whatever to

(A) another person (other than a person whose taxable income is exempt from tax under Part I), or

(B) another person whose taxable income is exempt from tax under Part I, where the amount was paid, payable, distributed or distributable as part of a transaction or event or series of transactions or events to which any person whose taxable income is not exempt from tax under Part I was a party in respect of any production from the property of petroleum, natural gas or other related hydrocarbons or of metals or minerals to any stage that is not beyond the specified stage or in respect of any revenue or income that can reasonably be regarded as attributable to that production

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the total of

(A) the income of the person from the property for the year from the production of petroleum, natural gas or other related hydrocarbons or of metals or minerals to any stage that is not beyond the specified stage, computed in accordance with Part I on the assumption that the property was the person's only source of income and that the person was allowed only those deductions in computing income from the property (other than a deduction under paragraph 20(1)(v.1) or section 65) that may reasonably be regarded as applicable to that income from the property, and

(B) the amount determined under subparagraph (i)

exceeds

(C) the amount determined under paragraph (a).

(1.1) Definition of "specified stage" — For the purpose of subsection (1), "specified stage" means, in respect of the production from a Canadian resource property of a substance,

(a) where the substance is petroleum or related hydrocarbons (other than natural gas), the crude oil stage or its equivalent;

(b) where the substance is natural gas, the stage of natural gas that is acceptable to a common carrier of natural gas;

(c) where the substance is a metal or mineral (other than iron, sulphur or petroleum or related hydrocarbons), the prime metal stage or its equivalent;

(d) where the substance is iron, the pellet stage or its equivalent; and

(e) where the substance is sulphur, the marketable sulphur stage.

(2) Return and payment of tax — A person liable to pay a tax under this Part in respect of a year shall, on or before its balance-due day for a taxation year,

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, without notice or demand therefor;

(b) estimate in the return the amount of tax payable by the person under this Part in respect of the year; and

(c) pay to the Receiver General the tax payable by the person under this Part for the year.

(3) Liability of trustee — Where a trustee of a trust liable to pay tax under subsection (1) does not pay to the Receiver General the amount of the tax within the time specified in subsection (2), the trustee is personally liable to pay on behalf of the trust the full amount of the tax and is entitled to recover from the trust any amount paid by the trustee as tax under this section.

(4) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3), sections 152 and 158, subsections 161(1) and (11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

The opening words of subsec. 208(2) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 125, applicable to taxation years that begin after June 2003. The opening words formerly read:

(2) A person liable to pay a tax under this Part in respect of a year shall, within 3 months from the end of the year,

Subsec. 208(1.1) amended by 1997, c. 25, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1996. Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) For the purpose of subsection (1), "specified stage" means, in respect of the production from a Canadian resource property

(a) where the production is petroleum, natural gas or related hydrocarbons from an oil or gas well or a mineral resource, the crude oil stage or its equivalent;

(b) where the production is metal or minerals (other than iron or petroleum or related hydrocarbons) from a mineral resource, the prime metal stage or its equivalent; and

(c) where the production is iron from a mineral resource, the pellet stage or its equivalent.

Subpara. 208(1)(b)(i) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 169, applicable to 1988 et seq. That subpara. formerly read:

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount (other than an amount to which paragraph 18(1)(l.1) or (m) applies) that was paid, payable, distributed or distributable in the year in any manner whatever to anyone in respect of any production from the property of petroleum, natural gas or other related hydrocarbons or of metals or minerals to any stage that is not beyond the specified stage or in respect of any revenue or income that may reasonably be regarded as attributable to that production

PART XII.1 — TAX ON CARVED-OUT INCOME

209. (1) Definitions — For the purposes of this Part,

"carved-out income" of a person for a taxation year from a carved-out property means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the person's income for the year attributable to the property computed under Part I on the assumption that in computing income no deduction was allowed under section 20, subdivision e of Division B of Part I or section 104,

exceeds the total of

(b) the amount deducted under subsection 66.4(2) in computing the person's income for the year to the extent that it may reasonably be considered to be attributable to the property, and

(c) to the extent that the property is an interest in a bituminous sands deposit or oil shale deposit, the amount deducted under subsection 66.2(2) in computing the person's income for the year to the extent that it can reasonably be considered to be attributable to the cost of that interest;

Related Provisions: 66(14.6) — Deduction of carved-out income; 209(6) — Partnerships.

History: Para. (a) of the definition "carved-out income" in subsec. 209(1) amended by 2003, c. 28, s. 16, applicable to taxation years that begin after 2006. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) the person's income for the year attributable to the property computed under Part I on the assumption that in computing that income no deduction was allowed under section 20 (other than a deduction under paragraph 20(1)(v.1)), subdivision e of Division B of Part I or section 104,

Para. (c) of the definition "carved-out income" in subsec. 209(1) amended by 1997, c. 25, s. 59, applicable after March 6, 1996. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) to the extent that the property is an interest in a bituminous sands deposit, oil sands deposit or oil shale deposit, the amount deducted under subsection 66.2(2) in computing the person's income for the year to the extent that it may reasonably be considered to be attributable to the cost of that interest;

"carved-out property" of a person means

(a) a Canadian resource property where

(i) all or substantially all of the amount that the person is or may become entitled to receive in respect of the property may reasonably be considered to be limited to a maximum amount or to an amount determinable by reference to a stated quantity of production from a mineral resource or an accumulation of petroleum, natural gas or related hydrocarbons,

(ii) the period of time during which the person's interest in the income attributable to the property may reasonably be expected to continue is

(A) where the property is a head lease or may reasonably be considered to derive from a head lease, less than the lesser of 10 years and the remainder of the term of the head lease, and

(B) in any other case, less than 10 years,

(iii) the person's interest in the income attributable to the property, expressed as a percentage of production for any period, may reasonably be expected to be reduced substantially,

(A) where the property is a head lease or may reasonably be considered to derive from a head lease, at any time before

(I) the expiration of a period of 10 years commencing when the property was acquired, or

(II) the expiration of the term of the head lease, whichever occurs first, and

(B) in any other case, at any time before the expiration of a period of 10 years commencing when the property was acquired, or

(iv) another person has a right under an arrangement to acquire, at any time, the property or a portion thereof or a similar property from the person and it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the arrangement, or any series of transactions or events that includes the arrangement, was to reduce or postpone tax that would, but for this subparagraph, be payable under this Part, or

(b) an interest in a partnership or trust that holds a Canadian resource property where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the existence of the interest is to reduce or postpone the tax that would, but for this paragraph, be payable under this Part,

but does not include

(c) an interest in respect of a property that was acquired by the person solely in consideration of the person's undertaking under an agreement to incur Canadian exploration expense or Canadian development expense in respect of the property and, where the agreement so provides, to acquire gas or oil well equipment (as defined in subsection 1104(2) of the Income Tax Regulations) in respect of the property,

(c.1) an interest in respect of a property that was retained by the person under an agreement under which another person obtained an absolute or conditional right to acquire another interest in respect of the property, if the other interest is not carved-out property of the other person because of paragraph (c),

Proposed Amendment — 209(1)"carved-out property"(c), (c.1)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 267, will amend paras. (c) and (c.1) of the definition "carved-out property" in subsec. 209(1) by substituting "an interest, or for civil law a right," for "an interest" in each, and in para. (c.1), "another interest, or for civil law another right," for "another interest" and "other interest or right," for " other interest", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(d) a particular property acquired by the person under an arrangement solely as consideration for the sale of a Canadian resource property (other than a property that, immediately before the sale was a carved-out property of the person) that relates to the particular property except where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the arrangement, or any series of transactions or events that includes the arrangement, was to reduce or postpone tax that would, but for this paragraph, be payable under this Act,

(e) a property retained or reserved by the person out of a Canadian resource property (other than a property that, immediately before the transaction by which the retention or reservation is made, was a carved-out property of the person) that was disposed of by the person except where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the retention or reservation, or any series of transactions or events in which the property or interest was retained or reserved, was to reduce or postpone tax that would, but for this paragraph, be payable under this Act,

(f) a property acquired by the person from a taxpayer with whom the person did not deal at arm's length at the time of the acquisition and the property was acquired by the taxpayer or a person with whom the taxpayer did not deal at arm's length

(i) pursuant to an agreement in writing to do so entered into before July 20, 1985, or

(ii) under the circumstances described in this paragraph or paragraph (d) or (e), except where it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the acquisition of the property, or any series of transactions or events in which the property was acquired, was to reduce or postpone tax that would, but for this paragraph, be payable under this Act,

(f.1) where the taxable income of the person is exempt from tax under Part I, a property of the person that

(i) does not relate to property of a person whose taxable income is not exempt from tax under Part I, and

(ii) is not, and does not relate to, property that was at any time a carved-out property of any other person, or

(g) a prescribed property;

Related Provisions: 209(6) — Partnerships; 248(10) — Series of transactions.

History: Para. (c) of "carved-out property" in subsec. 209(1) substituted, and (c.1) added, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 170(1), applicable to property acquired after July 19, 1985. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) an interest in respect of a property that was acquired by the person under an agreement solely in consideration of the person's undertaking to incur Canadian exploration expense or Canadian development expense in respect of the property,

Para. (f.1) of "carved-out property" in subsec. 209(1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 170(2), applicable to property acquired after 1987.

Regulations: 7600 (prescribed property).

"head lease" means a contract under which

(a) Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province grants, or

(b) an owner in fee simple, other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province, grants for a period of not less than 10 years any right, licence or privilege to explore for, drill for or take petroleum, natural gas or related hydrocarbons in Canada or to prospect, explore, drill or mine for minerals in a mineral resource in Canada;

"term" of a head lease includes all renewal periods in respect of the head lease.

(2) Tax — Every person shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 45% of the total of the person's carved-out incomes for the year from carved-out properties.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible; 66(14.6) — Deduction of carved-out income.

History: Subsec. 209(2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 95, applicable to 1992 et seq. That subsec. formerly read:

(2) Every person shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 50% of the total of the person's carved-out incomes for the year from carved-out properties.

(3) Return — Every person liable to pay tax under this Part for a taxation year shall file with the Minister, not later than the day on or before which the person is or would be, if the person were liable to pay tax under Part I for the year, required under section 150 to file a return of the person's income for the year under Part I, a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form containing an estimate of the amount of tax payable by the person under this Part for the year.

Related Provisions: 150.1(5) — Electronic filing.

Forms: T2096: Part XII.1 tax return — tax on carved-out income.

(4) Payment of tax — Where a person is liable to pay tax for a taxation year under this Part, the person shall pay in respect of the year, to the Receiver General

(a) on or before the last day of each month in the year, an amount equal to 1/12 of the amount of tax payable by the person under this Part for the year; and

(b) the remainder, if any, of the tax payable by the person under this Part for the year, on or before the person's balance-due day for the year.

History: Para. 209(4)(b) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 126, applicable to taxation years that begin after June 2003. Para. 209(4)(b) formerly read:

(b) the remainder, if any, of the tax payable by the person under this Part for the year, on or before the end of the second month following the end of the year.

(5) Provisions applicable to Part — Subsections 150(2) and (3) and sections 152, 158 and 159, subsections 161(1), (2) and (11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable to this Part with such modifications as the circumstances require.

(6) Partnerships — For the purposes of subsection (1), a partnership shall be deemed to be a person and its taxation year shall be deemed to be its fiscal period.

PART XII.2 — TAX ON DESIGNATED INCOME OF CERTAIN TRUSTS

210. Designated beneficiary — In this Part, a "designated beneficiary" under a trust at any time means a beneficiary under the trust that was, at that time,

(a) a non-resident person;

(b) a non-resident-owned investment corporation;

(c) a person exempt from tax under Part I by reason of subsection 149(1), where that person acquired an interest in the trust after October 1, 1987 directly or indirectly from a beneficiary under the trust except

(i) where the interest was owned continuously since October 1, 1987 or the date on which the interest was created, whichever is later, by persons exempt from tax under Part I by reason of subsection 149(1), or

(ii) where the person was a trust governed by

(A) a registered retirement savings plan, or

(B) a registered retirement income fund, and acquired the interest, directly or indirectly, from an individual or the spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual who was, immediately after the interest was acquired, a beneficiary under the trust governed by the fund or plan;

(d) a trust resident in Canada (other than a testamentary trust, a mutual fund trust or a trust exempt, because of subsection 149(1), from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income), if

(i) a person described in paragraph (a), (b) or (c),

(ii) a partnership described in paragraph (e), or

(iii) a trust (other than a trust resident in Canada that is a testamentary trust) is, at that time, a beneficiary thereunder; or

(e) a partnership, if a person described in paragraph (a), (b) or (d), a partnership or a person exempt from tax under Part I by reason of subsection 149(1) is, at that time, a member thereof.

Proposed Amendment — 210

210. (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this Part.

"designated beneficiary", under a particular trust at any time, means a beneficiary, under the particular trust, who is at that time

(a) a non-resident person;

(b) a non-resident-owned investment corporation;

(c) a person who is, because of subsection 149(1), exempt from tax under Part I on all or part of their taxable income and who acquired an interest as a beneficiary under the particular trust after October 1, 1987 directly or indirectly from a beneficiary under the particular trust except if

(i) the interest was, at all times after the later of October 1, 1987 and the day on which the interest was created, held by persons who were exempt from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income because of subsection 149(1), or

(ii) the person is a trust, governed by a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund, who acquired the interest, directly or indirectly, from an individual or the spouse or common-law partner, or former spouse or common-law partner, of the individual who was, immediately after the interest was acquired, a beneficiary under the trust governed by the fund or plan;

(d) another trust (referred to in this paragraph as the "other trust") that is not a testamentary trust, a mutual fund trust or a trust that is exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income, if any beneficiary under the other trust is at that time

(i) a non-resident person,

(ii) a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(iii) a trust that is not

(A) a testamentary trust,

(B) a mutual fund trust,

(C) a trust that is exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income, or

(D) a trust

(I) whose interest, at that time, in the other trust was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, either by it or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income, and

(II) none of the beneficiaries under which is, at that time, a designated beneficiary under it, or

(iv) a person or partnership that

(A) is a designated beneficiary under the other trust because of paragraph (c) or (e), or

(B) would be a designated beneficiary under the particular trust because of paragraph (c) or (e) if, instead of being a beneficiary under the other trust, the person or partnership were at that time a beneficiary, under the particular trust, whose interest as a beneficiary under the particular trust were

(I) identical to its interest (referred to in this clause as the "particular interest") as a beneficiary under the other trust,

(II) acquired from each person or partnership from whom it acquired the particular interest, and

(III) held, at all times after the later of October 1, 1987 and the day on which the particular interest was created, by the same persons or partnerships that held the particular interest at those times; or

(e) a particular partnership any of the members of which is at that time

(i) another partnership, except if

(A) each such other partnership is a Canadian partnership,

(B) the interest of each such other partnership in the particular partnership is held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by the other partnership or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income,

(C) the interest of each member, of each such other partnership, that is a person exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by that member or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income, and

(D) the interest of the particular partnership in the particular trust was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by the particular partnership or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income,

(ii) a non-resident person,

(iii) a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(iv) another trust that is, under paragraph (d), a designated beneficiary of the particular trust or that would, under paragraph (d), be a designated beneficiary of the particular trust if the other trust were at that time a beneficiary under the particular trust whose interest as a beneficiary under the particular trust were

(A) acquired from each person or partnership from whom the particular partnership acquired its interest as a beneficiary under the particular trust, and

(B) held, at all times after the later of October 1, 1987 and the day on which the particular partnership's interest as a beneficiary under the particular trust was created, by the same persons or partnerships that held that interest of the particular partnership at those times, or

(v) a person exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income except if the interest of the particular partnership in the particular trust was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by the particular partnership or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income.

Technical Notes: Section 210 is amended so that a number of definitions that apply for the purposes of Part XII.2 are now found in new subsection 210(1). In addition, new subsection 210(2) replaces section 210.1, which is being repealed.

New subsection 210(1) contains the definitions "designated beneficiary" (previously found in section) and "designated income" (previously found in subsection 210.2(2)). These definitions apply in Part XII.2.

Under paragraphs (a) and (b) of the definition "designated beneficiary", a designated beneficiary includes, respectively, a non-resident person and a non-resident-owned investment corporation. Under paragraph (c) of the definition, a person exempt from tax under Part I is treated as a designated beneficiary because of owning an interest in a trust (acquired from a beneficiary under the trust) unless, generally speaking, no taxable entity previously owned that interest. Under paragraph (d) of the definition, a trust is a designated beneficiary of another trust if a beneficiary of the trust includes, generally, either a person or partnership described in any of paragraphs (a), (b), (c) or (e) of the definition or another trust (other than a testamentary trust resident in Canada). Under paragraph (e) of the definition, a partnership is a designated beneficiary of a trust if a member of the partnership is a person described in paragraph (a), (b) or (d) of the definition, another partnership or a person exempt from tax under Part I by reason of subsection 149(1) of the Act.

The opening words of the definition "designated beneficiary" are amended so that the references in the definition to a "trust" under which there may be a designated beneficiary are references to a "particular trust".

Paragraph (c) of the definition "designated beneficiary" is amended to clarify that a designated beneficiary of a particular trust includes, except as provided in subparagraphs (c)(i) and (ii) of the definition, a person who is, because of subsection 149(1), exempt from tax under Part I on all or part of their taxable income and who acquired an interest in the particular trust after October 1, 1987 directly or indirectly from a beneficiary under the particular trust.

Paragraph (d) of the definition "designated beneficiary" is amended so that a designated beneficiary of a particular trust includes another trust (in this commentary referred to as the "other trust") having as a beneficiary any one of the following persons or partnerships:

- under subparagraphs (d)(i) and (ii) of the definition, a non-resident person (including a trust) or a non-resident-owned investment corporation;
- under subparagraphs (d)(iii) of the definition, any trust, other than
  - a testamentary trust (however, note that if the testamentary trust were non-resident, the other trust would be treated as a designated beneficiary of the particular trust because of subparagraph (d)(i)),
  - a mutual fund trust,
  - a trust that is exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income (however, note that under subparagraph (d)(iv), described below, such a trust may cause the other trust to be a designated beneficiary of the particular trust), and
    - a trust none of the beneficiaries under which is, at that time, a designated beneficiary under it and whose interest, at that time, in the other trust was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, either by it or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income;
- under subparagraph (d)(iv) of the definition, a person (including a trust) or partnership that
  - is a designated beneficiary under the other trust because of paragraph (c) of the definition (i.e., a person who is, because of subsection 149(1), exempt from tax under Part I on all or part of their taxable income and who acquired an interest in the particular trust after October 1, 1987 directly or indirectly from a beneficiary under the particular trust) or because of paragraph (e) of the definition, or
    - would, based on the assumptions set out it in clause (d)(iv)(B), be a designated beneficiary under the particular trust because of paragraph (c) or (e) of the definition.

Note that a person or partnership that is a beneficiary of the other trust need only be described in any of one of subparagraphs (d)(i) to (iv) in order for the other trust to be a designated beneficiary of the particular trust. Note also that references in paragraph (d) of the definition to the expression "resident in Canada" are removed as these are unnecessary given that paragraph (a) of the definition provides that a non-resident person is a designated beneficiary.

Paragraph (d) of the definition is also amended to provide that the other trust will not be treated, under that paragraph, as a designated beneficiary of the particular trust if it is a testamentary trust, a mutual fund trust, or a trust that is exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income. However, these excluded trusts may be treated as designated beneficiaries of the particular trust under paragraphs (a) or (c) of that definition (e.g., a non-resident testamentary trust).

Amended paragraph (e) of the definition provides, in new subparagraph (e)(i), that a designated beneficiary of a particular trust includes a particular partnership any of the members of which is another partnership. However, no such other partnership will cause the particular partnership to be a designated beneficiary under the particular partnership if

- all such other partnerships are Canadian partnerships (as defined in subsection 102(1) of the Act),
- the interest of each such other partnership in the particular partnership is held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by the other partnership or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income,
- the interest of each member, of each such other partnership, that is a person exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by that member or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income, and
- the particular partnership's beneficial interest in the particular trust is held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by the particular partnership or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income.

Under subparagraphs (e)(ii) to (iv), a particular partnership will be a designated beneficiary under a particular trust if any one of the partnership's members is a non-resident person, a non-resident-owned investment corporation, or a specified person.

For this purpose, a specified person means a trust that is a designated beneficiary of the particular trust because of paragraph (d) of the definition or a trust that would be such a designated beneficiary on the following assumptions: the other trust were at that time a beneficiary under the particular trust whose interest as a beneficiary under the particular trust were

- acquired from each person or partnership from whom the particular partnership acquired its interest as a beneficiary under the particular trust, and
- held at all times after the later of October 1, 1987 and the day on which the particular partnership's interest as a beneficiary under the particular trust was created, by the same persons or partnerships that held at those times that interest of the particular partnership.

New subparagraph (e)(v) of the definition provides that a particular partnership will be a designated beneficiary of a particular trust if any of the members of the particular partnership is a person exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all or part of its taxable income, unless the interest of the particular partnership in the particular trust was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by the particular partnership or by persons who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from tax under Part I on all of their taxable income.

Note that, for the purposes of the definition "designated beneficiary", a new rule in section 132.2 applies in respect of certain trust units acquired by a beneficiary under a "qualifying exchange" (as defined in subsection 132.2(1)). For more detail, see the commentary on section 132.2.

"designated income", of a trust for a taxation year, means the amount that would be the income of the trust for the year determined under section 3 if

(a) this Act were read without reference to subsections 104(6), (12) and (30);

(b) the trust had no income other than taxable capital gains from dispositions described in paragraph (c) and incomes from

(i) real or immovable properties in Canada (other than Canadian resource properties),

(ii) timber resource properties,

(iii) Canadian resource properties (other than properties acquired by the trust before 1972), and

(iv) businesses carried on in Canada;

(c) the only taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses referred to in paragraph 3(b) were from

(i) dispositions of taxable Canadian property, and

(ii) dispositions of particular property (other than property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii)), or property for which the particular property is substituted, that was transferred at any particular time to a particular trust in circumstances in which subsection 73(1) or 107.4(3) applied, if

(A) it is reasonable to conclude that the property was so transferred in anticipation that a person beneficially interested at the particular time in the particular trust would subsequently cease to reside in Canada, and a person beneficially interested at the particular time in the particular trust did subsequently cease to reside in Canada, or

(B) when the property was so transferred, the terms of the particular trust satisfied the conditions in subparagraph 73(1.01)(c)(i) or (iii), and it is reasonable to conclude that the transfer was made in connection with the cessation of residence, on or before the transfer, of a person who was, at the time of the transfer, beneficially interested in the particular trust and a spouse or common-law partner, as the case may be, of the transferor of the property to the particular trust; and

(d) the only losses referred to in paragraph 3(d) were losses from sources described in any of subparagraphs (b)(i) to (iv).

Technical Notes: The tax under Part XII.2 is calculated by reference to a trust's "designated income" (as determined under subsection 210.2(2)).

Subsection 210.2(2) is being replaced (for more detail, see the commentary below) and the definition "designated income" is now found in subsection 210(1) of the Act.

Paragraphs (a), (b) and (d) of the new definition "designated income" in subsection 210(1) are largely unchanged from the equivalent provisions found in repealed subsection 210.2(2).

Paragraph (c) of the new definition replaces paragraph 210.2(2)(b). Under subparagraph (c)(i), designated income is calculated by reference to taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of the trust's taxable Canadian property. Subparagraph (c)(ii) provides that a trust's designated income is also calculated by reference to taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from a disposition by the trust of particular property (other than property described in any of subparagraphs 128.1(4)(b)(i) to (iii) of the Act).

In this context, particular property (or property for which the particular property is a substitute) must be property (referred to in this commentary as the "transferred property") that was transferred to a particular trust in circumstances in which subsection 73(1) or 107.4(3) applied. This condition will be met whether the particular trust is the trust in respect of which the designated income is being determined, or any other trust to which the transferred property was transferred in circumstances in which subsection 73(1) or 107.4(3) applied and that subsequently transferred, directly or indirectly, the property to the trust in respect of which the designated income is being determined.

In addition, clauses (c)(ii)(A) and (B) of the definition require

- that it be reasonable to conclude that the transferred property was, at a particular time, transferred to the particular trust in anticipation of the emigration of a person beneficially interested at the particular time in the particular trust and that a person (whether the anticipated person or another) beneficially interested at that time in the particular trust subsequently ceases to reside in Canada, or
- at the particular time that the transferred property was transferred to the particular trust, that the terms of the particular trust satisfy the conditions in subparagraph 73(1.01)(c)(i) or (iii) and that it be reasonable to conclude that the transfer was made in connection with the cessation of residence, on or before that time, of a person who was, at that time, beneficially interested in the particular trust and a spouse or common-law partner, as the case may be, of the transferor of the transferred property to the particular trust.

These amendments generally apply for the 1996 and subsequent taxation years. Subparagraph (c)(ii) of the definition as described above applies, in effect, to dispositions of property by a trust that occur after December 20, 2002.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

(2) Tax not payable — No tax is payable under this Part for a taxation year by a trust that was throughout the year

(a) a testamentary trust;

(b) a mutual fund trust;

(c) exempt from tax under Part I because of subsection 149(1);

(d) a trust to which paragraph (a), (a.1) or (c) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1) applies; or

(e) non-resident.

Technical Notes: Section 210.1 provides a list of types of trusts to which Part XII.2 does not apply.

Section 210.1 is being repealed. The list of types of trusts to which Part XII.2 does not apply is now found in new subsection 210(2). New subsection 210(2), consequential on the amendments to the definition "designated beneficiary" (described in the commentary above), also clarifies that it applies only to determine to which trusts the special Part XII.2 tax does not apply. Subsection 210(2) does not apply, for example, to determine whether a trust referred to in that subsection may have a designated beneficiary.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 175, will amend s. 210 to read as above, applicable to 1996 et seq. except that para. (c) of the definition "designated income" in subsec. 210(1), as amended, is to be read

(a) in respect of dispositions that occur after October 1, 1996 and before December 21, 2002, as follows:

(c) the only taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses referred to in paragraph 3(b) were from dispositions of taxable Canadian property; and,

and

(b) in respect of dispositions that occur in a 1996 taxation year and before October 2, 1996, as follows:

(c) the only taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses referred to in paragraph 3(b) were from dispositions of property that would have been taxable Canadian property if, at no time in the year, the trust had been resident in Canada; and.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 11, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of April 11, 2003, concerning the proposed definition "designated beneficiary" in Part XII.2 of the Income Tax Act (the "Act"), contained in the legislative proposals relating to income tax released by the Finance Minister on December 20, 2002. I would also like to acknowledge our meeting of May 13, 2003 and your subsequent discussions with Mr. Grant Nash of this Division.

As you know, Part XII.2 of the Act seeks to avoid the minimization of tax on specified Canadian-source income earned by non-residents through a Canadian-resident trust. Part XII.2 is also intended to discourage arrangements between taxable and tax-exempt beneficiaries designed to allow taxable income earned by a trust to be flowed through to tax-exempt beneficiaries after the acquisition of the trust unit by the tax-exempt beneficiary from the taxable beneficiary. Part XII.2, therefore, plays an important role in protecting the Canadian tax base and ensuring that taxpayers that use trust intermediaries to hold property do not obtain income advantages that are not available to taxpayers that hold such property directly.

Part XII.2 tax is levied at the trust level, but generally is payable only where a trust has a "designated beneficiary". Under the proposed definition "designated beneficiary" contained in the legislative proposals, a designated beneficiary under a particular trust would include a particular partnership if any member of the particular partnership were another partnership. In your letter, you are seeking a modification to that definition so that the particular partnership would not be treated as a designated beneficiary of the trust if it were a Canadian partnership the membership interests in which trade on a prescribed stock exchange.

We have considered the arrangement that you have identified and a number of other arrangements involving partnerships that invest directly, or indirectly through other partnerships, in trusts. In light of these deliberations, we are prepared to recommend modifications to the definition "designated beneficiary", but we are of the view that in dealing with partnership arrangements under Part XII.2 it is appropriate that partnerships be required to ascertain the characteristics of their members in order for a partnership to avoid characterization as a designated beneficiary under a trust. Accordingly, the modifications that we would support in this context would be narrower than those that you proposed.

In particular, a particular partnership that is a beneficiary of a trust will continue to be treated as a designated beneficiary under the trust if any of its members is another partnership. However, we will recommend that any such other partnership, that is a member of the particular partnership, will not cause the particular partnership to be a designated beneficiary under the trust if:

- that other partnership is a Canadian partnership (as defined by subsection 248(1) of the Act),
- that other partnership is a limited partnership whose interest in the particular partnership is held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by it or by persons ("eligible persons") who were exempt because of subsection 149(1) from Part I tax on all of their taxable income,
- the interest of each member, of the other partnership, that is a person exempt because of subsection 149(1) from Part I tax on all or part of its taxable income was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by that member or by eligible persons, and
- the beneficial interest of the particular partnership in the trust was held, at all times after the day on which the interest was created, by the particular partnership or by eligible persons.

Based on our discussions with you, we are also prepared to recommend that these modifications be effective for the 2001 and subsequent taxation years.

Thank you for writing to us on this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 13, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in reply to your letters to Mr. Len Farber of March 5 and March 9, 2001 and your letter of April 10, 2001 to Mr. Grant Nash of this Division, concerning the rules for designated beneficiaries in section 210 of the Income Tax Act (the "Act").

The definition "designated beneficiary" in section 210 applies for the purposes of Part XII.2 of the Act. One of the objectives of Part XII.2 tax is to prevent the minimization of tax on specified Canadian-source income that would otherwise arise where a Canadian trust's income is distributed to a non-resident and is subject only to Part XIII tax. Part XII.2 tax is also meant to discourage transactions between taxable and tax-exempt beneficiaries designed to allow taxable income earned by a trust to be flowed-through to tax-exempt beneficiaries after the acquisition of a trust unit by the tax-exempt beneficiary from the taxable beneficiaries.

We understand that you have seen a sanitized version of two earlier letters issued by us [below — ed.] in which we agreed to recommend changes to the definition "designated beneficiary" in section 210 of the Act. Under the structure described in the earlier letters ("double-tier structure"), registered pension plans and other investors would invest in units issued by a unit trust ("top fund"). The top fund would in turn invest in units issued by other trusts ("bottom funds"). In the earlier letter, we agreed to recommend changes so that the top fund would not be considered a designated beneficiary of the bottom fund solely because the beneficiaries of the top fund include a person exempt from tax under Part I of the Act. However, under the recommended changes, a top fund would be considered a designated beneficiary of the bottom fund if the top fund acquired its interest in the bottom fund directly or indirectly from another beneficiary of the bottom fund, unless the interest was owned, at all times after the creation of the bottom fund, by the top fund or a person exempt from tax under Part I of the Act because of subsection 149(1).

You have asked that we clarify whether it was intended that the proposed changes would accommodate structures of more than two levels of trust ("multiple-tier structures"). In particular, you have described a structure in which the units of the top fund are held by a third unit trust (i.e. pooled fund arrangement) the units of which are in turn held by other trusts none of which is a designated beneficiary of the third trust. You have also indicated that similar pooled fund arrangements may be used involving multiple levels of unit trusts.

In light of the policy objectives of Part XII.2, we are prepared to recommend a further change to the definition "designated beneficiary". In particular, we will recommend that a top fund be treated as a designated beneficiary of a bottom fund, subject to the exceptions described below, where the top fund acquires its interest directly from the bottom fund or directly or indirectly from another beneficiary of the bottom fund. However, the top fund would not be a designated beneficiary of the bottom fund at a particular time where it meets two conditions. The first condition would be that its interest in the bottom fund be owned at all times after the date on which the bottom fund was created by the top fund or a person exempt from tax under Part I because of subsection 149(1). The second condition would be that none of the beneficiaries of the top fund be a designated beneficiary of the top fund. We will further recommend that these amendments be effective for the 1996 and subsequent taxation years.

Thank you for writing to us on this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 9, 1999:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of October 20, 1999 concerning the definition "designated beneficiary" in section 210 of the Income Tax Act. I apologize for the delay in responding to you.

I am attaching a copy of our earlier letter to you of September 3, 1996 in which we agree to recommend changes to the definition "designated beneficiary" so that Part XII.2 tax is not exigible in the circumstances of certain kinds of "tiering" arrangements involving trusts (such as, for example, those arrangements described in your letters of October 20, 1999 and June 10, 1996). It continues to be our intention to recommend inclusion of this amendment in a future technical bill.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 25, 1998:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in reply to your letter of May 13, 1998 concerning the rules for designated beneficiaries in section 210 of the Income Tax Act. I understand that you have had access to a sanitized version of a letter from this Division on the same subject dated September 3, 1996.

Your letter contemplates a structure involving a number of different trusts resident in Canada and partnerships. Under this structure, a trust governed by a registered pension plan and other investors resident in Canada will have interests in a trust (the "middle trust"). The middle trust will invest in units issued by a unit trust (the "bottom trust"). In addition, a registered charity and other taxpayers resident in Canada will invest in a partnership which, in turn, will invest in units issued by the bottom trust. We also assume from the comments in your letter that neither the middle trust nor the partnership will acquire units of the bottom trust from other unitholders of the trust, but will instead acquire their units directly from the bottom trust.

One of the objectives of Part XII.2 tax is to prevent the minimization of tax on specified Canadian-source income that would otherwise arise where a Canadian trust's income is distributed to a non-resident and is subject only to Part XIII tax. Part XII.2 tax is also meant to discourage transactions between taxable and tax-exempt beneficiaries designed to allow "lumpy" taxable income earned by a trust to be flowed-through to tax-exempt beneficiaries after the acquisition of a trust unit by the tax-exempt beneficiary from the taxable beneficiaries.

Given the existing structure and objectives of Part XII.2, we agree it would be anomalous for either the middle trust or partnership in the circumstances described above to be treated as "designated beneficiaries" under the bottom trust. I am prepared to recommend amendments to eliminate this anomaly. I expect these amendments will be introduced in a future technical bill and be effective from no later than the beginning of this year.

Thank you for writing to us on this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Daniel MacIntosh, Director, Tax Legislation Division

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 3, 1996:

Dear [xxx]

This is in reply to your letter of June 10, 1996 to Simon Thompson regarding a suggested change to the definition of "designated beneficiary" in section 210 of the Income Tax Act.

Your letter contemplates a structure involving a number of different trusts resident in Canada. Under this structure, registered pension plans and other investors resident in Canada will invest in trust units issued by one unit trust (the "top fund"). The top fund will invest in units issued by other unit trusts (the "bottom funds"). You have asked that section 210 of the Act be amended so the top fund will not be a "designated beneficiary" of the bottom funds as a consequence of the top fund having beneficiaries (i.e., registered pension plans) which are exempt from tax under Part I of the Act.

We agree that one of the objectives of Part XII.2 tax is to prevent the minimization of tax on specified Canadian-source income that would otherwise arise where a Canadian trust's income is distributed to a non-resident and is subject only to Part XIII tax. However, Part XII.2 tax is also meant to discourage transactions between taxable and tax-exempt beneficiaries designed to allow "lumpy" taxable income earned by a trust to be flowed-through to tax-exempt beneficiaries after the acquisition of a trust unit by the tax-exempt beneficiary from the taxable beneficiaries.

In view of the second objective of Part XII.2 tax, described above, it would be difficult to recommend the amendment referred to above by itself. However, I understand that you have discussed this matter with one of my staff and are amenable to an additional amendment in this context. The additional amendment would, in effect, provide that the top fund would be a "designated beneficiary" under a bottom fund if it acquired an interest in the bottom fund directly or indirectly from a beneficiary under the bottom fund (except where the interest was owned, at each time after the date on which the bottom fund was created, by the top fund or a person exempt from tax under Part I of the Act because of subsection 149(1) of the Act). The combination of the two amendments would meet the both of the policy objectives. I am prepared to recommend that these amendments be introduced in a future technical bill and be effective from a date that will accommodate the planned structure described in your letter.

Thank you for writing to us on this matter.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber, Director, Tax Legislation Division

(a) the designated income of the trust for the year,

(b) the amount that, but for subsections 104(6) and (30), would be the income of the trust for the year, and

(c) 100/64 of the amount deducted under paragraph 104(6)(b) in computing the trust's income under Part I for the year.

(1.1) Amateur athlete trusts — Notwithstanding section 210.1, where an amount described in subsection 143.1(2) in respect of an amateur athlete trust would, if Part I were applicable, be required to be included in computing the income for a taxation year of a designated beneficiary under the trust, the trust shall pay a tax under this Part in respect of the year equal to 36% of 100/64 of that amount.

Proposed Repeal — 210.2(1.1)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 176(1), will repeal subsec. 210.2(1.1), applicable to 1996 et seq.

Forms: T3ATH-IND: Amateur athlete trust income tax return.

(2) Designated income — For the purposes of subsection (1), the designated income of a trust for a taxation year means the amount that, but for subsections 104(6), (12) and (30), would be the income of the trust for the year determined under section 3 if

(a) it had no income other than taxable capital gains from dispositions described in paragraph (b) and incomes from

> (i) real properties in Canada (other than Canadian resource properties),
>
> (ii) timber resource properties,
>
> (iii) Canadian resource properties (other than properties acquired by the trust before 1972), and
> (iv) businesses carried on in Canada;

(b) the only taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses referred to in paragraph 3(b) were from dispositions of taxable Canadian property; and

(c) the only losses referred to in paragraph 3(d) were losses from sources described in subparagraphs (a)(i) to (iv).

Proposed Amendment — 210.2(2)

(2) Amateur athlete trusts — Notwithstanding subsection 210(2), a trust shall pay a tax under this Part in respect of a particular taxation year of the trust equal to 56.25% of the amount that is required by subsection 143.1(2) to be included in computing the income under Part I for a taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust, if

(a) the beneficiary is at any time in the particular taxation year a designated beneficiary under the trust; and

(b) the particular taxation year ends in that taxation year of the beneficiary.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 176(1), will amend subsec. 210.2(2) to read as above, applicable to 1996 et seq. ("Designated income" is moved to 210(1); this provision was 210.2(1.1).)

Technical Notes: Subsection 210.2(1.1) extends the tax under Part XII.2 to amateur athlete trusts, which are provided for in section 143.1, in circumstances where amounts are distributed by such trusts to non-resident beneficiaries.

Subsection 210.2(1.1) is amended by renumbering it as subsection 210.2(2). In addition, the reference in that subsection to section 210.1 is, given that section's renumbering as subsection 210(2), replaced with a reference to subsection 210(2). The amended subsection also replaces the existing reference to the phrase "36% of $^{100}/_{64}$" with the numerical equivalent of "56.25%". Finally, the provision is amended to clarify that Part XII.2 tax applies to a trust for a particular taxation year of the trust on the amount that is required by subsection 143.1(2) to be included in computing the income under Part I for a taxation year of a beneficiary under the trust, only if

- the beneficiary is at any time in the particular taxation year a designated beneficiary under the trust, and
- the particular taxation year ends in that taxation year of the beneficiary.

Related Provisions: 104(7.01)(b)(i) — No deduction under 104(6) for designated income of trust.

History: Para. 210.2(2)(b) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 172, applicable after October 1, 1996. It formerly read:

(b) the only taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses referred to in paragraph 3(b) were from dispositions of property that would have been taxable Canadian property if, at no time in the year, the trust had been resident in Canada; and

(3) Tax deemed paid by beneficiary — Where an amount (in this subsection and subsection 210.3(2) referred to as the "income amount") in respect of the income of a trust for a taxation year is, by reason of subsection 104(13) or 105(2), included in computing

(a) the income under Part I of a person who was not at any time in the year a designated beneficiary under the trust, or

(b) the income of a non-resident person (other than a person who, at any time in the year, would be a designated beneficiary under the trust if section 210 were read without reference to paragraph 210(a)) that is subject to tax under Part I by reason of subsection 2(3) and is not exempt from tax under Part I by reason of a provision contained in a tax convention or agreement with another country that has the force of law in Canada,

Proposed Amendment — 210.2(3)(b)

(b) the income of a non-resident person (other than a person who, at any time in the year, would be a designated beneficiary under the trust if section 210 were read without reference to paragraph (a) of the definition "designated beneficiary" in that section) that is subject to tax under Part I by reason of subsection 2(3) and is not exempt from tax under Part I by reason of a provision contained in a tax treaty,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 176(3), will amend para. 210.2(3)(b) to read as above, applicable to 1996 et seq., except that in applying para. 210.2(3)(b) for the 1996 and 1997 taxation years, "treaty" is to be read as "convention or agreement with another country that has the force of law in Canada".

Technical Notes: Note as well that paragraph 210.2(3)(b) is amended to ensure that subsection 210.2(3) does not apply to a non-resident person that would be a designated beneficiary under the trust if the definition "designated beneficiary" in subsection 210(1) were read without reference to its paragraph (a).

PART XII.3 — TAX ON INVESTMENT INCOME OF LIFE INSURERS

211. (1) Definitions — For the purposes of this Part,

"existing guaranteed life insurance policy", at any time, means a non-participating life insurance policy in Canada in respect of which

(a) the amount of every premium that became payable before that time and after December 31, 1989,

(b) the number of premium payments under the policy, and

(c) the amount of each benefit under the policy at that time were fixed and determined on or before December 31, 1989;

"life insurance policy" includes a benefit under

(a) a group life insurance policy, and

(b) a group annuity contract

but does not include

(c) that part of a policy in respect of which the policyholder is deemed by paragraph 138.1(1)(e) to have an interest in a related segregated fund trust, or

(d) a reinsurance arrangement;

History: The definitions "life insurance policy" and "life insurance policy in Canada" in subsec. 211(1) amended by 1997, c. 25, s. 60, applicable to 1996 et seq. The definitions formerly read:

"life insurance policy" and "life insurance policy in Canada" do not include

(a) that part of a policy in respect of which the policyholder is deemed by paragraph 138.1(1)(e) to have an interest in a related segregated fund trust, or

(b) a reinsurance arrangement;

"life insurance policy in Canada" means a life insurance policy issued or effected by an insurer on the life of a person resident in Canada at the time the policy was issued or effected;

History: See under "life insurance policy" above.

"net interest rate", in respect of a liability, benefit, risk or guarantee under a life insurance policy of an insurer for a taxation year, is the positive amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$(A - B) \times C$$

where

A is the simple arithmetic average determined as of the first day of the year of the average yield (expressed as a percentage per year rounded to 2 decimal points) in each of the 60 immediately preceding months prevailing on all domestic Canadian-dollar Government of Canada bonds outstanding on the last Wednesday of that month that have a remaining term to maturity of more than 10 years,

B is

(a) in the case of a guaranteed benefit provided under the terms and conditions of the policy as they existed on March 2, 1988, other than a policy where, at any time after March 2, 1988, its terms and conditions relating to premiums and benefits were changed (otherwise than to give effect to the terms and conditions that were determined before March 3, 1988), the greater of

(i) the rate of interest (expressed as a percentage per year) used by the insurer in determining the amount of the guaranteed benefit, and

(ii) 4%, and

(b) in any other case, nil, and

C is

(a) in the case of a guaranteed benefit to which paragraph (a) of the description of B applies, 65%, and

(b) in any other case, 55%;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

"non-participating life insurance policy" means a life insurance policy that is not a participating life insurance policy;

"participating life insurance policy" has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"policy loan" has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"registered life insurance policy" means a life insurance policy issued or effected

(a) as a registered retirement savings plan or TFSA, or

Proposed Amendment — 211(1)"registered life insurance policy"(a)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 72, will amend para. (a) of the definition "registered life insurance policy" in subsec. 211(1) to substitute "plan" for "plan or TFSA", applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The definition "registered life insurance policy" in subsection 211(1) is amended to delete the reference to a tax-free savings account (TFSA), as it is redundant. An annuity contract, which is the only type of insurance product that is eligible to be issued as a TFSA, is already excluded from the scope of Part XII.3 tax by virtue of being specifically excluded from the definition "taxable life insurance policy" in subsection 211(1).

(b) pursuant to a registered retirement savings plan, a deferred profit sharing plan or a registered pension plan;

Related Provisions: 211(1)"taxable life insurance policy"(c) — RLIP not taxable.

History: Para. (a) of the definition "registered life insurance policy" in subsec. 211(1) amended to substitute "plan or TFSA"for "plan", by 2008, c. 28, s. 32, applicable to 2009 et seq.

"reinsurance arrangement" does not include an arrangement under which an insurer has assumed the obligations of the issuer of a life insurance policy to the policyholder;

"segregated fund" has the meaning given that expression in subsection 138.1(1);

"specified transaction or event", in respect of a life insurance policy, means

(a) a change in underwriting class,

(b) a change in premium because of a change in frequency of premium payments within a year that does not alter the present value, at the beginning of the year, of the total premiums to be paid under the policy in the year,

(c) an addition under the terms of the policy as they existed on

(i) in the case of an existing guaranteed life insurance policy, December 31, 1989,

(ii) in any other case, March 2, 1988, of accidental death, dismemberment, disability or guaranteed purchase option benefits,

(d) the deletion of a rider,

(e) redating lapsed policies within the reinstatement period referred to in paragraph (g) of the definition "disposition" in subsection 148(9) or redating for policy loan indebtedness,

(f) a change in premium because of a correction of erroneous information,

(g) the payment of a premium after its due date, or no more than 30 days before its due date, as established on or before

(i) in the case of an existing guaranteed life insurance policy, December 31, 1989, and

(ii) in any other case, March 2, 1988, and

(h) the payment of an amount described in paragraph (a) of the definition "premium" in subsection 148(9);

"taxable life insurance policy" of an insurer at any time means a life insurance policy in Canada issued by the insurer (or in respect of which the insurer has assumed the obligations of the issuer of the policy to the policyholder), other than a policy that is at that time

(a) an existing guaranteed life insurance policy,

(b) an annuity contract (including a settlement annuity),

(c) a registered life insurance policy,

(d) a registered pension plan, or

(e) a retirement compensation arrangement.

(2) Riders and changes in terms — For the purposes of this Part,

(a) any rider added at any time after March 2, 1988 to a life insurance policy shall be deemed to be a separate life insurance policy issued and effected at that time; and

(b) a change in the terms or conditions of a life insurance policy resulting from a specified transaction or event shall be deemed not to have occurred and not to be a change.

History: S. 211 substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 171(1), applicable to taxation years beginning after 1989 and, where an insurer has made an election under subsec. 172(3) of 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49) (see under s. 211.1), to all taxation years of the insurer to which the election relates and, where such an election is made,

(a) in respect of each taxation year of the insurer to which the election relates, each reference to "December 31, 1989" in the definitions in subsec. 211(1), as the reference relates to a life insurance policy, shall be read as a reference to the later of

(i) the day the policy was issued, and

(ii) March 2, 1988; and

(b) notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties shall be made as are necessary to give effect to the election to the extent it applies in respect of this section.

1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 171(2) provides that in its application to taxation years ending after 1987 and beginning before 1990 (except a taxation year of an insurer to which subsec. 172(1) of c. 49 applies because of an election made by the insurer under subsec. 172(3) of c. 49 — see under s. 211.1), s. 211 shall be read as though it included the following definition:

"benefits payable under a life insurance policy" includes

(a) a policy dividend, an experience rating refund and a refund of premiums under the policy,

(b) any amount payable under a reinsurance arrangement in respect of the policy, and

(c) any amount deemed by paragraph 138.1(1)(g) to be a payment under the terms and conditions of the policy, but does not include a policy loan or interest on funds left on deposit with the insurer under the terms of the policy;

S. 211 formerly read:

211.1 (1) Tax payable — Every life insurer shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 15% of its taxable Canadian life investment income for the year.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible; 138(3)(g) — Part XII.3 tax deductible by insurer.

(2) Taxable Canadian life investment income — For the purposes of this Part, the taxable Canadian life investment income of a life insurer for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which its Canadian life investment income for the year exceeds the total of its Canadian life investment losses for the 20 taxation years immediately preceding the year, to the extent that those losses were not deducted in computing its taxable Canadian life investment income for any preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 87(2.2) — Amalgamation of insurance corporations; 138(11.5)(k) — Transfer of business by non-resident insurer.

History: Subsec. 211.1(2) amended by 2006, c. 4, s. 84 to substitute "20 taxation years" for "10 taxation years", applicable in respect of losses that arise in 2006 et seq.

Subsec. 211.1(2) amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 46, applicable in respect of losses that arise in taxation years that end after March 22, 2004. The subsec. formerly read:

(2) For the purposes of this Part, the taxable Canadian life investment income of a life insurer for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which its Canadian life investment income for the year exceeds the total of its Canadian life investment losses for such of the 7 taxation years immediately preceding the year that begin after 1989, to the extent that those losses were not deducted in computing its taxable Canadian life investment income for any preceding taxation year.

Subsec. 211.1(2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 172, applicable to taxation years beginning after 1989. Subsec. (2) formerly read:

(2) Taxable Canadian life investment income — For the purposes of this Part, the taxable Canadian life investment income of a life insurer for a taxation year is the amount, if any, by which its Canadian life investment income for the year exceeds the total of its Canadian life investment losses for such of the 7 taxation years immediately preceding the year that commence after June 17, 1987 and end after 1987, to the extent that those losses have not been deducted in computing its taxable Canadian life investment income for any preceding taxation year.

(3) Canadian life investment income — For the purposes of this Part, the Canadian life investment income or loss of a life insurer for a taxation year is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

where

A is, subject to subsection (4), the total of all amounts, each of which is in respect of a liability, benefit, risk or guarantee under a life insurance policy that was at any time in the year a taxable life insurance policy of the insurer, determined by multiplying the net interest rate in respect of the liability, benefit, risk or guarantee for the year by ½ of the total of

(a) the maximum amount that would be determined under paragraph 1401(1)(a), (c) or (d) of the Income Tax Regulations (other than an amount that would be determined under subparagraph 1401(1)(d)(ii) of those Regulations in respect of a disabled life) in respect of the insurer for the year in respect of the liability, benefit, risk or guarantee if subsection 1401(1) of those Regulations applied to all life insurance policies and if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement, and

(b) the maximum amount that would be determined under paragraph 1401(1)(a), (c) or (d) of the Income Tax Regulations (other than an amount that would be determined under subparagraph 1401(1)(d)(ii) of those Regulations in respect of a disabled life) in respect of the insurer for the preceding taxation year in respect of the liability, benefit, risk or guarantee if subsection 1401(1) of those Regulations applied to all life insurance policies and if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement;

B is the total of all amounts, each of which is the positive or negative amount in respect of a life insurance policy that was at any time in the year a taxable life insurance policy of the insurer, determined by the formula

D is, subject to subsection (4), the amount determined by multiplying the percentage determined in the description of A in the definition "net interest rate" in subsection 211(1) in respect of the year by ½ of the total of

(a) the maximum amount that would be determined under paragraph 1401(1)(c.1) of the Income Tax Regulations in respect of the insurer for the year in respect of the policy if subsection 1401(1) of those Regulations applied to all life insurance policies and if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement, and

(b) the maximum amount that would be determined under paragraph 1401(1)(c.1) of the Income Tax Regulations in respect of the insurer for the preceding taxation year in respect of the policy if subsection 1401(1) of those Regulations applied to all life insurance policies and if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement, and

E is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts determined in respect of the insurer under the description of D in respect of the policy for the year and any preceding taxation years ending after 1989

exceeds the total of

(b) all amounts determined in respect of the insurer under the description of E in respect of the policy for taxation years ending before the year, and

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the maximum amount that would be determined under paragraph 1401(1)(c.1) of the Income Tax Regulations in respect of the insurer for the year in respect of the policy if subsection 1401(1) of those Regulations applied to all life insurance policies and if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement

(ii) the maximum amount that would be determined under paragraph 1401(1)(c.1) of the Income Tax Regulations in respect of the insurer for its last 1989 taxation year in respect of the policy if subsection 1401(1) of those Regulations applied to all life insurance policies and if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement; and

C is the total of all amounts each of which is 100% of the amount required to be included in computing the income of a policyholder under section 12.2 or paragraph 56(1)(j) for which the insurer is required by regulation to prepare an information return in respect of the calendar year ending in the taxation year, in respect of a taxable life insurance policy of the insurer, except that the reference in this description to 100% shall be read as a reference to,

(a) where paragraph (a) of the description of B in the definition "net interest rate" in subsection 211(1) applies for any taxation year in respect of a guaranteed benefit under the policy,

0% for calendar years before 1991,
5% for 1991,
10% for 1992,
15% for 1993,
20% for 1994,
25% for 1995,
30% for 1996,
35% for 1997,
40% for 1998,
45% for 1999, and
50% for calendar years after 1999,

and

(b) where the policy was at any time after 1989 an existing guaranteed life insurance policy,

0% for the calendar year in which it became a taxable life insurance policy of the insurer,
0% for the first following calendar year,
0% for the second following calendar year,
5% for the third following calendar year,
10% for the fourth following calendar year,
15% for the fifth following calendar year,
20% for the sixth following calendar year,
25% for the seventh following calendar year,
30% for the eighth following calendar year,
35% for the ninth following calendar year,
40% for the tenth following calendar year,
45% for the eleventh following calendar year, and 50% for the twelfth following and subsequent calendar years.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula amounts cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The portion of the descriptions of A and D in subsec. 211.1(3) before para. (a) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 213(1), (2), applicable to 1992 et seq. Those portions formerly read:

A is the total of all amounts, each of which is in respect of a liability, benefit, risk or guarantee under a life insurance policy that was at any time in the year a taxable life insurance policy of the insurer, determined by multiplying the net interest rate in respect of the liability, benefit, risk or guarantee for the year by the amount equal to ½ of the total of

. . . . .

D is the amount determined by multiplying the percentage determined in the description of A in the definition "net interest rate" in subsection 211(1) in respect of the year by the amount equal to ½ of the total of

Paras. (a) and (b) of the description of A, paras. (a) and (b) of the description of D in the description of B, and para. (c) of the description of E in the description of B, in subsec. 211.1(3), amended by 1997, c. 25, s. 61, applicable to 1996 et seq. The paras. formerly read:

(a) the maximum amount that would be deductible under paragraph 1401(1)(a), (c) or (d) of the Income Tax Regulations (other than an amount that the insurer can claim under subparagraph 1401(1)(d)(ii) of the Regulations in respect of a disabled life) in computing the insurer's income for the year in respect of the liability, benefit, risk or guarantee, if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement, and

(b) the maximum amount that would have been deductible under paragraph 1401(1)(a), (c) or (d) of the Regulations (other than an amount that the insurer can claim under subparagraph 1401(1)(d)(ii) of the Regulations in respect of a disabled life) in computing the insurer's income for the immediately preceding taxation year in respect of the liability, benefit, risk or guarantee, if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement;

. . . . .

(a) the maximum amount that would be deductible under paragraph 1401(1)(c.1) of the Income Tax Regulations in computing the insurer's income for the year in respect of the policy, if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement, and

(b) the maximum amount that would have been deductible under paragraph 1401(1)(c.1) of the Regulations in computing the insurer's income for the immediately preceding taxation year in respect of the policy, if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement, and

. . . . .

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the maximum amount that would be deductible under paragraph 1401(1)(c.1) of the Income Tax Regulations in computing the insurer's income for the year in respect of the policy, if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement

(ii) the maximum amount that would be deductible under paragraph 1401(1)(c.1) of the Regulations in computing the insurer's income for the insurer's last 1989 taxation year in respect of the policy, if that amount were determined without reference to any policy loan or reinsurance arrangement; and

Subsec. 211.1(3) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 172(1), applicable (by subsec. 172(3)) to taxation years commencing after 1989 and, where an insurer so elected in respect of the insurer's taxation years beginning after 1987 or 1988 and before 1990 by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in writing before July 1991, to all taxation years of the insurer to which the election relates and, where such an election was made,

(a) in respect of each taxation year of the insurer to which the election relates, each reference to "1989" in subsec. 211.1(3) shall be read as a reference to the year immediately preceding the first taxation year to which the election relates; and

(b) notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties shall be made as are necessary to give effect to the election.

Also (by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 172(2)), in their application to taxation years commencing after June 17, 1987 and before 1990 that end after 1987 (except a taxation year of an insurer to which subsec. 172(1) of c. 49 applies because of an election made by the insurer as mentioned above),

(a) the description of C in subsec. 211.1(3) shall be read as follows:

C is the positive or negative amount that would be determined to be the insurer's income or loss, respectively, for the year under Part I from carrying on a life insurance business in Canada, if

(a) no amount were included in that determination in respect of segregated funds of the insurer,

(b) no amount were included in that determination under paragraph 12(1)(d) or (d.1), section 12.3, paragraph 20(1)(l) or (l.1) or subsection 20(26), under a prescribed provision of this Act or, in respect of the amount deducted under paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it applied to taxation years beginning before June 18, 1987, in computing its income for the immediately preceding taxation year, under paragraph 138(4)(a),

(c) the amount, if any, determined under paragraph (g) of the description of A in respect of the insurer for the year were included in that determination,

(d) the maximum amounts deductible in computing that income under subparagraphs 138(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv) were deducted in that determination,

(e) for the purposes of paragraph 138(4)(a), the maximum amounts deductible under subparagraphs 138(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv) were deducted in computing the insurer's income or loss, as the case may be, for the immediately preceding taxation year, and

(f) in respect of the insurer's first taxation year beginning after June 17, 1987 and ending after 1987,

(i) the amounts referred to in paragraph (e) in respect of the insurer's immediately preceding taxation year were the maximum amounts that would be deductible under subparagraphs 138(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv) for that preceding year if those subparagraphs applied to that year, and

(ii) the prescribed amount of the insurer's 1968 reserve adjustment were nil;

and

(b) the description of G in subsec. 211.1(3) shall be read as follows:

G is the total of all amounts each of which is the prescribed portion of an amount that would be included under section 12.2 or paragraph 56(1)(j) in computing the income of a policyholder for a taxation year ending in the year, if all taxation years were calendar years, in respect of life insurance policies in Canada (other than annuity contracts and prescribed arrangements) of the insurer.

Subsec. 211.1(3) formerly read:

(3) Canadian life investment income — For the purposes of this Part, the Canadian life investment income or loss, as the case may be, of a life insurer for a taxation year is the positive or negative amount, respectively, determined by the formula

$$A - B - C - D + E - F - G$$

where

A is the positive or negative amount, as the case may be, determined by totalling the following amounts in respect of the insurer for the year:

(a) the total of all amounts included under subsection 138(9) in computing the insurer's income for the year from carrying on a life insurance business in Canada,

(b) where subsection 138(9) does not apply to the insurer, its gross investment revenue for the year from such of its non-segregated property as was property used in the year in, or held in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business in Canada,

(c) the amount included under paragraph 138(4)(b) in computing the insurer's income for the year,

(d) the amount included under paragraph 138(4)(c) in computing the insurer's income for the year,

(e) the total of all amounts that accrued to, or became receivable or were received by, the insurer in the year as, on account of or in lieu of payment of, interest in respect of policy loans made under the terms of its life insurance policies in Canada, to the extent not included in computing its Canadian life investment income for a preceding taxation year,

(f) the total of all gains made by the insurer in the year from dispositions of such of its non-segregated property (other than property that is a Canada security or capital property) as was property used in the year in, or held in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business in Canada, and

(g) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all taxable capital gains of the insurer for the year from dispositions of such of its non-segregated property as was property used in the year in, or held in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business in Canada

exceeds

(ii) the total of all allowable capital losses of the insurer for the year and all preceding taxation years commencing after June 17, 1987 and ending after 1987 from dispositions of such of its non-segregated property as was property used in the year in, or held in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business in Canada to the extent that those losses have not reduced an amount determined under this paragraph in determining the Canadian life investment income for a preceding taxation year, and deducting from that total the total of the following amounts in respect of the insurer for the year:

(h) the amount deductible under paragraph 138(3)(b) in computing the insurer's income for the year,

(i) the amount deductible under paragraph 138(3)(d) in computing the insurer's income for the year,

(j) the total of all losses sustained by the insurer in the year from dispositions of such of its non-segregated property (other than property that is a Canada security or capital property) as was property used in the year in, or held in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business in Canada,

(k) the total of all expenses deducted in computing the insurer's income under Part I for the year to the extent that those expenses were incurred for the purposes of managing its non-segregated property and may reasonably be regarded as having been incurred for the purposes of earning any amount included under paragraphs (a) to (f) for the year,

(l) the total of all amounts that became payable by the insurer in respect of the year as, on account of or in lieu of payment of, interest on amounts on deposit with the insurer in accordance with the terms of its life insurance policies in Canada, and

(m) the total of amounts (other than amounts included under paragraph (k) or (l)) deducted in computing the insurer's income for the year under paragraphs 20(1)(a), (c), (d) and (p), to the extent that each such amount may reasonably be regarded as relating to any amount included under paragraphs (a) to (f) for the year;

B is the total of all amounts deducted in computing the insurer's income for the year under Part I from carrying on a life insurance business in Canada (net of expense allowances under reinsurance arrangements included in computing that income) except to the extent that any such amount

(a) is included in an amount determined in respect of the insurer for the year under any of paragraphs (j) to (m) of the description of A,

(b) was paid or payable by the insurer in respect of benefits payable under a life insurance policy,

(c) is deductible under paragraph 20(1)(l) or (l.1) or subsection 20(26) or 138(3) in computing its income from carrying on a life insurance business in Canada, or

(d) may reasonably be considered to relate to segregated funds of the insurer;

C is the positive or negative amount, as the case may be, that would be determined to be the insurer's income or loss, respectively, for the year under Part I from carrying on a life insurance business in Canada, if

(a) no amount were included in that determination in respect of segregated funds of the insurer,

(b) no amount were included in that determination under paragraph 12(1)(d) or (d.1), section 12.3, paragraph 20(1)(l) or (l.1) or subsection 20(26), under a prescribed provision of this Act, or under paragraph 138(4)(a) in respect of the amount deducted under paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in computing its income for the immediately preceding taxation year,

(c) the amount, if any, determined under paragraph (g) of the description of A in respect of the insurer for the year were included in that determination, and

(d) the maximum amounts deductible under subparagraphs 138(3)(a)(i), (ii) and (iv) in computing the insurer's income for the year were deducted in that determination and on the assumption that the maximum amounts so deductible in computing its income for the immediately preceding year had been deducted;

D is the positive or negative amount, as the case may be, attributable to registered life insurance policies, registered pension plans, annuity contracts and prescribed arrangements, determined in accordance with prescribed rules, in respect of the insurer for the year;

E is the positive or negative amount, as the case may be, determined by totalling the term insurance component and the amortization adjustment amount, determined in accordance with prescribed rules, in respect of the insurer for the year;

F is the amount of guaranteed interest, determined in accordance with prescribed rules, in respect of the insurer for the year; and

G is the prescribed portion of amounts that would, but for subsection 12(8) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, be included in computing the income of policyholders under section 12.2, paragraph 56(1)(j) or subparagraph 115(1)(a)(vi), for taxation years ending in the year, if all taxation years were calendar years, in respect of life insurance policies in Canada (other than annuity contracts and prescribed arrangements) of the insurer.

The description of D in subsec. 211.1(3) amended by 1990, c. 35, s. 29, to substitute "registered pension plans" for "registered pension funds or plans", applicable after 1985.

211.3 (1) Instalments — Every life insurer shall, in respect of each of its taxation years, pay to the Receiver General on or before the last day of each month in the year, an amount equal to 1/12 of the lesser of

(a) the amount estimated by the insurer to be the annualized tax payable under this Part by it for the year, and

(b) the annualized tax payable under this Part by the insurer for the immediately preceding taxation year.

(2) Annualized tax payable — For the purposes of subsections (1) and 211.5(2), the annualized tax payable under this Part by a life insurer for a taxation year is the amount determined by the formula

$$(365/A) \times B$$

where

A is

(a) if the year is less than 357 days, the number of days in the year (other than February 29), and

(b) otherwise, 365; and

B is the tax payable under this Part by the insurer for the year.

History: S. 211.3 amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 214, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995. S. 211.3 formerly read:

211.3 Instalments — Every life insurer shall pay to the Receiver General on or before the last day of each three month period, if any, in a taxation year an instalment determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{B} \times C$$

where

A is the number of months in the year within the three month period;

B is the number of months in the year; and

C is the lesser of

(a) the tax payable under this Part by the insurer for the year, and

(b) the tax payable under this Part by the insurer for the immediately preceding taxation year.

(2) Interest on instalments — For the purposes of subsection 161(2) and section 163.1 as they apply to this Part, a life insurer is, in respect of a taxation year, deemed to have been liable to pay, on or before the last day of each month in the year, an instalment equal to 1/12 of the lesser of

(a) the annualized tax payable under this Part by the insurer for the year, and

(b) the annualized tax payable under this Part by the insurer for the immediately preceding taxation year.

PART XII.4 — TAX ON QUALIFYING ENVIRONMENTAL TRUSTS

211.6 (1) Charging provision — Every trust that is a qualifying environmental trust at the end of a taxation year shall pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 28% of its income under Part I for the year.

Proposed Amendment — 211.6(1)

211.6 (1) Charging provision — Every trust that is a qualifying environmental trust at the end of a taxation year (other than a trust that is at that time described by paragraph 149(1)(z.1) or (z.2)) shall pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 28% of its income under Part I for that taxation year.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 177, will amend subsec. 211.6(1) to read as above, applicable to 1997 et seq.

Technical Notes: Part XII.4 imposes a special tax on qualifying environmental trusts, as defined under subsection 248(1). Subsection 211.6(1) is the charging provision of Part XII.4. It requires a qualifying environmental trust to pay a tax equal to 28% of its income for the year.

Subsection 211.6(1) is amended to provide that a trust that is described by new paragraphs 149(1)(z.1) or (z.2), even if it is a qualifying environmental trust, is not subject to Part XII.4 tax.

Related Provisions: 127.41 — Part XII.4 tax credit to beneficiary; 149(1)(z) — No Part I tax on trust.

PART XII.5 — RECOVERY OF LABOUR-SPONSORED FUNDS TAX CREDIT

211.7 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this section apply for the purposes of this Part.

"approved share" has the meaning assigned by subsection 127.4(1).

"labour-sponsored funds tax credit" in respect of a share is

(a) where the original acquisition of the share occurred before 1996, 20% of the net cost of the share on that acquisition; and

(b) in any other case, the amount that would be determined under subsection 127.4(6) in respect of the share if this Act were read without reference to paragraphs 127.4(6)(b) and (d).

"net cost" has the meaning assigned by subsection 127.4(1).

"original acquisition" has the meaning assigned by subsection 127.4(1).

"qualifying trust" has the meaning assigned by subsection 127.4(1).

"revoked corporation" means a corporation the registration of which has been revoked under subsection 204.81(6).

(2) Amalgamations and mergers — For the purposes of this Part, where two or more corporations (each of which is referred to in this subsection as a "predecessor corporation") amalgamate or merge to form a corporate entity deemed by paragraph 204.85(3)(d) to have been registered under Part X.3, the shares of each predecessor corporation are deemed not to be redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the predecessor corporation on the amalgamation or merger.

History: S. 211.7 renumbered as subsec. 211.7(1) and subsec. 211.7(2) added by 2000, c. 19, s. 61, applicable after February 16, 1999.

S. 211.7 added by 1997, c. 25, s. 62, applicable to redemptions, acquisitions, cancellations and dispositions that occur after November 15, 1995, except that s. 211.7 does not apply

(a) to any redemption that occurs before 1998 of a share of the capital stock of a corporation that was registered under subsec. 204.81(1), where an amount determined under regulations made for the purpose of cl. 204.81(1)(c)(v)(F) is directed to be remitted to the Receiver General in order to permit the redemption; and

(b) to any disposition that occurs before 1998, where an amount is required to be remitted to the government of a province as a consequence of the disposition and a portion of the amount is in respect of the recovery of a tax credit that is provided under subsection 127.4(2) in respect of the share.

Definitions [s. 211.7]: "amount" — 248(1); "corporation" — 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "net cost", "original acquisition" — 127.4(1), 211.7(1); "share" — 248(1).

211.8 (1) Disposition of approved share — Where an approved share of the capital stock of a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation is, before the first discontinuation of its venture capital business, redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the corporation less than eight years after the day on which the share was issued (other than in circumstances described in subclause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(A)(I) or (III) or clause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(B) or (D)) or any other share that was issued by any other labour-sponsored venture capital corporation is disposed of, the person who was the shareholder immediately before the redemption, acquisition, cancellation or disposition shall pay a tax under this Part equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B$$

where

A is

(i) where the share was issued by a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation, the labour-sponsored funds tax credit in respect of the share, and

(ii) where the share was issued by any other labour-sponsored venture capital corporation and was at any time an approved share, the amount, if any, required to be remitted to the government of a province as a consequence of the redemption, acquisition, cancellation or disposition (otherwise than as a consequence of an increase in the corporation's liability for a penalty under a law of the province), and

(i) nil, where the share was issued by a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation, the original acquisition of the share was before March 6, 1996 and the redemption, acquisition, cancellation or disposition is

(A) more than 2 years after the day on which it was issued, where the redemption, acquisition, cancellation or disposition is permitted under the articles of the corporation because an individual attains 65 years of age, retires from the workforce or ceases to be resident in Canada, or

(B) more than 5 years after the day on which it was issued,

Proposed Amendment — 211.8(1)(a)B(i)(B), (C)

(B) more than five years after its issuance, or

(C) if the day that is five years after its issuance is in February or March of a calendar year, in February or on March 1st of that calendar year but not more than 31 days before that day,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 178(1), will amend cl. 211.8(1)(a)B(i)(B) to read as above, and add cl. (i)(C), applicable to redemptions, acquisitions, cancellations and dispositions that occur after November 15, 1995.

Technical Notes: Subsection 211.8(1) provides that the special tax under Part XII.5 generally applies where shares in a federally-registered LSVCC that qualify for the federal LSVCC tax credit are redeemed prior to the expiry of a minimum period. In the case of shares the "original acquisition" (as defined in subsection 127.4(1)) of which occurred before March 6, 1996, there is no recovery of the tax credit for a share redeemed more than five years after the day on which the share was issued. For shares the original acquisition of which occurs after March 5, 1996, the recovery generally applies where a share is redeemed less than eight years after the day on which it was issued.

Subsection 211.8(1) is amended so that there is no Part XII.5 tax in respect of the redemption by a federally-registered LSVCC of a share the original acquisition of which was after March 5, 1996, if the redemption occurs on a day that is in February or on March 1st of a calendar year and that day is no more than 31 days before the day that is eight years after the day on which the share was issued. For a share the original acquisition of which occurred before March 6, 1996, the circumstances in which there is no recovery of the tax credit are extended to include the redemption of the share on a day that is in February or on March 1st of a calendar year if that day is no more than 31 days before the day that is five years after the day on which the share was issued.

This amendment applies to redemptions, acquisitions, cancellations and dispositions that occur after November 15, 1995.

This amendment is part of a set of amendments, announced by the Minister of Finance (News Release 2000-009, dated February 7, 2000) concerning the redemption requirements for federally-registered LSVCCs. The set of amendments is intended to accommodate taxpayers wishing to acquire new LSVCC shares in the first 60 days of a year using the proceeds from the redemption of LSVCC shares. Other related changes include amendments to section 204.81. For additional information, see the commentary on those provisions.

Example 1

On February 2nd, 1998 a federally-registered LSVCC redeemed 200 Class A shares owned by Charles. The original acquisition by Charles of the shares was on March 1, 1993, the same day on which the shares were issued. The issuing LSVCC was incorporated on December 1, 1992. The LSVCC's Articles comply with the applicable registration requirements.

Results:

1. Under new clause (i)(C) of the description of B in paragraph 211.8(1)(a), there will be no recovery of the tax credit on the redemption of the 200 shares because the original acquisition of the shares was before March 6, 1996 and the redemption occurred on a day in February not more than 31 days before the day that is five years after the day on which the shares were issued.

2. Because of new subsection 204.81(1.2), subsection 204.81(6) would not apply to allow the Minister of National Revenue to revoke the LSVCC's registration solely because of the redemption.

Example 2

On February 15, 2005 a federally-registered LSVCC redeemed 200 Class A shares owned by Marguerite. The circumstances of the redemption are not described in any of the provisions, described in clauses 204.81(1)(c)(v)(A) to (D) of the Act, of the LSVCC's articles. The original acquisition by Marguerite of the first 100 shares was on March 1, 1997, although the shares were issued on March 12th, 1997. The original acquisition by Marguerite of the second 100 shares was on February 29, 2000, the same day on which the shares were issued. The LSVCC was incorporated on May 1, 1996.

Results:

1. Under new subparagraph (i.1) of the description of B in paragraph 211.8(1)(a), there will be no recovery of the tax credit on the redemption of the first 100 shares because the redemption occurred in February on a day not more than 31 days before the day that is eight years after the day on which the shares were issued. Subparagraph (i) of the description of variable B in paragraph 211.8(1)(a) does not apply because the original acquisition of the shares was not before March 6, 1996.

2. Under new subparagraph (i.1) of the description of B in paragraph 211.8(1)(a), there will be a recovery of the tax credit on the redemption of the second 100 shares because the redemption occurred less than eight years after the day on which the share was issued and more than 31 days before the day that is eight years after the day on which the shares were issued.

3. Because of new subsection 204.81(1.2), subsection 204.81(6) would not apply to allow the Minister of National Revenue to revoke the LSVCC's registration solely because of the redemption of the first 100 shares. However, the early redemption by the corporation of the second 100 shares, in violation of the provisions of its articles described in clause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(E), authorizes the Minister of National Revenue to revoke the LSVCC's registration under subsection 204.81(6).

Dept. of Finance news release 2000-009, Feb. 7, 2000: Finance Minister Announces Minor Change to the Redemption Requirements for Federal LSVCCs

Finance Minister Paul Martin today announced that he would propose a minor change affecting federally-registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporations (LSVCCs). The proposed change provides an exemption from the rules governing the recovery of the federal LSVCC tax credit.

Shares in federally-registered LSVCCs that qualify for the federal LSVCC tax credit must be held for a minimum period. Where a share is redeemed prior to the expiry of the minimum period, the federal LSVCC tax credit for the share is generally recovered. In the case of shares issued before March 6, 1996, there is no recovery of the tax credit for a share redeemed more than five years after the day on which the share was issued. For shares issued after March 5, 1996, the recovery applies where a share is redeemed less than eight years after the day on which it was issued.

The proposed change will, for the purpose of the recovery provisions, treat a share redeemed in February or on March 1st as having been redeemed 30 days later. For example, existing LSVCC shares issued on March 1, 1995 and redeemed on February 29, 2000 would be exempt from a recovery of the federal LSVCC tax credit that was associated with the original acquisition of the shares.

This measure is intended to accommodate taxpayers wishing to acquire new LSVCC shares in the first 60 days of a year with the proceeds from the redemption of LSVCC shares. In these circumstances, a taxpayer would generally be entitled to claim a tax credit for the preceding year in respect of an acquisition of the new shares and would not be subject to a tax penalty with respect to the redemption of the existing shares. In addition, any necessary changes will be made to ensure that an LSVCC's registration cannot be revoked as a result of having redeemed LSVCC shares in these circumstances. It is proposed that this change apply from the inception of the rules governing the recovery of the LSVCC tax credit.

Proposed Addition — 211.8(1)(a)B(i.1)

(i.1) nil, where the share was issued by a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation, the original acquisition of the share was after March 5, 1996 and the redemption, acquisition or cancellation is in February or on March 1st of a calendar year but is not more than 31 days before the day that is eight years after the day on which the share was issued,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 178(2), will add subpara. 211.8(1)(a)B(i.1), applicable to redemptions, acquisitions, cancellations and dispositions that occur after November 15, 1995.

Technical Notes: See under 211.8(1)(a)B(i)(B), (C) above.

(ii) one, in any other case where the share was issued by a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation, and

(iii) in any other case, the quotient obtained when the labour-sponsored fund tax credit in respect of the share is divided by the tax credit provided under a law of a province in respect of any previous acquisition of the share, and

(b) the amount that would, but for subsection (2), be payable to the shareholder because of the redemption, acquisition, cancellation or disposition (determined after taking into account the amount determined under subparagraph (ii) of the description of A in paragraph (a)).

Related Provisions: 204.8(2) — Determining when an RLSVCC discontinues its business; 204.8(3) — Order of disposition of shares; 211.8(1.1) — Rules of application; 211.8(2) — Withholding and remittance of tax; 211.9 — Refund of clawback; 227(10.01) — Assessment of amount payable by resident of Canada; 227(10.1)(c) — Assessment of amount payable by non-resident; Reg. 6706 — Repayment of credit by national LSVCCs.

(1.1) Rules of application — Subsections 204.8(2) and (3) and 204.85(3) apply for the purpose of subsection (1).

(2) Withholding and remittance of tax — Where a person or partnership (in this section referred to as the "transferee") redeems, acquires or cancels a share and, as a consequence, tax is payable under this Part by the person who was the shareholder immediately before the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, the transferee shall

(a) withhold from the amount otherwise payable on the redemption, acquisition or cancellation to the shareholder the amount of the tax;

(b) within 30 days after the redemption, acquisition or cancellation, remit the amount of the tax to the Receiver General on behalf of the shareholder; and

(c) submit with the remitted amount a statement in prescribed form.

Related Provisions: 211.8(3) — Liability for failure to withhold; 211.9 — Refund of clawback; 227 — Withholding taxes — administration and enforcement; 227(5)(a.1) — Person who has influence over payment may be liable for failure to withhold; 227(6) — Application of excess amount withheld; 227(8.3)(c) — Interest on amounts not withheld.

Forms: T1149: Remittance form for labour-sponsored funds tax credits withheld on redeemed shares.

(3) Liability for tax — Where a transferee has failed to withhold any amount as required by subsection (2) from an amount paid or credited to a shareholder, the transferee is liable to pay as tax under this Part on behalf of the shareholder the amount the transferee failed to withhold, and is entitled to recover that amount from the shareholder.

Related Provisions: 227(10.01) — Assessment of amount payable by resident of Canada; 227(10.1)(c) — Assessment of amount payable by non-resident.

History: The opening words of subsec. 211.8(1) amended and subsec. 211.8(1.1) added by 2000, c. 19, subsecs. 62(1), (2), applicable to redemptions, acquisitions, cancellations and dispositions that occur after February 16, 1999. The opening words of subsec. (1) formerly read:

(1) Where an approved share of the capital stock of a registered labour-sponsored venture capital corporation or a revoked corporation is redeemed, acquired or cancelled by the corporation less than 8 years after the day on which the share was issued (other than in circumstances described in subclause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(A)(I) or (III) or clause 204.81(1)(c)(v)(B) or (D)) or any other share that was issued by any other labour-sponsored venture capital corporation is disposed of, the person who was the shareholder immediately before the redemption, acquisition, cancellation or disposition shall pay a tax under this Part equal to the lesser of

S. 211.8 added by 1997, c. 25, s. 62; subsec. 211.8(1) applicable to redemptions, acquisitions, cancellations and dispositions that occur after November 15, 1995, except that it does not apply

(a) to any redemption that occurs before 1998 of a share of the capital stock of a corporation that was registered under subsec. 204.81(1), where an amount determined under regulations made for the purpose of cl. 204.81(1)(c)(v)(F) is directed to be remitted to the Receiver General in order to permit the redemption; and

(b) to any disposition that occurs before 1998, where an amount is required to be remitted to the government of a province as a consequence of the disposition and a portion of the amount is in respect of the recovery of a tax credit that is provided under subsec. 127.4(2) in respect of the share;

PART XII.6 — TAX ON FLOW-THROUGH SHARES

211.91 (1) Tax imposed — Every corporation shall pay a tax under this Part in respect of each month (other than January) in a calendar year equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$\left(A + \frac{B}{2} - C - \frac{D}{2}\right) \times \left(\frac{E}{12} + \frac{F}{10}\right)$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that the corporation purported to renounce in the year under subsection 66(12.6) or (12.601) because of the application of subsection 66(12.66) (other than an amount purported to be renounced in respect of expenses incurred or to be incurred in connection with production or potential production in a province where a tax, similar to the tax provided under this Part, is payable by the corporation under the laws of the province as a consequence of the failure to incur the expenses that were purported to be renounced);

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that the corporation purported to renounce in the year under subsection 66(12.6) or (12.601) because of the application of subsection 66(12.66) and that is not included in the value of A;

C is the total of all expenses described in paragraph 66(12.66)(b) that are

(a) made or incurred by the end of the month by the corporation, and

(b) in respect of the purported renunciations in respect of which an amount is included in the value of A;

D is the total of all expenses described in paragraph 66(12.66)(b) that are

(a) made or incurred by the end of the month by the corporation, and

(b) in respect of the purported renunciations in respect of which an amount is included in the value of B;

E is the rate of interest prescribed for the purpose of subsection 164(3) for the month; and

F is

(a) one, where the month is December, and

(b) nil, in any other case.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t), 20(1)(nn) — Tax under Part XII.6 is deductible; 66(18) — Members of partnerships; 87(4.4)(e)–(h) — Amalgamation of principal-business corporations; 211.91(2) — Return and payment of tax; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Regulations: 4301(b) (prescribed rate of interest under 164(3), for 211.91(1)E).

(2) Return and payment of tax — A corporation liable to tax under this Part in respect of one or more months in a calendar year shall, before March of the following calendar year,

(a) file with the Minister a return for the year under this Part in prescribed form containing an estimate of the tax payable under this Part by it in respect of each month in the year; and

(b) pay to the Receiver General the amount of tax payable under this Part by it in respect of each month in the year.

History: Para. 212(1)(b) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 59(2), applicable after 2007 and as though Bill C-10 (see proposed amendments below) had received Royal Assent before 2007, c. 35. The para. formerly read:

(b) interest — interest except

(i) [NRO] — interest payable by a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(ii) [government-guaranteed debt] — interest payable on

(A) bonds of or guaranteed by the Government of Canada issued on or before December 20, 1960,

(B) bonds of or guaranteed by the Government of Canada issued after December 20, 1960, and before April 16, 1966, the interest on which is payable to the government or central bank of a country other than Canada or to any international organization or agency prescribed by regulation, or

(C) bonds, debentures, notes, mortgages, hypothecary claims or similar obligations

(I) of or guaranteed by the Government of Canada,

(II) of the government of a province or an agent thereof,

(III) of a municipality in Canada or a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada,

(IV) of a corporation, commission or association to which any of paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) applies, or

(V) of an educational institution or a hospital if repayment of the principal amount thereof and payment of the interest thereon is to be made, or is guaranteed, assured or otherwise specifically provided for or secured by the government of a province, issued after April 15, 1966,

(iii) [foreign currency debt] — interest payable in a currency other than Canadian currency to a person with whom the payer is dealing at arm's length, on

(A) any obligation where the evidence of indebtedness was issued on or before December 20, 1960,

(B) any obligation where the evidence of indebtedness was issued after December 20, 1960, if the obligation was entered into under an agreement in writing made on or before that day, under which the obligee undertook to advance, on or before a specified day, a specified amount at a specified rate of interest or a rate of interest to be determined as provided in the agreement, to the extent that the interest payable on the obligation is payable

(I) in respect of a period ending not later than the earliest day on which, under the terms of the obligation determined as of the time it was entered into, the obligee would be entitled to demand payment of the principal amount of the obligation or the amount outstanding as or on account of the principal amount thereof, as the case may be, if the terms of the obligation determined as of that time provided for that payment on or after a specified day, or

(II) in respect of a period ending not later than one year after the time the obligation was entered into, in any other case,

(C) any bond, debenture or similar obligation issued after December 20, 1960, for the issue of which arrangements were made on or before that day with a dealer in securities, if the existence of the arrangements for the issue of the bond, debenture or similar obligation can be established by evidence in writing given or made on or before that day,

(D) an amount not repayable in Canadian currency deposited with an institution that was at the time the amount was deposited or at the time the interest was paid or credited a prescribed financial institution,

(E) any obligation entered into in the course of carrying on a business in a country other than Canada, to the extent that the interest payable on the obligation is deductible in computing the income of the payer under Part I from a business carried on by the payer in such a country, or that, but for subsection 18(2) or section 21, would have been so deductible, or

(F) any obligation entered into by the payer after December 20, 1960, on assuming an obligation referred to in clause (A) in consideration or partial consideration for the purchase by the payer of property of the vendor that constituted security for that obligation, if the payer on entering into the obligation undertook to pay the same amount of money on or before the same date and at the same rate of interest as the vendor of the property had undertaken in respect of the obligation under which the vendor was the obligor,

(for the purpose of this subparagraph, interest expressed to be computed by reference to Canadian currency shall be deemed to be payable in Canadian currency),

(iv) [exemption certificate] — interest payable on any bond, debenture or similar obligation to a person with whom the payer is dealing at arm's length and to whom a certificate of exemption that is in force on the day the amount is paid or credited was issued under subsection (14),

Proposed Amendment — Former 212(1)(b)(iv)

(iv) interest payable to a person with whom the payer is dealing at arm's length and to whom a certificate of exemption that is in force on the day the amount is paid or credited was issued under subsection (14),

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(1), will amend former subpara. 212(1)(b)(iv) to read as above, applicable to 1998 et seq., but only until 212(1)(b) was replaced effective Jan. 1, 2008 (per Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35, s. 97(1)).

Technical Notes: Paragraph 212(1)(b) both applies tax under Part XIII of the Act to interest paid or credited by a person resident in Canada to a non-resident person and includes a number of exemptions from the tax. One of these, in subparagraph 212(1)(b)(iv), is for interest payable to an arm's length person who holds a valid "certificate of exemption". These certificates, issued by the Minister of National Revenue under the authority provided by subsection 212(14), are generally available to foreign pension entities, charities and certain other tax-exempt entities.

In its current form, subparagraph 212(1)(b)(iv) applies only to interest on a "bond, debenture or similar obligation." Since this restriction may unduly limit the scope of the provision, it is broadened to encompass all forms of indebtedness. It should be noted, however, that no change is made to the requirement that the Canadian-resident payer of the interest and the non-resident recipient deal at arm's length.

(v) [life insurance business outside Canada] — interest payable to a person with whom the payer is dealing at arm's length on any obligation entered into in the course of carrying on a life insurance business in a country other than Canada,

(vi) [Repealed under former Act]

(vii) [5-year corporate debt] — interest payable by a corporation resident in Canada to a person with whom that corporation is dealing at arm's length on any obligation where the evidence of indebtedness was issued by that corporation after June 23, 1975 if under the terms of the obligation or any agreement relating thereto the corporation may not under any circumstances be obliged to pay more than 25% of

(A) where the obligation is one of a number of obligations that comprise a single debt issue of obligations that are identical in respect of all rights (in equity or otherwise, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently) attaching thereto, except as regards the principal amount thereof, the total of the principal amount of those obligations, or

(B) in any other case, the principal amount of the obligation, within 5 years from the date of issue of that single debt issue or that obligation, as the case may be, except

(C) in the event of a failure or default under the said terms or agreement,

(D) if the terms of the obligation or any agreement relating thereto become unlawful or are changed by virtue of legislation or by a court, statutory board or commission,

(E) if the person exercises a right under the terms of the obligation or any agreement relating thereto to convert the obligation into, or exchange the obligation for, a prescribed security,

(F) in the event of the person's death, or

(G) in the event that a change to this Act or to a tax treaty has the effect of relieving the non-resident person from liability for tax under this Part in respect of the interest;

Proposed Amendment — Former 212(1)(b)(vii) — No novation when authorized foreign bank assumes debts of subsidiary Letter from Dept. of Finance, December 18, 2001: See under 142.7(8)(d).

(viii) [mortgage on real property outside Canada] — interest payable on a mortgage, hypothecary claim or similar obligation secured by, or on an agreement for sale or similar obligation with respect to, real property situated outside Canada or an interest in any such real property except to the extent that the interest payable on the obligation is deductible in computing the income of the payer under Part I from a business carried on by the payer in Canada or from property other than real property situated outside Canada,

Proposed Amendment Deleted — Former 212(1)(b)(viii)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 268(1), would have amended subpara. 212(1)(b)(viii) by substituting "such real property, or to immovables situated outside Canada or a real right in any such immovable," for "such real property" and "real or immovable property" for "real property", to come into force on Royal Assent.

This amendment repealed by S.C. 2007, c. 35 (Bill C-28, Royal Assent December 14, 2007), subsec. 97(2).

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(ix) [deposit in foreign branch of Canadian bank] — interest payable in Canadian currency on account of an amount in Canadian currency deposited in a country other than Canada with a branch or office of a payer who

(A) is, or is eligible to become, a member of the Canadian Payments Association, or

(B) is a credit union that is a shareholder or member of a body corporate or organization that is a central for the purposes of the Canadian Payments Association Act, to a person with whom the payer is dealing at arm's length,

(x) [prescribed international organization] — interest payable to a prescribed international organization or agency,

(xi) [International Banking Centre deposit] — interest payable on an amount deposited with a prescribed financial institution for the period during which the amount was an eligible deposit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 33.1(1)) of the institution, and

(xii) [securities lending arrangement] — interest payable under a securities lending arrangement by a lender under the arrangement that is a financial institution prescribed for the purpose of clause (iii)(D), or a registered securities dealer resident in Canada, on money provided to the lender either as collateral or as consideration for the particular security lent or transferred under the arrangement where

Proposed Amendment — Former 212(1)(b)(xii) opening words

(xii) interest payable by a lender under a securities lending arrangement, if the lender and the borrower deal with each other at arm's length and the lender is a financial institution prescribed for the purpose of clause (iii)(D), or a registered securities dealer resident in Canada, on money provided to the lender either as collateral or as consideration for the particular security lent or transferred under the arrangement where

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(2), will amend the opening words of subpara. 212(1)(b)(xii) to read as above, applicable to arrangements made after 2002, but only until 212(1)(b) was replaced effective Jan. 1, 2008 (per Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35, s. 97(1)).

Technical Notes: Subparagraph 212(1)(b)(xii) provides an exemption for interest payable under certain securities lending arrangements by registered or licensed securities dealers resident in Canada. Given the current definition of "securities lending arrangement" in subsection 260(1), this exemption is only available to dealers who are dealing at arm's length with the other parties to the arrangements.

Consequential to the amendments to the definition of "securities lending arrangement" in subsection 260(1), which now includes certain arrangements between non-arm's length parties, the amendment to subparagraph 212(1)(b)(xii) confirms that the exemption is limited to arm's length arrangements.

(A) the particular security is an obligation referred to in subparagraph (ii) or an obligation of the government of any country, province, state, municipality or other political subdivision,

(B) the amount of money so provided at any time during the term of the arrangement does not exceed 110% of the fair market value at that time of the particular security, and

(C) the arrangement was neither intended, nor made as a part of a series of securities lending arrangements, loans or other transactions that was intended, to be in effect for more than 270 days,

Proposed Addition — Former 212(1)(b)(xiii)

(xiii) [securities lending arrangement] — an amount paid or credited under a securities lending arrangement that is deemed by subparagraph 260(8)(c)(i) to be a payment made by a borrower to a lender of interest if

(A) the securities lending arrangement was entered into by the borrower in the course of carrying on a business outside Canada, and

(B) the security that is transferred or lent to the borrower under the securities lending arrangement is described in paragraph (b) or (c) of the definition "qualified security" in subsection 260(1) and issued by a non-resident issuer;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(3), will add subpara. 212(1)(b)(xiii), applicable to securities lending arrangements entered into after May 1995 (except that in its application to arrangements made before 2002, the reference to "subparagraph 260(8)(c)(i)" in the subpara. is to be read as "subparagraph 260(8)(a)(i)"); but only until 212(1)(b) was replaced effective Jan. 1, 2008 (per Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35, s. 97(1)).

Technical Notes: Securities lending arrangements often include an obligation for one party to compensate the other for certain income amounts. In the absence of special rules, these compensation payments may be subject to tax under Part XIII if they are paid by a person resident in Canada to a non-resident person.

New subparagraph 212(1)(b)(xiii) exempts from tax under Part XIII certain interest compensation payments made to a non-resident by a borrower resident in Canada under a securities lending arrangement. For this exemption to apply,

- the payments must be made by the borrower in the course of carrying on its business outside of Canada; and
- the borrowed securities must be issued by a non-resident issuer.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, February 18, 2002: See under 212(2.1).

and for the purpose of this paragraph, where interest is payable on an obligation, other than a prescribed obligation, and all or any portion of the interest is contingent or dependent on the use of or production from property in Canada or is computed by reference to revenue, profit, cash flow, commodity price or any other similar criterion or by reference to dividends paid or payable to shareholders of any class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, the interest shall be deemed not to be interest described in subparagraphs (ii) to (vii) and (ix);

Cl. 212(1)(b)(vii)(G) added by the said c. 35, subsec. 59(1), applicable to obligations entered into after March 18, 2007.

The opening words of cl. 212(1)(b)(ii)(C) and subpara. 212(1)(b)(viii) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 226(1), (2), to add ", hypothecary claims" and ", hypothecary claim" respectively, in force June 14, 2001.

Subcl. 212(1)(b)(ii)(C)(IV) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 173(1), applicable to amounts paid or credited after 1998. Subcl. 212(1)(b)(ii)(C)(IV) formerly read:

Subpara. 212(1)(b)(iv) amended, and cl. (vii)(F) added, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsecs. 123(1) and (2), applicable (by subsec. 123(5) as amended by 1994, c. 21, s. 137) to amounts paid or credited after 1991 except that in its application to amounts paid or credited to a person in respect of obligations acquired before 1992 by the person or by a person related to the person, subpara. (b)(iv) applies with respect to amounts paid or credited after 1994. That subpara. formerly read:

(iv) interest payable on any bond, debenture or similar obligation issued after June 13, 1963 to a person to whom a certificate of exemption that is in force on the day the amount is paid or credited has been issued under subsection (14),

Cl. 212(1)(b)(vii)(C) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 174(1), applicable to amounts paid or credited after 1986. That cl. formerly read:

(d) rents, royalties, etc. — rent, royalty or similar payment, including, but not so as to restrict the generality of the foregoing, any payment

(i) for the use of or for the right to use in Canada any property, invention, trade-name, patent, trade-mark, design or model, plan, secret formula, process or other thing whatever,

(ii) for information concerning industrial, commercial or scientific experience where the total amount payable as consideration for that information is dependent in whole or in part on

(A) the use to be made of, or the benefit to be derived from, that information,

(B) production or sales of goods or services, or

(C) profits,

(iii) for services of an industrial, commercial or scientific character performed by a non-resident person where the total amount payable as consideration for those services is dependent in whole or in part on

(A) the use to be made of, or the benefit to be derived from, those services,

(B) production or sales of goods or services, or

(C) profits,

but not including a payment made for services performed in connection with the sale of property or the negotiation of a contract,

Proposed Amendment — 212(1)(d)(iv)

(iv) unless paragraph (i) applies to the amount, made pursuant to an agreement between a person resident in Canada and a non-resident person under which the non-resident person agrees not to use or not to permit any other person to use any thing referred to in subparagraph (i) or any information referred to in subparagraph (ii), or

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(5), will amend subpara. 212(1)(d)(iv) to read as above, applicable to amounts paid or credited after October 7, 2003.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 212(1)(d) describes various amounts, in the nature of rent, royalties and similar payments, on which tax under Part XIII of the Act is imposed. Subparagraphs 212(1)(d)(vi) through (xi) list payments to which the tax does not apply. Three changes have been made to paragraph 212(1)(d).

First, subparagraph 212(1)(d)(iv), which concerns payments made in respect of an agreement between a person resident in Canada and a non-resident person under which the non-resident person agrees not to use or not to permit any other person to use any thing referred to in subparagraph (d)(i), is amended so that it does not apply to certain restrictive covenant amounts to which new paragraph 212(1)(i) applies.

(v) that was dependent on the use of or production from property in Canada whether or not it was an instalment on the sale price of the property, but not including an instalment on the sale price of agricultural land,

but not including

(vi) a royalty or similar payment on or in respect of a copyright in respect of the production or reproduction of any literary, dramatic, musical or artistic work,

(vii) a payment in respect of the use by a railway company or by a person whose principal business is that of a common carrier of property that is railway rolling stock as defined in the definition "rolling stock" in section 2 of the Railway Act

(A) if the payment is made for the use of that property for a period or periods not expected to exceed in the aggregate 90 days in any 12 month period, or

(B) in any other case, if the payment is made pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into before November 19, 1974;

(viii) a payment made under a bona fide cost-sharing arrangement under which the person making the payment shares on a reasonable basis with one or more non-resident persons research and development expenses in exchange for an interest in any or all property or other things of value that may result therefrom,

(ix) a rental payment for the use of or the right to use outside Canada any corporeal property,

Proposed Amendment — 212(1)(d)(viii), (ix)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 268(2), will amend subparas. 212(1)(d)(viii) and (ix) by substituting "interest, or for civil law a right," for "interest" in subpara. (viii) and "tangible, or for civil law corporeal, property" for "corporeal property" in subpara. (ix), to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(x) any payment made to a person with whom the payer is dealing at arm's length, to the extent that the amount thereof is deductible in computing the income of the payer under Part I from a business carried on by the payer in a country other than Canada, or

(xi) a payment made to a person with whom the payer is dealing at arm's length for the use of or the right to use property that is

(A) an aircraft,

(B) furniture, fittings or equipment attached to an aircraft, or

(C) a spare part for property described in clause (A) or (B);

Proposed Addition — 212(1)(d)(xi)(D)

(D) air navigation equipment utilized in the provision of services under the Civil Air Navigation Services Commercialization Act or computer software the use of which is necessary for the operation of that equipment that is used by the payer for no other purpose;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(6), will add cl. 212(1)(d)(xi)(D), applicable to payments made after July 2003.

Technical Notes: Second, subparagraph 212(1)(d)(xi), which currently provides that Part XIII tax does not apply to payments made to an arm's length person for the use of property that is an aircraft, certain attachments thereto as well as to spare parts for such property, is amended, applicable after July 2003, to also apply to air navigation equipment utilized in the provision of services under the Civil Air Navigation Services Commercialization Act, and to computer software that is necessary to the operation of that equipment that is used by the payer for no other purpose.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 13, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

This letter responds to submissions received in respect of a financing transaction in which [xxx] proposes to enter into a lease leaseback arrangement with U.S. investors in respect of its [xxx].

In order to facilitate this financing structure you have asked that the exemption from non-resident withholding tax presently available for rent payments made in respect of [aircraft] and attached equipment be extended to [xxx]. You have submitted that such an exemption would be consistent with the current exemption for [aircraft] and is required to facilitate [xxx] participation in a financing structure that delivers U.S. tax benefits for investors outside of Canada.

Based on your assurance that the proposed lease financing transaction referred to in your submission meets all of the requirements of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code, I am prepared to recommend Parliament approve an amendment to the Income Tax Act to provide for an expansion of the list of equipment, presently eligible for exemption from non-resident withholding tax under section 212(1)(d) of the Income Tax Act, to include [xxx] utilized pursuant to the [xxx]. If Parliament approves this recommendation, it would have effect for the 2003 and subsequent taxation years.

Yours very truly,

John Manley, Minister of Finance

Proposed Addition — 212(1)(d)(xii)

(xii) an amount to which subsection (5) would apply if that subsection were read without reference to "to the extent that the amount relates to that use or reproduction";

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(7), will add subpara. 212(1)(d)(xii), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Third, new subparagraph 212(1)(d)(xii) clarifies that subsection 212(5), which is amended as described below, is the sole provision in Part XIII that applies the tax to payments for rights in or to use a film or video that is used or reproduced in Canada. This change applies for the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

(i) [Repealed under former Act]

Notes: Former 212(1)(i), repealed in 1976, dealt with Canada Pension Plan and Quebec Pension Plan benefits, which were subsequently exempted under 212(1)(h)(ii), and are now taxable effective 1996.

Proposed Addition — 212(1)(i)

(i) restrictive covenant [non-competition agreement] amount — an amount that would, if the non-resident person had been resident in Canada throughout the taxation year in which the amount was received or receivable, be required by paragraph 56(1)(m) or subsection 56.4(2) to be included in computing the non-resident person's income for the taxation year;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(8), will add para. 212(1)(i), applicable to amounts paid or credited after October 7, 2003.

Technical Notes: New paragraph 212(1)(i) includes, as amounts subject to the withholding tax, two amounts. First, the withholding tax applies to an amount in respect of a restrictive covenant to which new subsection 56.4(2) applies. Second, the withholding tax applies to an amount to which new paragraph 56(1)(m) applies (an amount received on a bad debt previously deducted).

Related Provisions: 212(13)(g) — Where non-resident makes payment in respect of restrictive covenant.

(j) benefits — any benefit described in any of subparagraphs 56(1)(a)(iii) to (vi), any amount described in paragraph 56(1)(x) or (z) (other than an amount transferred under circumstances in which subsection 207.6(7) applies) or the purchase price of an interest in a retirement compensation arrangement;

(j.1) retiring allowances — a payment of any allowance described in subparagraph 56(1)(a)(ii), except

(i) such portion, if any, of the payment as may reasonably be regarded as attributable to services rendered by the person, to or in respect of whom the payment is made, in taxation years

(A) during which the person at no time was resident in Canada, and

(B) throughout which the person was not employed, or was only occasionally employed, in Canada, and

(ii) the portion of the payment transferred by the payer on behalf of the non-resident person pursuant to an authorization in prescribed form to a registered pension plan or to a registered retirement savings plan under which the non-resident person is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) that would, if the non-resident person had been resident in Canada throughout the year, be deductible in computing the income of the non-resident person by virtue of paragraph 60(j.1);

(l) registered retirement savings plan payments — a payment out of or under a registered retirement savings plan or a plan referred to in subsection 146(12) as an "amended plan" that would, if the non-resident person had been resident in Canada throughout the taxation year in which the payment was made, be required by section 146 to be included in computing the income of the non-resident person for the year, other than the portion thereof that

(i) has been transferred by the payer on behalf of the non-resident person pursuant to an authorization in prescribed form

(A) to a registered retirement savings plan under which the non-resident person is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)),

(B) to acquire an annuity described in subparagraph 60(l)(ii) under which the non-resident person is the annuitant, or

(C) to a carrier (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)) as consideration for a registered retirement income fund under which the non-resident person is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)), and

(ii) would, if the non-resident person had been resident in Canada throughout the year, be deductible in computing the income of the non-resident person for the year by virtue of paragraph 60(l);

Proposed Amendment — 212(1)(p)

(p) former TFSA — an amount that would, if the non-resident person had been resident in Canada at the time at which the amount was paid, be required by paragraph 12(1)(z.5) to be included in computing the non-resident person's income for the taxation year that includes that time;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 73, will amend para. 212(1)(p) to read as above, applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Paragraph 212(1)(p) provides for non-resident withholding tax on payments out of a registered home ownership savings plan (RHOSP).

With the elimination of RHOSPs in 1986, paragraph 212(1)(p) is now obsolete and is repealed. In its place, new paragraph 212(1)(p) is introduced to provide for non-resident withholding tax on certain payments made out of a trust governed by a former tax-free savings account (TFSA) after the death of the holder of the TFSA. The withholding tax applies only to the portion of the payment that would have been included in computing the recipient's income because of paragraph 12(1)(z.5) if the recipient had been resident in Canada.

(q) registered retirement income fund payments — a payment out of or under a registered retirement income fund that would, if the non-resident person had been resident in Canada throughout the taxation year in which the payment was made, be required by section 146.3 to be included in computing the non-resident person's income for the year, other than the portion thereof that

(i) has been transferred by the payer on behalf of the non-resident person pursuant to an authorization in prescribed form

(A) to a registered retirement savings plan under which the non-resident person is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)),

(B) to acquire an annuity described in subparagraph 60(l)(ii) under which the non-resident person is the annuitant, or

(C) to a carrier (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)) as consideration for a registered retirement income fund under which the non-resident person is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)), and

(ii) would, if the non-resident person had been resident in Canada throughout the year, be deductible in computing the non-resident person's income for the year by reason of paragraph 60(l);

Proposed Addition — 212(2.1)

(2.1) Exempt dividends — Subsection (2) does not apply to an amount paid or credited, by a borrower, under a securities lending arrangement if

(a) the amount is deemed by subparagraph 260(8)(c)(i) to be a dividend;

(b) the securities lending arrangement was entered into by the borrower in the course of carrying on a business outside Canada; and

(c) the security that is transferred or lent to the borrower under the securities lending arrangement is a share of a class of the capital stock of a non-resident corporation.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(9), will add subsec. 212(2.1), applicable to securities lending arrangements entered into after May 1995, except that in its application to arrangements made before 2002, the reference to "subparagraph 260(8)(c)(i)" in para. 212(2.1)(a) is to be read as "subparagraph 260(8)(a)(i)".

Technical Notes: New subsection 212(2.1) is added to exempt from Part XIII tax certain dividend compensation payments made to a non-resident by a Canadian securities borrower under a securities lending arrangement if

- the payments were deemed to be dividends by subparagraph 260(8)(c)(i);
- the payments were made by the borrower in the course of carrying on its business outside of Canada; and
- the borrowed securities were issued by a non-resident issuer.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Feb. 18, 2002:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in reply to your email message of December 3, 2001 to Joseph Lam of this Division regarding the application of paragraph 260(8)(a) and Part XIII of the Income Tax Act (the "Act").

In your email, you describe a situation where a Canadian resident financial institution, in the course of carrying on its business outside Canada through foreign branches and, indirectly, through foreign subsidiaries, borrows or acquires shares issued by a non-Canadian issuer in a transaction with an arm's length non-resident and the Canadian financial institution makes a "dividend compensation payment" to the non-resident. You represent that the transaction satisfies the definition of "securities lending arrangement" in section 260 of the Act, and, as it is fully collateralized, the payment is deemed to be a dividend for the purposes of Part XIII by virtue of paragraph 260(8)(a).

We recognize that under certain circumstances there should be, in policy terms, no Canadian non-resident withholding tax on dividend compensation payments made by a foreign branch of a Canadian financial institution, in the course of carrying on its business outside Canada, to a non-resident. Consequently, we are prepared to recommend amendments to the Act to exempt from Canadian non-resident withholding tax payments that are deemed to be dividends by virtue of paragraph 260(8)(a), where the payments are made pursuant to a securities lending arrangement entered into in the course of carrying on a business outside Canada, the securities lent or sold are securities of a foreign issuer, and the securities lender is at arm's length with the Canadian securities borrower. In addition, we are prepared to recommend that the amendments apply to securities lending arrangements entered into after May 1995.

While we cannot provide assurance that the Minister will accept our recommendations, we intend to include measures along the line described above in the next package of income tax technical amendments.

We trust that the above satisfies your requirements.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(3) Interest — definitions — The following definitions apply for the purpose of paragraph (1)(b).

"fully exempt interest" means

(a) interest that is paid or payable on a bond, debenture, note, mortgage, hypothecary claim or similar debt obligation

(i) of, or guaranteed (otherwise than by being insured by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation) by, the Government of Canada,

(ii) of the government of a province,

(iii) of an agent of a province,

(iv) of a municipality in Canada or a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada,

(v) of a corporation, commission or association to which any of paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) applies, or

(vi) of an educational institution or a hospital if repayment of the principal amount of the obligation and payment of the interest is to be made, or is guaranteed, assured or otherwise specifically provided for or secured by the government of a province;

(b) interest that is paid or payable on a mortgage, hypothecary claim or similar debt obligation secured by, or on an agreement for sale or similar obligation with respect to, real property situated outside Canada or an interest in any such real property, or to immovables situated outside Canada or a real right in any such immovable, except to the extent that the interest payable on the obligation is deductible in computing the income of the payer under Part I from a business carried on by the payer in Canada or from property other than real or immovable property situated outside Canada;

(c) interest that is paid or payable to a prescribed international organization or agency; or

(d) an amount paid or payable or credited under a securities lending arrangement that is deemed by subparagraph 260(8)(a)(i) to be a payment made by a borrower to a lender of interest, if

Proposed Amendment — 212(3)"fully exempt interest"(d) opening words

Application: S.C. 2007, c. 35 (Bill C-28, Royal Assent December 14, 2007), subsec. 97(3), will amend the opening words of para. (d) of the definition "fully exempt interest" in subsec. 212(3) to substitute "260(8)(c)(i)" for "260(8)(a)(i)" once Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 194(8) (see Proposed Amendments to 260(7), (8)-(8.2)) enters into force, in force on December 14, 2007.

(i) the securities lending arrangement was entered into by the borrower in the course of carrying on a business outside Canada, and

(ii) the security that is transferred or lent to the borrower under the securities lending arrangement is described in paragraph (b) or (c) of the definition "qualified security" in subsection 260(1) and issued by a non-resident issuer.

Related Provisions: 204"qualified investment"(b) — Bonds, etc. qualify for deferred income plans; 260(8)(a)(iii) — Security deemed to be described in para. (a).

"participating debt interest" means interest (other than interest described in any of paragraphs (b) to (d) of the definition "fully exempt interest") that is paid or payable on an obligation, other than a prescribed obligation, all or any portion of which interest is contingent or dependent on the use of or production from property in Canada or is computed by reference to revenue, profit, cash flow, commodity price or any other similar criterion or by reference to dividends paid or payable to shareholders of any class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation.

Related Provisions: 204"qualified investment"(b) — Bonds, etc. qualify for deferred income plans.

History: Subsec. 212(3) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 59(3), applicable after 2007 and as though Bill C-10 (see proposed amendment below) had received Royal Assent before said c. 35. The subsec. formerly read:

(3) Replacement obligations — For the purpose of subparagraph (1)(b)(vii), an obligation (in this subsection referred to as the "replacement obligation") issued by a corporation resident in Canada wholly or in substantial part and either directly or indirectly in exchange or substitution for an obligation or a part of an obligation (in this subsection referred to as the "former obligation") shall, where

(a) the replacement obligation was issued

(i) as part of a proposal to, or an arrangement with, its creditors that was approved by a court under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act,

(ii) at a time when all or substantially all of its assets were under the control of a receiver, receiver-manager, sequestrator or trustee in bankruptcy, or

(iii) at a time when, because of financial difficulty, the issuing corporation or another corporation resident in Canada with which it does not deal at arm's length was in default, or could reasonably be expected to default, on the former obligation,

(b) the proceeds from the issue of the replacement obligation can reasonably be regarded as having been used by the issuing corporation or another corporation with which it does not deal at arm's length in the financing of its active business carried on in Canada immediately before the time when the replacement obligation was issued, and

Proposed Repeal — Former 212(3)(b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(10), will repeal former para. 212(3)(b), applicable to replacement obligations issued after 2000, but only until 212(3) was replaced effective Jan. 1, 2008 (per Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35, s. 97(1)).

Technical Notes: Among the exceptions to the imposition of tax under Part XIII of the Act on interest is one found in subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) for interest paid by a corporation resident in Canada on its medium- and long-term arm's length debt. Subsection 212(3), which applies for the purpose of subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii), allows a corporation in certain circumstances of financial difficulty to treat a debt obligation that replaces another as having been issued when that other obligation was issued. The circumstances in which this is possible are set out in paragraphs 212(3)(a) to (c). Paragraph 212(3)(b) requires that, for the subsection to apply, it must be possible to regard the proceeds of the replacement borrowing as being used in financing an active business that was carried on in Canada, by the issuing company or one with which it does not deal at arm's length, immediately before the replacement obligation was issued.

There is no clear basis in tax policy for this requirement. The condition in paragraph 212(3)(b) is repealed for replacement debt obligations that are issued after 2000.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 11, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to your fax of June 6, 2001, regarding paragraph 212(3)(b) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act"). [xxx]

Paragraph 212(1)(b) of the Act imposes withholding tax on interest paid or credited by a person resident of Canada to a non-resident, subject to a number of exceptions. Among these exceptions is the "long-term debt" rule in subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii): in very broad terms, interest on corporate debt with a term of 5 years or longer is exempt from tax.

In 1994, the Act was amended to facilitate refinancing in certain cases of financial difficulty. The principle behind the amendment was that in such cases, replacing a long-term debt obligation that benefited from subparagraph (vii) ought not to cause withholding tax to apply. The new rule is found in subsection 212(3) of the Act. Paragraph 212(3)(b) requires that, for the subsection to apply, it must be possible to regard the proceeds of the replacement borrowing as being used by the issuing corporation (or a corporation with which it does not deal at arm's length) in financing an active business carried on in Canada immediately before the replacement obligation was issued.

As I understand it, [xxx] happens not to carry out most of its operations in Canada. Instead, the company is present, through its subsidiaries, in a number of foreign countries. This may make it difficult for [xxx] to meet the paragraph 212(3)(b) requirement. You have therefore suggested that the requirement be modified or eliminated.

Having reviewed the matter in response to your suggestion, I agree that there is no clear basis in tax policy for the requirement, and it is my view that subsection 212(3) would serve its function equally well if the requirement were removed. We are therefore prepared to recommend that the Act be amended to delete paragraph 212(3)(b), with application to replacement obligations issued after June 10, 2001.

I can, as you know, offer no assurance that the Minister of Finance or Parliament itself will accept this recommendation. However, I have no reason to believe that this modest change will prove controversial, and I expect that we will be able to include it in a package of draft technical amendments to be released later this year.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein
Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(c) all interest on the former obligation was (or would be, if the person to whom that interest was paid or credited were non-resident) exempt from tax under this Part because of subparagraph (1)(b)(vii), be deemed to have been issued when the former obligation was issued.

Subsec. 212(3) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 97(4), applicable to replacement obligations issued after June 1993.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-361R3: Exemption from Part XIII tax on interest payments to non-residents.

(4) Interpretation of "management or administration fee or charge" — For the purpose of paragraph (1)(a), "management or administration fee or charge" does not include any amount paid or credited or deemed by Part I to have been paid or credited to a non-resident person as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of,

(a) a service performed by the non-resident person if, at the time the non-resident person performed the service

(i) the service was performed in the ordinary course of a business carried on by the non-resident person that included the performance of such a service for a fee, and

(ii) the non-resident person and the payer were dealing with each other at arm's length, or

(b) a specific expense incurred by the non-resident person for the performance of a service that was for the benefit of the payer, to the extent that the amount so paid or credited was reasonable in the circumstances.

Selected Cases [subsec. 212(4)]: Peter Cundill & Associates Ltd. v. Canada, [1991] 2 C.T.C. 221 (FCA) (Fees paid by Canadian corporation to Bermuda subsidiary taxable, not at arm's length since both corporations controlled by same "mind"); Windsor Plastic Products Ltd. v. R., [1986] 1 C.T.C. 331 (FCTD) (Withholding tax payable where management company not dealing at arm's length).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-468R: Management or administration fees paid to non-residents. See also at end of s. 212.

(5) Motion picture films — Every non-resident person shall pay an income tax of 25% on every amount that a person resident in Canada pays or credits, or is deemed by Part I to pay or credit, to the non-resident person as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, payment for a right in or to the use of

(a) a motion picture film, or

(b) a film, video tape or other means of reproduction for use in connection with television (other than solely in connection with and as part of a news program produced in Canada), that has been or is to be used or reproduced in Canada.

Proposed Amendment — 212(5) closing words that has been, or is to be, used or reproduced in Canada to the extent that the amount relates to that use or reproduction.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(12), will amend the closing words of subsec. 212(5) to read as above, applicable to 2000 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 212(5) applies tax under Part XIII to, in general terms, any amount that a person resident in Canada pays to a non-resident person for a right in or to the use of a motion picture film or video product that has been or is to be used or reproduced in Canada (otherwise than for a news program). As presently worded, the subsection can be read as applying even if the payment in question is not for that Canadian use or reproduction, but relates instead to employment of the film or video in some other country. Accordingly, subsection 212(5) is amended to impose tax only to the extent that the amount of the payment relates to the use or reproduction of the product in Canada. This amendment applies to the 2000 and subsequent taxation years.

(5.2) Relief from double taxation — Where a corporation is liable to tax under subsection (5.1) in respect of an amount for acting services of an actor (in this subsection referred to as the "corporation payment") and the corporation pays, credits or provides as a benefit to the actor an amount for those acting services (in this subsection referred to as the "actor payment"), no tax is payable under subsection (5.1) with respect to the actor payment except to the extent that it exceeds the corporation payment.

(5.3) Reduction of withholding — If the Minister is satisfied that the deduction or withholding otherwise required by section 215 from an amount described in subsection (5.1), would cause undue hardship, the Minister may determine a lesser amount to be deducted or withheld and that lesser amount is deemed to be the amount so required to be deducted or withheld.

(7) Where subsec. (6) does not apply — Subsection (6) does not apply to interest on any bond or other obligation described therein that was issued after December 20, 1960, except any such bond or other obligation for the issue of which arrangements were made on or before that day with a dealer in securities, if the existence of the arrangements for the issue of the bond or other obligation can be established by evidence in writing given or made on or before that day.

Related Provisions: 212(8) — Bonds issued in exchange for earlier bonds.

(8) Bonds issued after December 20, 1960 in exchange for earlier bonds — For the purposes of this Part, where any bond, except a bond to which clause (1)(b)(ii)(C) applies, was issued after December 20, 1960 in exchange for a bond issued on or before that day, it shall, if the terms on which the bond for which it was exchanged was issued conferred on the holder thereof the right to make the exchange, be deemed to have been issued on or before December 20, 1960.

(9) Exemptions — Where

(a) a dividend or interest is received by a trust from a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(b) an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "royalty payment") is received by a trust as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a royalty on or in respect of a copyright in respect of the production or reproduction of any literary, dramatic, musical or artistic work, or

(c) interest is received by a mutual fund trust maintained primarily for the benefit of non-resident persons

Proposed Addition — 212(9)(d)

(d) a dividend or interest is received by a trust created under a reinsurance trust agreement, to which the Superintendent of Financial Institutions is a party, established in accordance with guidelines issued by the Superintendent relating to reinsurance arrangements with unregistered insurers

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(13), will add para. 212(9)(d), applicable to amounts paid or credited after 2000 to non-resident persons.

Technical Notes: Subsection 212(9) provides an exemption from withholding tax under Part XIII of the Act with respect to certain amounts of a trust's income that are paid or credited to a non-resident beneficiary under the trust and that would otherwise be subject to withholding tax under paragraph 212(1)(c). The exemption currently applies only in respect of amounts that are attributable to income of the trust in the form of: dividends or interest received by the trust from a non-resident-owned investment corporation; certain artistic royalties; and interest, where the trust is a mutual fund maintained primarily for the benefit of non-resident persons.

If no Part XIII tax would have been payable with respect to the dividends, interest or royalties if they had been paid directly to the beneficiary, no Part XIII tax is payable with respect to a distribution from trust income to non-resident beneficiaries that derives from the dividends, interest or royalties.

Subsection 212(9) is amended to add a fourth type of trust income to this list of exemptions. In certain circumstances, Canada's Superintendent of Financial Institutions may require a non-resident reinsurer that reinsures Canadian risks to place assets in a trust in Canada. Such a "reinsurance trust" may earn dividend or interest income, which is payable to the non-resident. In recognition of the regulatory requirement for these trusts, subsection 212(9) is amended to provide that, if the dividends or interest would not have borne Canadian tax if the non-resident had earned them directly, they may be distributed to the non-resident free of Part XIII tax.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 8, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of February 28, 2001 concerning the application of non-resident withholding tax under paragraph 212(1)(c) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act") in the context of reinsurance trusts required to be used in certain circumstances under guidelines issued by the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions (OSFI).

The issue arises when a life insurance company (the "primary insurer") regulated by OSFI cedes insurance risks to a non-resident reinsurer that is not supervised by OSFI. OSFI's Guideline A dealing with minimum capital requirements does not give credit for such "unregistered reinsurance" that would reduce the primary insurer's capital requirements unless, pursuant to Guideline B-3 on Unregistered Reinsurance, the reinsurer's potential liability under the reinsurance arrangement is secured in an approved manner. This security is effectively a substitute for minimum capital requirements for the reinsurer imposed by either OSFI or a provincial government.

The primary method of providing such security is for the reinsurer to enter into a reinsurance trust arrangement, supervised by OSFI, in which assets are placed in a Canadian trust, to be available to meet the reinsurer's liability to the primary insurer under the reinsurance arrangement. Since the principal amount of the assets of the trust normally must be sufficient to meet the potential reinsurance liability, the reinsurance trust agreement generally provides that any income realized on the assets in the trust — usually government securities — is immediately payable to the reinsurer.

Where the reinsurer is non-resident, even if interest on the underlying assets would normally be free of withholding tax if held directly — as in the case of government bonds — interest income payable to the reinsurer will normally be subject to tax under paragraph 212(1)(c) as a distribution of trust income. Subsection 212(11) deems amounts paid or credited to a person beneficially interested in a trust to be paid as trust income regardless of their source. By way of exception, subsection 212(9) provides that in certain specified cases, no tax is payable under paragraph 212(1)(c) if the underlying payment received by the trust would not have been subject to withholding tax if it had been paid directly to the non-resident. None of the specified cases, however, covers the present situation.

Given the regulatory role performed by reinsurance trusts, we will recommend that subsection 212(9) of the Act be extended to interest received by a trust created under a reinsurance trust agreement to which OSFI is a party established in accordance with OSFI's guidelines relating to reinsurance arrangements with unregistered reinsurers. We will recommend that this amendment be effective for amounts paid or credited to a non-resident person after 2000 as income of or from such a trust.

While I cannot give any assurance that the Minister or Parliament will agree with our recommendation in this regard, I hope that this statement of our position is helpful to you.

If you have any further questions with respect to this issue, please contact Lawrence Purdy of the Tax Legislation Division at 996-0602.

(13) Rent and other payments — For the purposes of this section, where a non-resident person pays or credits an amount as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of,

(a) rent for the use in Canada of property (other than property that is rolling stock as defined in section 2 of the Railway Act),

(b) a timber royalty in respect of a timber resource property or a timber limit in Canada,

(c) a payment of a superannuation or pension benefit under a registered pension plan or of a distribution to one or more persons out of or under a retirement compensation arrangement,

(d) a payment of a retiring allowance or a death benefit to the extent that the payment is deductible in computing the payer's taxable income earned in Canada,

(e) a payment described in any of paragraphs (1)(k) to (n), (q) and (v), or

(f) interest on any mortgage, hypothecary claim or other indebtedness entered into or issued or modified after March 31, 1977 and secured by real property situated in Canada or an interest therein to the extent that the amount so paid or credited is deductible in computing the non-resident person's taxable income earned in Canada or the amount on which the non-resident person is liable to pay tax under Part I,

Proposed Amendment — 212(13)(f)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 268(3), will amend para. 212(13)(f) by substituting "interest therein, or by immovables situated in Canada or real rights therein," for "interest therein", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Proposed Addition — 212(13)(g)

(g) an amount to which paragraph (1)(i) applies if that amount affects, or is intended to affect, in any way whatever,

(i) the acquisition or provision of property or services in Canada,

(ii) the acquisition or provision of property or services outside Canada by a person resident in Canada, or

(iii) the acquisition or provision outside Canada of a taxable Canadian property,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 178(14), will add para. 212(13)(g), applicable to amounts paid or credited after October 7, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 212(13) imposes non-resident withholding tax on certain payments made by one non-resident to another non-resident. Subsection 212(13) is amended to add new paragraph (g), which imposes non-resident withholding tax on amounts paid or credited by a non-resident for a restrictive covenant to which new paragraph 212(1)(i) applies, if the amount affects, or is intended to affect, in any way whatever,

- the acquisition or provision of property or services in Canada,
- the acquisition or provision of property or services outside Canada by a person resident in Canada, or
- the acquisition or provision outside of Canada of a taxable Canadian property.

(13.2) Application of Part XIII tax where non-resident operates in Canada — For the purposes of this Part, where in a taxation year

(a) a non-resident person whose business was carried on principally in Canada, or

(b) a non-resident person who

(i) manufactures or processes goods in Canada,

(ii) operates an oil or gas well in Canada or extracts petroleum or natural gas from a natural accumulation thereof in Canada, or

(iii) extracts minerals from a mineral resource in Canada

pays or credits an amount (other than an amount to which subsection (13) applies) to another non-resident person, the first-mentioned non-resident person shall be deemed, in respect of the portion of that amount that was deductible in computing that person's taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year, to be a person resident in Canada.

Proposed Amendment — 212(13.2)

(13.2) Application of Part XIII tax — non-resident operates in Canada — For the purposes of this Part, a particular non-resident person, who in a taxation year pays or credits to another non-resident person an amount other than an amount to which subsection (13) applies, is deemed to be a person resident in Canada in respect of the portion of the amount that is deductible in computing the particular non-resident person's taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year from a source that is neither a treaty-protected business nor a treaty-protected property.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(15), will amend subsec. 212(13.2) to read as above, applicable to amounts paid or credited under obligations entered into after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 212(13.2) is one of several provisions that extend Part XIII tax to apply in particular circumstances — in this case, for the most part, the payment by a non-resident of royalties and similar amounts in respect of a Canadian income source. The principle that underlies subsection 212(13.2) is that if a non-resident has Canadian-source business or resource income, and can deduct in computing that income (strictly speaking, in computing "taxable income earned in Canada") a payment to another non-resident, that payment ought to be treated for purposes of Part XIII tax as though it had been made by a person resident in Canada. This is accomplished by treating the first non-resident — the one making the payment — as a person resident in Canada for those purposes. In its current form, subsection 212(13.2) applies only if the non-resident making the payment carries on business principally in Canada, manufactures or processes goods in Canada or carries out any of various resource activities here. On the other hand, the rule does not explicitly link that business or activity to the deductibility of the payment: it can be read as applying whether or not the payment is made in relation to the particular business or activity.

Accordingly, subsection 212(13.2) is amended to apply in respect of any portion of a payment (other than one to which the generally comparable rule in subsection 212(13) applies) made by one non-resident person to another that is deductible in computing the first non-resident's taxable income earned in Canada from any source. The only exceptions are payments that are deductible in respect of treaty-protected businesses or treaty-protected properties (as defined in subsection 248(1)).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 14, 2003:

KPMG LLP, Montréal, Québec

Dear Mr. [xxx]

I am writing in response to your letter of February 25, 2003, to Lawrence Purdy of this Division. In that letter, you identify a concern with the effective date that has been proposed, in the December 2002 draft technical amendments, for a change to subsection 212(13.2) of the Income Tax Act. The question you raise is an important one, and I appreciate your patience in awaiting this reply.

Subsection 212(13.2) treats certain non-resident persons as though they were resident in Canada, for purposes of the non-resident withholding tax applied by Part XIII of the Act. Specifically, the provision in its current form applies to a non-resident person who either carries on business principally in Canada, manufactures or processes goods here, or extracts Canadian mineral or oil and gas resources, and makes a payment to another non-resident that is deductible in computing the payer's taxable income earned in Canada. Where it applies, the subsection deems the payer to be resident in Canada in respect of the payment, with the result that Part XIII tax may be required to be withheld.

The draft technical amendments released on December 20, 2002 propose to extend this deeming rule to any non-resident who pays to another non-resident an amount that is deductible in computing the payer's taxable income earned in Canada from a source that is neither a treaty-protected business nor a treaty-protected property. As a practical matter, this would make subsection 212(13.2) potentially applicable to any non-resident who carries on business in Canada — provided, in the case of a resident of a country with which Canada has a tax treaty, that the business is carried on through a Canadian permanent establishment.

I gather from your letter that you do not question the policy basis for this amendment, but rather its entry into force. As proposed, the amendment would apply to amounts paid or credited after December 20, 2002. You suggest that this may impose an inappropriate burden on a non-resident who was already obliged to pay to another non-resident an amount — such as interest — that will now attract withholding tax. Had it known when it negotiated the debt that withholding tax could apply, the borrower (who may be required to spare the lender any Canadian tax effect) might have structured the borrowing to conform to the exception in subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii), or might have borrowed from a Canadian lender. The alternative of renegotiating the loan now could be costly and difficult for both parties.

I agree that applying this measure in respect of debt obligations that are already outstanding could unduly inconvenience some taxpayers, and that a less abrupt entry into force would not be objectionable in policy terms. We will therefore recommend that the version of the amendment that is submitted to Parliament apply the change to amounts paid under obligations entered into after December 20, 2002.

While I can, as you know, offer no assurance that the Minister of Finance of Parliament as a whole will accept our recommendation, I trust that our intentions in this regard respond to your concerns.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 30, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to your letter of August 27, 2003, to Lawrence Purdy of this Division. In that letter you refer to a comfort letter dated May 14, 2003 regarding the December 2002 proposed amendment to subsection 212(13.2) of the Income Tax Act. In our May 14 letter we stated that we would recommend that the version of the amendment that is submitted to Parliament apply the change to amounts paid under obligations entered into after December 20, 2002. The specific example we responded to concerned a debt obligation. You have asked us to confirm that the proposed grandfathering will apply to any obligation entered into on or before December 20, 2002, and not be restricted to debt obligations.

We confirm that we intend to recommend that the proposed grandfathering apply to any obligation entered into on or before December 20, 2002, and not be restricted to debt obligations. Therefore, as set out in your letter, royalties paid to a non-resident corporation pursuant to a trademark licence agreement entered into on or before December 20, 2002 are not intended to be subject to the proposed amendment.

While we can, as you know, offer no assurance that the Minister of Finance or Parliament as a whole will accept our recommendations, we trust that our intentions in this regard respond to your concerns.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(13.3) Application of Part XIII to authorized foreign bank — An authorized foreign bank is deemed to be resident in Canada for the purposes of

(a) this Part, in respect of any amount paid or credited to or by the bank in respect of its Canadian banking business; and

(b) the application in paragraph (13.1)(b) of the definition "Canadian partnership" in respect of a partnership interest held by the bank in the course of its Canadian banking business.

Proposed Amendment — 212(13.3) — Property held by authorized foreign bank

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 13, 2001:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to your letter of May 3, 2001 to James Greene, formerly of this Division, regarding the Income Tax Act's recently-enacted rules for the taxation of foreign bank branches. Although your letter raises several different questions, including matters of administration as well as of policy and legislative design, I understand from subsequent contacts with your colleague [xxx] that the most pressing issue for you and your clients at this time relates to non-resident withholding tax. I propose, therefore, in this reply to address only that point, reserving your other questions for further consideration.

On the issue of the obligation to withhold amounts on account of tax, you identify three areas of concern. The first is with respect to the payment by a resident of Canada to an authorized foreign bank of an amount, such as interest, that would ordinarily be subject to tax under Part XIII of the Act. Under new subsection 212(13.3) of the Act, the bank is deemed to be resident in Canada for this purpose — and the payer need not withhold tax — provided the interest is "in respect of (the bank's) Canadian banking business." You point out that it is not clear how the Canadian-resident payer will know whether this test is met, given that the payer can be expected to have only limited information about the bank's operations. You ask whether provisions comparable to Regulations 800 to 804 (which apply to non-resident insurers) might be contemplated, under which the bank itself, rather than those making payments to it, would be responsible for any tax arising under Part XIII.

A second, related point concerns the withholding obligations that may arise, under Part I of the Act and Regulation 105, in respect of payments made by a resident of Canada to an authorized foreign bank for services provided by the bank. Although there is no rule deeming the bank to be resident in Canada, many of the considerations that led to such a rule in the context of Part XIII tax are relevant here as well; the bank's business is carried on in Canada, and a person making a payment to the bank cannot always be presumed to know the details of the bank's situation.

Third, you ask whether we anticipate recommending that the withholding and clearance obligations under section 116 of the Act, which generally apply where a non-resident disposes of taxable Canadian property, not apply in respect of property held in an authorized foreign bank's Canadian banking business.

On each of these three points the current requirements, as they apply to the Canadian business of an authorized foreign bank, do seem in policy terms excessive. It is therefore our general intention to propose that the requirements be moderated. Although the details of any relieving proposals remain to be determined, the broad direction of our thinking is as follows. First, with respect to Part XIII taxation, it should be possible to provide that the payor's reasonable belief, or a presumption based on the payee's address, will suffice to relieve the payor from possible liability. A similar test could be applied for purposes of an exemption from the withholding requirements of Regulation 105 [see now Reg. 105(2)(b) — ed.]. Finally, the definition "excluded property" in section 116 could be expanded to cover property held by an authorized foreign bank in the course of carrying on its Canadian banking business: such a change could be made either in the statutory definition itself [this has been done: see 116(6)(f) — ed.] or in Regulation 810.

While our views on these points are subject to further refinement, and I can offer no assurance that the Minister will accept our recommendations, we expect that measures along the general lines I have described will be included in the next package of draft technical amendments. This is currently scheduled for release later this year. The changes would apply after June 27, 1999, to coincide with other aspects of the taxation rules for authorized foreign banks.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(i) 10 times the greatest amount determined, under the laws of the province or provinces in which the taxpayer is a registered securities dealer, to be the capital employed by the taxpayer at the end of the day, and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 179(16), will amend subpara. (b)(i) of the description of B in former subsec. 212(19) to read as above, applicable to securities lending arrangements entered into after May 28, 1993, but only until 212(19) was replaced effective Jan. 1, 2008 (per Bill C-28, S.C. 2007, c. 35, s. 97(1)).

Technical Notes: Subsection 212(19) imposes a tax on Canadian-resident registered securities dealers that enter into certain securities lending arrangements described in subparagraph 212(1)(b)(xii). The tax is calculated, by formula, based in Part on the capital or the margin requirement of the relevant provincial laws governing the registration or license of securities dealers.

An earlier amendment to subsection 212(19) removed a reference to the provincial laws under which the taxpayer is registered or licensed. The subsection is further amended, as a consequence of that earlier change, to replace the words "those laws" in subparagraph (b)(i) of the description of B in the formula (which no longer have any clear antecedent), with a specific reference to the provincial legislation that govern the registration or license of securities dealers.

(ii) 20 times the greatest amount of capital required under those laws to be maintained by the taxpayer as a margin in respect of securities described in clause (1)(b)(xii)(A) at the end of the day, and

C is the prescribed rate of interest in effect for the day, and shall remit that amount to the Receiver General on or before the 15th day of the month after the month in which the day occurs.

The portion of subsec. 212(19) before the formula amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 73(3), applicable to securities lending arrangements entered into after May 28, 1993. That portion formerly read:

(19) Tax on securities traders — Every taxpayer resident in Canada who is registered or licensed under the laws of one or more provinces to trade in securities shall pay a tax under this Part equal to the amount determined by the formula

Subsec. 212(19) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 97(6), applicable to securities lending arrangements entered into after May 28, 1993.

(20) Designated SLA — For the purpose of subsection (19), a designated securities lending arrangement is a securities lending arrangement

(a) under which

(i) the lender is a prescribed financial institution or a registered securities dealer resident in Canada,

(ii) the particular security lent or transferred is an obligation described in paragraph (a) of the definition "fully exempt interest" in subsection (3) or an obligation of the government of any country, province, state, municipality or other political subdivision,

(iii) the amount of money provided to the lender at any time during the term of the arrangement either as collateral or as consideration for the particular security does not exceed 110% of the fair market value at that time of the particular security; and

(b) that was neither intended, nor made as a part of a series of securities lending arrangements, loans or other transactions that was intended, to be in effect for more than 270 days.

212.1 (1) Non-arm's length sales of shares by non-residents — If a non-resident person, a designated partnership or a non-resident-owned investment corporation (in this section referred to as the "non-resident person") disposes of shares (in this section referred to as the "subject shares") of any class of the capital stock of a corporation resident in Canada (in this section referred to as the "subject corporation") to another corporation resident in Canada (in this section referred to as the "purchaser corporation") with which the non-resident person does not (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) deal at arm's length and, immediately after the disposition, the subject corporation is connected (within the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 186(4) if the references in that subsection to "payer corporation" and "particular corporation" were read as "subject corporation" and "purchaser corporation", respectively) with the purchaser corporation,

(a) the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of any consideration (other than any share of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation) received by the non-resident person from the purchaser corporation for the subject shares exceeds the paid-up capital in respect of the subject shares immediately before the disposition shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be a dividend paid at the time of the disposition by the purchaser corporation to the non-resident person and received at that time by the non-resident person from the purchaser corporation; and

(b) in computing the paid-up capital at any particular time after March 31, 1977 of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation, there shall be deducted that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the increase, if any, by virtue of the disposition, in the paid-up capital, computed without reference to this section as it applies to the disposition, in respect of all of the shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation exceeds the amount, if any, by which

(i) the paid-up capital in respect of the subject shares immediately before the disposition

exceeds

(ii) the fair market value of the consideration described in paragraph (a),

that the increase, if any, by virtue of the disposition, in the paid-up capital, computed without reference to this section as it applies to the disposition, in respect of the particular class of shares is of the increase, if any, by virtue of the disposition, in the paid-up capital, computed without reference to this section as it applies to the disposition, in respect of all of the issued shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation.

(2) Idem — In computing the paid-up capital at any particular time after March 31, 1977 of any particular class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, there shall be added an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of the particular class paid after March 31, 1977 and before the particular time by the corporation and received by a non-resident-owned investment corporation or by a person who is not a corporation resident in Canada

(ii) the total that would be determined under subparagraph (i) if this Act were read without reference to paragraph (1)(b), and

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount required by paragraph (1)(b) to be deducted in computing the paid-up capital in respect of the particular class of shares after March 31, 1977 and before the particular time.

(3) Idem — For the purposes of this section,

(a) in respect of any disposition described in subsection (1) by a non-resident person of shares of the capital stock of a subject corporation to a purchaser corporation, the non-resident person shall, for greater certainty, be deemed not to deal at arm's length with the purchaser corporation if the non-resident person was,

(i) immediately before the disposition, one of a group of less than 6 persons that controlled the subject corporation, and

(ii) immediately after the disposition, one of a group of less than 6 persons that controlled the purchaser corporation, each member of which was a member of the group referred to in subparagraph (i);

(b) for the purposes of determining whether or not a particular non-resident person (in this paragraph referred to as the "taxpayer") referred to in paragraph (a) was a member of a group of less than 6 persons that controlled a corporation at any time, any shares of the capital stock of that corporation owned at that time by

(i) the taxpayer's child (within the meaning assigned by subsection 70(10)), who is under 18 years of age, or the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner,

(ii) a trust of which the taxpayer, a person described in subparagraph (i) or a corporation described in subparagraph (iii) is a beneficiary,

(iii) a corporation controlled by the taxpayer, a person described in subparagraph (i), a trust described in subparagraph (ii) or any combination thereof, or

(iv) a partnership of which the taxpayer or a person described in one of paragraphs (i) to (iii) is a majority interest partner or a member of a majority interest group of partners (as defined in subsection 251.1(3)) shall be deemed to be owned at that time by the taxpayer and not by the person who actually owned the shares at that time;

(c) a trust and a beneficiary of the trust or a person related to a beneficiary of the trust shall be deemed not to deal with each other at arm's length;

(d) for the purpose of paragraph (a),

(i) a group of persons in respect of a corporation means any 2 or more persons each of whom owns shares of the capital stock of the corporation,

(ii) a corporation that is controlled by one or more members of a particular group of persons in respect of that corporation shall be considered to be controlled by that group of persons, and

(iii) a corporation may be controlled by a person or a particular group of persons notwithstanding that the corporation is also controlled or deemed to be controlled by another person or group of persons;

(e) a "designated partnership" means a partnership of which either a majority interest partner or every member of a majority interest group of partners (as defined in subsection 251.1(3)) is a non-resident person or a non-resident-owned investment corporation; and

(f) in this subsection, a person includes a partnership.

212.2 (1) Application [demutualization surplus stripping] — This section applies where

(a) a taxpayer disposes at a particular time of a share of the capital stock of a corporation resident in Canada (or any property more than 10% of the fair market value of which can be attributed to shares of the capital stock of corporations resident in Canada) to

(i) a person resident in Canada,

(ii) a partnership in which any person resident in Canada has, directly or indirectly, an interest, or

(iii) a person or partnership that acquires the share or the property in the course of carrying on a business through a permanent establishment in Canada, as defined in the Income Tax Regulations;

(b) subsection 212.1(1) does not apply to the disposition;

(c) the taxpayer is non-resident at the particular time;

(d) it is reasonable to conclude that the disposition is part of an expected series of transactions or events that includes the issue after December 15, 1998 of a particular share of the capital stock of a particular insurance corporation resident in Canada on the demutualization (within the meaning assigned by subsection 139.1(1)) of the particular corporation and

(i) after the particular time, the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of the particular share, or a share substituted for the particular share, by the particular corporation or the issuer of the substituted share, as the case may be,

(ii) after the particular time, an increase in the level of dividends declared or paid on the particular share or a share substituted for the particular share, or

(iii) the acquisition, at or after the particular time, of the particular share or a share substituted for the particular share by

(A) a person not dealing at arm's length with the particular corporation or with the issuer of the substituted share, as the case may be, or

(B) a partnership any direct or indirect interest in which is held by a person not dealing at arm's length with the particular corporation or with the issuer of the substituted share, as the case may be; and

(e) at the particular time, the person described in subparagraph (a)(i) or (iii) or any person who has, directly or indirectly, an interest in the partnership described in subparagraph (a)(ii) or (iii) knew, or ought reasonably to have known, of the expected series of transactions or events described in paragraph (d).

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions.

Regulations: No regulation defining "permanent establishment" as yet (though Reg. 8201 would be the logical choice).

(2) Deemed dividend — For the purposes of this Part, where property is disposed of at any time by a taxpayer to a person or partnership in circumstances in which this section applies,

(a) a taxable dividend is deemed to be paid at that time by the person or partnership to the taxpayer and received at the time by the taxpayer;

(b) the amount of the dividend is deemed to be equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A - ((A/B) \times C)$$

where

A is the portion of the proceeds of disposition of the property that can reasonably be attributed to the fair market value of shares of a class of the capital stock of a corporation resident in Canada,

B is the fair market value immediately before that time of shares of that class, and

C is the paid-up capital immediately before that time of that class of shares; and

(c) in respect of the dividend, the person or partnership is deemed to be a corporation resident in Canada.

Related Provisions [subsec. 212.2(2)]: 54"proceeds of disposition"(k) — Exclusion of deemed dividend from proceeds.

213. (1) Tax non-payable by non-resident person — Tax is not payable by a non-resident person under subsection 212(2) on a dividend in respect of a share of the capital stock of a foreign business corporation if not less than 90% of the total of the amounts received or receivable by it that are required to be included in computing its income for the taxation year in which the dividend was paid was received or receivable in respect of the operation by it of public utilities or from mining, transporting and processing of ore in a country in which

(a) if the non-resident person is an individual, the non-resident person resides; or

(b) if the non-resident person is a corporation, individuals who own more than 50% of its share capital (having full voting rights under all circumstances) reside.

Forms: T4061: Non-resident withholding tax guide.

(2) Idem — For the purposes of this section, if 90% of the total of the amounts received or receivable by a corporation that are required to be included in computing its income for a taxation year was received or receivable in respect of the operation by it of public utilities or from the mining, transporting and processing of ore, an amount received or receivable in that year from that corporation by another corporation shall, if it is required to be included in computing the receiving corporation's income for the year, be deemed to have been received by the receiving corporation in respect of the operation by it of public utilities or from the mining, transporting and processing of ore by it in the country in which the public utilities were operated or the mining, transporting and processing of ore was carried out by the payer corporation.

(3) Corporation deemed to be foreign business corporation — For the purposes of this section, a corporation shall be deemed to be a foreign business corporation at a particular time if it would have been a foreign business corporation within the meaning of section 71 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952 (as that section read in its application to the 1971 taxation year), for the taxation year of the corporation in which the particular time occurred, if that section had been applicable to that taxation year.

(2) Income and capital combined — Where paragraph 16(1)(b) would, if Part I were applicable, result in a part of an amount being included in computing the income of a non-resident person, that part of the amount shall, for the purposes of this Part, be deemed to have been paid or credited to the non-resident person in respect of property, services or otherwise, depending on the nature of that part of the amount.

Related Provisions: 214(12) — Application.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-88R2: Stock dividends; IT-265R3: Payments of income and capital combined (archived).

(3) Deemed payments — For the purposes of this Part,

(a) where section 15 or subsection 56(2) would, if Part I were applicable, require an amount to be included in computing a taxpayer's income, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid to the taxpayer as a dividend from a corporation resident in Canada;

(b) where paragraph 56(1)(f) would, if Part I were applicable, require an amount to be included in computing an individual's income, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid to the individual under an income-averaging annuity contract;

(b.1) where paragraph 56(1)(y) would, if Part I were applicable, require an amount to be included in computing a taxpayer's income, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid to the taxpayer to acquire an interest in a retirement compensation arrangement;

(c) where, because of subsection 146(8.1), (8.8), (8.91), (9), (10) or (12), an amount would, if Part I applied, be required to be included in computing a taxpayer's income, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid to the taxpayer as a payment under a registered retirement savings plan or an amended plan (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(12)), as the case may be;

(d) where, by virtue of subsection 147(10), (13) or (15), an amount would, if Part I were applicable, be required to be included in computing a taxpayer's income, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid to the taxpayer as a payment under a deferred profit sharing plan or a plan referred to in subsection 147(15) as a "revoked plan", as the case may be;

(e) where subsection 130.1(2) would, if Part I were applicable, deem an amount received by a shareholder of a mortgage investment corporation to have been received by the shareholder as interest, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid to the shareholder as interest on a bond issued after 1971;

(f) where subsection 104(13) would, if Part I were applicable, require any part of an amount payable by a trust in its taxation year to a beneficiary to be included in computing the income of the non-resident person who is a beneficiary of the trust, that part shall be deemed to be an amount paid or credited to that person as income of or from the trust on the earlier of

(i) the day on which the amount was paid or credited, and

(ii) the day that is 90 days after the end of the taxation year and not at any subsequent time when the amount was actually paid or credited;

(f.1) where paragraph 132.1(1)(d) would, if Part I were applicable, require an amount to be included in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year by reason of a designation by a mutual fund trust under subsection 132.1(1), that amount shall be deemed to be an amount paid or credited to that person as income of or from the trust on the day of the designation;

(g) where an individual who is a beneficiary under a fund, plan or trust that was a registered home ownership savings plan (within the meanings assigned by subparagraphs 146.2(1)(a) and (h) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as they read in their application to the 1985 taxation year) on December 31, 1985 dies, an amount equal to the fair market value of the property in the fund, plan or trust at the time of death shall be deemed, for the purposes of section 212, to have been paid to the individual at the time of death as a payment out of or under a fund, plan or trust that was at the end of 1985 a registered home ownership savings plan;

Proposed Repeal — 214(3)(g)

Email from Alexandra.MacLean@fin.gc.ca to ds@davidsherman.ca, Feb. 9, 2009: Thank you for your observations regarding paragraph 214(3)(g). We will put it on the list to be repealed.

[This was a response to David Sherman's email to Finance stating, "With the change of 212(1)(p) from RHOSPs to TFSAs, 214(3)(g) should be repealed." — ed.]

(h) [Repealed under former Act]

(i) where, because of subsection 146.3(4), (6), (6.1), (7) or (11), an amount would, if Part I applied, be required to be included in computing a taxpayer's income, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid to the taxpayer as a payment under a registered retirement income fund;

(j) [Repealed]

(k) where, because of subsection 143.1(2), an amount distributed at any time by an amateur athlete trust would, if Part I were applicable, be required to be included in computing an individual's income, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid at that time to the individual as a payment in respect of an amateur athlete trust; and

(l) where, because of subsection 12(10.2), an amount would at any particular time, if Part I were applicable, be required to be included in computing a taxpayer's income, that amount shall be deemed to have been paid by Her Majesty in right of Canada at that time to the taxpayer out of the taxpayer's NISA Fund No. 2.

(7) Sale of obligation — Where

(a) a non-resident person has at any time assigned or otherwise transferred to a person resident in Canada a bond, debenture, bill, note, mortgage, hypothecary claim or similar obligation issued by a person resident in Canada,

(b) the obligation was not an excluded obligation, and

(c) the assignment or other transfer is not an assignment or other transfer referred to in paragraph (7.1)(b),

the amount, if any, by which

(d) the price for which the obligation was assigned or otherwise transferred at that time,

exceeds

(e) the price for which the obligation was issued,

shall, for the purposes of this Part, be deemed to be a payment of interest on that obligation made by the person resident in Canada to the non-resident person at that time.

(7.1) Idem — Where

(a) a person resident in Canada has at a particular time assigned or otherwise transferred an obligation to a non-resident person,

(b) the non-resident person has at a subsequent time assigned or otherwise transferred the obligation back to the person resident in Canada, and

(c) subsection (6) or (7) would apply with respect to the assignment or other transfer referred to in paragraph (b), if those subsections were read without reference to paragraphs (6)(c) and (7)(c),

the amount, if any, by which

(d) the price for which the obligation was assigned or otherwise transferred at the subsequent time,

exceeds

(e) the price for which the obligation was assigned or otherwise transferred at the particular time, shall, for the purposes of this Part, be deemed to be a payment of interest on that obligation made by the person resident in Canada to the non-resident person at the subsequent time.

(8) Meaning of "excluded obligation" — For the purposes of subsection (7), "excluded obligation" means any bond, debenture, bill, note, mortgage, hypothecary claim or similar obligation

(a) that is described in paragraph (a) of the definition "fully exempt interest" in subsection 212(3), or on which the interest would have been exempt under subparagraph 212(1)(b)(iii) or (vii) as they applied to the 2007 taxation year;

(b) that is prescribed to be a public issue security; or

(c) that is not an indexed debt obligation and that was issued for an amount not less than 97% of the principal amount thereof, and the yield from which, expressed in terms of an annual rate on the amount for which the obligation was issued (which annual rate shall, if the terms of the obligation or any agreement relating thereto conferred on the holder thereof a right to demand payment of the principal amount of the obligation or the amount outstanding as or on account of the principal amount thereof, as the case may be, before the maturity of the obligation, be calculated on the basis of the yield that produces the highest annual rate obtainable either on the maturity of the obligation or conditional on the exercise of any such right) does not exceed ⅔ of the interest stipulated to be payable on the obligation, expressed in terms of an annual rate on

(i) the principal amount thereof, if no amount is payable on account of the principal amount before the maturity of the obligation, and

(ii) the amount outstanding from time to time as or on account of the principal amount thereof, in any other case.

History: Para. 214(8)(a) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 60(1), applicable after 2007. The para. formerly read:

(a) the interest on which is exempt from tax under this Part because of subparagraph 212(1)(b)(ii), (iii) or (vii);

The opening words of subsec. 214(8) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 227(3), to add ", hypothecary claim", in force June 14, 2001.

That portion of para. 214(8)(c) preceding subpara. (i) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 125(2), to add "that is not an indexed debt obligation and", applicable to indexed debt obligations issued after October 16, 1991.

Subsec. 214(8) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 176(2), applicable to obligations assigned or otherwise transferred after July 13, 1990. Subsec. 214(8) formerly read:

(8) Definition of "excluded obligation" — In subsection (7),"excluded obligation" means any bond, debenture, bill, note, mortgage or similar obligation,

(a) referred to in subparagraph 212(1)(b)(ii) or (iii),

(b) if, under the terms of the obligation or any agreement relating thereto, the issuer thereof is not obliged to pay more than 25% of the principal amount thereof within 5 years of the date of its issue except in the event of a failure or default under the said terms or agreement,

(c) that is prescribed to be a public issue security, or

(d) that was issued for an amount not less than 97% of the principal amount thereof, and the yield from which, expressed in terms of an annual rate on the amount for which the obligation was issued (which annual rate shall, if the terms of the obligation or any agreement relating thereto conferred on the holder thereof a right to demand payment of the principal amount of the obligation or the amount outstanding as or on account of the principal amount thereof, as the case may be, before the maturity of the obligation, be calculated on the basis of the yield that produces the highest annual rate obtainable either on the maturity of the obligation or conditional on the exercise of any such right) does not exceed ⅔ of the interest stipulated to be payable on the obligation, expressed in terms of an annual rate on

(i) the principal amount of the obligation, if no amount is payable on account of the principal amount before the maturity of the obligation, or

(ii) the amount outstanding from time to time as or on account of the principal amount of the obligation, in any other case.

Regulations: No prescribed public issue security yet under 214(8)(b).

(9) Deemed resident — Where

(a) the assignment or other transfer of an obligation to a non-resident person carrying on business in Canada would be described in subsection (6) or (7) if those subsections were read without reference to paragraphs (6)(c) and (7)(c) and if that non-resident person were a person resident in Canada, and

(b) that non-resident person

(i) may deduct, under subsection 20(14), in computing the non-resident person's taxable income earned in Canada for a taxation year an amount in respect of interest on the obligation, or

(ii) may deduct, under Part I, in computing the non-resident person's taxable income earned in Canada for a taxation year an amount in respect of any amount paid on account of the principal amount of the obligation, the non-resident person shall, with respect to the assignment or other transfer of the obligation, be deemed, for the purposes of this Part, to be a person resident in Canada.

Related Provisions: 214(14) — Assignment of obligation.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-88R2: Stock dividends; IT-109R2: Unpaid amounts; IT-410R: Debt obligations — accrued interest on transfer (archived).

(10) Reduction of tax — Where a non-resident person has assigned or otherwise transferred to a person resident in Canada an obligation

(a) on which an amount of interest was deemed by subsection (6) or (7) to have been paid, and

(b) that the non-resident person had previously acquired from a person resident in Canada, the amount of the tax under this Part that the non-resident person is liable to pay in respect thereof shall be deemed, for the purpose of subsection 227(6), to be that proportion of the tax the non-resident person would otherwise have been liable to pay in respect thereof that

(c) the number of days in the period commencing with the day the obligation was last acquired by the non-resident person from a person resident in Canada and ending with the day the obligation was last assigned or otherwise transferred by the non-resident person to a person resident in Canada

(d) the number of days in the period commencing with the day the obligation was issued and ending with the day the obligation was last assigned or otherwise transferred by the non-resident person to a person resident in Canada.

(11) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 214(11) repealed by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 60(2), applicable after 2007. It formerly read:

(11) Application of para. 212(1)(b) — In respect of any payment of interest deemed by subsection (6), (7) or (7.1) to have been made by a non-resident-owned investment corporation on the assignment or other transfer of an obligation, paragraph 212(1)(b) shall be read and construed without reference to subparagraph 212(1)(b)(i).

(12) Where subsec. (2) does not apply — Subsection (2) does not apply in respect of a payment to a non-resident person under any obligation in respect of which that person is liable to pay tax under this Part by reason of subsection (7) or (7.1).

(13) Regulations respecting residents — The Governor in Council may make general or special regulations, for the purposes of this Part, prescribing

(a) who is or has been at any time resident in Canada;

(b) where a person was resident in Canada as well as in some other place, what amounts are taxable under this Part; and

(c) where a non-resident person carried on business in Canada, what amounts are taxable under this Part or what portion of the tax under this Part is payable by that person.

Regulations: 802 (amounts taxable).

(14) Assignment of obligation — For the purposes of this section, any transaction or event by which an obligation held by a non-resident person is redeemed in whole or in part or is cancelled shall be deemed to be an assignment of the obligation by the non-resident person.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-88R2: Stock dividends: IT-109R2: Unpaid amounts; IT-360R2: Interest payable in a foreign currency.

(15) Standby charges and guarantee fees — For the purposes of this Part,

(a) where a non-resident person has entered into an agreement under the terms of which the non-resident person agrees to guarantee the repayment, in whole or in part, of the principal amount of a bond, debenture, bill, note, mortgage, hypothecary claim or similar obligation of a person resident in Canada, any amount paid or credited as consideration for the guarantee is deemed to be a payment of interest on that obligation; and

(b) where a non-resident person has entered into an agreement under the terms of which the non-resident person agrees to lend money, or to make money available, to a person resident in Canada, any amount paid or credited as consideration for so agreeing to lend money or to make money available shall, if the non-resident person would be liable to tax under this Part in respect of interest payable on any obligation issued under the terms of the agreement on the date it was entered into, be deemed to be a payment of interest.

Related Provisions: Canada-U.S. Tax Treaty:Art. XXII:4 — No withholding tax on guarantee fee.

(1) Withholding and remittance of tax — When a person pays, credits or provides, or is deemed to have paid, credited or provided, an amount on which an income tax is payable under this Part, or would be so payable if this Part were read without reference to subsection 216.1(1), the person shall, notwithstanding any agreement or law to the contrary, deduct or withhold from it the amount of the tax and forthwith remit that amount to the Receiver General on behalf of the non-resident person on account of the tax and shall submit with the remittance a statement in prescribed form.

Proposed Amendment — 215(1)

215. (1) Withholding and remittance of tax — When a person pays, credits or provides, or is deemed to have paid, credited or provided, an amount on which an income tax is payable under this Part, or would be so payable if this Act were read without reference to subparagraph 94(3)(a)(viii) and to subsection 216.1(1), the person shall, notwithstanding any agreement or law to the contrary, deduct or withhold from it the amount of the tax and forthwith remit that amount to the Receiver General on behalf of the non-resident person on account of the tax and shall submit with the remittance a statement in prescribed form.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 38, will amend subsec. 215(1) to read as above, applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2006, and to trust taxation years that begin

(a) after 2000, if the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) after 2001, if the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) after 2002, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) after 2003, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) after 2004, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) after 2005, if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (f) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Subsection 215(1) provides that, where a resident of Canada pays or is deemed to pay an amount to a non-resident person in respect of which the non-resident person is liable for withholding tax under Part XIII, the payer is required to withhold the tax from the amount and remit it to the Receiver General on behalf of the non-resident.

Subsection 215(1) is amended to ensure that, where an amount is paid or credited (or deemed to be paid or credited) to a trust that is deemed, by paragraph 94(3)(a), to be resident in Canada for the purpose of determining the trust's liability for tax under Part XIII, the payer is required to withhold the tax that would otherwise be payable by the trust and to remit it to the Receiver General.

For more detail on the application of Part XIII to trusts deemed, under paragraph 94(3)(a), to be resident in Canada, and to payers of amounts to such trusts, see the commentary on subsection 94(3) and (4) and subsections 216(4.1).

This amendment applies to trust taxation years that begin after 2006. It also applies to trust taxation years that begin

- after 2000 if the trust makes a valid election under the coming-into-force provision of new section 94,
- after 2001 if the trust makes a valid election under the coming-into-force provision of new section 94,
- after 2002 if the trust makes a valid election under the coming-into-force provision of new section 94,
- after 2003 if the trust makes a valid election under the coming-into-force provision of new section 94,
- after 2004 if the trust makes a valid election under the coming-into-force provision of new section 94, and
- after 2005 if the trust makes a valid election under the coming-into-force provision of new section 94.

(1) Alternatives re rents and timber royalties — Where an amount has been paid during a taxation year to a non-resident person or to a partnership of which that person was a member as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, rent on real property in Canada or a timber royalty, that person may, within 2 years (or, where that person has filed an undertaking described in subsection (4) in respect of the year, within 6 months) after the end of the year, file a return of income under Part I in the form prescribed for a person resident in Canada for that year and the non-resident person shall, without affecting the liability of the non-resident person for tax otherwise payable under Part I, thereupon be liable, in lieu of paying tax under this Part on that amount, to pay tax under Part I for the year as though

Proposed Amendment — 216(1) opening words

216. (1) Alternatives re rents and timber royalties — If an amount has been paid during a taxation year to a non-resident person or to a partnership of which that person was a member as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, rent on real or immovable property in Canada or a timber royalty, that person may, within two years (or, if that person has filed an undertaking described in subsection (4) in respect of the year, within six months) after the end of the year, file a return of income under Part I for that year in prescribed form. On so filing and without affecting the liability of the non-resident person for tax otherwise payable under Part I, the non-resident person is, in lieu of paying tax under this Part on that amount, liable to pay tax under Part I for the year as though

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 181(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 216(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Section 216 allows a non-resident person to file a return of income under Part I in respect of rent on real property in Canada or timber royalties and to pay, instead of the non-resident withholding tax under Part XIII, tax under Part I on the basis of the non-resident's income from the rent or royalties.

Subsection 216(1), which provides the basic rule permitting a non-resident to be taxed under Part I of the Act on this income, is amended to improve its structure and language. Most of the changes are stylistic; the amendment also updates the subsection's reference to the form of the non-resident's Part I tax return, to reflect the implementation of a special return for these non-residents.

(a) the non-resident person were a person resident in Canada and not exempt from tax under section 149;

(b) the non-resident person's income from the non-resident person's interest in real property in Canada, timber resource properties and timber limits in Canada and the non-resident person's share of the income of a partnership of which the non-resident person was a member from its interest in real property in Canada, timber resource properties and timber limits in Canada were the non-resident person's only income;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 269(1), will amend para. 216(1)(b) by substituting "real property, or real right in immovables, in Canada and interest in, or for civil law right in" for "real property in Canada" in two places, to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(c) the non-resident person were entitled to no deductions from income for the purpose of computing the non-resident person's taxable income; and

(d) the non-resident person were entitled to no deductions under sections 118 to 118.9 in computing the non-resident person's tax payable under Part I for the year.

Possible Future Amendment — Requirement for non-resident to post security

Letter from Dept. of Finance, June 17, 1996:

Mr. Donald H. Watkins, Chair, Taxation Section, The Canadian Bar Association

Mr. Robert Spindler, C.A., Chair, Taxation Committee, Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants

Dear Messrs. Watkins and Spindler:

At our recent meeting we discussed the possibility of revising the Canadian income tax rules governing the taxation of rental income earned by non-resident owners of Canadian real estate. This letter outlines a proposal that would, if implemented, place the risk of a non-resident's non-compliance with the Canadian tax system on the non-resident rather than the non-resident's Canadian property agent.

In general, Part XIII of the Income Tax Act levies a withholding tax of 25% on rental payments made by Canadians to non-resident owners of Canadian real property. Where the non-resident collects the rent through a Canadian agent (who is typically a building or property manager), the agent is responsible for ensuring that 25% of the gross rental payments are remitted to Revenue Canada. An exception to this general rule exists where a non-resident elects, under section 216 of the Act, to file a Canadian income tax return in respect of the rental income and pay tax on the net property income.

To make the election the non-resident and the non-resident's Canadian agent are required to provide an undertaking to Revenue Canada to file an income tax return for the rental income within six months of the end of the relevant year. Where an election is made, the rule requiring the Canadian agent to remit 25% of the gross rental payments to Revenue Canada does not apply; instead, only 25% of the net amount of rent received by the agent need be remitted. However, if the non-resident fails to either file an income tax return or pay his tax liability within the time required under the election, the Canadian agent becomes liable for the amount that the agent would ordinarily have been required to withhold under Part XIII of the Act (ie., 25% of the gross rental payments) less the amount of tax actually remitted. The non-resident's tax liability is placed on the Canadian agent in an attempt to protect the government from the loss of any tax revenue arising from the non-resident's failure to pay the required tax. This mechanism is necessary because, in practice, it would be very difficult to enforce a tax liability on non-resident property owners.

We are considering alternatives to the current system which may reduce the liability of Canadian agents while at the same time protecting Canada's tax base. To achieve these objectives, we are prepared to consider a system which would require non-resident property owners to post security with Revenue Canada in order to take advantage of the election to file an income tax return and avoid having tax withheld on the gross amount of the rental payments. Where the non-resident fails to pay the required amount of tax within the specified time, the government would be able to look to the security; accordingly, the Canadian agent's exposure to tax could be reduced. In this context, acceptable security could be similar to that which is required under section 116 of the Act.

Finance is not, however, committed to this proposal; it remains our view that the current system works reasonably well from the government's viewpoint, and implementation of the alternative proposal would be considered only if it were thought to provide a better system from the taxpayer's perspective. This alternative has been outlined to a number of real estate organizations and other interested parties from whom we hope to gather comments over the course of the coming months.

I would also note that at our recent meeting you raised the possibility of considering changes to the existing time limits for filing a Part I income tax return under subsection 216(4). We would be pleased to receive written comments on your suggestion for modifying those time limits or on the alternative system outlined above.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber, Director, Tax Legislation Division

Related Provisions: 96 — Partnerships and their members; 216(1) — Alternative re rents and timber royalties.

History: Subsec. 216(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 217, applicable to amounts paid or credited after November 1991. Subsec. 216(4) formerly read:

(4) Where a non-resident person or each non-resident person who is a member of a partnership has filed with the Minister an undertaking in prescribed form to file a return of income under Part I for a taxation year as permitted by this section but within 6 months from the end of the taxation year, a person who is otherwise required by subsection 215(3) to remit in the year an amount to the Receiver General in payment of tax on rent on real property or in payment of tax on a timber royalty may elect, by virtue of this section, not to remit under that subsection but if the [elector] does so elect

(a) the [elector] shall, when any amount is available out of the rent or royalty received for remittance to the non-resident person or the partnership, as the case may be, deduct therefrom 25% thereof and remit the amount deducted to the Receiver General on behalf of the non-resident person or the partnership on account of the tax under this Part, and

(b) the [elector] shall, if the non-resident person or each non-resident person who is a member of the partnership

(i) does not file a return for the taxation year in accordance with the undertaking filed by the non-resident person or member with the Minister, or

(ii) does not pay the tax the non-resident person or member is liable to pay for the taxation year under this section within the time limited for payment, pay to the Receiver General, on the expiration of the time for filing or payment, as the case may be, the full amount that the [elector] would otherwise have been required to remit in the year minus the amounts that the [elector] has remitted in the year under paragraph (a).

Forms: NR6: Undertaking to file an income tax return by a non-resident receiving rent from real property or receiving a timber royalty; T1159: Income tax return for electing under s. 216; T2 SCH 97: Additional information on non-resident corporations in Canada; T4144: Income tax guide for electing under section 216.

Proposed Addition — 216(4.1)

(4.1) Optional method of payment — If a trust is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for a taxation year for the purpose of computing the trust's income for the year, a person who is otherwise required by subsection 215(3) to remit in the year, in respect of the trust, an amount to the Receiver General in payment of tax on rent on real or immovable property or on a timber royalty may elect in prescribed form filed with the Minister under this subsection not to remit under subsection 215(3) in respect of amounts received after the election is made, and if that election is made, the elector shall,

(a) when any amount is available out of the rent or royalty received for remittance to the trust, deduct 25% of the amount available and remit the amount deducted to the Receiver General on behalf of the trust on account of the trust's tax under Part I; and

(b) if the trust does not file a return for the year as required by section 150, or does not pay the tax that the trust is liable to pay under Part I for the year within the time required by that Part, on the expiration of the time for filing or payment, as the case may be, pay to the Receiver General, on account of the trust's tax under Part I, the amount by which the full amount that the elector would otherwise have been required to remit in the year in respect of the rent or royalty exceeds the amounts that the elector has remitted in the year under paragraph (a) in respect of the rent or royalty.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 39, will add subsec. 216(4.1), applicable to trust taxation years that begin after 2006, except that

(a) it also applies to a trust taxation year beginning before 2007 if s. 94 applies to that taxation year of the trust; and

(b) an election referred to in subsec. 216(4.1) is deemed to have been filed with the Minister of National Revenue on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the trust's filing-due date for the taxation year of the trust that includes the day on which Bill C-10 is assented to.

Technical Notes: In general, Part XIII of the Act imposes a withholding tax of 25% on rental payments made by Canadians to non-resident owners of Canadian real property. An exception to this general rule exists where a non-resident chooses, under subsection 216(4), to file a Canadian income tax return in respect of the rental income and timber royalty income and pay tax on the net amount of such income. Where the conditions of subsection 216(4) are satisfied, the rule requiring a Canadian payer (or agent of the payee pursuant to s. 215(3)) to remit 25% of the gross payment to the Canada Revenue Agency does not apply; instead, only 25% of the net amount of income received by the non-resident's agent need be remitted.

Although an otherwise non-resident trust to which paragraph 94(3)(a) applies is deemed resident in Canada for the purposes of determining the trust's liability under Part XIII on amounts paid or credited to the trust, for the purpose of determining the liability of a Canadian payer on amounts paid or credited to the trust, the trust is effectively treated as resident in Canada [sic; should read non-resident — ed.] (see paragraph 94(4)(c) and section 215).

Subsection 216(4.1) is introduced to provide a measure of relief in these circumstances. Under that subsection, if a trust is deemed by subsection 94(3) to be resident in Canada for a taxation year for the purpose of computing the trust's income for the year, a person who is otherwise required by subsection 215(3) to remit in the year, in respect of the trust, an amount to the Receiver General in payment of tax on rent on real property or on a timber royalty may elect in prescribed form filed with the Minister under this subsection not to remit under subsection 215(3) in respect of amounts received after the election is made. Under paragraphs 216(4.1)(a) and (b), if that election is made, the elector shall,

- when any amount is available out of the rent or royalty received for remittance to the trust, deduct 25% of the amount available and remit the amount deducted to the Receiver General on behalf of the trust on account of the trust's tax under Part I; and

- if the trust does not file a return for the year as required by section 150, or does not pay the tax that the trust is liable to pay under Part I for the year within the time required by that Part, on the expiration of the later of the time for filing or payment, as the case may be, pay to the Receiver General, on account of the trust's tax under Part I, the amount by which the full amount that the elector would otherwise have been required to remit in the year in respect of the rent or royalty exceeds the amounts that the elector has remitted in the year under paragraph 216(4.1)(a) in respect of the rent or royalty.

(5) Disposition by non-resident of interest in real property, timber resource property or timber limit — Where a person or a trust of which that person is a beneficiary has filed a return of income under Part I for a taxation year as permitted by this section or as required by section 150 and, in computing the amount of the person's income under Part I an amount has been deducted under paragraph 20(1)(a), or is deemed by subsection 107(2) to have been allowed under that paragraph, in respect of real property in Canada, a timber resource property or a timber limit in Canada, the person shall, within the time prescribed by section 150 for filing a return of income under Part I, file a return of income under Part I, in the form prescribed for a person resident in Canada, for any subsequent taxation year in which the person was a non-resident person and in which that real property, timber resource property or timber limit or any interest therein is disposed of, within the meaning of section 13, by the person or by a partnership of which the person is a member, and the person shall, without affecting the person's liability for tax otherwise payable under Part I, thereupon be liable, in lieu of paying tax under this Part on any amount paid, or deemed by this Part to have been paid to the person or to a partnership of which the person is a member in that subsequent taxation year in respect of any interest in real property, timber resource property or timber limit in Canada, to pay tax under Part I for that subsequent taxation year as though

Proposed Amendment — 216(5) opening words

(5) Disposition by non-resident — If a person or a trust under which a person is a beneficiary has filed a return of income under Part I for a taxation year as permitted by this section or as required by section 150 and, in computing the amount of the person's income under Part I an amount has been deducted under paragraph 20(1)(a), or is deemed by subsection 107(2) to have been allowed under that paragraph, in respect of property that is real property in Canada — or an interest therein — or an immovable in Canada — or a real right therein —, a timber resource property or a timber limit in Canada, the person shall file a return of income under Part I in prescribed form on or before the person's filing-due date for any subsequent taxation year in which the person is non-resident and in which the person, or a partnership of which the person is a member, disposes of that property or any interest, or for civil law any right, in it. On so filing and without affecting the person's liability for tax otherwise payable under Part I, the person is, in lieu of paying tax under this Part on any amount paid, or deemed by this Part to have been paid, in that subsequent taxation year in respect of any interest in, or for civil law any right in, that property to the person or to a partnership of which the person is a member, liable to pay tax under Part I for that subsequent taxation year as though

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 181(2), will amend the opening words of subsec. 216(5) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: In general terms, subsection 216(5) requires that a person who has previously made an election under subsection 216(1), and who has claimed capital cost allowance in computing income under the subsection, must file a return of income for the year in which the property that was the subject of the election is disposed of. Subsection 216(5) is modified in the same manner as subsection 216(1), again with the main change being an updated description of the relevant form.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Feb. 15, 2000: See under 118.1(5.4), (6).

(a) the person were a person resident in Canada and not exempt from tax under section 149;

(b) the person's income from the person's interest in real property, timber resource property or timber limits in Canada and the person's share of the income of a partnership of which the person was a member from its interest in real property, timber resource property or timber limits in Canada were the person's only income;

Proposed Amendment — 216(5)(b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 269(4), will amend para. 216(5)(b) by substituting "real property, or real right in immovables, in Canada or interest in, or for civil law right in" for "real property" in two places and "resource properties and" for "resource property or" in two places, to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(c) the person were entitled to no deductions from income for the purpose of computing the person's taxable income; and

(d) the person were entitled to no deductions under sections 118 to 118.9 in computing the person's tax payable under Part I for the year.

Related Provisions: 110.1(3)(b)(i), 118.1(6)(b)(i) — Reduced recapture on donation of property to charity; 150.1(5) — Electronic filing; 216(6) — Saving provision; 216(7) — Election; 216(8) — Restriction on deduction; 248(4) — Interest in real property; 248(4.1) — Meaning of "real right in immovables".

Selected Cases [subsec. 216(5)]: R. v. Arnos et al., [1982] 1 C.T.C. 186 (FCA) (Under Canada-U.S. Tax Convention, recapture not applicable to non-resident beneficiary after Canadian trustee transferred property on which capital cost allowance was deducted); Deitcher v. R., [1979] C.T.C. 500 (FCTD) (Capital cost allowance deducted by non-resident electing to be taxed as resident recaptured on sale of property); Bessemer Trust Co. v. MNR, [1973] C.T.C. 12 (FCA) (Capital cost allowance deducted by non-resident trust electing to be taxed as resident recaptured on sale of property).

(6) Saving provision — Subsection (5) does not apply to require a non-resident person

(a) to file a return of income under Part I for a taxation year unless, by filing that return, there would be included in computing the non-resident person's income under Part I for that year an amount by virtue of section 13; or

(b) to include in computing the non-resident person's income for a taxation year any amount to the extent that that amount has been included in computing the non-resident person's taxable income earned in Canada for that taxation year by virtue of any provision of this Act other than subsection (5).

Related Provisions: 13(1) — Recaptured depreciation.

(7) Election — Where, by virtue of subsection (5), a non-resident person is liable to pay tax under Part I for a taxation year, for greater certainty section 61 is not applicable in computing the non-resident person's income for the year.

Proposed Repeal — 216(7)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 181(3), will repeal subsec. 216(7), in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Subsection 216(7) provides that the rules in section 61, dealing with income averaging annuity contracts, do not apply in computing a non-resident person's income for a taxation year in respect of which subsection 216(5) applies to the person. Since section 61 is no longer relevant to any current transaction, subsection 216(7) is repealed.

(8) Restriction on deduction — For greater certainty, in determining the amount of tax payable by a non-resident person under Part I for a taxation year by reason of subsection (1) or (5), no deduction in computing the non-resident person's income or tax payable under Part I for the year shall be made to the extent that such a deduction by non-resident persons is not permitted under Part I.

Selected Cases [s. 216]: Wright v. R., [2001] 3 C.T.C. 2426 (TCC) (Where non-resident elects under s. 216, no further liability for withholding taxes under s. 215).

Interpretation Bulletins [s. 216]: See under subsec. 216(1).

216.1 (1) Alternative re acting services — No tax is payable under this Part on any amount described in subsection 212(5.1) that is paid, credited or provided to a non-resident person in a taxation year if the person

(a) files with the Minister, on or before the person's filing-due date for the year, a return of income under Part I for the year; and

(b) elects in the return to have this section apply for the year.

Related Provisions: 215(1) — Payor required to withhold even if election filed; 216.1(2) — Amounts withheld and remitted credited against Part I obligation; 216.1(3) — Where corporation makes payment to actor.

Forms: T1287: Application by a non-resident of Canada (individual) for a reduction in the amount of non-resident tax required to be withheld on income earned from acting in a film or video production; T1288: Application by a non-resident of Canada (corporation) for a reduction in the amount of non-resident tax required to be withheld on income earned from acting in a film or video production.

(2) Deemed Part I payment — If in respect of a particular amount paid, credited or provided in a taxation year, a non-resident person has complied with paragraphs (1)(a) and (b), any amount deducted or withheld and remitted to the Receiver General on behalf of the person on account of tax under subsection 212(5.1) in respect of the particular amount is deemed to have been paid on account of the person's tax under Part I.

(3) Deemed election and restriction — Where a corporation payment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 212(5.2)) has been made to a non-resident corporation in respect of an actor and at any time the corporation makes an actor payment (within the meaning assigned by subsection 212(5.2)) to or for the benefit of the actor, if the corporation makes an election under subsection (1) for the taxation year in which the corporation payment is made, the actor is deemed to make an election under subsection (1) for the taxation year of the actor in which the corporation makes the actor payment.

History: S. 216.1 added by 2001, c. 17, s. 175, applicable to 2001 et seq.

Definitions [s. 216.1]: "actor payment" — 212(5.2); "amount" — 248(1); "corporation" — 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "corporation payment" — 212(5.2); "filing-due date", "Minister", "non-resident", "person" — 248(1); "taxation year" — 249.

217. (1) Alternative re Canadian benefits — In this section, a non-resident person's "Canadian benefits" for a taxation year is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid or credited in the year and in respect of which tax under this Part would, but for this section, be payable by the person because of any of paragraphs 212(1)(h), (j) to (m) and (q).

(2) Part I return — No tax is payable under this Part in respect of a non-resident person's Canadian benefits for a taxation year if the person

(a) files with the Minister, within 6 months after the end of the year, a return of income under Part I for the year; and

(b) elects in the return to have this section apply for the year.

Related Provisions: 150.1(5) — Electronic filing; 217(3)–(6) — Part I tax payable when election made.

Forms: See at end of s. 217.

(3) Taxable income earned in Canada — Where a non-resident person elects under paragraph (2)(b) for a taxation year, for the purposes of Part I

(a) the person is deemed to have been employed in Canada in the year; and

(b) the person's taxable income earned in Canada for the year is deemed to be the greater of

(i) the amount that would, but for subparagraph (ii), be the person's taxable income earned in Canada for the year if

(A) paragraph 115(1)(a) included the following subparagraph after subparagraph (i):

"(i.1) the non-resident person's Canadian benefits for the year, within the meaning assigned by subsection 217(1),", and

(B) paragraph 115(1)(f) were read as follows:

"(f) such of the other deductions permitted for the purpose of computing taxable income as can reasonably be considered wholly applicable to the amounts described in subparagraphs (a)(i) to (vi).", and

(ii) the person's income (computed without reference to subsection 56(8)) for the year minus the total of such of the deductions permitted for the purpose of computing taxable income as can reasonably be considered wholly applicable to the amounts described in subparagraphs 115(1)(a)(i) to (vi).

Related Provisions: 2(3) — Tax payable under Part I as a result of being deemed employed in Canada; 250.1(b) — Calculation of income of non-resident person.

(4) Tax credits — limitation — Sections 118 to 118.91 and 118.94 do not apply in computing the tax payable under Part I for a taxation year by a non-resident person who elects under paragraph (2)(b) for the year, unless

(a) where section 114 applies to the person for the year, all or substantially all of the person's income for the year is included in computing the person's taxable income for the year; or

(b) in any other case, all or substantially all of the person's income for the year is included in computing the amount determined under subparagraph (3)(b)(i) in respect of the person for the year.

(5) Tax credits allowed — In computing the tax payable under Part I for a taxation year by a non-resident person to whom neither paragraph (4)(a) nor paragraph (4)(b) applies for the year there may, notwithstanding section 118.94 and subsection (4), be deducted the lesser of

(a) the total of

(i) such of the amounts that would have been deductible under any of section 118.2, subsections 118.3(2) and (3) and sections 118.6, 118.8 and 118.9 in computing the person's tax payable under Part I for the year if the person had been resident in Canada throughout the year, as can reasonably be considered wholly applicable, and

(ii) the amounts that would have been deductible under any of sections 118 and 118.1, subsection 118.3(1) and sections 118.5 and 118.7 in computing the person's tax payable under Part I for the year if the person had been resident in Canada throughout the year, and

(b) the appropriate percentage for the year of the person's Canadian benefits for the year.

(6) Special credit — In computing the tax payable under Part I for a taxation year by a non-resident who elects under paragraph (2)(b) for the year, there may be deducted the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of tax under Part I that would, but for this subsection, be payable by the person for the year;

B is the amount determined under subparagraph (3)(b)(ii) in respect of the person for the year; and

C is the amount determined under subparagraph (3)(b)(i) in respect of the person for the year.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subpara. 217(3)(b)(ii) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 64, applicable to 1997 et seq. Subpara. 217(3)(b)(ii) formerly read:

(ii) the person's income for the year, minus the total of such of the deductions permitted for the purpose of computing taxable income as can reasonably be considered wholly applicable to the amounts described in subparagraphs 115(1)(a)(i) to (vi).

S. 217 amended by 1997, c. 25, s. 64, applicable to 1997 et seq. S. 217 formerly read:

217. Election respecting certain payments — Where by virtue of any one or more of paragraphs 212(1)(f), (h), (j) to (m) and (q) a non-resident person would otherwise be liable to pay tax under this Part on one or more amounts paid or credited to the non-resident person in a taxation year and that person has, within 6 months after the end of the year, filed a return of income under Part I for the year and so elected therein, the following rules apply:

(a) notwithstanding subsection 212(1), no tax under this Part is payable by the non-resident person on those amounts;

(b) notwithstanding section 115, for the purposes of computing that person's taxable income earned in Canada for the year,

(i) paragraph 115(1)(a) shall be read as though it included the following subparagraph:

"(i.1) amounts paid or credited to the non-resident person in the year on which that person would, under any of paragraphs 212(1)(f), (h), (j) to (m) and (q) be liable to pay tax under Part XIII if no election were made under section 217,", and

(ii) all that portion of subsection 115(1) following paragraph (c) shall be read as follows:

"minus the total of such of the deductions from income permitted for the purpose of computing taxable income as may reasonably be considered wholly applicable"; and

(c) notwithstanding sections 118.91 and 118.94, where the non-resident person is an individual more than ½ of whose income for the year is included in the individual's taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada for the year, as the case may be, section 118.94 shall, where the individual so elects in the return, be applied in respect of the individual for the year as if it read as follows:

"118.94 Sections 118 to 118.91 do not apply for the purpose of computing the tax payable under this Part for a taxation year by an individual who was non-resident at any time in the year, except that for the purpose of computing the tax payable under this Part for the year there may be deducted the total of

(a) such of the amounts that would have been deductible under any of section 118.2, subsections 118.3(2) and (3) and sections 118.6, 118.8 and 118.9 for the purpose of computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year if the individual had been resident in Canada throughout the year, as can reasonably be considered wholly applicable, and

(b) the amounts that would have been deductible under sections 118 and 118.1, subsection 118.3(1) and sections 118.5 and 118.7 for the purpose of computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year if the individual had been resident in Canada throughout the year,

not exceeding the appropriate percentage for the year of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid or credited to the individual in the year on which the individual would, under any of paragraphs 212(1)(f), (h), (j) to (m) and (q) be liable to pay tax under Part XIII if no election were made under section 217."

Subpara. 217(b)(i) and the closing words of the version of s. 118.94 quoted within para. 217(c) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsecs. 56(1), (2), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subpara. (b)(i) and the closing words of s. 118.94 quoted in 217(c) formerly read:

(i) there shall be added to the total of the amounts determined under subparagraphs 115(1)(a)(i) to (v) in respect of that person the total of amounts each of which is an amount paid or credited to the non-resident person in the year on which that person would, by virtue of any one or more of paragraphs 212(1)(f), (h), (j) to (m) and (q), be liable to pay tax under this Part if paragraph 212(1)(h) were read without reference to subparagraphs 212(1)(h)(i) and (ii), and and read the closing words of 118.94 as quoted in 217(c) as follows:

not exceeding the appropriate percentage for the year of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid or credited to the individual in the year on which the individual would, under any of paragraphs 212(1)(f), (h), (j) to (m) and (q), be liable to pay tax under Part XIII if paragraph 212(1)(h) were read without reference to subparagraphs 212(1)(h)(i) and (ii), and no election were made under section 217.

Para. 217(c) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 179(1), applicable to 1991 et seq.; and (by subsec. 179(3)), for the 1988 to 1990 taxation years, paras. 118.94(a) and (b), as those paras. apply for the purpose of para. 217(c), shall be read as follows:

(a) such of the amounts that would have been deductible under any of section 118.2, subsections 118.3(2) and (3) and sections 118.6, 118.8 and 118.9 for the purpose of computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year if the individual had been resident in Canada throughout the year, as can reasonably be considered to be wholly applicable; and

(b) the amounts that would have been deductible under sections 118 and 118.1, subsection 118.3(1) and sections 118.5 and 118.7 for the purpose of computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year if the individual had been resident in Canada throughout the year.

Para. 217(c) formerly read:

(c) notwithstanding section 118.94, where the person is an individual, that section shall be read as follows:

"118.94 Sections 118 to 118.9 do not apply for the purpose of computing the tax payable under this Part for a taxation year by a non-resident individual except that for the purpose of computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year there may be deducted

(a) such of the amounts that would have been deductible under any of sections 118.1 and 118.2, subsections 118.3(2) and (3) and sections 118.5 to 118.9 for the purpose of computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year had the individual been resident in Canada throughout the year, as may reasonably be considered wholly applicable; and

(b) the amounts that would have been deductible under section 118 and subsection 118.3(1) for the purpose of computing the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year had the individual been resident in Canada throughout the year."

218. (1) Loan to wholly-owned subsidiary — For the purposes of this Act, where

(a) a non-resident corporation (in this section referred to as the "parent corporation") is indebted to

(i) a person resident in Canada, or

(ii) a non-resident insurance corporation carrying on business in Canada,

(in this section referred to as the "creditor") under an arrangement whereby the parent corporation is required to pay interest in Canadian currency, and the amount so lent by the parent corporation to the subsidiary corporation shall be deemed to have been borrowed by the parent corporation as agent of the subsidiary corporation and interest paid by the subsidiary corporation to the parent corporation that has been paid by the parent corporation to the creditor shall be deemed to have been paid by the subsidiary corporation to the creditor and not by the subsidiary corporation to the parent corporation or by the parent corporation to the creditor.

(b) the parent corporation has lent the money in respect of which it is so indebted, or a part thereof, to a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation resident in Canada whose principal business is the making of loans (in this section referred to as the "subsidiary corporation") under an arrangement whereby the subsidiary corporation is required to repay the loan to the parent corporation with interest at the same rate as is payable by the parent corporation to the creditor,

(2) Idem — Where a parent corporation has lent money to a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation resident in Canada whose principal business is not the making of loans and the money has been lent by that corporation to a subsidiary corporation wholly-owned by it and resident in Canada whose principal business is the making of loans, the loan by the parent corporation shall be deemed, for the purpose of subsection (1), to have been a loan to a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation whose principal business is the making of loans.

(3) Election — This section does not apply in respect of any payment of interest unless the parent corporation and the creditor have executed, and filed with the Minister, an election in prescribed form.

Forms: T2023: Election in respect of loans from non-residents.

(4) Application of election — An election filed under subsection (3) does not apply in respect of any payment of interest made more than 12 months before the date on which the election was filed with the Minister.

PART XIII.1 — ADDITIONAL TAX ON AUTHORIZED FOREIGN BANKS

218.2 (1) Branch interest tax — Every authorized foreign bank shall pay a tax under this Part for each taxation year equal to 25% of its taxable interest expense for the year.

Related Provisions: 157(1)(a)(i) — Monthly instalments required; 218.2(2) — Taxable interest expense; 218.2(3), (4) — Effect of treaties on tax rate; 218.2(5) — Administration of Part XIII.1 tax.

(2) Taxable interest expense — The taxable interest expense of an authorized foreign bank for a taxation year is 15% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts on account of interest that are deducted under section 20.2 in computing the bank's income for the year from its Canadian banking business

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts that are included in paragraph (a) and that are in respect of a liability of the bank to another person or partnership.

(3) Where tax not payable — No tax is payable under this Part for a taxation year by an authorized foreign bank if

(a) the bank is resident in a country with which Canada has a tax treaty at the end of the year; and

(b) no tax similar to the tax under this Part would be payable in that country for the year by a bank resident in Canada carrying on business in that country during the year.

(4) Rate limitation — Despite any other provision of this Act, the reference in subsection (1) to 25% shall, in respect of a taxation year of an authorized foreign bank that is resident in a country with which Canada has a tax treaty on the last day of the year, be read as a reference to,

(a) if the treaty specifies the maximum rate of tax that Canada may impose under this Part for the year on residents of that country, that rate;

(b) if the treaty does not specify a maximum rate as described in paragraph (a) but does specify the maximum rate of tax that Canada may impose on a payment of interest in the year by a person resident in Canada to a related person resident in that country, that rate; and

(c) in any other case, 25%.

(5) Provisions applicable to Part — Sections 150 to 152, 158, 159, 160.1 and 161 to 167 and Division J of Part I apply to this Part with any modifications that the circumstances require.

Related Provisions: 157(1)(a)(i) — Monthly instalments required.

History: S. 218.2 (Part XIII.1) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 176, applicable to taxation years that end after June 27, 1999.

PART XIII.2 — NON-RESIDENT INVESTORS IN CANADIAN MUTUAL FUNDS

218.3 (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this Part.

"assessable distribution", in respect of a Canadian property mutual fund investment, means the portion of any amount that is paid or credited, by the mutual fund that issued the investment, to a non-resident investor who holds the investment, and that is not otherwise subject to tax under Part I or Part XIII.

Proposed Amendment — 218.3(1)"assessable distribution"

"assessable distribution", in respect of a Canadian property mutual fund investment, means the portion of any amount that is paid or credited (otherwise than as a SIFT trust wind-up event), by the mutual fund that issued the investment, to a non-resident investor who holds the investment, and that is not otherwise subject to tax under Part I or Part XIII.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 74, will amend the definition "assessable distribution" in subsec. 218.3(1) to read as above, applicable after July 14, 2008.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 218.3(1) sets out a number of definitions that apply for purposes of Part XIII.2. The definition "assessable distribution" is amended to exclude a distribution that is a SIFT trust wind-up event (as defined in subsection 248(1)) from the application of this withholding tax.

For more detail, readers may refer to the commentary on the definition "SIFT trust wind-up event" in subsection 248(1).

Related Provisions: 53(2)(h)(i.1)(B)(III) — Assessable distribution not deducted from adjusted cost base of capital interest in trust.

"Canadian property mutual fund investment" means a share of the capital stock of a mutual fund corporation, or a unit of a mutual fund trust, if

(a) the share or unit is listed on a designated stock exchange; and

(b) more than 50% of the fair market value of the share or unit is attributable to one or more properties each of which is real property in Canada, a Canadian resource property or a timber resource property.

History: Para. (a) of the definition "Canadian property mutual fund investment" in subsec. 218.3(1) amended to substitute "designated stock exchange" for "prescribed stock exchange" by 2007, c. 35, para. 68(2)(o), applicable after December 13, 2007.

"Canadian property mutual fund loss" — of a non-resident investor for a taxation year for which the non-resident investor has filed, on or before their filing-due date for the taxation year, a return of income under this Part in prescribed form, in respect of a Canadian property mutual fund investment — means the lesser of

(a) the non-resident investor's loss (for greater certainty as determined under section 40) for the taxation year from the disposition of the Canadian property mutual fund investment, and

(b) the total of all assessable distributions that were paid or credited on the Canadian property mutual fund investment after the non-resident investor last acquired the investment and at or before the time of the disposition.

"non-resident investor" means a non-resident person or a partnership other than a Canadian partnership.

"unused Canadian property mutual fund loss", of a non-resident investor for a taxation year, means the portion of the total of the non-resident investor's Canadian mutual fund property losses for preceding taxation years that has neither reduced under subsection (3) the amount of tax payable, nor increased under subsection (5) the amount of a refund of tax paid, under this Part for any preceding taxation year.

(2) Tax payable — If at any time a person (referred to in this section as the "payer") pays or credits, to a non-resident investor who holds a Canadian property mutual fund investment, an amount as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, an assessable distribution,

(a) the non-resident investor is deemed for the purposes of this Act, other than section 150, to have disposed at that time, for proceeds equal to the amount of the assessable distribution, of a property

(i) that is a taxable Canadian property the adjusted cost base of which to the non-resident investor immediately before that time is nil, and

(ii) that is in all other respects identical to the Canadian property mutual fund investment;

(b) the non-resident investor is liable to pay an income tax of 15% on the amount of any gain (for greater certainty as determined under section 40) from the disposition; and

(c) the payer shall, notwithstanding any agreement or law to the contrary,

(i) deduct or withhold 15% from the amount paid or credited,

(ii) immediately remit that amount to the Receiver General on behalf of the non-resident investor on account of the tax, and

(iii) submit with the remittance a statement in prescribed form.

Proposed Amendment — Part XIII.2 not to apply to mutual fund reorganization

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Feb. 14, 2006: See under 132.2(3).

Related Provisions: 115(1)(b) — Disposition deemed under 218.3(2) excluded from non-resident's taxable income earned in Canada; 218.3(2) — Non-resident may file return to reduce losses; 218.3(10), 227.1 — Directors of corporation liable for unremitted tax.

(3) Use of losses — If a non-resident investor files, on or before their filing-due date for a taxation year, a return of income under this Part in prescribed form for the taxation year, the non-resident investor is liable, instead of paying tax under paragraph (2)(b) in respect of any amount paid or credited in the taxation year, to pay an income tax of 15% for the taxation year on the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of the non-resident investor's gains under subsection (2) for the taxation year

exceeds

(b) the total of the non-resident investor's Canadian property mutual fund losses for the year and the non-resident investor's unused Canadian property mutual fund loss for the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 218.3(4) — Tax deemed paid; 218.3(5)-(7) — Refund and carryback; 218.3(8), (9) — Application to partnership.

Forms: T1262: Part XIII.2 tax return for non-resident's investments in Canadian mutual funds.

(4) Deemed tax paid — If a non-resident investor files, on or before their filing-due date for a taxation year, a return of income under this Part in prescribed form for the taxation year, any amount that is remitted to the Receiver General in respect of an assessable distribution paid or credited to the non-resident investor in the taxation year is deemed to have been paid on account of the non-resident investor's tax under subsection (3) for the taxation year.

Forms: T1262: Part XIII.2 tax return for non-resident's investments in Canadian mutual funds.

(5) Refund — The amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts paid on account of a non-resident investor's tax under subsection (3) for a taxation year exceeds the non-resident investor's liability for tax under this Part for the taxation year shall be refunded to the non-resident investor.

(6) Excess loss — carryback — If a non-resident investor files, on or before their filing-due date for a taxation year, a return of income under this Part in prescribed form for the taxation year, the Minister shall refund to the non-resident investor an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the total amount of tax under this Part paid by the non-resident investor in each of the three preceding taxation years, to the extent that the Minister has not previously refunded that tax, and

(b) 15% of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of the non-resident investor's Canadian property mutual fund losses for the taxation year and the non-resident investor's unused Canadian property mutual fund loss for the taxation year

exceeds

(ii) the total of all assessable distributions paid or credited to the non-resident investor in the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 218.3(7) — Ordering.

(7) Ordering — In applying subsection (6), amounts of tax are to be considered to be refunded in the order in which they were paid.

(8) Partnership filing-due date — For the purposes of this Part, the taxation year of a partnership is its fiscal period and the filing-due date for the taxation year is to be determined as if the partnership were a corporation.

(9) Partnership — member resident in Canada — If a non-resident investor is a partnership a member of which is resident in Canada, the portion of the tax paid by the partnership under this Part in respect of an assessable distribution paid or credited to the partnership in a particular taxation year of the partnership (or, if the partnership files a return of income for the particular taxation year in accordance with subsection (3), the portion of the tax paid by the partnership under that subsection for the taxation year) that can reasonably be considered to be the member's share is deemed

(a) to be an amount paid on account of that member's liability for tax under Part I for that member's taxation year in which the particular taxation year of the partnership ends; and

(b) except for the purposes of this subsection, to be neither a tax paid on account of the partnership's tax under this Part nor a tax paid by the partnership.

(10) Provisions applicable — Section 150.1, subsections 161(1), (7) and (11), sections 162 to 167, Division J of Part I, paragraph 214(3)(f), subsections 215(2), (3) and (6) and sections 227 and 227.1 apply to this Part with any modifications that the circumstances require.

History: S. 218. 3 (Part XIII.2) added by 2005, c. 19, s. 47, applicable to distributions paid or credited after 2004.

PART XIV — ADDITIONAL TAX [BRANCH TAX] ON NON-RESIDENT CORPORATIONS

History: The heading before s. 219 amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 218, in force on June 18, 1998. The heading formerly read:

Additional Tax on Corporations (other than Canadian Corporations) Carrying on Business in Canada

219. (1) Additional tax [branch tax] — Every corporation that is non-resident in a taxation year shall, on or before its balance-due day for the year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 25% of the amount, if any, by which the total of

(a) the corporation's taxable income earned in Canada for the year (in this subsection referred to as the corporation's "base amount"),

(b) the amount deducted because of section 112 and paragraph 115(1)(e) in computing the corporation's base amount,

(c) [Repealed]

(d) the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is a taxable capital gain of the corporation for the year from a disposition of a taxable Canadian property exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) an allowable capital loss of the corporation for the year from a disposition of a taxable Canadian property, or

(ii) an amount deductible because of paragraphs 111(1)(b) and 115(1)(e) in computing the corporation's base amount,

(e) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a grant or credit that

(i) can reasonably be considered to have been received by the corporation in the year as a reimbursement or repayment of, or as indemnification or compensation for, an amount deducted because of paragraph (j), as it read in its application to the 1995 taxation year, in computing the amount determined under this subsection for a preceding taxation year that began before 1996, and

(ii) was not included in computing the corporation's base amount for any taxation year,

(f) where, at any time in the year, the corporation has made one or more dispositions described in paragraph (l) of qualified property, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of one of those dispositions equal to the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the qualified property at the time of the disposition exceeds the corporation's proceeds of disposition of the property, and

(g) the amount, if any, claimed for the immediately preceding taxation year under paragraph (j) by the corporation,

exceeds the total of

(h) that proportion of the total of

(i) the total of the taxes payable under Parts I, I.3 and VI for the year by the corporation, determined without reference to subsection (1.1), and

(ii) the total of the income taxes payable to the government of a province for the year by the corporation, determined without reference to subsection (1.1), that the corporation's base amount is of the amount that would, if this Act were read without reference to subsection (1.1), be the corporation's base amount,

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of interest or a penalty paid by the corporation in the year

(i) under this Act, or

(ii) on or in respect of an income tax payable by it to the government of a province under a law of the province relating to income tax, to the extent that the interest or penalty was not deductible in computing its base amount for any taxation year,

(j) where the corporation was carrying on business in Canada at the end of the year, the amount claimed by the corporation for the year, not exceeding the amount prescribed to be its allowance for the year in respect of its investment in property in Canada, and

(k) [Repealed]

(l) where the corporation has at any time in the year disposed of property (in this paragraph and paragraph (f) referred to as "qualified property") used by it immediately before that time for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business carried on by it in Canada to a Canadian corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "purchaser corporation") that was, immediately after the disposition, a qualified related corporation of the corporation for consideration that includes a share of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a disposition in the year of a qualified property equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the fair market value of the qualified property at the time of the disposition

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital in respect of the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation increased because of the disposition, and

(iii) the fair market value, at the time of receipt, of the consideration (other than shares) given by the purchaser corporation for the qualified property.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible; 52(7) — Cost of shares of subsidiary; 115.2 — Non-resident investment or pension fund deemed not to be carrying on business in Canada; 134 — Status of non-resident-owned investment corporation for purposes of s. 219; 142.7(10)(b) — Addition under 219(1)(g) for branch-establishment dividend of foreign entrant bank; 218.2 — Branch interest tax on foreign banks; 219(1.1) — Excluded gains; 219(2) — Exempt corporations; 219.1 — Corporate emigration — 25% tax; 219.2 — Limitation on rate of Part XIV tax to dividend rate under treaties; Canada-U.K. Tax Treaty:Art. 22(3) — Limitation on branch tax; Canada-U.S. Tax Treaty:Art. X:6(d) — Exemption for first $500,000 of earnings and rate limited to 5%.

History: Paras. 219(1)(c) and (k) repealed, para. 219(1)(e) amended, by 2003, c. 28, subsecs. 17(1)–(3), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2006. The paras. formerly read:

(c) the amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(v.1) in computing the corporation's base amount, other than any portion of the amount so deducted that was deductible because of the membership of the corporation in a partnership,

. . . . .

(e) the total of all amounts each of which

(i) is an amount in respect of a grant or credit that can reasonably be considered to have been received by the corporation in the year as a reimbursement or repayment of, or as indemnification or compensation for, an amount deducted because of

(A) paragraph (j), as it read in its application to the 1995 taxation year, in computing the amount determined under this subsection for a preceding taxation year that began before 1996, or

(B) paragraph (k) in computing the amount determined under this subsection for the year or for a preceding taxation year that began after 1995, and

(ii) was not included in computing the corporation's base amount for any taxation year,

. . . . .

(k) the portion of the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount by which the corporation's base amount is increased because of paragraph 12(1)(o) or 18(1)(l.1) or (m) or subsection 69(6) or (7), that is not deductible under paragraph (h) or (j), and

The opening words of subsec. 219(1) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 128, applicable to taxation years that begin after June 2003. The opening words formerly read:

(1) Every corporation that is non-resident in a taxation year shall, on or before its filing-due date for the year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 25% of the amount, if any, by which the total of

Para. 219(1)(b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 177(1), applicable to 1998 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) the amount deducted because of section 112 and paragraph 115(1)(d.1) in computing the corporation's base amount,

Para. 219(1)(d) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 177(2), by replacing the expression "1/3 of the amount" with "the amount", applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for such taxation years that ended before October 18, 2000, the reference to the expression "the amount" shall be read as a reference to the expression "1/2 of the amount".

Subsec. 219(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 219(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995 except that, in its application to taxation years that began in 1996, the reference in paragraph 219(1)(g) of the Act to "paragraph (j)" shall be read as a reference to "paragraph (h), as it read in its application to the 1995 taxation year, or paragraph (j)". Subsec. 219(1) formerly read:

(1) Every corporation carrying on business in Canada at any time in a taxation year (other than a corporation that was, throughout the year, a Canadian corporation) shall, on or before the day on or before which it is required to file a return of income under Part I for the year, pay a tax under this Part for the year equal to 25% of the amount by which the total of

(a) the corporation's amount taxable (within the meaning given that expression in section 123) for the taxation year,

(a.1) the amount deducted by the corporation under section 112 in computing the amount referred to in paragraph (a),

(a.2) the amount deducted by the corporation under subsection 115(1) in computing the amount referred to in paragraph (a) that was an amount the deduction of which was permitted under section 112,

(a.3) the amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(v.1) by the corporation in computing the amount referred to in paragraph (a), other than any portion of the amount so deducted that was deductible because of the membership of the corporation in a partnership,

(a.4) where, at any time in the taxation year, the corporation has made one or more dispositions as described in paragraph (k) of qualified property, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of such a disposition equal to the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the qualified property at the time of the disposition exceeds the amount of the corporation's proceeds of disposition of the property,

(b) the amount claimed by the corporation under paragraph (h) for the immediately preceding taxation year, and

(c) where the corporation was resident in Canada at any time in the year, the amount claimed under paragraph (i) for the immediately preceding taxation year,

exceeds the total of,

(d) where the corporation was, throughout the year, not resident in Canada, the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which the total of amounts each of which is a taxable capital gain of the corporation for the year from a disposition of a taxable Canadian property that was not property used in the year in, or held in the year in the course of, carrying on business in Canada, exceeds the total of amounts each of which is an allowable capital loss of the corporation for the year from a disposition of any such property, and

(ii) the amount that would be determined under subparagraph (i) for the year if it were read without reference to the expression "that was not property used in the year in, or held in the year in the course of, carrying on business in Canada",

(e) the total of the taxes payable by it under Parts I, I.3 and VI for the year less, where the corporation was at no time in the year resident in Canada, that proportion of the tax payable by it under Part I for the year that the amount determined under paragraph (d) in respect of the corporation for the year is of the corporation's amount taxable for the year,

(f) any income taxes payable by the corporation to the government of a province in respect of the year (to the extent that those taxes were not deductible under Part I in computing its income for the year from businesses carried on by it in Canada) less, where the corporation was, at no time in the year, resident in Canada, that proportion thereof that the amount determined under paragraph (d) in respect of the corporation for the year is of the corporation's amount taxable for the year,

(f.1) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of interest or a penalty paid by it in the year

(i) under this Act, or

(ii) on or in respect of income taxes payable by it to the government of a province under a law of the province relating to income tax, to the extent that the interest or penalty was not deductible in computing its income under Part I for any taxation year from a business carried on by it in Canada,

(g) where the corporation was resident in Canada at any time in the year

(i) the amount deducted under section 126 from the tax for the year otherwise payable by the corporation under Part I, and

(ii) 1/2 of the lesser of the corporation's taxable income for the year and the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of such of its incomes for the year from businesses or properties and its taxable capital gains for the year from disposition of property as were from sources in countries other than Canada

exceeds

(B) the total of such of its losses for the year from businesses or properties and its allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property as were from sources in countries other than Canada,

(h) where the corporation was, at the end of the year, carrying on business in Canada, such amount as the corporation may claim for the year, not exceeding the amount prescribed to be its allowance for the year in respect of its investment in property in Canada,

(i) where the corporation was resident in Canada at any time in the year, such amount as the corporation may claim for the year, not exceeding the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of dividends paid by it after it last became resident in Canada, while it was resident in Canada and before the end of the year

exceeds

(ii) the total of amounts determined under subparagraph (g)(ii) in respect of the corporation for taxation years ending after it last became resident in Canada and not later than the end of the year,

(j) such portion of the total of all amounts, each of which is an amount by which the amount referred to in paragraph (a) is increased by virtue of paragraph 12(1)(o), 18(1)(l.1) or (m) or subsection 69(6) or (7), as is not deductible under paragraph (f) or (h), and

(k) where, at any time after December 11, 1979, the corporation has, in the taxation year, disposed of property (in this paragraph and paragraph (a.4) referred to as "qualified property") used by it immediately before that time for the purpose of gaining or producing income from a business carried on by it in Canada to a Canadian corporation that was, immediately after the disposition, its subsidiary wholly-owned corporation (in this paragraph referred to as the "purchaser corporation") for consideration that includes shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of a disposition in the year of a qualified property equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the fair market value of the qualified property at the time of its disposition

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the paid-up capital in respect of the issued and outstanding shares of the capital stock of the purchaser corporation increased by virtue of the disposition, and

(iii) the fair market value, at the time of receipt, of the consideration (other than shares) given by the purchaser corporation for the qualified property.

Para. 219(1)(a.3) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 126(1), applicable after December 20, 1991. Para. (a.3) formerly read:

(a.3) the amount deducted by the corporation under paragraph 20(1) (v.1) in computing the amount referred to in paragraph (a),

Para. 219(1)(e) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 126(2), applicable to taxation years ending after June 1989. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) the tax payable by it under Part I for the year less, where the corporation was, at no time in the year, resident in Canada, that proportion thereof that the amount determined under paragraph (d) in respect of the corporation for the year is of the corporation's amount taxable for the year,

(4) Non-resident insurers — No tax is payable under subsection (1) for a taxation year by a non-resident insurer, but where it elects, in prescribed manner and within the prescribed time, to deduct, in computing its Canadian investment fund as of the end of the immediately following taxation year, an amount not greater than the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount, if any, by which the total of

(i) the insurer's surplus funds derived from operations as of the end of the year, and

(i.1) where, in any particular taxation year that began before the end of the year, the insurer transferred to a taxable Canadian corporation with which it did not deal at arm's length any designated insurance property of the insurer for the particular year, and

(A) the property was transferred before December 16, 1987 and subsection 138(11.5) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, applied in respect of the transfer, or

(B) the property was transferred before November 22, 1985 and subsection 85(1) of that Act applied in respect of the transfer,

the amount, if any, by which

(C) the total of the fair market value, at the time of the transfer, of all such property

exceeds

(D) the total of the insurer's proceeds of disposition of all such property,

exceeds the total of

(ii) each amount on which the insurer has paid tax under this Part for a previous taxation year,

(iii) the amount, if any, by which the insurer's accumulated 1968 deficit exceeds the amount of the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserves for its 1968 taxation year for its life insurance policies in Canada,

(iv) the insurer's loss, if any, for each of its 5 consecutive taxation years ending with its 1968 taxation year, from all insurance businesses (other than its life insurance business) carried on by it in Canada (computed without reference to section 30 of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to those years), except to the extent that any such loss was deductible in computing its taxable income for any of its taxation years ending before 1969, and

(v) the total of all amounts in respect of which the insurer has filed an election under subsection (5.2) for a previous taxation year in accordance with that subsection,

exceeds

(b) the amount of the insurer's attributed surplus for the year, the insurer shall, on or before the day on or before which it is required to file a return under Part I for the year, pay a tax for the year equal to 25% of the amount, if any, by which the amount it has so elected to deduct exceeds the amount in respect of which it filed an election under subsection (5.2) for the year in accordance with that subsection.

Related Provisions: 181.3(3)(d)(i)(A), 190.13(c)(i)(A) — Effect on capital tax.

History: The opening words of subpara. 219(4)(a)(i.1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 65(1), applicable to 1997 et seq. The opening words formerly read:

(i.1) where, in any taxation year commencing before the end of the year, the insurer transferred to a taxable Canadian corporation with which it did not deal at arm's length any property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)), carrying on an insurance business in Canada, and

(5) [Repealed under former Act]

(5.1) Additional tax on insurer — Where a non-resident insurer ceases in a taxation year to carry on all or substantially all of an insurance business in Canada, it shall, on or before its filing-due date for the year, pay a tax for the year equal to 25% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) that portion of the amount determined under paragraph (4)(a) for the year in respect of the insurer that can reasonably be attributed to the business, including the disposition by it of property that was its designated insurance property in respect of the business for the year in which the disposition occurred,

exceeds

(b) the amount the insurer and a qualified related corporation of the insurer jointly elect in accordance with subsection (5.2) for the year in respect of the business.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Tax is non-deductible.

History: Subsec. 219(5.1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 65(2), applicable to 1997 et seq. Subsec. (5.1) formerly read:

(5.1) Where, in a particular taxation year, a non-resident insurer has ceased to carry on all or substantially all of an insurance business in Canada, it shall, on or before the day on or before which it is required to file a return of income under Part I for the particular year, pay a tax for the year equal to 25% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) that portion of the amount determined under paragraph (4)(a) for the particular year in respect of the non-resident insurer that can reasonably be attributed to the business including the disposition by it of property that was, at the time of the disposition, used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)), carrying on the business

exceeds

(b) the amount in respect of which the non-resident insurer and a qualified related corporation of the insurer have jointly elected in accordance with subsection (5.2) for the particular year in respect of the business.

(5.2) Election by non-resident insurer — Where

(a) a non-resident insurer has ceased to carry on all or substantially all of an insurance business in Canada in a taxation year, and

(b) the insurer has transferred the business to a qualified related corporation of the insurer and the insurer and the corporation have elected to have subsection 138(11.5) apply in respect of the transfer, the insurer and the corporation may elect, in prescribed manner and within prescribed time, to reduce the amount in respect of which the insurer would otherwise be liable to pay tax under subsection (5.1) by an amount not exceeding the lesser of

(c) the amount determined under paragraph (5.1)(a) in respect of the insurer in respect of the business, and

(d) the total of the paid-up capital of the shares of the capital stock of the corporation received by the insurer as consideration for the transfer of the business and any contributed surplus arising on the issue of those shares.

Related Provisions: 138(11.9) — Computation of contributed surplus; 181.3(3)(d)(i)(A), 190.13(c)(i)(A) — Effect on capital tax.

Regulations: 2403(2) (prescribed manner and time).

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 219.

(5.3) Deemed payment of dividend — Where, at any time in a taxation year,

(a) a qualified related corporation of a non-resident insurer ceases to be a qualified related corporation of that insurer, or

(b) the tax deferred account of a qualified related corporation of a non-resident insurer exceeds the total of the paid-up capital in respect of all the shares of the capital stock of the corporation and its contributed surplus, the corporation shall be deemed to have paid, immediately before that time, a dividend to the insurer in an amount equal to

(c) where paragraph (a) is applicable, the balance of the tax deferred account of the corporation at that time, or

(d) where paragraph (b) is applicable, the amount of the excess referred to in that paragraph at that time.

Related Provisions: 138(11.9) — Computation of contributed surplus.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 219.

(6) [Repealed under former Act]

(7) Definitions — In this Part,

"accumulated 1968 deficit" of a life insurer means such amount as can be established by the insurer to be its deficit as of the end of its 1968 taxation year from carrying on its life insurance business in Canada on the assumption that the amounts of its assets and liabilities (including reserves of any kind)

(a) as of the end of any taxation year before its 1968 taxation year, were the amounts thereof determined for the purposes of the Superintendent of Insurance for Canada or other similar officer, and

(b) as of the end of its 1968 taxation year, were

(i) in respect of depreciable property, the capital cost thereof as of the first day of its 1969 taxation year,

(ii) in respect of policy reserves, the insurer's maximum tax actuarial reserves for its 1968 taxation year for life insurance policies issued by it in the course of carrying on its life insurance business in Canada, and

(iii) in respect of other assets and liabilities, the amounts thereof determined as of the end of that year for the purpose of computing its income for its 1969 taxation year;

History: The definition "accumulated 1968 deficit" in subsec. 219(7) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 65(3), applicable to 1997 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"accumulated 1968 deficit" has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"attributed surplus" of an insurer for a taxation year has the meaning assigned by regulation;

History: The definition "attributed surplus" in subsec. 219(7) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 65(3), applicable to 1997 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"attributed surplus for the year" has the meaning prescribed for that expression;

Regulations: 2400(4)(b) [since 1999]; 2405(3) [pre-1999] (meaning of "attributed surplus for the year").

"Canadian investment fund" has the meaning prescribed for that expression;

Regulations: 2400(4)(b) [since 1999]; 2405(3) [pre-1999] (meaning of "Canadian investment fund").

"maximum tax actuarial reserves" has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"surplus funds derived from operations" has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"tax deferred account" of a qualified related corporation at any time means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of which the qualified related corporation and a non-resident insurer have elected jointly before that time in accordance with subsection (5.2), and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a dividend deemed by subsection (5.3) to have been paid by the qualified related corporation before that time.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Interpretation Bulletins: See list at end of s. 219.

(8) Meaning of "qualified related corporation" — For the purposes of this Part, a corporation is a "qualified related corporation" of a particular corporation if it is resident in Canada and all of the issued and outstanding shares (other than directors' qualifying shares) of its capital stock (having full voting rights under all circumstances) are owned by

(a) the particular corporation,

(b) a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the particular corporation,

(c) a corporation of which the particular corporation is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation,

(d) a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a corporation of which the particular corporation is also a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation, or

(e) any combination of corporations each of which is a corporation described in paragraph (a), (b), (c) or (d), and, for the purpose of this subsection, a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a particular corporation includes any subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a corporation that is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the particular corporation.

Related Provisions: 134 — Status of non-resident-owned investment corporation for purposes of s. 219.

History: Subsec. 219(8) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 219(2), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1995. Subsec. 219(8) formerly read:

(8) For the purposes of this Part, a corporation is a "qualified related corporation" of a non-resident insurer if it is resident in Canada and all of the issued and outstanding shares (other than directors' qualifying shares) of the capital stock of the corporation (having full voting rights under all circumstances) are owned by

(a) the insurer,

(b) a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the insurer,

(c) a corporation of which the insurer is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation,

(d) a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a corporation of which the insurer is also a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation, or

(e) any combination of corporations each of which is a corporation described in paragraph (a), (b), (c) or (d), and, for the purpose of this subsection, a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a particular corporation includes any subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of a corporation that is a subsidiary wholly-owned corporation of the particular corporation.

PART XV — ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT

Administration

220. (1) Minister's duty — The Minister shall administer and enforce this Act and the Commissioner of Revenue may exercise all the powers and perform the duties of the Minister under this Act.

Related Provisions: 166 — Assessment not to be vacated by reason of CRA failure to follow proper procedures; 220(2.01) — Delegation of powers; Canada Revenue Agency Act — Establishment of CRA; Interpretation Act 24(2) — Power of others to act for Minister; Interpretation Act 31(2) — Ancillary powers granted to enable work to be done.

History: Subsec. 220(1) amended to substitute "Commissioner of Revenue" for "Commissioner of Customs and Revenue" by 2005, c. 38, subpara. 140(e)(iii), proclaimed in force December 12, 2005.

Subsec. 220(1) amended by 1999, c. 17, s. 164, proclaimed in force November 1, 1999. The subsec. formerly read:

> (1) The Minister shall administer and enforce this Act and control and supervise all persons employed to carry out or enforce this Act and the Deputy Minister of National Revenue may exercise all the powers and perform the duties of the Minister under this Act.

"Deputy Minister of National Revenue" substituted for "Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Taxation" in subsec. 220(1) by 1994, c. 13, subsec. 7(1), applicable May 12, 1994.

Proposed Addition — 220(2.2)

(2.2) Exception — Subsection (2.1) does not apply in respect of a prescribed form, receipt or document, or prescribed information, that is filed with the Minister on or after the day specified, in respect of the form, receipt, document or information, in subsection 37(11) or paragraph (m) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 182(1), will add subsec. 220(2.2), applicable in respect of a prescribed form, receipt and document, and prescribed information, filed with the Minister of National Revenue after November 16, 2005 other than a prescribed form, receipt or document, or prescribed information, in respect of which the Minister has received, before November 17, 2005, a request made in writing that the Minister waive the filing requirements in subsec. 37(11) and para. (m) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsec. 127(9) that apply, but for any waiver, to the expenditures to which the prescribed form, receipt or document, or prescribed information, relates.

Technical Notes: Under subsection 220(2.1), if a provision of the Act or the Regulations requires a person to file a prescribed form, receipt or other document, or to provide prescribed information, the Minister may waive the requirement, but the document or information shall be provided at the Minister's request.

New subsection 220(2.2) provides that subsection 220(2.1) does not extend to a prescribed form, receipt, document or information, or prescribed information, that is filed on or after the day specified — in respect of the form, receipt, document or information — in subsection 37(11) or paragraph (m) of the definition "investment tax credit" in subsection 127(9). Those provisions provide, in general, that a taxpayer's claim for SR&ED treatment be made in a prescribed form that must be received by the Minister no later than 12 months after the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year in which the expenditures were made.

The effect of new subsection 220(2.2) is that a person cannot deduct a scientific research and experimental development (SR&ED) expenditure under section 37, or claim an investment tax credit in respect of an expenditure, if the person takes more than the additional 12 months allowed to make a claim with the Minister.

Backgrounder

[For first portion of Backgrounder, see under 143.3 — ed.]

Late Claims for Tax Incentives

To be eligible for the SR&ED tax incentives and investment tax credits, taxpayers are required under the tax law to identify eligible expenditures on a prescribed form that is to be filed with the Minister of National Revenue no later than 12 months after the filing-due date for the tax return in respect of the taxation year in which the expenditures were made. This rule was first announced in the 1994 budget, and was added to stem a significant increase at that time in late claims for SR&ED tax incentives. The rule also applies to claims related to other amounts eligible for investment tax credits. However, under the Income Tax Act, the Minister of National Revenue does have the discretion to waive this deadline.

The ability to waive the 12-month filing deadline has come under increasing pressure as taxpayers have sought to file additional claims. The proposed amendments clarify with certainty that there will be no exception to the 12-month filing deadline for applications for investment tax credits and SR&ED treatment.

(3) Extensions for returns — The Minister may at any time extend the time for making a return under this Act.

Related Provisions: 127.4(5.1) — Authorization for late LSVCC investments; 146(22) — Authorization for late RRSP contributions; 220(3.2) — Late filing of elections.

History: Subsec. 220(3) amended by 2006, c. 4, subsec. 164(1), applicable in respect of extensions granted after March 31, 2007. The subsec. formerly read:

> (3) The Minister may at any time extend the time for making a return under this Act. However, the extension does not apply for the purpose of calculating a penalty that a person is liable to pay under section 162 if the person fails to make the return within the period of the extension.

Subsec. 220(3) amended by 2003, c. 15, s. 129, applicable in respect of extensions granted after February 18, 2003. The subsec. formerly read:

> (3) The Minister may at any time extend the time for making a return under this Act.

Selected Cases [subsec. 220(3)]: Kutlu v. R., [2000] 4 C.T.C. 129 (FCTD) (Minister's discretion improperly exercised).

(3.1) Waiver of penalty or interest — The Minister may, on or before the day that is ten calendar years after the end of a taxation year of a taxpayer (or in the case of a partnership, a fiscal period of the partnership) or on application by the taxpayer or partnership on or before that day, waive or cancel all or any portion of any penalty or interest otherwise payable under this Act by the taxpayer or partnership in respect of that taxation year or fiscal period, and notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), any assessment of the interest and penalties payable by the taxpayer or partnership shall be made that is necessary to take into account the cancellation of the penalty or interest.

Related Provisions: 161.3 — CRA discretion to cancel interest and penalty up to $25; 164(1.5) — Late refund of overpayment; 164(3.2) — Interest on refunds and repayments; 165(1.2) — Limitation of right to object; 206.4 — Waiver of Part XI taxes on registered disability savings plans; 207.06 — Waiver of Part XI.01 tax re TFSA; 225.1(1) — No collection restrictions following assessment.

History: Subsec. 220(3.1) amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 48, applicable after 2004, except that if a taxpayer or a partnership has, before 2005, applied to the Minister of National Revenue under the subsec. in respect of a taxation year or fiscal period, the subsec. is to be read in respect of that taxation year or fiscal period as follows:

> (3.1) The Minister may waive or cancel all or any portion of any penalty or interest otherwise payable under this Act by a taxpayer or partnership in respect of a taxation year or fiscal period, as the case may be, and notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), any assessment of the interest and penalties payable by the taxpayer or partnership shall be made that is necessary to take into account the cancellation of the penalty or interest.

The subsec. formerly read:

> (3.1) The Minister may at any time waive or cancel all or any portion of any penalty or interest otherwise payable under this Act by a taxpayer or partnership and, notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessment of the interest and penalties payable by the taxpayer or partnership shall be made as is necessary to take into account the cancellation of the penalty or interest.

(3.201) Joint election — pension income split — On application by a taxpayer, the Minister may extend the time for making an election, or grant permission to amend or revoke an election, under section 60.03 if

(a) the application is made on or before the day that is three calendar years after the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year to which the election applies; and

(b) the taxpayer is resident in Canada

(i) if the taxpayer is deceased at the time of the application, at the time that is immediately before the taxpayer's death, or

(ii) in any other case, at the time of the application.

History: Subsec. 220(3.201) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 61(1), applicable to 2007 et seq.

(3.21) Designations and allocations — For the purpose of subsection (3.2),

(a) a designation in any form prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 80(2)(i) or any of subsections 80(5) to (11) or 80.03(7) is deemed to be an election under a prescribed provision of this Act; and

(b) a designation or allocation under subsection 132.11(6) is deemed to be an election under a prescribed provision of this Act.

History: Subsec. 220(3.21) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 78, in force June 17, 1999. It formerly read:

(3.21) Designations under section 80 and subsection 80.03(7) — For the purposes of subsection (3.2), a designation in any form prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 80(2)(i) or any of subsections 80(5) to (11) or 80.03(7) shall be deemed to be an election under a prescribed provision of this Act.

Subsec. 220(3.21) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 42, applicable June 22, 1995.

(3.3) Date of late election, amended election or revocation — Where, under subsection (3.2), the Minister has extended the time for making an election or granted permission to amend or revoke an election,

(a) the election or the amended election, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have been made on the day on or before which the election was otherwise required to be made and in the manner in which the election was otherwise required to be made, and, in the case of an amendment to an election, that election shall be deemed, otherwise than for the purposes of this section, never to have been made; and

(b) the election that was revoked shall be deemed, otherwise than for the purposes of this section, never to have been made.

Related Provisions: 220(3.4) — Assessment to take late filing into account.

History: Subsec. 220(3.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 181(1), applicable to elections in respect of 1985 et seq.

(3.4) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4), (4.01), (4.1) and (5), such assessment of the tax, interest and penalties payable by each taxpayer in respect of any taxation year that began before the day an application is made under subsection (3.2) to the Minister shall be made as is necessary to take into account the election, the amended election or the revocation, as the case may be, referred to in subsection (3.3).

Related Provisions: 164(1.5) — Refunds; 164(3.2) — Interest on refunds and repayments; 165(1.1) — Limitation of right to object to assessment or determination; 169(2)(a) — Limitation of right to appeal.

History: Subsec. 220(3.4) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 221(2), applicable to elections in respect of 1985 et seq. Subsec. 220(3.4) formerly read:

(3.4) Notwithstanding subsections 152(4), (4.1) and (5), such assessment of the tax, interest and penalties payable by each taxpayer in respect of any taxation year commencing before the day an application is made under subsection (3.2) to the Minister shall be made as is necessary to take into account the election, the amended election or the revocation, as the case may be, referred to in subsection (3.3).

Subsec. 220(3.4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 181(1), applicable to elections in respect of 1985 et seq.

(3.5) Penalty for late filed, amended or revoked elections — Where, on application by a taxpayer or a partnership, the Minister extends the time for making an election or grants permission to amend or revoke an election (other than an extension or permission under subsection (3.201)), the taxpayer or the partnership, as the case may be, is liable to a penalty equal to the lesser of

(a) $8,000, and

(b) the product obtained when $100 is multiplied by the number of complete months from the day on or before which the election was required to be made to the day the application was made in a form satisfactory to the Minister.

Related Provisions: 220(3.6) — Assessment of penalty.

History: The opening words of subsec. 220(3.5) amended to add "(other than an extension or permission under subsection (3.201))" by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 61(2), applicable to 2007 et seq.

Subsec. 220(3.5) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 181(1), applicable to elections in respect of 1985 et seq.

(3.6) Unpaid balance of penalty — The Minister shall, with all due dispatch, examine each election, amended election and revoked election referred to in subsection (3.3), assess any penalty payable and send a notice of assessment to the taxpayer or the partnership, as the case may be, and the taxpayer or the partnership, as the case may be, shall pay forthwith to the Receiver General the amount, if any, by which the penalty so assessed exceeds the total of all amounts previously paid on account of that penalty.

Related Provisions: 161(11)(c) — Interest on penalties.

History: Subsec. 220(3.6) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 181(1), applicable to elections in respect of 1985 et seq.

(3.7) Idem — The provisions of Divisions I and J of Part I apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

History: Subsec. 220(3.7) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 181(1), applicable to elections in respect of 1985 et seq.

(3.8) Dishonoured instruments — [applicable in respect of instruments dishonoured after March 31, 2007] For the purposes of this Act and section 155.1 of the Financial Administration Act

(a) any charge that becomes payable at any time by a person under the Financial Administration Act in respect of an instrument tendered in payment or settlement of an amount that is payable or remittable under this Act is deemed to be an amount that becomes payable or remittable by the person at that time under this Act;

(b) sections 152, 158 and 159, subsections 161(1), (2) and (11), sections 162 to 167 and Division J of this Part are applicable to the amount deemed to become payable or remittable by this subsection with any modifications that the circumstances require;

(c) Part II of the Interest and Administrative Charges Regulations does not apply to the charge; and

(d) any debt under subsection 155.1(3) of the Financial Administration Act in respect of the charge is deemed to be extinguished at the time the total of the amount and any applicable interest under this Act is paid.

History: Subsec. 220(3.8) added by 2006, c. 4, subsec. 164(2), applicable in respect of instruments dishonoured after March 31, 2007.

(4) Security — The Minister may, if the Minister considers it advisable in a particular case, accept security for payment of any amount that is or may become payable under this Act.

Related Provisions: 159(2) — Certificate before distribution; 222(8)(b) — Extension of 10-year limitation period on collection action while security held; 222.1 — Application to awards of court costs.

Regulations: 2200 (Minister may discharge security).

(4.1) Idem — Where a taxpayer has objected to or appealed from an assessment under this Act, the Minister shall, while the objection or appeal is outstanding, accept adequate security furnished by or on behalf of the taxpayer for payment of the amount in controversy except to the extent that the Minister may collect the amount because of subsection 225.1(7).

Related Provisions: 222(8)(b) — Extension of 10-year limitation period on collection action while security held.

History: Subsec. 220(4.1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 127(3). Subsec. (4.1) formerly read:

(4.1) Idem where objection or appeal — Where a taxpayer has objected to or appealed from an assessment under this Act, the Minister shall accept adequate security furnished by or on behalf of the taxpayer for payment of the amount in controversy while the objection [or] appeal is outstanding.

(4.2) Surrender of excess security — Where at any time a taxpayer requests in writing that the Minister surrender any security accepted by the Minister under subsection (4) or (4.1), the Minister shall surrender the security to the extent that the value of the security exceeds the total of amounts payable under this Act by the taxpayer at that time.

Related Provisions: 222.1 — Application to awards of court costs.

(4.3) Security furnished by a member institution of a deposit insurance corporation — The Minister shall accept adequate security furnished by or on behalf of a taxpayer that is a member institution in relation to a deposit insurance corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 137.1(5)) for payment of

(a) the tax payable under this Act by the taxpayer for a taxation year, to the extent that the amount of that tax exceeds the amount that that tax would be if no amount that the taxpayer is obliged to repay to the corporation were included under paragraph 137.1(10)(a) or (b) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(b) interest payable under this Act by the taxpayer on the amount determined under paragraph (a),

until the earlier of

(c) the day on which the taxpayer's obligation referred to in paragraph (a) to repay the amount to the corporation is settled or extinguished, and

(d) the day that is 10 years after the end of the year.

History: Para. 220(4.3)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 181(2), to substitute "for the year or a preceding taxation year" for "for the year", applicable after July 13, 1990.

(4.4) Additional security — The adequacy of security furnished by or on behalf of a taxpayer under subsection (4.3) shall be determined by the Minister and the Minister may require additional security to be furnished from time to time by or on behalf of the taxpayer where the Minister determines that the security that has been furnished is no longer adequate.

History: Subsec. 220(4.4) added by 1987, c. 46, s. 65, applicable after February 17, 1987.

(4.5) Security for departure tax — If an individual who is deemed by subsection 128.1(4) to have disposed of a property (other than a right to a benefit under, or an interest in a trust governed by, an employee benefit plan) at any particular time in a taxation year (in this section referred to as the individual's "emigration year") elects, in prescribed manner on or before the individual's balance-due day for the emigration year, that this subsection and subsections (4.51) to (4.54) apply in respect of the emigration year,

(a) the Minister shall, until the individual's balance-due day for a particular taxation year that begins after the particular time, accept adequate security furnished by or on behalf of the individual on or before the individual's balance-due day for the emigration year for the lesser of

(i) the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B - [((A - B)/A) \times C]$$

where

A is the total amount of taxes under Parts I and I.1 that would be payable by the individual for the emigration year if the exclusion or deduction of each amount referred to in paragraph 161(7)(a) were not taken into account,

B is the total amount of taxes under those Parts that would have been so payable if each property (other than a right to a benefit under, or an interest in a trust governed by, an employee benefit plan) deemed by subsection 128.1(4) to have been disposed of at the particular time, and that has not been subsequently disposed of before the beginning of the particular year, were not deemed by subsection 128.1(4) to have been disposed of by the individual at the particular time, and

C is the total of all amounts deemed under this or any other Act to have been paid on account of the individual's tax under this Part for the emigration year, and

(ii) if the particular year immediately follows the emigration year, the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and in any other case, the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of the individual for the taxation year that immediately precedes the particular year; and

(b) except for the purposes of subsections 161(2), (4) and (4.01),

(i) interest under this Act for any period that ends on the individual's balance-due day for the particular year and throughout which security is accepted by the Minister, and

(ii) any penalty under this Act computed with reference to an individual's tax payable for the year that was, without reference to this paragraph, unpaid shall be computed as if the particular amount for which adequate security has been accepted under this subsection were an amount paid by the individual on account of the particular amount.

Related Provisions: 128.1(6) — Tax cancelled if emigrant returns to Canada; 128.3 — Shares acquired on rollover deemed to be same shares for 220(4.5); 152(10) — Posted security deemed not to be tax assessed for purposes of administration of provincial tax; 220(4.51) — Exemption for first $25,000 of security; 220(4.52) — Security effective only for departure tax; 220(4.53) — Where security proves inadequate; 220(4.54) — Extension of time for making election; 220(4.7) — Reduction in security for undue hardship; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Forms: T1244: Election, under subsec. 220(4.5) of the ITA, to defer the payment of tax on income re deemed disposition of property.

(4.51) Deemed security — If an individual (other than a trust) elects under subsection (4.5) that that subsection apply in respect of a taxation year, for the purposes of this subsection and subsections (4.5) and (4.52) to (4.54), the Minister is deemed to have accepted at any time after the election is made adequate security for a total amount of taxes payable under Parts I and I.1 by the individual for the emigration year equal to the lesser of

(a) the total amount of those taxes that would be payable for the year by an inter vivos trust resident in Canada (other than a trust described in subsection 122(2)) the taxable income of which for the year is $50,000, and

(b) the greatest amount for which the Minister is required to accept security furnished by or on behalf of the individual under subsection (4.5) at that time in respect of the emigration year, and that security is deemed to have been furnished by the individual before the individual's balance-due day for the emigration year.

(4.52) Limit — Notwithstanding subsections (4.5) and (4.51), the Minister is deemed at any time not to have accepted security under subsection (4.5) in respect of an individual's emigration year for any amount greater than the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total amount of taxes that would be payable by the individual under Parts I and I.1 for the year if the exclusion or deduction of each amount referred to in paragraph 161(7)(a), in respect of which the day determined under paragraph 161(7)(b) is after that time, were not taken into account

(b) the total amount of taxes that would be determined under paragraph (a) if this Act were read without reference to subsection 128.1(4).

(4.53) Inadequate security — Subject to subsection (4.7), if it is determined at any particular time that security accepted by the Minister under subsection (4.5) is not adequate to secure the particular amount for which it was furnished by or on behalf of an individual,

(a) subject to a subsequent application of this subsection, the security shall be considered after the particular time to secure only the amount for which it is adequate security at the particular time;

(b) the Minister shall notify the individual in writing of the determination and shall accept adequate security, for all or any part of the particular amount, furnished by or on behalf of the individual within 90 days after the day of notification; and

(c) any security accepted in accordance with paragraph (b) is deemed to have been accepted by the Minister under subsection (4.5) on account of the particular amount at the particular time.

Related Provisions: 220(4.54)(c) — Extension of 90-day period under (4.53)(b).

(4.54) Extension of time — If in the opinion of the Minister it would be just and equitable to do so, the Minister may at any time extend

(a) the time for making an election under subsection (4.5);

(b) the time for furnishing and accepting security under subsection (4.5); or

(c) the 90-day period for the acceptance of security under paragraph (4.53)(b).

(4.6) Security for tax on distributions of taxable Canadian property to non-resident beneficiaries — Where

(a) solely because of the application of subsection 107(5), paragraphs 107(2)(a) to (c) do not apply to a distribution by a trust in a particular taxation year (in this section referred to as the trust's "distribution year") of taxable Canadian property, and

(b) the trust elects, in prescribed manner on or before the trust's balance-due day for the distribution year, that this subsection and subsections (4.61) to (4.63) apply in respect of the distribution year,

the following rules apply:

(c) the Minister shall, until the trust's balance-due day for a subsequent taxation year, accept adequate security furnished by or on behalf of the trust on or before the trust's balance-due day for the distribution year for the lesser of

(i) the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B - [((A - B)/A) \times C]$$

where

A is the total amount of taxes under Parts I and I.1 that would be payable by the trust for the distribution year if the exclusion or deduction of each amount referred to in paragraph 161(7)(a) were not taken into account,

B is the total amount of taxes under those Parts that would have been so payable if the rules in subsection 107(2) (other than the election referred to in that subsection) had applied to each disposition by the trust in the distribution year of property (other than property subsequently disposed of before the beginning of the subsequent year) to which paragraph (a) applies, and

C is the total of all amounts deemed under this or any other Act to have been paid on account of the trust's tax under this Part for the distribution year, and

(ii) where the subsequent year immediately follows the distribution year, the amount determined under subparagraph (i), and in any other case, the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of the trust for the taxation year that immediately precedes the subsequent year, and

(d) except for the purposes of subsections 161(2), (4) and (4.01),

(i) interest under this Act for any period ending on the trust's balance-due day for the subsequent year and throughout which security is accepted by the Minister, and

(ii) any penalty under this Act computed with reference to the trust's tax payable for the year that was, without reference to this paragraph, unpaid shall be computed as if the particular amount for which adequate security has been accepted under this subsection were an amount paid by the trust on account of the particular amount.

Related Provisions: 128.3 — Shares acquired on rollover deemed to be same shares for 220(4.6); 152(10) — Posted security deemed not to be tax assessed for purposes of administration of provincial tax; 220(4.61) — Security effective only for tax caused by 107(5); 220(4.62) — Where security proves inadequate; 220(4.63) — Extension of time for making election; 220(4.7) — Reduction in security for undue hardship; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(4.61) Limit — Notwithstanding subsection (4.6), the Minister is deemed at any time not to have accepted security under that subsection in respect of a trust's distribution year for any amount greater than the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total amount of taxes that would be payable by the trust under Parts I and I.1 for the year if the exclusion or deduction of each amount referred to in paragraph 161(7)(a), in respect of which the day determined under paragraph 161(7)(b) is after that time, were not taken into account

(b) the total amount of taxes that would be determined under paragraph (a) if paragraphs 107(2)(a) to (c) had applied to each distribution by the trust in the year of property to which paragraph (1)(a) applies.

(4.62) Inadequate security — Subject to subsection (4.7), where it is determined at any particular time that security accepted by the Minister under subsection (4.6) is not adequate to secure the particular amount for which it was furnished by or on behalf of a trust,

(a) subject to a subsequent application of this subsection, the security shall be considered after the particular time to secure only the amount for which it is adequate security at the particular time;

(b) the Minister shall notify the trust in writing of the determination and shall accept adequate security, for all or any part of the particular amount, furnished by or on behalf of the trust within 90 days after the notification; and

(c) any security accepted in accordance with paragraph (b) is deemed to have been accepted by the Minister under subsection (4.6) on account of the particular amount at the particular time.

(4.63) Extension of time — Where in the opinion of the Minister it would be just and equitable to do so, the Minister may at any time extend

(a) the time for making an election under subsection (4.6);

(b) the time for furnishing and accepting security under subsection (4.6); or

(c) the 90-day period for the acceptance of the security under paragraph (4.62)(b).

(4.7) Undue hardship — If, in respect of any period of time, the Minister determines that an individual who has made an election under either of subsection (4.5) or (4.6)

(a) cannot, without undue hardship, pay or reasonably arrange to have paid on the individual's behalf, an amount of taxes to which security under that subsection would relate, and

(b) cannot, without undue hardship, provide or reasonably arrange to have provided on the individual's behalf, adequate security under that subsection, the Minister may, in respect of the election, accept for the period security different from, or of lesser value than, that which the Minister would otherwise accept under that subsection.

Related Provisions: 220(4.71) — Transactions entered into to create hardship to be ignored.

(4.71) Limit — In making a determination under subsection (4.7), the Minister shall ignore any transaction that is a disposition, lease, encumbrance, mortgage, hypothec, or other voluntary restriction by a person or partnership of the person's or partnership's rights in respect of a property, if the transaction can reasonably be considered to have been entered into for the purpose of influencing the determination.

History [220(4.5)–(4.71)]: Subsecs. 220(4.5) to (4.71) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 178, applicable to dispositions and distributions that occur at any time after October 1, 1996 except that,

(a) the reference to "$50,000" in para. 220(4.51)(a) shall be read as a reference to "$75,000" in respect of emigration years that are before 2001; and

(b) if an individual ceased to be resident in Canada, or a distribution by a trust occurred to which para. 220(4.6)(a) applies in respect of the trust, before the particular day on which the amending legislation is assented to,

(i) an election by the individual under subsec. 220(4.5), or by the trust under subsec. 220(4.6), as the case may be, in respect of the taxation year that includes that time is deemed to have been made in a timely manner if it is made on or before the individual's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes the particular day; and

(ii) security furnished by or on behalf of the individual under subsec. 220(4.5), or by or on behalf of the trust under subsec. 220(4.6), as the case may be, is deemed to have been furnished in a timely manner if it is furnished on or before the individual's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes the particular day.

(5) Administration of oaths — Any officer or servant employed in connection with the administration or enforcement of this Act, if designated by the Minister for the purpose, may, in the course of that employment, administer oaths and take and receive affidavits, declarations and affirmations for the purposes of or incidental to the administration or enforcement of this Act or regulations made thereunder, and every officer or servant so designated has for those purposes all the powers of a commissioner for administering oaths or taking affidavits.

Related Provisions: Interpretation Act 19 — Administration of oaths.

(6) Assignment by corporation — Notwithstanding section 67 of the Financial Administration Act and any other provision of a law of Canada or a province, a corporation may assign any amount payable to it under this Act.

Related Provisions: 220(7) — Assignment not binding on federal government.

History: Subsec. 220(6) added by 1997, c. 25, s. 66, applicable to assignments made after March 5, 1996.

(7) Effect of assignment — An assignment referred to in subsection (6) is not binding on Her Majesty in right of Canada and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing,

(a) the Minister is not required to pay to the assignee the assigned amount;

(b) the assignment does not create any liability of Her Majesty in right of Canada to the assignee; and

(c) the rights of the assignee are subject to all equitable and statutory rights of set-off in favour of Her Majesty in right of Canada.

History: Subsec. 220(7) added by 1997, c. 25, s. 66, applicable to assignments made after March 5, 1996.

(2) Effect — A regulation made under this Act shall have effect from the date it is published in the Canada Gazette or at such time thereafter as may be specified in the regulation unless the regulation provides otherwise and it

(a) has a relieving effect only;

(b) corrects an ambiguous or deficient enactment that was not in accordance with the objects of this Act or the Income Tax Regulations;

(c) is consequential on an amendment to this Act that is applicable before the date the regulation is published in the Canada Gazette; or

(d) gives effect to a budgetary or other public announcement, in which case the regulation shall not, except where paragraph (a), (b) or (c) applies, have effect

(i) before the date on which the announcement was made, in the case of a deduction or withholding from an amount paid or credited, and

(ii) before the taxation year in which the announcement is made, in any other case.

Selected Cases: Savard v. R., [1998] 1 C.T.C. 2430 (TCC) (White Paper constituted "budgetary or public announcement").

221.2 (1) Re-appropriation of amounts — Where a particular amount was appropriated to an amount (in this section referred to as the "debt") that is or may become payable by a person under any enactment referred to in paragraphs 223(1)(a) to (d), the Minister may, on application by the person, appropriate the particular amount, or a part thereof, to another amount that is or may become payable under any such enactment and, for the purposes of any such enactment,

(a) the later appropriation shall be deemed to have been made at the time of the earlier appropriation;

(b) the earlier appropriation shall be deemed not to have been made to the extent of the later appropriation; and

(c) the particular amount shall be deemed not to have been paid on account of the debt to the extent of the later appropriation.

(2) Re-appropriation of amounts — [applicable in respect of reappropriation applications made after March 31, 2007] Where a particular amount was appropriated to an amount (in this section referred to as the "debt") that is or may become payable by a person under this Act, the Excise Tax Act, the Air Travellers Security Charge Act or the Excise Act, 2001, the Minister may, on application by the person, appropriate the particular amount, or a part of it, to another amount that is or may become payable under any of those Acts and, for the purposes of any of those Acts,

(a) the later appropriation is deemed to have been made at the time of the earlier appropriation;

(b) the earlier appropriation is deemed not to have been made to the extent of the later appropriation; and

(c) the particular amount is deemed not to have been paid on account of the debt to the extent of the later appropriation.

Collection

222. (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this section.

"action" means an action to collect a tax debt of a taxpayer and includes a proceeding in a court and anything done by the Minister under subsection 129(2), 131(3), 132(2) or 164(2), section 203 or any provision of this Part.

"tax debt" means any amount payable by a taxpayer under this Act.

(2) Debts to Her Majesty — A tax debt is a debt due to Her Majesty and is recoverable as such in the Federal Court or any other court of competent jurisdiction or in any other manner provided by this Act.

(3) No actions after limitation period — The Minister may not commence an action to collect a tax debt after the end of the limitation period for the collection of the tax debt.

Related Provisions: 222(4), (5) — Limitation period.

(4) Limitation period — The limitation period for the collection of a tax debt of a taxpayer

(a) begins

(i) if a notice of assessment, or a notice referred to in subsection 226(1), in respect of the tax debt is mailed to or served on the taxpayer, after March 3, 2004, on the day that is 90 days after the day on which the last one of those notices is mailed or served, and

(ii) if subparagraph (i) does not apply and the tax debt was payable on March 4, 2004, or would have been payable on that date but for a limitation period that otherwise applied to the collection of the tax debt, on March 4, 2004; and

(b) ends, subject to subsection (8), on the day that is 10 years after the day on which it begins.

Related Provisions: 222(5) — Restart of limitation period; 222(8) — Extension of limitation period.

Selected Cases: Collins v. R., [2006] 1 C.T.C. 1 (FC) (Provision overrules limitation periods).

(5) Limitation period restarted — The limitation period described in subsection (4) for the collection of a tax debt of a taxpayer restarts (and ends, subject to subsection (8), on the day that is 10 years after the day on which it restarts) on any day, before it would otherwise end, on which

(a) the taxpayer acknowledges the tax debt in accordance with subsection (6);

(b) the Minister commences an action to collect the tax debt; or

(c) the Minister, under subsection 159(3) or 160(2) or paragraph 227(10)(a), assesses any person in respect of the tax debt.

Related Provisions: 222(6), (7) — Meaning of "acknowledges".

(6) Acknowledgement of tax debts — A taxpayer acknowledges a tax debt if the taxpayer

(a) promises, in writing, to pay the tax debt;

(b) makes a written acknowledgement of the tax debt, whether or not a promise to pay can be inferred from the acknowledgement and whether or not it contains a refusal to pay; or

(c) makes a payment, including a purported payment by way of a negotiable instrument that is dishonoured, on account of the tax debt.

Related Provisions: 222(7) — Acknowledgment by agent or legal representative.

(7) Agent or legal representative — For the purposes of this section, an acknowledgement made by a taxpayer's agent or legal representative has the same effect as if it were made by the taxpayer.

(8) Extension of limitation period — In computing the day on which a limitation period ends, there shall be added the number of days on which one or more of the following is the case:

(a) the Minister may not, because of any of subsections 225.1(2) to (5), take any of the actions described in subsection 225.1(1) in respect of the tax debt;

(b) the Minister has accepted and holds security in lieu of payment of the tax debt;

(c) if the taxpayer was resident in Canada on the applicable date described in paragraph (4)(a) in respect of the tax debt, the taxpayer is non-resident; or

(d) an action that the Minister may otherwise take in respect of the tax debt is restricted or not permitted by any provision of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act or of the Farm Debt Mediation Act.

(9) Bar to claims — Notwithstanding any law of Canada or a province, Her Majesty is not liable for any claim that arises because the Minister collected a tax debt after the end of any limitation period that applied to the collection of the tax debt and before March 4, 2004.

(10) Orders after March 3, 2004 and before effect — Notwithstanding any order or judgment made after March 3, 2004 that declares a tax debt not to be payable by a taxpayer, or that orders the Minister to reimburse to a taxpayer a tax debt collected by the Minister, because a limitation period that applied to the collection of the tax debt ended before royal assent to any measure giving effect to this section, the tax debt is deemed to have become payable on March 4, 2004.

Remission Orders [subsec. 222(10)]: Ram Sewak Remission Order, P.C. 2006-445 (cancels $990 tax debt from 1977, which grew with interest while taxpayer was away from Canada 1978-2001).

Related Provisions [s. 222]: 225.1 — Collection restrictions.

History: S. 222 amended by 2004, c. 22, s. 50, in force May 14, 2004. The section formerly read:

> 222. Debts to Her Majesty — All taxes, interest, penalties, costs and other amounts payable under this Act are debts due to Her Majesty and recoverable as such in the Federal Court of Canada or any other court of competent jurisdiction or in any other manner provided by this Act.

(3) Registration in court — On production to the Federal Court, a certificate made under subsection (2) in respect of a debtor shall be registered in the Court and when so registered has the same effect, and all proceedings may be taken thereon, as if the certificate were a judgment obtained in the Court against the debtor for a debt in the amount certified plus interest thereon to the day of payment as provided by the statute or statutes referred to in subsection (1) under which the amount is payable and, for the purpose of any such proceedings, the certificate shall be deemed to be a judgment of the Court against the debtor for a debt due to Her Majesty, enforceable in the amount certified plus interest thereon to the day of payment as provided by that statute or statutes.

Related Provisions: 161(1) — Interest; 161(11) — Interest on penalties; 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 222.1 — Application to awards of court costs; 223.1(1) — Application; 225.1 — No collection action for 90 days or if objection filed; 227.1(2)(a) — Liability of directors; 248(11) — Compound interest.

History: Subsec. 223(3) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 129. Subsec. (3) formerly read:

(3) Registration in Court — On production to the Federal Court, a certificate made under subsection (2) in respect of a debtor shall be registered in the Court and when so registered has the same effect, and all proceedings may be taken thereon, as if the certificate were a judgment obtained in the Court against the debtor for a debt in the amount certified plus interest thereon to the day of payment as provided by law and, for the purposes of any such proceedings, the certificate shall be deemed to be a judgment of the Court against the debtor for a debt due to Her Majesty enforceable in the amount certified plus interest thereon to the day of payment as provided by law.

Selected Cases [subsec. 223(3)]: Kune v. R., [1982] C.T.C. 300 (FCTD) (Stay of execution granted with respect to real property, but not personal, property where taxpayer provided evidence of fire insurance, mortgage and tax payment); Re Van Gastel, [1982] C.T.C. 61 (FCTD) (Federal Court exercised jurisdiction to indefinitely stay further execution of writ of fieri facias issued by it where Minister failed to deal with objection "with all due dispatch"); R. v. Rumball, [1981] C.T.C. 9 (FCTD) (Stay of execution only granted where seizure made and assessment under objection or appeal).

(4) Costs — All reasonable costs and charges incurred or paid in respect of the registration in the Court of a certificate made under subsection (2) or in respect of any proceedings taken to collect the amount certified are recoverable in like manner as if they had been included in the amount certified in the certificate when it was registered.

(5) Charge on property — A document issued by the Federal Court evidencing a certificate in respect of a debtor registered under subsection (3), a writ of that Court issued pursuant to the certificate or any notification of the document or writ (such document, writ or notification in this section referred to as a "memorial") may be filed, registered or otherwise recorded for the purpose of creating a charge, lien or priority on, or a binding interest in, property in a province, or any interest in such property, held by the debtor in the same manner as a document evidencing

Proposed Amendment — 223(5) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 271(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 223(5) by substituting "interest in, or for civil law any right in, such property" for "interest in such property", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(a) a judgment of the superior court of the province against a person for a debt owing by the person, or

(b) an amount payable or required to be remitted by a person in the province in respect of a debt owing to Her Majesty in right of the province may be filed, registered or otherwise recorded in accordance with or pursuant to the law of the province to create a charge, lien or priority on, or a binding interest in, the property or interest.

Related Provisions: 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 223(11.1) — Where charge registered under Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act; 223.1(1) — Application; 225.1 — No collection action for 90 days or if objection filed; 248(4) — Interest in real property.

(5) Charge on land — A document (in this section referred to as a "memorial") issued by the Federal Court evidencing a certificate in respect of a debtor registered under subsection (3) may be filed, registered or otherwise recorded for the purpose of creating a charge or lien on or otherwise binding land in a province, or any interest therein, held by the debtor in the same manner as a document evidencing a judgment of the superior court of the province against a person for a debt owing by the person may be filed, registered or otherwise recorded in accordance with the law of the province to create a charge or lien on or otherwise bind land, or any interest therein, held by the person.

Selected Cases [subsec. 223(5)]: Keith G. Collins Ltd. v. MNR, [2008] 5 C.T.C. 193 (Man. CA) (RRSPs subject to Minister's security interest).

(6) Creation of charge — If a memorial has been filed, registered or otherwise recorded under subsection (5),

(a) a charge, lien or priority is created on, or a binding interest is created in, property in the province, or any interest in such property, held by the debtor, or

(b) such property or interest in the property is otherwise bound,

Proposed Amendment — 223(6)(a), (b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 271(2), will amend paras. 223(6)(a) and (b) by substituting "interest in, or for civil law any right in, such property" for "interest in such property" in para. (a) and "interest or right" for "interest" in para. (b), to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

in the same manner and to the same extent as if the memorial were a document evidencing a judgment referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or an amount referred to in paragraph (5)(b), and the charge, lien, priority or binding interest created shall be subordinate to any charge, lien, priority or binding interest in respect of which all steps necessary to make it effective against other creditors were taken before the time the memorial was filed, registered or otherwise recorded.

Related Provisions: 223(11.1) — Where charge registered under Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act; 223.1(1) — Application; 248(4) — Interest in real property.

History: Subsec. 223(6) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 224(2), in force June 18, 1998. Subsec. 224(6) formerly read:

> (6) Idem — Where a memorial has been filed, registered or otherwise recorded under subsection (5), a charge or lien is created on land in the province, or any interest therein, held by the debtor, or such land or interest is otherwise bound, in the same manner and to the same extent as if the memorial were a document evidencing a judgment of the superior court of the province.

(7) Proceedings in respect of memorial — If a memorial is filed, registered or otherwise recorded in a province under subsection (5), proceedings may be taken in the province in respect of the memorial, including proceedings

(a) to enforce payment of the amount evidenced by the memorial, interest on the amount and all costs and charges paid or incurred in respect of

(i) the filing, registration or other recording of the memorial, and

(ii) proceedings taken to collect the amount,

(b) to renew or otherwise prolong the effectiveness of the filing, registration or other recording of the memorial,

(c) to cancel or withdraw the memorial wholly or in respect of any of the property or interests affected by the memorial, or

(d) to postpone the effectiveness of the filing, registration or other recording of the memorial in favour of any right, charge, lien or priority that has been or is intended to be filed, registered or otherwise recorded in respect of any property or interest affected by the memorial,

Proposed Amendment — 223(7)(c), (d)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 271(3), will amend paras. 223(7)(c) and (d) by substituting "property, or interests or rights," for "property or interests" in para. (c) and "property, or interest or right," for "property or interest" in para. (d), to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

in the same manner and to the same extent as if the memorial were a document evidencing a judgment referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or an amount referred to in paragraph (5)(b), except that if in any such proceeding or as a condition precedent to any such proceeding any order, consent or ruling is required under the law of the province to be made or given by the superior court of the province or a judge or official of the court, a like order, consent or ruling may be made or given by the Federal Court or a judge or official of the Federal Court and, when so made or given, has the same effect for the purposes of the proceeding as if it were made or given by the superior court of the province or a judge or official of the court.

Related Provisions: 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 225.1 — No collection action for 90 days or if objection filed.

(8) Presentation of documents — If

(a) a memorial is presented for filing, registration or other recording under subsection (5) or a document relating to the memorial is presented for filing, registration or other recording for the purpose of any proceeding described in subsection (7) to any official in the land, personal property or other registry system of a province, it shall be accepted for filing, registration or other recording, or

Proposed Amendment — 223(8)(a)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 271(4), will amend para. 223(8)(a) by substituting "land registry system, personal property or movable property registry system," for "land, personal property", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(b) access is sought to any person, place or thing in a province to make the filing, registration or other recording, the access shall be granted in the same manner and to the same extent as if the memorial or document relating to the memorial were a document evidencing a judgment referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or an amount referred to in paragraph (5)(b) for the purpose of a like proceeding, as the case may be, except that, if the memorial or document is issued by the Federal Court or signed or certified by a judge or official of the Court, any affidavit, declaration or other evidence required under the law of the province to be provided with or to accompany the memorial or document in the proceedings is deemed to have been provided with or to have accompanied the memorial or document as so required.

Related Provisions: 223.1(1) — Application.

History: Subsec. 223(8) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 224(2), in force June 18, 1998. Subsec. 224(8) formerly read:

> (8) Where a memorial of a certificate registered under subsection (3) is presented for filing, registration or other recording as permitted under subsection (5), or any document relating to the memorial is presented for filing, registration or other recording for the purpose of any proceeding described in subsection (7), to any officer of a superior court of a province or to any official in the land registry system of a province, it shall be accepted for filing, registration or other recording as though it were a like document issued from the superior court of the province or prepared in respect of a document evidencing a judgment of the superior court of the province for the purpose of a like proceeding, as the case may be, except that, where the memorial or document is issued by the Federal Court or signed or certified by a judge or official thereof, any affidavit, declaration or other evidence required under the law of the province to be provided with or to accompany the memorial or document in such proceedings shall be deemed to have been provided with or to have accompanied the memorial or document as so required.

(9) Sale, etc. — Notwithstanding any law of Canada or of a province, a sheriff or other person shall not, without the written consent of the Minister, sell or otherwise dispose of any property, or publish any notice or otherwise advertise in respect of any sale or other disposition of any property pursuant to any process issued or charge, lien, priority or binding interest created in any proceeding to collect an amount certified in a certificate made under subsection (2), interest on the amount and costs, but if that consent is subsequently given, any property that would have been affected by such a process, charge, lien, priority or binding interest if the Minister's consent had been given at the time the process was issued or the charge, lien, priority or binding interest was created, as the case may be, shall be bound, seized, attached, charged or otherwise affected as it would be if that consent had been given at the time the process was issued or the charge, lien, priority or binding interest was created, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 223.1(1) — Application.

History: Subsec. 223(9) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 224(2), in force June 18, 1998. Subsec. 224(9) formerly read:

> (9) Notwithstanding any law of Canada or of a province, a sheriff or other person shall not, without the written consent of the Minister, sell or otherwise dispose of any property, or publish any notice or otherwise advertise in respect of any sale or other disposition of any property pursuant to any process issued or charge or lien created in any proceeding to collect an amount certified in a certificate made under subsection (2), interest thereon and costs but any property that would have been affected by such a process, charge or lien had the Minister's consent been given at the time the process was issued or the charge or lien was created, as the case may be, shall be bound, seized, attached, charged or otherwise affected as it would be had that consent been given at the time the process was issued or the charge or lien was created, as the case may be.

(10) Completion of notices, etc. — If information required to be set out by any sheriff or other person in a minute, notice or document required to be completed for any purpose cannot, by reason of subsection (9), be so set out, the sheriff or other person shall complete the minute, notice or document to the extent possible without that information and, when the consent of the Minister is given under that subsection, a further minute, notice or document setting out all the information shall be completed for the same purpose, and the sheriff or other person having complied with this subsection is deemed to have complied with the Act, regulation or rule requiring the information to be set out in the minute, notice or document.

Related Provisions: 223.1(1) — Application.

History: Subsec. 223(10) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 224(2), in force June 18, 1998. Subsec. 224(10) formerly read:

> (10) Where information required to be set out by any sheriff or other person in a minute, notice or document required to be completed for any purpose cannot, by reason of subsection (9), be so set out, the sheriff or other person shall complete the minute, notice or document to the extent possible without that information and, when the consent of the Minister is given for the purpose of that subsection, a further minute, notice or document setting out all the information shall be completed for the same purpose, and the sheriff or other person having complied with this subsection shall be deemed to have complied with the Act, regulation or rule requiring the information to be set out in the minute, notice or document.

(11) Application for an order — A sheriff or other person who is unable, by reason of subsection (9) or (10), to comply with any law or rule of court is bound by any order made by a judge of the Federal Court, on an ex parte application by the Minister, for the purpose of giving effect to the proceeding, charge, lien, priority or binding interest.

Related Provisions: 223.1(1) — Application.

History: Subsec. 223(11) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 224(2), in force June 18, 1998. Subsec. 224(11) formerly read:

> (11) A sheriff or other person who is unable, by reason of subsection (9) or (10), to comply with any law or rule of court shall be bound by such order as may be made by a judge of the Federal Court, on an ex parte application by the Minister, for the purpose of giving effect to the proceeding, charge or lien.

(11.1) Deemed security — When a charge, lien, priority or binding interest created under subsection (6) by filing, registering or otherwise recording a memorial under subsection (5) is registered in accordance with subsection 87(1) of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, it is deemed

> (a) to be a claim that is secured by a security and that, subject to subsection 87(2) of that Act, ranks as a secured claim under that Act; and
> (b) to also be a claim referred to in paragraph 86(2)(a) of that Act.

History: Subsec. 223(11.1) amended by 2000, c. 30, s. 175, to replace the term "security claim" with "secured claim", deemed to have come into force on June 18, 1998.

Subsec. 223(11.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 224(2), in force June 18, 1998.

(12) Details in certificates and memorials — Notwithstanding any law of Canada or of a province, in any certificate made under subsection (2) in respect of a debtor, in any memorial evidencing the certificate or in any writ or document issued for the purpose of collecting an amount certified, it is sufficient for all purposes

> (a) to set out, as the amount payable by the debtor, the total of amounts payable by the debtor without setting out the separate amounts making up that total; and
> (b) to refer to the rate of interest to be charged on the separate amounts making up the amount payable in general terms as interest at the rate prescribed under this Act applicable from time to time on amounts payable to the Receiver General without indicating the specific rates of interest to be charged on each of the separate amounts or to be charged for any particular period of time.

(1.1) Idem — Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), where the Minister has knowledge or suspects that within 90 days

> (a) a bank, credit union, trust company or other similar person (in this section referred to as the "institution") will lend or advance moneys to, or make a payment on behalf of, or make a payment in respect of a negotiable instrument issued by, a tax debtor who is indebted to the institution and who has granted security in respect of the indebtedness, or
> (b) a person, other than an institution, will lend or advance moneys to, or make a payment on behalf of, a tax debtor who the Minister knows or suspects
> (i) is employed by, or is engaged in providing services or property to, that person or was or will be, within 90 days, so employed or engaged, or
> (ii) where that person is a corporation, is not dealing at arm's length with that person,

the Minister may in writing require the institution or person, as the case may be, to pay in whole or in part to the Receiver General on account of the tax debtor's liability under this Act the moneys that would otherwise be so lent, advanced or paid and any moneys so paid to the Receiver General shall be deemed to have been lent, advanced or paid, as the case may be, to the tax debtor.

Related Provisions: 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 222.1 — Application to awards of court costs; 224(4.1) — Liability on failure to comply; 224(5), (6) — Service of garnishee; 225.1 — No collection action for 90 days or if objection filed; 231.2(1) — requirement to provide information or documents for collection purposes; 231.6(1) — foreign-based documents sought for collection purposes; 244(5), (6) — Proof of service by mail or personal service; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: The closing words of subsec. 224(1.1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 101(2), applicable to requirements and notifications made after 1992. The closing words of that subsec. formerly read:

> the Minister may, by registered letter or by a letter served personally, require the institution or person, as the case may be, to pay in whole or in part to the Receiver General on account of the tax debtor's liability under this Act the moneys that would otherwise be so lent, advanced or paid and any moneys so paid to the Receiver General shall be deemed to have been lent, advanced or paid, as the case may be, to the tax debtor.

(1.2) Idem — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, any other enactment of Canada, any enactment of a province or any law, but subject to subsections 69(1) and 69.1(1) of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and section 11.4 of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, where the Minister has knowledge or suspects that a particular person is, or will become within one year, liable to make a payment

Proposed Amendment — 224(1.2) opening words

(1.2) Garnishment — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, any other enactment of Canada, any enactment of a province or any law, but subject to subsections 69(1) and 69.1(1) of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act and section 11.09 of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act, if the Minister has knowledge or suspects that a particular person is, or will become within one year, liable to make a payment

Application: S.C. 2005, c. 47 (Bill C-55, Wage Earner Protection Program Act, Royal Assent November 25, 2005), s. 139, as amended by S.C. 2007, c. 36 (Bill C-12, Royal Assent December 14, 2007), s. 108, will amend the opening words of sub-

sec. 224(1.2) to read as above, in force on a day to be fixed by order of the Governor in Council.

(a) to another person (in this subsection referred to as the "tax debtor") who is liable to pay an amount assessed under subsection 227(10.1) or a similar provision, or

(b) to a secured creditor who has a right to receive the payment that, but for a security interest in favour of the secured creditor, would be payable to the tax debtor, the Minister may in writing require the particular person to pay forthwith, where the moneys are immediately payable, and in any other case as and when the moneys become payable, the moneys otherwise payable to the tax debtor or the secured creditor in whole or in part to the Receiver General on account of the tax debtor's liability under subsection 227(10.1) or the similar provision, and on receipt of that requirement by the particular person, the amount of those moneys that is so required to be paid to the Receiver General shall, notwithstanding any security interest in those moneys, become the property of Her Majesty to the extent of that liability as assessed by the Minister and shall be paid to the Receiver General in priority to any such security interest.

Related Provisions: 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 224(4) — Liability on failure to comply; 224(5), (6) — Service of garnishee; 244(5), (6) — Proof of service by mail or personal service; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 224(1.2) amended by 1997, c. 12, s. 128, to add "and section 11.4 of the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act" following "Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act", in force September 30, 1997.

The opening words of subsec. 224(1.2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 101(3), applicable to requirements and notifications made after June 15, 1994. The opening words formerly read:

(1.2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (except paragraphs 69(1)(c) and 69.1(1)(c) of that Act), any other enactment of Canada, any enactment of a province or any law, but subject to paragraphs 69(1)(c) and 69.1(1)(c) of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, where the Minister has knowledge or suspects that a particular person is or will become, within 90 days, liable to make a payment

The closing words of subsec. 224(1.2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 101(4), applicable to requirements and notifications made after 1992. The closing words formerly read:

the Minister may, by registered letter or by a letter served personally, require the particular person to pay forthwith, where the moneys are immediately payable, and in any other case, as and when the moneys become payable, the moneys otherwise payable to the tax debtor or the secured creditor in whole or in part to the Receiver General on account of the tax debtor's liability under subsection 227(10.1) or a similar provision, and on receipt of that letter by the particular person, the amount of those moneys that is required by that letter to be paid to the Receiver General shall, notwithstanding any security interest in those moneys, become the property of Her Majesty to the extent of that liability as assessed by the Minister and shall be paid to the Receiver General in priority to any such security interest.

That portion of subsec. 224(1.2) following para. (b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 130. That portion formerly read:

the Minister may, by registered letter or by a letter served personally, require the particular person to pay forthwith, where the moneys are immediately payable, and in any other case, as and when the moneys become payable, the moneys otherwise payable to the tax debtor or the secured creditor in whole or in part to the Receiver General on account of the tax debtor's liability under subsection 227(10.1) or a similar provision, and on receipt of that letter by the particular person, the amount of those moneys that is required by that letter to be paid to the Receiver General shall, notwithstanding any security interest in those moneys, become the property of Her Majesty and shall be paid to the Receiver General in priority to any such security interest.

That portion of subsec. 224(1.2) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. V (1992, c. 27), s. 91, deemed to have come into force November 30, 1992. That portion formerly read:

(1.2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Bankruptcy Act, any other enactment of Canada, any enactment of a province or any law, where the Minister has knowledge or suspects that a particular person is or will become, within 90 days, liable to make a payment

I.T. Technical News: 6 (enhanced garnishment takes priority over builders' lien claimants).

(1.3) Definitions — In subsection (1.2),

"secured creditor" means a person who has a security interest in the property of another person or who acts for or on behalf of that person with respect to the security interest and includes a trustee appointed under a trust deed relating to a security interest, a receiver or receiver-manager appointed by a secured creditor or by a court on the application of a secured creditor, a sequestrator, or any other person performing a similar function;

Related Provisions: 227(5.1)(h) — Secured creditor jointly liable for unremitted withholding tax.

"security interest" means any interest in property that secures payment or performance of an obligation and includes an interest created by or arising out of a debenture, mortgage, hypothec, lien, pledge, charge, deemed or actual trust, assignment or encumbrance of any kind whatever, however or whenever arising, created, deemed to arise or otherwise provided for;

Proposed Amendment — 224(1.3)"security interest"

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 272, will amend the definition "security interest" in subsec. 224(1.3) by substituting "interest in, or for civil law any right in, property" for "interest in property" and "interest, or for civil law a right, created" for "interest created", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

History: The definition "security interest" in subsec. 224(1.3) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 228, to add "hypothec,", in force June 14, 2001.

"similar provision" means a provision, similar to subsection 227(10.1), of any Act of a province that imposes a tax similar to the tax imposed under this Act, where the province has entered into an agreement with the Minister of Finance for the collection of the taxes payable to the province under that Act.

Selected Cases [subsec. 224(1.3)]: Canada (A.-G.) v. Community Expansion Inc., 2005 CarswellOnt 214 (Ont CA) (Exercise of right of distraint gives rise to security interest and landlord becomes secured creditor); *MNR v. (1.4) Garnishment [applies to the Crown] — Provisions of this Act that provide that a person who has been required to do so by the Minister must pay to the Receiver General an amount that would otherwise be lent, advanced or paid to a taxpayer who is liable to make a payment under this Act, or to that taxpayer's secured creditor, apply to Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province.

History: Subsec. 224(1.4) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 101(5), applicable June 15, 1994.

(2) Minister's receipt discharges original liability — The receipt of the Minister for moneys paid as required under this section is a good and sufficient discharge of the original liability to the extent of the payment.

(3) Idem — Where the Minister has, under this section, required a person to pay to the Receiver General on account of a liability under this Act of a tax debtor moneys otherwise payable by the person to the tax debtor as interest, rent, remuneration, a dividend, an annuity or other periodic payment, the requirement applies to all such payments to be made by the person to the tax debtor until the liability under this Act is satisfied and operates to require payments to the Receiver General out of each such payment of such amount as is stipulated by the Minister in the requirement.

Related Provisions: 224(4) — Liability on failure to comply.

History: Subsec. 224(3) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 101(6), applicable to requirements and notifications made after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

> (3) Continuing garnishment until liability satisfied — Where the Minister has, under this section, required a person to pay to the Receiver General on account of the liability under this Act of a tax debtor moneys otherwise payable by the person to the tax debtor as interest, rent, remuneration, a dividend, an annuity or other periodic payment, the requirement is applicable to all such payments to be made by the person to the tax debtor until the liability under this Act is satisfied and operates to require payments to the Receiver General out of each such payment of such amount as may be stipulated by the Minister in the registered letter or letter served personally.

(4) Failure to comply with subsec. (1), (1.2) or (3) requirement — Every person who fails to comply with a requirement under subsection (1), (1.2) or (3) is liable to pay to Her Majesty an amount equal to the amount that the person was required under subsection (1), (1.2) or (3), as the case may be, to pay to the Receiver General.

Related Provisions: 227(10) — Assessment.

Selected Cases [subsec. 224(4)]: Ecan Construction Ltd. v. R., [2008] 2 C.T.C. 2226 (TCC) (Taxpayer liable where requirement to pay received prior to date of cheque to tax debtor).

(4.1) Failure to comply with subsec. (1.1) requirement — Every institution or person that fails to comply with a requirement under subsection (1.1) with respect to moneys to be lent, advanced or paid is liable to pay to Her Majesty an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the total of moneys so lent, advanced or paid, and

(b) the amount that the institution or person was required under that subsection to pay to the Receiver General.

Related Provisions: 227(10) — Assessments.

(5) Service of garnishee — Where a person carries on business under a name or style other than the person's own name, notification to the person of a requirement under subsection (1), (1.1) or (1.2) may be addressed to the name or style under which the person carries on business and, in the case of personal service, shall be deemed to be validly served if it is left with an adult person employed at the place of business of the addressee.

History: Subsec. 224(5) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 101(7), applicable to requirements and notifications made after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

> (5) Service of garnishee — Where the person who is or is about to become indebted or liable under this section carries on business under a name or style other than the person's own name, the registered or other letter under subsections (1) and (1.2) may be addressed to the name or style under which the person carries on business and, in the case of personal service, shall be deemed to have been validly served if it has been left with an adult person employed at the place of business of the addressee.

(6) Idem — Where persons carry on business in partnership, notification to the persons of a requirement under subsection (1), (1.1) or (1.2) may be addressed to the partnership name and, in the case of personal service, shall be deemed to be validly served if it is served on one of the partners or left with an adult person employed at the place of business of the partnership.

Related Provisions: 244(20)(b) — Service of documents on partnerships.

History: Subsecs. 224(6) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 101(7), applicable to requirements and notifications made after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

> (6) Service on partnership — Where the persons who are or are about to become indebted or liable under this section carry on business in partnership, the registered or other letter under subsections (1) and (1.2) may be addressed to the partnership name and, in the case of personal service, shall be deemed to have been validly served if it has been served on one of the partners or left with an adult person employed at the place of business of the partnership.

224.2 Acquisition of debtor's property — For the purpose of collecting debts owed by a person to Her Majesty under this Act or under an Act of a province with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of taxes payable to the province under that Act, the Minister may purchase or otherwise acquire any interest in the person's property that the Minister is given a right to acquire in legal proceedings or under a court order or that is offered for sale or redemption and may dispose of any interest so acquired in such manner as the Minister considers reasonable.

Proposed Amendment — 224.2

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 273, will amend s. 224.2 by substituting "interest in, or for civil law any right in," for "interest in" and "interest or right so acquired" for "interest so acquired", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Related Provisions: 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 222.1 — Application to awards of court costs; 231.2(1) — requirement to provide information or documents for collection purposes; 231.6(1) — foreign-based documents sought for collection purposes.

Definitions [s. 224.2]: "Her Majesty" — Interpretation Act 35(1); "Minister", "person" — 248(1); "province" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

224.3 (1) Payment of moneys seized from tax debtor — Where the Minister has knowledge or suspects that a particular person is holding moneys that were seized by a police officer in the course of administering or enforcing the criminal law of Canada from another person (in this section referred to as the "tax debtor") who is liable to make a payment under this Act or under an Act of a province with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of taxes payable to the province under that Act and that are restorable to the tax debtor, the Minister may in writing require the particular person to turn over the moneys otherwise restorable to the tax debtor in whole or in part to the Receiver General on account of the tax debtor's liability under this Act or under the Act of the province, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 222.1 — Application to awards of court costs; 225.1 — No collection action for 90 days or if objection filed; 231.2(1) — requirement to provide information or documents for collection purposes; 231.6(1) — foreign-based documents sought for collection purposes; 244(5), (6) — Proof of service by mail or personal service; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 224.3(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 102, applicable to requirements made after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

> (1) Where the Minister has knowledge or suspects that a person is holding moneys that were seized by a police officer in the course of administering or enforcing the criminal law of Canada from another person who is liable to make a payment under this Act or under an Act of a province with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of taxes payable to the province under that Act (in this section referred to as the "tax debtor") and that are restorable to the tax debtor, the Minister may, by registered letter or by a letter served personally, require that person to turn over the moneys otherwise restorable to the tax debtor in whole or in part to the Receiver General on account of the tax debtor's liability under this Act or under the Act of the province, as the case may be.

Information Circulars: 98-1R2 and 1R3 (draft): Collections policies.

(2) Receipt of Minister — The receipt of the Minister for moneys turned over as required by this section is a good and sufficient discharge of the requirement to restore the moneys to the tax debtor to the extent of the amount so turned over.

Definitions [s. 224.3]: "Minister", "person" — 248(1); "province" — Interpretation Act 35(1); "tax debtor" — 224.3(1); "writing" — Interpretation Act 35(1).

225. (1) Seizure of chattels — Where a person has failed to pay an amount as required by this Act, the Minister may give 30 days notice to the person by registered mail addressed to the person's latest known address of the Minister's intention to direct that the person's goods and chattels be seized and sold, and, if the person fails to make the payment before the expiration of the 30 days, the Minister may issue a certificate of the failure and direct that the person's goods and chattels be seized.

Proposed Amendment — 225(1)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 274(1), will amend subsec. 225(1) by substituting "chattels, or movable property," for "chattels" in two places, to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Related Provisions: 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 222.1 — Application to awards of court costs; 225.1 — No collection action for 90 days or if objection filed; 231.2(1) — requirement to provide information or documents for collection purposes; 231.6(1) — foreign-based documents sought for collection purposes; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

Information Circulars: 98-1R2 and 1R3 (draft): Collections policies.

(2) Sale of seized property — Property seized under this section shall be kept for 10 days at the cost and charges of the owner and, if the owner does not pay the amount owing together with the costs and charges within the 10 days, the property seized shall be sold by public auction.

(3) Notice of sale — Except in the case of perishable goods, notice of the sale setting out the time and place thereof, together with a general description of the property to be sold shall, a reasonable time before the goods are sold, be published at least once in one or more newspapers of general local circulation.

(4) Surplus returned to owner — Any surplus resulting from the sale after deduction of the amount owing and all costs and charges shall be paid or returned to the owner of the property seized.

(5) Exemptions from seizure — Such goods and chattels of any person in default as would be exempt from seizure under a writ of execution issued out of a superior court of the province in which the seizure is made are exempt from seizure under this section.

Proposed Amendment — 225(5)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 274(2), will amend subsec. 225(5) by substituting "chattels, or movable property," for "chattels", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

225.1 (1) Collection restrictions [90 days] — If a taxpayer is liable for the payment of an amount assessed under this Act, other than an amount assessed under subsection 152(4.2), 169(3) or 220(3.1), the Minister shall not, until after the collection-commencement day in respect of the amount, do any of the following for the purpose of collecting the amount:

(a) commence legal proceedings in a court,

(b) certify the amount under section 223,

(c) require a person to make a payment under subsection 224(1),

(d) require an institution or a person to make a payment under subsection 224(1.1),

(e) [Repealed]

(f) require a person to turn over moneys under subsection 224.3(1), or

(g) give a notice, issue a certificate or make a direction under subsection 225(1).

(1.1) Collection-commencement day — The collection-commencement day in respect of an amount is

(a) in the case of an amount assessed under subsection 188(1.1) in respect of a notice of intention to revoke given under subsection 168(1) or any of subsections 149.1(2) to (4.1), one year after the day on which the notice was mailed;

(b) in the case of an amount assessed under section 188.1, one year after the day on which the notice of assessment was mailed; and

(c) in any other case, 90 days after the day on which the notice of assessment was mailed.

Related Provisions: 225.2 — Immediate collection on jeopardy assessment.

History: Subsec. 225.1(1.1) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 49(3), applicable in respect of notices issued by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005.

(2) Idem [while under objection] — Where a taxpayer has served a notice of objection under this Act to an assessment of an amount payable under this Act, the Minister shall not, for the purpose of collecting the amount in controversy, take any of the actions described in paragraphs (1)(a) to (g) until after the day that is 90 days after the day on which notice is mailed to the taxpayer that the Minister has confirmed or varied the assessment.

Related Provisions: 222(8)(a) — Extension of 10-year limitation period on collection action while 225.1(2) applies; 225.1(6), (7) — Limitations on collection restrictions.

History: Subsec. 225.1(2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 131(2), to substitute "until after" for "before".

(3) Idem [while under appeal to TCC] — Where a taxpayer has appealed from an assessment of an amount payable under this Act to the Tax Court of Canada, the Minister shall not, for the purpose of collecting the amount in controversy, take any of the actions described in paragraphs (1)(a) to (g) before the day of mailing of a copy of the decision of the Court to the taxpayer or the day on which the taxpayer discontinues the appeal, whichever is the earlier.

Related Provisions: 179.1 — Penalty applied by Court where appeal filed solely for delay; 222(8)(a) — Extension of 10-year limitation period on collection action while 225.1(3) applies; 225.1(6), (7) — Limitations on collection restrictions.

Selected Cases [subsec. 225.1(3)]: Cormier v. Canada (No. 2), [1991] 1 C.T.C. 410 (FCTD) (Provision not to be applied retroactively).

(4) Idem [while under reference to TCC] — Where a taxpayer has agreed under subsection 173(1) that a question should be determined by the Tax Court of Canada, or where a taxpayer is served with a copy of an application made under subsection 174(1) to that Court for the determination of a question, the Minister shall not take any of the actions described in paragraphs (1)(a) to (g) for the purpose of collecting that part of an amount assessed, the liability for payment of which will be affected by the determination of the question, before the day on which the question is determined by the Court.

Related Provisions: 222(8)(a) — Extension of 10-year limitation period on collection action while 225.1(4) applies; 225.1(6), (7) — Limitations on collection restrictions.

(5) Idem [waiting for test case] — Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, where a taxpayer has served a notice of objection under this Act to an assessment or has appealed to the Tax Court of Canada from an assessment and agrees in writing with the Minister to delay proceedings on the objection or appeal, as the case may be, until judgment has been given in another action before the Tax Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court of Canada in which the issue is the same or substantially the same as that raised in the objection or appeal of the taxpayer, the Minister may take any of the actions described in paragraphs (1)(a) to (g) for the purpose of collecting the amount assessed, or a part thereof, determined in a manner consistent with the decision or judgment of the Court in the other action at any time after the Minister notifies the taxpayer in writing that

(a) the decision of the Tax Court of Canada in that action has been mailed to the Minister,

(b) judgment has been pronounced by the Federal Court of Appeal in that action, or

(c) judgment has been delivered by the Supreme Court of Canada in that action, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 222(8)(a) — Extension of 10-year limitation period on collection action while 225.1(5) applies.

History: Subsec. 225.1(5) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 184, to substitute "Tax Court of Canada from an assessment" for "Tax Court of Canada or Federal Court–Trial Division from the assessment" and "Federal Court of Appeal" for "Federal Court" (twice), deemed to have come into force on January 1, 1991.

MNR*, [1989] 2 C.T.C. 270 (FCTD) (Abeyance letter under provision may be signed by taxpayer's designated agent and officer of Appeals Division).

(6) Where subsecs. (1) to (4) do not apply — Subsections (1) to (4) do not apply with respect to

(a) an amount payable under Part VIII;

(b) an amount required to be deducted or withheld, and required to be remitted or paid, under this Act or the Regulations;

(c) an amount of tax required to be paid under section 116 or a regulation made under subsection 215(4) but not so paid;

(d) the amount of any penalty payable for failure to remit or pay an amount referred to in paragraph (b) or (c) as and when required by this Act or a regulation made under this Act; and

(e) any interest payable under a provision of this Act on an amount referred to in this paragraph or any of paragraphs (a) to (d).

Related Provisions: 225.2 — Collection in jeopardy.

(7) Idem — large corporations — Where an amount has been assessed under this Act in respect of a corporation for a taxation year in which it was a large corporation, subsections (1) to (4) do not apply to limit any action of the Minister to collect

(a) at any time on or before the particular day that is 90 days after the day of the mailing of the notice of assessment, ½ of the amount so assessed; and

(b) at any time after the particular day, the amount, if any, by which the amount so assessed exceeds the total of

(i) all amounts collected before that time with respect to the assessment, and

(ii) ½ of the amount in controversy at that time.

History: Subsec. 225.1(7) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 131(3), applicable after June 10, 1993 except that, where a taxpayer has served a notice of objection or has instituted an appeal under the Act with respect to a notice of assessment of tax, interest or penalties under the Act mailed before 1992,

(a) the reference in para. (a) to "½" shall, in its application before 1994 with respect to all proceedings concerning the subject-matter of the notice of objection or the appeal, be read as "¼"; and

(b) the reference in subpara. (b)(ii) to "½" shall, in its application before 1994 with respect to all proceedings concerning the subject-matter of the notice of objection or the appeal, be read as "¾".

(8) Definition of "large corporation" — For the purposes of this section and section 235, a corporation (other than a corporation described in subsection 181.1(3)) is a "large corporation" in a particular taxation year if the total of the taxable capital employed in Canada of the corporation, at the end of the particular taxation year, and the taxable capital employed in Canada of any other corporation, at the end of the other corporation's last taxation year that ends at or before the end of the particular taxation year, if the other corporation is related (within the meaning assigned for the purposes of section 181.5) to the corporation at the end of the particular taxation year, exceeds $10 million, and, for the purpose of this subsection, a corporation formed as a result of the amalgamation or merger of 2 or more predecessor corporations is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation.

Related Provisions: 164(1.1) — Repayment on objections and repeals; 165(1.11), (1.13), 169(2.1) — Limitations on objections and appeals by large corporations; 181.5(1.1), (4.1) — Application of Part I.3 tax for purposes of 225.1(8); 220(4.1) — Security; 225.1(8) — Definition of "large corporation".

History: Subsec. 225.1(8) amended by 2006, c. 4, s. 85, applicable to 2006 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(8) For the purposes of this section, a "large corporation" in a particular taxation year means

(a) a corporation by which tax under Part I.3 is payable,

(i) where the particular year ended before July 1989, for its first taxation year that ends after June 1989, or

(ii) where the particular year ended after June 1989, for the particular year, or would, but for subsection 181.1(4), have been so payable, or

(b) a corporation that, at the end of the particular year, is related (for the purpose of section 181.5, as that section reads in its application to the 1992 taxation year) to a corporation that is a large corporation in its taxation year that includes the end of the particular year, and, for the purpose of subparagraph (a)(i), a corporation formed as a result of the amalgamation or merger of 2 or more predecessor corporations shall be deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each of the predecessor corporations.

Paras. 225.1(8)(a) and (b) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 103, applicable June 15, 1994. Those paras. formerly read:

(a) a corporation by which tax under Part I.3 is payable,

(i) where the particular year ended before July 1989, for its first taxation year ending after June 1989, or

(ii) where the particular year ended after June 1989, for the particular year, or would, but for section 181.1, have been so payable, or

(b) a corporation that, at the end of the particular year, is related (for the purposes of section 181.5) to a corporation that is a large corporation in its taxation year that includes the end of the particular year,

Subsec. 225.1(8) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 131(3), applicable after June 10, 1993.

(3) Notice of assessment not sent — An authorization under subsection (2) in respect of an amount assessed in respect of a taxpayer may be granted by a judge notwithstanding that a notice of assessment in respect of that amount has not been sent to the taxpayer at or before the time the application is made where the judge is satisfied that the receipt of the notice of assessment by the taxpayer would likely further jeopardize the collection of the amount, and for the purposes of sections 222, 223, 224, 224.1, 224.3 and 225, the amount in respect of which an authorization is so granted shall be deemed to be an amount payable under this Act.

(4) Affidavits — Statements contained in an affidavit filed in the context of an application under this section may be based on belief with the grounds therefor.

(5) Service of authorization and of notice of assessment — An authorization granted under this section in respect of a taxpayer shall be served by the Minister on the taxpayer within 72 hours after it is granted, except where the judge orders the authorization to be served at some other time specified in the authorization, and, where a notice of assessment has not been sent to the taxpayer at or before the time of the application, the notice of assessment shall be served together with the authorization.

(6) How service effected — For the purposes of subsection (5), service on a taxpayer shall be effected by

(a) personal service on the taxpayer; or

(b) service in accordance with directions, if any, of a judge.

Related Provisions: 244(6) — Proof of personal service.

(7) Application to judge for direction — Where service on a taxpayer cannot reasonably otherwise be effected as and when required under this section, the Minister may, as soon as practicable, apply to a judge for further direction.

(8) Review of authorization — Where a judge of a court has granted an authorization under this section in respect of a taxpayer, the taxpayer may, on 6 clear days notice to the Deputy Attorney General of Canada, apply to a judge of the court to review the authorization.

Related Provisions: Interpretation Act 27(1) — Calculation of clear days.

(9) Limitation period for review application — An application under subsection (8) shall be made

(a) within 30 days from the day on which the authorization was served on the taxpayer in accordance with this section; or

(b) within such further time as a judge may allow, on being satisfied that the application was made as soon as practicable.

(10) Hearing in camera — An application under subsection (8) may, on the application of the taxpayer, be heard in camera, if the taxpayer establishes to the satisfaction of the judge that the circumstances of the case justify in camera proceedings.

(11) Disposition of application — On an application under subsection (8), the judge shall determine the question summarily and may confirm, set aside or vary the authorization and make such other order as the judge considers appropriate.

Related Provisions: 225.2(13) — No appeal from judge's decision.

(12) Directions — Where any question arises as to the course to be followed in connection with anything done or being done under this section and there is no direction in this section with respect thereto, a judge may give such direction with regard thereto as, in the opinion of the judge, is appropriate.

(13) No appeal from review order — No appeal lies from an order of a judge made pursuant to subsection (11).

(2) Idem — Where a taxpayer has failed to pay, as required, any tax, interest or penalties demanded under this section, the Minister may direct that the goods and chattels of the taxpayer be seized and subsections 225(2) to (5) apply, with respect to the seizure, with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Proposed Amendment — 226(2)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 275, will amend subsec. 226(2) by substituting "taxpayer fails" for "taxpayer has failed" and "chattels, or movable property," for "chattels", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Related Provisions: 222(3) — Ten-year limitation on collection action; 222.1 — Application to awards of court costs; 231.2(1) — requirement to provide information or documents for collection purposes; 231.6(1) — foreign-based documents sought for collection purposes.

History [s. 226]: S. 226 substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 185. S. 226 formerly read:

> 226. (1) Taxpayer leaving Canada or defaulting — Where the Minister suspects that a taxpayer is about to leave Canada, the Minister may before the day otherwise fixed for payment, by notice served personally or by registered letter addressed to the taxpayer, demand payment of all taxes, interest and penalties for which the taxpayer is liable or would be liable if the time for payment had arrived, and the same shall be paid forthwith notwithstanding any other provision of this Act.
> (2) Seizure on failure to pay — Where a person has failed to pay tax, interest or penalties demanded under this section as required, the Minister may direct that the goods and chattels of the taxpayer be seized and subsections 225(2) to (5) are, thereupon, applicable with such modifications as the circumstances require.

(4.1) Extension of trust — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (except sections 81.1 and 81.2 of that Act), any other enactment of Canada, any enactment of a province or any other law, where at any time an amount deemed by subsection (4) to be held by a person in trust for Her Majesty is not paid to Her Majesty in the manner and at the time provided under this Act, property of the person and property held by any secured creditor (as defined in subsection 224(1.3)) of that person that but for a security interest (as defined in subsection 224(1.3)) would be property of the person, equal in value to the amount so deemed to be held in trust is deemed

(a) to be held, from the time the amount was deducted or withheld by the person, separate and apart from the property of the person, in trust for Her Majesty whether or not the property is subject to such a security interest, and

(b) to form no part of the estate or property of the person from the time the amount was so deducted or withheld, whether or not the property has in fact been kept separate and apart from the estate or property of the person and whether or not the property is subject to such a security interest and is property beneficially owned by Her Majesty notwithstanding any security interest in such property and in the proceeds thereof, and the proceeds of such property shall be paid to the Receiver General in priority to all such security interests.

(4.3) Application to Crown — For greater certainty, subsections (4) to (4.2) apply to Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province where Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province is a secured creditor (within the meaning assigned by subsection 224(1.3)) or holds a security interest (within the meaning assigned by that subsection).

History: Subsec. 227(4.3) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 180(1), in force June 14, 2001.

(5) Payments by trustees, etc. — Where a specified person in relation to a particular person (in this subsection referred to as the "payer") has any direct or indirect influence over the disbursements, property, business or estate of the payer and the specified person, alone or together with another person, authorizes or otherwise causes a payment referred to in subsection 135(3), 135.1(7) or 153(1), or on or in respect of which tax is payable under Part XII.5 or XIII, to be made by or on behalf of the payer, the specified person

(a) is, for the purposes of subsections 135(3) and 153(1), section 215 and this section, deemed to be a person who made the payment;

(a.1) is, for the purposes of subsections 135.1(7) and 211.8(2), deemed to be a person who redeemed, acquired or cancelled a share and made the payment as a consequence of the redemption, acquisition or cancellation;

(b) is jointly and severally liable with the payer to pay to the Receiver General

Proposed Amendment — 227(5)(b) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 276(1), will amend the opening words of para. 227(5)(b) by substituting "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(i) all amounts payable by the payer because of any of subsections 135(3), 135.1(7), 153(1) and 211.8(2) and section 215 in respect of the payment, and

(ii) all amounts payable under this Act by the payer because of any failure to comply with any of those provisions in respect of the payment; and

(c) is entitled to deduct or withhold from any amount paid or credited by the specified person to the payer or otherwise recover from the payer any amount paid under this subsection by the specified person in respect of the payment.

Related Provisions: 227(5.1) — Specified person; 227(5.2) — "Person" includes partnership.

History: The opening words of subsec. 227(5) amended by 2006, c. 4, subsec. 86(1), to substitute "135(3), 135.1(7)" for "135(3)", applicable after 2005.

Para. 227(5)(a.1) amended by 2006, c. 4, subsec. 86(2), to substitute "purposes of subsections 135.1(7) and 211.8(2)" for "purpose of subsection 211.8(2)", applicable after 2005.

Subpara. 227(5)(b)(i) amended by 2006, c. 4, subsec. 86(3), to substitute "135(3), 135.1(7)" for "135(3)", applicable after 2005.

The portion of subsec. 227(5) before subpara. (b)(ii) amended by 1997 c. 25, subsec. 67(1), applicable April 25, 1997. That portion formerly read:

(5) Where a specified person in relation to a particular person (in this subsection referred to as the "payer") has any direct or indirect influence over the disbursements, property, business or estate of the payer and the specified person, alone or together with another person, authorizes or otherwise causes a payment referred to in subsection 135(3) or 153(1), or on which tax is payable under Part XIII, to be made by or on behalf of the payer, the specified person

(a) is, for the purposes of subsections 135(3) and 153(1), section 215 and this section, deemed to be a person who made the payment;

(b) is jointly and severally liable with the payer to pay to the Receiver General

(i) all amounts payable by the payer because of any of subsections 135(3) and 153(1) and section 215 in respect of the payment, and

Subsec. 227(5) added by 1996, c. 21, s. 57, applicable June 20, 1996.

Former subsec. 227(5) repealed by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 104(1), applicable June 15, 1994. That subsec. formerly read:

(5) Amount in trust not part of estate — Notwithstanding any provision of the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, in the event of any liquidation, assignment, receivership or bankruptcy of or by a person, an amount equal to any amount

(a) deemed by subsection (4) to be held in trust for Her Majesty, or

(b) deducted or withheld under an Act of a province with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of taxes payable to the province under that Act that is deemed under that Act to be held in trust for Her Majesty in right of the province shall be deemed to be separate from and form no part of the estate in liquidation, assignment, receivership or bankruptcy, whether or not that amount has in fact been kept separate and apart from the person's own moneys or from the assets of the estate.

That portion of subsec. 227(5) preceding para. (a) amended to substitute "Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act" for "Bankruptcy Act", by 1992, c. 27, para. 90(1)(q), deemed to have come into force November 30, 1992.

Selected Cases [subsec. 227(5)]: Roll v. R., [2001] 1 C.T.C. 143 (FCA) (Bare trustee has no independent authority; not liable for failure to remit source deductions).

(5.1) Definition of "specified person" — In subsection (5), a "specified person" in relation to a particular person means a person who is, in relation to the particular person or the disbursements, property, business or estate of the particular person,

(a) a trustee;

(b) a liquidator;

(c) a receiver;

(d) an interim receiver;

(e) a receiver-manager;

(f) a trustee in bankruptcy or other person appointed under the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act;

(g) an assignee;

(h) a secured creditor (as defined in subsection 224(1.3));

(i) an executor, a liquidator of a succession or an administrator;

(j) any person acting in a capacity similar to that of a person referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (i);

(k) a person appointed (otherwise than as an employee of the creditor) at the request of, or on the advice of, a secured creditor in relation to the particular person to monitor, or provide advice in respect of, the disbursements, property, business or estate of the particular person under circumstances such that it is reasonable to conclude that the person is appointed to protect or advance the interests of the creditor; or

(l) an agent of a specified person referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (k).

History: Para. 227(5.1)(i) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 229, in force June 14, 2001. The para. formerly read:

(i) an executor or administrator;

Subsec. 227(5.1) added by 1996, c. 21, s. 57, applicable June 20, 1996.

(5.2) "Person" includes partnership — For the purposes of this section, references in subsections (5) and (5.1) to persons include partnerships.

Related Provisions: 227(15) — "Person" includes partnerships for certain purposes throughout s. 227.

History: Subsec. 227(5.2) added by 1996, c. 21, s. 57, applicable June 20, 1996.

Possible Future Addition — 227(5.2)–(5.4)

(5.2) [Bank] Interference with remittance [cheques] — Where at any time

(a) an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "amount to be remitted") that is deducted or withheld from a payment (in this subsection referred to as the "gross payment") is required by a provision of this Act to be remitted by a particular person on account of the tax of another person,

(b) a secured creditor (as defined in subsection 224(1.3)) in relation to the particular person has influence over the issuance or clearance of the payment of the amount to be remitted, and

(c) the secured creditor, alone or together with another person, exercises that influence for the purpose of

(i) postponing the remittance of the amount to be remitted,

(ii) subordinating the remittance of the amount to be remitted, in favour of the payment of other amounts, or

(iii) causing the amount to be remitted not to be remitted, and the remittance of the amount to be remitted is postponed or subordinated or the amount to be remitted is not remitted, as the case may be, the secured creditor

(d) is, for the purposes of subsections 135(3) and 153(1), section 215 and this section, deemed to be a person who made the gross payment and is deemed to be a person who deducted or withheld the amount to be remitted from the gross payment,

(e) is, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, jointly and severally liable with the particular person to pay to the Receiver General

(i) all amounts payable by the particular person because of any of subsections 135(3) and 153(1) and section 215 in respect of the gross payment, and

(ii) all amounts payable under this Act by the particular person because of any failure to comply with any of those provisions in respect of the gross payment, and

(f) is entitled to deduct or withhold from any amount paid or credited by the secured creditor to the particular person, or otherwise recover from the particular person, any amount paid under this subsection by the secured creditor in respect of the amount to be remitted.

Technical Notes: New subsection 227(5.2) provides a new rule for imposing joint and several liability on certain secured creditors who interfere with the remittance of source deductions. Under this new rule it need not be established that a secured creditor actually causes or authorizes a payment — which is subject to source deduction — before joint and several liability arises. It is sufficient to show that an amount is deducted at source from a payment (hereafter referred to as a "gross payment") that the secured creditor has influence over the issuance or clearance of that gross payment and that the secured creditor exercises that influence for the purpose of interfering with the remittance of source deductions. Interference may take place by way of postponing a remittance, subordinating a remittance in favour of another payment or simply causing a remittance not to be made.

A typical example is the situation of a financial institution that has influential control over a person and that, in the course of providing banking services to the person (usually in financial difficulty) who is liable to deduct certain amounts from the remuneration of its employees, interferes with the remittance of these deductions by preventing the issuance of, stopping or refusing to clear a remittance cheque made to the Receiver General while issuing, clearing, or honouring other cheques made to suppliers or other creditors. This might be done in order to enhance trade receivables and limit the secured creditor's own risks.

Generally, it is not intended that the refusal of a cheque or other means of payment for lack of sufficient funds or other legitimate banking reasons be regarded as influence that is exercised for the purpose of interfering with the payment of source deductions. However, it is intended that a secured creditor that refuses to extend credit in respect of a source deduction payment and that subsequently extends credit in respect of other similar payments made to another party, be considered as exercising influence for the purpose of interfering with source deductions.

Where the circumstances described in new subsection 227(5.2) exist, the secured creditor will be deemed to have made the payment and will become jointly and severally liable with the person making the gross payment to pay all amounts payable in respect of the gross payment and all amounts payable by that person for the failure to deduct and remit the amounts payable. This will include the amount of tax not remitted, interest, and penalties. However, exceptions to this rule are contained in new subsections 227(5.3) and (5.4). A specific right to recover amounts paid by the secured creditor on behalf of the person making the gross payment is provided in paragraph 227(5.2)(f).

(5.3) Exception where all cheques stopped — Where on a day a secured creditor in relation to a person stops or refuses a cheque or other means of payment or remittance drawn on the secured creditor by the person for an amount to be remitted by the person to the Receiver General, subsection (5.2) does not apply in respect of that stopping or refusal if, throughout the period that begins at the end of that day and ends when the amount is paid to the Receiver General, the creditor stops or refuses all cheques and all other means of payment or remittance drawn on the creditor by the person (other than cheques payable, or other means of payment or remittance, to the Receiver General and other than cheques certified on or before that day).

Technical Notes: New subsections 227(5.3) and (5.4) provide certain exceptions to the joint and several liability rules which apply to secured creditors. Subsection 227(5.3) deals with the case in which a cheque or other means of payment is stopped or refused by the secured creditor. Joint and several liability will not arise in this case if the secured creditor also stops or refuses all other cheques presented and payments made starting immediately after that day, except cheques or payments made to the Receiver General or cheques certified on or before that day. Using the example of the financial institution that stops a remittance cheque (referred to in the commentary on subsection 227(5.2)), no joint and several liability would arise if the financial institution were to stop or refuse (until payment in full of the amount to be paid or remitted) all other cheques made to any other creditor of the person and presented at any time after the day on which it stopped the cheque payable to the Receiver General.

(5.4) Other exceptions — Where subsection (5.2) would, but for this subsection, apply to a secured creditor in relation to a person because the creditor has exercised influence in respect of an amount to be remitted by the person to the Receiver General, that subsection does not apply where

(a) the person does not make any payment or disbursement (other than payments or disbursements to the Receiver General) at and after the time referred to in that subsection until the amount to be remitted is paid to the Receiver General;

(b) the exercise of the influence is only a refusal, or an expression of intention to refuse, to supply to the person any further property or services until a payment for property sold or leased or services rendered to the person is received by the creditor; or

(c) the exercise of the influence is pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal in Canada.

Technical Notes: Similarly, new subsection 227(5.4) provides relief from joint and several liability where a person does not make any other payment or disbursement at or after the time the secured creditor exercises influence in respect of an amount to be paid or remitted by the person to the Receiver General.

New paragraph 227(5.4)(b) provides, for greater certainty, that a refusal by a secured creditor to continue to supply property or services because of the non-payment for such property or services will not give rise to joint and several liability.

Under new paragraph 227(5.4)(c), court actions such as collection and conservation measures will not be regarded as exercising influence for the purpose of interfering with a remittance. In addition, where a court orders a secured creditor to make a payment in priority to a remittance, the secured creditor will not be regarded as having exercised influence for the purpose of interfering with a remittance.

Application: The December 12, 1995 Notice of Ways and Means Motion would have added subsecs. 227(5.2)–(5.4) as above (and would have numbered what is now 227(5.2) as 227(5.5)), to come into force on Royal Assent. However, these provisions (and the parallel rules in 323.1 of the Excise Tax Act for GST remittances) were dropped in the revised Notice of Ways and Means Motion of March 28, 1996 (Bill C-36 — 1995 Budget bill). Officials at the Department of Finance advise that implementation of these rules has been deferred following consultations with the banks and other financial institutions, which have promised voluntary compliance. The CRA has been monitoring this compliance in order to make a determination as to whether to proceed with these rules. The most recent information from the Dept. of Finance is that no decision has yet been made, and the proposals are still "on hold".

(6) Excess withheld, returned or applied — Where a person on whose behalf an amount has been paid under Part XII.5 or XIII to the Receiver General was not liable to pay tax under that Part or where the amount so paid is in excess of the amount that the person was liable to pay, the Minister shall, on written application made no later than 2 years after the end of the calendar year in which the amount was paid, pay to the person the amount so paid or such part of it as the person was not liable to pay, unless the person is or is about to become liable to make a payment to Her Majesty in right of Canada, in which case the Minister may apply the amount otherwise payable under this subsection to that liability and notify the person of that action.

History: Subsec. 227(6) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 67(2), applicable April 25, 1997. Subsec. (6) formerly read:

(6) Where a person on whose behalf an amount has been paid under Part XIII to the Receiver General was not liable to pay tax under that Part or where the amount so paid is in excess of the amount that the person was liable to pay, the Minister shall, on written application made no later than 2 years after the end of the calendar year in which the amount was paid, pay to the person the amount so paid or such part of it as the person was not liable to pay, unless the person is or is about to become liable to make a payment to Her Majesty in right of Canada, in which case the Minister may apply the amount otherwise payable under this subsection to that liability and notify the person of that action.

Subsec. 227(6) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 104(1), applicable June 15, 1994. That subsec. formerly read:

(6) Withheld money returned or applied otherwise — Where a person on whose behalf an amount has been paid to the Receiver General after having been deducted or withheld under Part XIII was not liable to pay any tax under that Part or where the amount so paid to the Receiver General on the person's behalf is in excess of the tax that the person was liable to pay, the Minister shall, on application in writing made within two years from the end of the calendar year in which the amount was paid, pay to the person the amount so paid or such part thereof as the person was not liable to pay, unless the person is otherwise liable or about to become liable to make a payment under this Act, in which case the Minister may apply the amount otherwise payable under this subsection to that payment and notify the person of that fact.

Forms: NR7-R: Application for refund of non-resident Part XIII tax withheld.

(6.1) Repayment of non-resident shareholder loan — Where, in respect of a loan from or indebtedness to a corporation or partnership, a person on whose behalf an amount was paid to the Receiver General under Part XIII because of subsection 15(2) and paragraph 214(3)(a) repays the loan or indebtedness or a portion of it and it is established by subsequent events or otherwise that the repayment was not made as part of a series of loans or other transactions and repayments, the Minister shall, on written application made no later than 2 years after the end of the calendar year in which the repayment is made, pay to the person an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount so paid to the Receiver General in respect of the loan or indebtedness or portion of it, as the case may be, and

(b) the amount that would be payable to the Receiver General under Part XIII if a dividend described in paragraph 212(2)(a) equal in amount to the amount of the loan or indebtedness repaid were paid by the corporation or partnership to the person at the time of the repayment, unless the person is or is about to become liable to make a payment to Her Majesty in right of Canada, in which case the Minister may apply the amount otherwise payable under this subsection to that liability and notify the person of that action.

Related Provisions: 227(7.1) — Determination of amount under subsec. (6.1); 248(10) — Series of transactions.

History: Subsec. 227(6.1) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 104(1), applicable to repayments made after December 21, 1992.

(7) Application for assessment — Where, on application under subsection (6) by or on behalf of a person to the Minister in respect of an amount paid under Part XII.5 or XIII to the Receiver General, the Minister is not satisfied

(a) that the person was not liable to pay any tax under that Part, or

(b) that the amount paid was in excess of the tax that the person was liable to pay, the Minister shall assess any amount payable under that Part by the person and send a notice of assessment to the person, and sections 150 to 163, subsections 164(1) and (1.4) to (7), sections 164.1 to 167 and Division J of Part I apply with any modifications that the circumstances require.

History: Subsec. 227(7) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 67(3), applicable April 25, 1997. Subsec. (7) formerly read:

(7) Where, on application under subsection (6) by or on behalf of a person to the Minister in respect of an amount paid under Part XIII to the Receiver General, the Minister is not satisfied

(a) that the person was not liable to pay any tax under that Part, or

(b) that the amount paid was in excess of the tax that the person was liable to pay, the Minister shall assess the person for any amount payable under Part XIII by the person and send a notice of assessment to the person, and sections 150 to 163, subsections 164(1) and (1.4) to (7), sections 164.1 to 167 and Division J of Part I apply with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Subsec. 227(7) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 104(1), applicable June 15, 1994. That subsec. formerly read:

(7) Idem — Where, on application by or on behalf of a person to the Minister pursuant to subsection (6) in respect of an amount paid to the Receiver General that was deducted or withheld under Part XIII, the Minister is not satisfied

(a) that the person was not liable to pay any tax under that Part, or

(b) that the amount paid to the Receiver General was in excess of the tax that the person was liable to pay, the Minister shall assess the person for any amount payable by the person under Part XIII and send a notice of assessment to the person, whereupon sections 150 to 163, subsections 164(1) and (1.4) to (7), sections 164.1 to 167 and Division J of Part I are applicable with such modifications as the circumstances require.

(7.1) Application for determination — Where, on application under subsection (6.1) by or on behalf of a person to the Minister in respect of an amount paid under Part XIII to the Receiver General, the Minister is not satisfied that the person is entitled to the amount claimed, the Minister shall, at the person's request, determine, with all due dispatch, the amount, if any, payable under subsection (6.1) to the person and shall send a notice of determination to the person, and sections 150 to 163, subsections 164(1) and (1.4) to (7), sections 164.1 to 167 and Division J of Part I apply with such modifications as the circumstances require.

History: Subsec. 227(7.1) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 104(1), applicable to repayments made after December 21, 1992.

(8) Penalty — Subject to subsection (8.5), every person who in a calendar year has failed to deduct or withhold any amount as required by subsection 153(1) or section 215 is liable to a penalty of

(a) 10% of the amount that should have been deducted or withheld; or

(b) where at the time of the failure a penalty under this subsection was payable by the person in respect of an amount that should have been deducted or withheld during the year and the failure was made knowingly or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence, 20% of that amount.

Related Provisions: 147.1(3) — Deemed registration; 161(11) — Interest on penalties; 227(8.3) — Interest on amounts not deducted or withheld; 227(8.4) — Non-resident employees and patronage dividends; 227(9) — Penalty; 227(9.5) — Each establishment considered a separate person; 227(10) — Assessment; 227(10.2) — Joint and several liability re contributions to RCA; 252.1 — Where union is employer.

History: Para. 227(8)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 132(1), applicable after 1992, except with respect to amounts required to be remitted before 1993. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) where the person had at the time of the failure been assessed a penalty under this subsection in respect of an amount that should have been deducted or withheld during the year, 20% of the amount that should have been deducted or withheld.

230.1 (1) Records re monetary contributions — Canada Elections Act — Every agent authorized under the Canada Elections Act to accept monetary contributions referred to in that Act shall keep records, sufficient to enable each monetary contribution within the meaning assigned by subsection 127(4.1) that they receive and the expenditures that they make to be verified, including a duplicate of the receipt referred to in subsection 127(3) for each of those monetary contributions) at

(a) in the case of an agent other than an official agent of a candidate, the address recorded in the registry of parties or of electoral district associations referred to in the Canada Elections Act; and

(b) in the case of an official agent of a candidate, the agent's address set out in the nomination papers filed under that Act with the returning officer when the candidate was a prospective candidate or any other address that the Minister designates.

Related Provisions: 127(3)–(4.2) — Credit for political contributions; 238(1) — Punishment for failing to comply.

History: Subsec. 230.1(1) amended by 2003, c. 19, s. 74, in force January 1, 2004, except that

(a) on and after June 19, 2003 but before January 1, 2004, s. 230.1 is to be read as amended except that para. 230.1(1)(a) is to be read without reference to the expression "or of registered associations";

(b) if the day on which the amendment comes into force occurs during an election period, within the meaning assigned by the Canada Elections Act, para. 230.1(1)(a) is to be read, in respect of that election, as described in (a) above.

This transitional rule in para. (a) above is technically meaningless because it does not refer to the words "a provincial division of a registered party", which were added at the Commons committee stage before the 2003 election financing bill received Third Reading in the House of Commons.

Subsec. 230.1(1) formerly read:

230.1 (1) Records and books re political contributions — Every registered agent of a registered party and the official agent of each candidate at an election of a member or members to serve in the House of Commons of Canada shall keep records and books of account sufficient to enable the amounts contributed that are received by the agent and expenditures that are made by the agent to be verified (including duplicates of all receipts for amounts contributed, containing prescribed information and signed by the agent) at

(a) in the case of a registered agent, the agent's address recorded in the registry maintained by the Chief Electoral Officer pursuant to subsection 33(1) of the Canada Elections Act; and

(b) in the case of an official agent, an address in Canada recorded with or designated by the Minister.

That portion of subsec. 230.1(1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 133(1), applicable to 1992 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(1) Books and records relating to political contributions — Every registered agent of a registered party and the official agent of each candidate at an election of a member or members to serve in the House of Commons of Canada shall keep records and books of account sufficient to enable the amounts contributed received by the agent and expenditures made by the agent to be verified (including duplicates of all receipts for amounts contributed, signed by the registered agent or official agent, as the case may be, other than any such duplicate receipts filed by the agent under subsection (2)) at

(2) Information return — Each agent to whom subsection (1) applies shall file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form and containing prescribed information. The return is to be filed within the period for the filing of a financial transactions return or an electoral campaign return, as the case may be, under the Canada Elections Act.

Proposed Amendment — 230.1(1), (2)

230.1 (1) Records re monetary contributions — Every agent authorized under the Canada Elections Act or the Senate Appointment Consultations Act to accept monetary contributions shall keep records — sufficient to enable each monetary contribution within the meaning assigned by subsection 127(4.1) that they receive and the expenditures that they make to be verified, including a duplicate of the receipt referred to in subsection 127(3) for each of those monetary contributions — at

(a) in the case of an agent other than an official agent of a candidate under the Canada Elections Act, the address recorded in the registry of parties or of electoral district associations referred to in that Act; and

(b) in the case of an official agent of a person that is a candidate under the Canada Elections Act or a nominee under the Senate Appointment Consultations Act, the agent's address set out in the nomination papers filed under that Act when the person was a prospective candidate or nominee, or any other address that the Minister designates.

(2) Information return — Each agent to whom subsection (1) applies shall file with the Minister an information return in prescribed form and containing prescribed information. The return is to be filed within the period for the filing of a financial transactions return or an electoral campaign return, as the case may be, under the Canada Elections Act or the Senate Appointment Consultations Act.

Application: Bill C-20 (First Reading November 13, 2007; requires re-introduction), s. 126, will amend subsecs. 230.1(1) and (2) to read as above, in force six months after Royal Assent.

Related Provisions: 230.1(4) — Reports to chief electoral officer; 238(1) — Punishment for failing to comply.

History: Subsec. 230.1(2) amended by 2003, c. 19, s. 74, in force January 1, 2004. Subsec. 230.1(2) formerly read:

(2) Return of information — Each person to whom subsection (1) applies shall,

(a) in the case of a registered agent, at such times, not more frequently than annually, as are prescribed by the Minister, and file with the Minister a return of information in prescribed form and containing prescribed information.

(b) in the case of an official agent, within the time within which a return is required to be submitted by the agent to a returning officer under section 228 of the Canada Elections Act,

That portion of subsec. 230.1(2) after para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 133(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(b) in the case of an official agent, within the time within which a return is required to be submitted by the agent to a returning officer pursuant to section 228 of the Canada Elections Act,

file with the Minister a return of information, in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, together with the duplicates of all receipts referred to in that subsection signed by that person since the later of the day any previous such information return was filed by that person and August 1, 1974.

(c) that entry into the dwelling-house has been refused or that there are reasonable grounds to believe that entry thereto will be refused, the judge shall issue a warrant authorizing an authorized person to enter that dwelling-house subject to such conditions as may be specified in the warrant but, where the judge is not satisfied that entry into that dwelling-house is necessary for any purpose relating to the administration or enforcement of this Act, the judge shall

(d) order the occupant of the dwelling-house to provide reasonable access to an authorized person to any document or property that is or should be kept therein, and

(e) make such other order as is appropriate in the circumstances to carry out the purposes of this Act to the extent that access has been or may be expected to be refused and that the document or property is or may be expected to be kept in the dwelling-house.

Proposed Administrative Change — Audit Resources

Federal Budget, Chapter 5, March 19, 2007: Improved Auditing and Enforcement

The CRA will be provided with additional resources to strengthen the enforcement of Canada's tax system in relation to foreign income and cross-border transactions. Particular emphasis will be placed on transfer pricing transactions and complex international tax avoidance cases.

Further resources will also be provided for the CRA to verify and collect taxes owing on income and sales generated in Canada. These resources will be used to find and challenge taxpayers participating in aggressive tax shelters, who fail to report all of their income, or who have made unsubstantiated GST/HST refund claims.

Selected Cases [s. 231.1]: Wilder v. R., 2002 CarswellBC 2176 (BC SC) (Requirements for pre-existing documents not overturned); Bjellebo v. R., [2002] 3 C.T.C. 39 (Ont Gen Div) (Covert nature of preliminary criminal investigation not abuse of administrative powers); Dwyer v. R., [2001] 3 C.T.C. 2755 (TCC) (Searches not unconstitutional despite issuance of warrants based on unconstitutional provision); Norwood v. R., [2000] 2 C.T.C. 2900 (TCC) (Document copied clandestinely by tax auditor was illegal search and seizure); R. v. Melnychuk, [1999] 3 C.T.C. 255 (Sask Prov Ct) (Search warrant quashed where taxpayer not informed that investigation was under way); R. v. Warawa, [1998] 1 C.T.C. 345 (Alta QB) (Where information demanded is not for audit, but for prosecution, rights of taxpayer protected and information may not be used in subsequent prosecution); Baron v. Canada, [1991] 1 C.T.C. 125 (FCA); aff'd [1993] 1 C.T.C. 111 (SCC) (Provision held to be of no force and effect because absence of judicial discretion in subsec. 231.3(3) violated the Charter).

231.2 (1) Requirement to provide documents or information — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Minister may, subject to subsection (2), for any purpose related to the administration or enforcement of this Act (including the collection of any amount payable under this Act by any person), of a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement between Canada and another country or jurisdiction that is in force and has effect or, for greater certainty, of a tax treaty with another country, by notice served personally or by registered or certified mail, require that any person provide, within such reasonable time as stipulated in the notice,

Proposed Amendment — 231.2(1) opening words

231.2 (1) Requirement to provide documents or information — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Minister may, subject to subsection (2), for any purpose related to the administration or enforcement of this Act (including the collection of any amount payable under this Act by any person), of a listed international agreement or, for greater certainty, of a tax treaty with another country, by notice served personally or by registered or certified mail, require that any person provide, within such reasonable time as is stipulated in the notice,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 184, will amend the opening words of subsec. 231.2(1) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Subsection 231.2(1) provides that, notwithstanding any other provision of the Act, the Minister of National Revenue may by notice require that any person provide information or any document for any purpose relating to the administration or enforcement of the Act. An exception is made where the information or document relates to an unnamed person or persons, in which case the procedure set out in subsections 231.1(2) to (6) must be followed.

Subsection 231.2(1) is amended to provide that the Minister may by notice require any person to provide information or any document relating to the administration or enforcement of the Act, of a listed international agreement or, for greater certainty, of a tax treaty with another country.

A "listed international agreement" is newly defined in subsection 248(1) to mean the Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters, concluded at Strasbourg on January 25, 1988 and the Convention between the Government of Canada and the Government of the United Mexican States for the Exchange of Information with Respect to Taxes, signed at Mexico City on March 16, 1990. A "tax treaty" is defined in subsection 248(1) to mean a comprehensive agreement for the elimination of double taxation on income between the Canadian and foreign government that has the force of law in Canada at that time.

(a) any information or additional information, including a return of income or a supplementary return; or

(b) any document.

(3) Judicial authorization — On ex parte application by the Minister, a judge may, subject to such conditions as the judge considers appropriate, authorize the Minister to impose on a third party a requirement under subsection (1) relating to an unnamed person or more than one unnamed person (in this section referred to as the "group") where the judge is satisfied by information on oath that

(a) the person or group is ascertainable; and

(b) the requirement is made to verify compliance by the person or persons in the group with any duty or obligation under this Act.

(c), (d) [Repealed]

Related Provisions: 168(1)(e) — Revocation of charity's registration for failure to comply; 188.2(2)(a) — Suspension of charity's receipting privileges for failing to comply; 231.2(5), (6) — Judicial review of authorization; 232(2), (3.1) — Solicitor-client privilege defence; 237.1(8) — Application to tax shelter disclosure; 238(1) — Punishment for failure to comply.

History: Paras. 231.2(3)(c) and (d) repealed by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 58(1), applicable June 20, 1996. Paras. (c) and (d) formerly read:

> (c) it is reasonable to expect, based on any grounds, including information (statistical or otherwise) or past experience relating to the group or any other persons, that the person or any person in the group may have failed or may be likely to fail to provide information that is sought pursuant to the requirement or to otherwise comply with this Act; and
> (d) the information or document is not otherwise more readily available.

(2) Evidence in support of application — An application under subsection (1) shall be supported by information on oath establishing the facts on which the application is based.

Selected Cases [subsec. 231.3(2)]: Donovan v. Canada, [1994] 2 C.T.C. 426 (NB QB) (Misleading and incorrect statement in information led to quashing of search warrants).

(3) Evidence — A judge may issue the warrant referred to in subsection (1) where the judge is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds to believe that

(a) an offence under this Act was committed;

(b) a document or thing that may afford evidence of the commission of the offence is likely to be found; and

(c) the building, receptacle or place specified in the application is likely to contain such a document or thing.

Related Provisions: See at end of 231.3.

History: Subsec. 231.3(3) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 108, applicable June 15, 1994. That subsec. formerly read:

(3) A judge shall issue the warrant referred to in subsection (1) where the judge is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds to believe that

(a) an offence under this Act has been committed;

(b) a document or thing that may afford evidence of the commission of the offence is likely to be found; and

(c) the building, receptacle or place specified in the application is likely to contain such a document or thing.

Selected Cases [subsec. 231.3(3)]: R. v. Precision Mechanics Ltd. et al., [1986] 2 C.T.C. 240 (Que SC) (Evidence in support of application obtained in manner infringing upon taxpayer's Charter rights inadmissible); Thyssen Canada Ltd. v. R., [1984] C.T.C. 64 (FCTD) (Audit with taxpayer's consent did not constitute formal search and seizure within scope of Charter).

(4) Contents of warrant — A warrant issued under subsection (1) shall refer to the offence for which it is issued, identify the building, receptacle or place to be searched and the person alleged to have committed the offence and it shall be reasonably specific as to any document or thing to be searched for and seized.

(5) Seizure of document — Any person who executes a warrant under subsection (1) may seize, in addition to the document or thing referred to in that subsection, any other document or thing that the person believes on reasonable grounds affords evidence of the commission of an offence under this Act and shall as soon as practicable bring the document or thing before, or make a report in respect thereof to, the judge who issued the warrant or, where the judge is unable to act, another judge of the same court to be dealt with by the judge in accordance with this section.

Related Provisions: 231.5(1) — Copy of document seized may be used in court proceedings; 231.5(2) — Compliance; 244(9) — Copy of document seized may be used in court proceedings.

Information Circulars: 73-10R3: Tax evasion.

(6) Retention of things seized — Subject to subsection (7), where any document or thing seized under subsection (1) or (5) is brought before a judge or a report in respect thereof is made to a judge, the judge shall, unless the Minister waives retention, order that it be retained by the Minister, who shall take reasonable care to ensure that it is preserved until the conclusion of any investigation into the offence in relation to which the document or thing was seized or until it is required to be produced for the purposes of a criminal proceeding.

Selected Cases [subsec. 231.3(6)]: Kohli v. Moase, [1989] 1 C.T.C. 492 (NB CA) (Where documents seized under s. 231.3, taxpayer's civil actions against individual tax officials and police dismissed; proper remedy was pursuant to subsecs. (6) and (7)).

(7) Return of things seized — Where any document or thing seized under subsection (1) or (5) is brought before a judge or a report in respect thereof is made to a judge, the judge may, of the judge's own motion or on summary application by a person with an interest in the document or thing on three clear days notice of application to the Deputy Attorney General of Canada, order that the document or thing be returned to the person from whom it was seized or the person who is otherwise legally entitled thereto if the judge is satisfied that the document or thing

(a) will not be required for an investigation or a criminal proceeding; or

(b) was not seized in accordance with the warrant or this section.

231.4 (1) Inquiry — The Minister may, for any purpose related to the administration or enforcement of this Act, authorize any person, whether or not the person is an officer of the Canada Revenue Agency, to make such inquiry as the person may deem necessary with reference to anything relating to the administration or enforcement of this Act.

Related Provisions: 231.5(2) — Compliance. See also Related Provisions and Definitions at end of 231.4.

History: Subsec. 231.4(1) amended to substitute "Canada Revenue Agency" for "Canada Customs and Revenue Agency" by 2005, c. 38, subpara. 138(m)(iii), proclaimed in force December 12, 2005.

Subsec. 231.4(1) amended to substitute "Canada Customs and Revenue Agency" for "Department of National Revenue" by 1999, c. 17, para. 168(c), proclaimed in force November 1, 1999.

(2) Appointment of hearing officer — Where the Minister, pursuant to subsection (1), authorizes a person to make an inquiry, the Minister shall forthwith apply to the Tax Court of Canada for an order appointing a hearing officer before whom the inquiry will be held.

(3) Powers of hearing officer — For the purposes of an inquiry authorized under subsection (1), a hearing officer appointed under subsection (2) in relation thereto has all the powers conferred on a commissioner by sections 4 and 5 of the Inquiries Act and that may be conferred on a commissioner under section 11 thereof.

Inquiries Act: Ss. 4, 5 of the Inquiries Act, R.S., c. I-13, provide:

> 4. The commissioners have the power of summoning before them any witnesses, and of requiring them to
>
> (a) give evidence, orally or in writing, and on oath or, if they are persons entitled to affirm in civil matters on solemn affirmation; and
>
> (b) produce such documents and things as the commissioners deem requisite to the full investigation of the matters into which they are appointed to examine.
>
> 5. The commissioners have the same power to enforce the attendance of witnesses and to compel them to give evidence as is vested in any court of record in civil cases.

Selected Cases [subsec. 231.4(3)]: 462657 Ontario Ltd. v. MNR, [1989] 2 C.T.C. 218 (FCTD) (Hearing officer's subpoena did not constitute a search and seizure).

(4) When powers to be exercised — A hearing officer appointed under subsection (2) in relation to an inquiry shall exercise the powers conferred on a commissioner by section 4 of the Inquiries Act in relation to such persons as the person authorized to make the inquiry considers appropriate for the conduct thereof but the hearing officer shall not exercise the power to punish any person unless, on application by the hearing officer, a judge of a superior or county court certifies that the power may be exercised in the matter disclosed in the application and the applicant has given to the person in respect of whom the applicant proposes to exercise the power 24 hours notice of the hearing of the application or such shorter notice as the judge considers reasonable.

(5) Rights of witness at inquiry — Any person who gives evidence in an inquiry authorized under subsection (1) is entitled to be represented by counsel and, on request made by the person to the Minister, to receive a transcript of the evidence given by the person.

(6) Rights of person whose affairs are investigated — Any person whose affairs are investigated in the course of an inquiry authorized under subsection (1) is entitled to be present and to be represented by counsel throughout the inquiry unless the hearing officer appointed under subsection (2) in relation to the inquiry, on application by the Minister or a person giving evidence, orders otherwise in relation to the whole or any part of the inquiry on the ground that the presence of the person and the person's counsel, or either of them, would be prejudicial to the effective conduct of the inquiry.

231.6 (1) Definition of "foreign-based information or document" — For the purposes of this section, "foreign-based information or document" means any information or document that is available or located outside Canada and that may be relevant to the administration or enforcement of this Act, including the collection of any amount payable under this Act by any person.

History: Subsec. 231.6(1) amended by 2000, c. 30, s. 177, in force October 20, 2000. The subsec. formerly read:

(1) For the purposes of this section, "foreign-based information or document" means any information or document that is available or located outside Canada and may be relevant to the administration or enforcement of this Act.

Selected Cases [subsec. 231.6(1)]: Bernick v. R., 2002 CarswellOnt 2356 (Ont SCJ) (Identity of other parties relevant to Minister's determination of taxpayer's liability; information to be produced).

(2) Requirement to provide foreign-based information — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Minister may, by notice served personally or by registered or certified mail, require that a person resident in Canada or a non-resident person carrying on business in Canada provide any foreign-based information or document.

Related Provisions: 231.6(4) — Application for review by court; 231.6(8) — Consequences of failure to comply; 233.1–233.7 — Requirement to file annual information returns with respect to non-resident dealings; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

Information Circulars: 77-9R: Books, records and other requirements for taxpayers having foreign affiliates; 78-10R4: Books and records retention/destruction.

(3) Notice — The notice referred to in subsection (2) shall set out

(a) a reasonable period of time of not less than 90 days for the production of the information or document;

(b) a description of the information or document being sought; and

(c) the consequences under subsection (8) to the person of the failure to provide the information or documents being sought within the period of time set out in the notice.

Related Provisions: Interpretation Act s. 27 — Computation of time.

(4) Review of foreign information requirement — The person on whom a notice of a requirement is served under subsection (2) may, within 90 days after the service of the notice, apply to a judge for a review of the requirement.

Selected Cases [subsec. 231.6(4)]: European Marine Contractors Ltd. v. Canada (CCRA), [2004] 2 C.T.C. 226 (FC) (Filing income tax return made audit a virtual certainty and foreign information required to be provided).

(5) Powers on review — On hearing an application under subsection (4) in respect of a requirement, a judge may

(a) confirm the requirement;

(b) vary the requirement as the judge considers appropriate in the circumstances; or

(c) set aside the requirement if the judge is satisfied that the requirement is unreasonable.

(6) Idem — For the purposes of paragraph (5)(c), the requirement to provide the information or document shall not be considered to be unreasonable because the information or document is under the control of or available to a non-resident person that is not controlled by the person served with the notice of the requirement under subsection (2) if that person is related to the non-resident person.

Related Provisions: 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

Selected Cases [subsec. 231.6(6)]: Re Hertel et al., [1987] 1 C.T.C. 15 (BC SC) (So as not to interfere with independence of judiciary, "shall" interpreted as permissive); Smith v. MNR, 82 D.T.C. 6198 (NB CA) (Once judge decides that requirements of provision are satisfied, only an indefinite order may be granted).

(7) Time during consideration not to count — The period of time between the day on which an application for review of a requirement is made pursuant to subsection (4) and the day on which the review is decided shall not be counted in the computation of

(a) the period of time set out in the notice of the requirement; and

(b) the period of time within which an assessment may be made pursuant to subsection 152(4).

(8) Consequence of failure — If a person fails to comply substantially with a notice served under subsection (2) and if the notice is not set aside by a judge pursuant to subsection (5), any court having jurisdiction in a civil proceeding relating to the administration or enforcement of this Act shall, on motion of the Minister, prohibit the introduction by that person of any foreign-based information or document covered by that notice.

Related Provisions [subsec. 231.6(8)]: 143.2(13), (14) — Effect of information outside Canada on tax shelter investments.

Selected Cases [subsec. 231.6(8)]: Glaxo Smithkline Inc. v. R., [2003] 4 C.T.C. 2916 (TCC) (Court has little discretion regarding order once request for information has been refused or ignored).

Selected Cases [s. 231.6]: Saipem Luxembourg S.A. v. Canada (CRA), [2005] 3 C.T.C. 294 (FCA); leave to appeal to SCC refused 2005 CarswellNat 3949 (Standard is reasonableness, both as to relationship with administration and enforcement and scope of request).

Definitions [s. 231.6]: "Canada" — 255; "carrying on business" — 253; "controlled" — 256(6), (6.1); "documents", "judge" — 231; "Minister", "non-resident", "person" — 248(1); "related" — 251(2); "resident in Canada" — 250.

231.7 (1) Compliance order — On summary application by the Minister, a judge may, notwithstanding subsection 238(2), order a person to provide any access, assistance, information or document sought by the Minister under section 231.1 or 231.2 if the judge is satisfied that

(a) the person was required under section 231.1 or 231.2 to provide the access, assistance, information or document and did not do so; and

(b) in the case of information or a document, the information or document is not protected from disclosure by solicitor-client privilege (within the meaning of subsection 232(1)).

Related Provisions: 231.5(2) — Compliance with audit or demand required; 231.7(2) — Five clear days' notice required; 231.7(3) — Conditions can be imposed; 231.7(4) — Contempt of court for failure to comply; 231.7(5) — Appeal of order.

Information Circulars: 78-10R4: Books and records retention/destruction.

(2) Notice required — An application under subsection (1) must not be heard before the end of five clear days from the day the notice of application is served on the person against whom the order is sought.

(3) Judge may impose conditions — A judge making an order under subsection (1) may impose any conditions in respect of the order that the judge considers appropriate.

(4) Contempt of court — If a person fails or refuses to comply with an order, a judge may find the person in contempt of court and the person is subject to the processes and the punishments of the court to which the judge is appointed.

(5) Appeal — An order by a judge under subsection (1) may be appealed to a court having appellate jurisdiction over decisions of the court to which the judge is appointed. An appeal does not suspend the execution of the order unless it is so ordered by a judge of the court to which the appeal is made.

232. (1) [Solicitor-client privilege] Definitions — In this section,

"custodian" means a person in whose custody a package is placed pursuant to subsection (3);

Related Provisions: 230(2.1) — Books and records.

"judge" means a judge of a superior court having jurisdiction in the province where the matter arises or a judge of the Federal Court;

Selected Cases [subsec. 232(1)"judge"]: Stasiv Mitton & Smith v. Canada, [1989] 1 C.T.C. 171 (Ont SC) ("Judge" does not include a judge of the Ontario Supreme Court appointed pursuant to the Courts of Justice Act); Herman et al. v. Dep. A.G. Can., [1978] C.T.C. 728 (SCC) (Judge's order under provision made in capacity of judge, and not subject to review under s. 28 of Federal Court Act).

"lawyer" means, in the province of Quebec, an advocate or notary and, in any other province, a barrister or solicitor;

Related Provisions: 248(1)"lawyer" — Definition applies to entire Act.

"officer" means a person acting under the authority conferred by or under sections 231.1 to 231.5;

"solicitor-client privilege" means the right, if any, that a person has in a superior court in the province where the matter arises to refuse to disclose an oral or documentary communication on the ground that the communication is one passing between the person and the person's lawyer in professional confidence, except that for the purposes of this section an accounting record of a lawyer, including any supporting voucher or cheque, shall be deemed not to be such a communication.

Selected Cases [subsec. 232(1)"solicitor-client privilege"]: MNR v. Reddy, [2006] 3 C.T.C. 17 (FC) (Distinction between communication and certain actions involving solicitors; privilege applies to former only); Belgravia Investments Ltd. v. R., [2002] 3 C.T.C. 482 (FCTD) (Mere possession of document by lawyer does not make it privileged and not all communications are privileged); Heath v. Canada, [1990] 2 C.T.C. 28 (BC SC) (Solicitor's trust account ledger was "accounting record of a lawyer" and excluded from solicitor-client privilege); MNR v. Lawrence, [1989] 1 C.T.C. 289 (FCTD) (Solicitor-client privilege is lost where prima facie case of fraud established); Visser and MNR, [1989] 1 C.T.C. 192 (PEI SC) (Voluntary disclosure by taxpayer of material part of communication implicitly waives privilege); Playfair Developments Ltd. v. Dep. MNR, [1985] 1 C.T.C. 302 (Ont SC) (Provision does not give judge jurisdiction to determine whether or not communications sought are relevant to Minister's inquiry; "accounting record" interpreted); Brunner and Lay (Canada) Ltd. v. Dep. A.G. Can., [1984] C.T.C. 534 (FCTD) (Interoffice memoranda between solicitors privileged); Kent Steel Products Ltd. v. R., 76 D.T.C. 6253 (Ont SC) (Documents related to tax minimization, but not tax fraud, are privileged); Re Goodman & Carr et al., [1968] C.T.C. 484 (Ont SC) (Documents privileged unless definite charge of fraud made; communications between solicitor and accountant of taxpayer not privileged); Re Missiaen, [1967] C.T.C. 579 (Alta. S.C.) (Communications between solicitor and accountant not privileged).

(2) Solicitor-client privilege defence — Where a lawyer is prosecuted for failure to comply with a requirement under section 231.2 with respect to information or a document, the lawyer shall be acquitted if the lawyer establishes to the satisfaction of the court

(a) that the lawyer, on reasonable grounds, believed that a client of the lawyer had a solicitor-client privilege in respect of the information or document; and

(b) that the lawyer communicated to the Minister, or some person duly authorized to act for the Minister, the lawyer's refusal to comply with the requirement together with a claim that a named client of the lawyer had a solicitor-client privilege in respect of the information or document.

Selected Cases [subsec. 232(2)]: Cineplex Odeon Corp. v. Canada, [1994] 2 C.T.C. 293 (Ont Gen Div) (Inadvertent disclosure without consent of client does not operate to waive privilege); Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. v. Dep. A.G. Can., [1982] C.T.C. 121 (BC SC) (Communications between taxpayer and its president/counsel were privileged to extent made in latter's capacity as counsel).

(3) Seizure of certain documents where privilege claimed — Where, pursuant to section 231.3, an officer is about to seize a document in the possession of a lawyer and the lawyer claims that a named client of the lawyer has a solicitor-client privilege in respect of that document, the officer shall, without inspecting, examining or making copies of the document,

(a) seize the document and place it, together with any other document in respect of which the lawyer at the same time makes the same claim on behalf of the same client, in a package and suitably seal and identify the package; and

(b) place the package in the custody of the sheriff of the district or county in which the seizure was made or, if the officer and the lawyer agree in writing on a person to act as custodian, in the custody of that person.

Selected Cases [subsec. 232(3)]: 143471 Canada Inc., Quebec v., [1995] 1 C.T.C. 27 (SCC) (Impounded documents to be kept until constitutionality of impunged sections of legislation determined. Protection of individuals preferred to convenience of Minister); Re Bowlen et al., [1971] C.T.C. 682 (BC SC) (No privilege where prima facie case of fraud established).

(3.1) Examination of certain documents where privilege claimed — Where, pursuant to section 231.1, an officer is about to inspect or examine a document in the possession of a lawyer or where, pursuant to section 231.2, the Minister has required provision of a document by a lawyer, and the lawyer claims that a named client or former client of the lawyer has a solicitor-client privilege in respect of the document, no officer shall inspect or examine the document and the lawyer shall

(a) place the document, together with any other document in respect of which the lawyer at the same time makes the same claim on behalf of the same client, in a package and suitably seal and identify the package or, if the officer and the lawyer agree, allow the pages of the document to be initialed and numbered or otherwise suitably identified; and

(b) retain it and ensure that it is preserved until it is produced to a judge as required under this section and an order is issued under this section in respect of the document.

History: The opening words of subsec. 232(3.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 230, in force June 18, 1998. The opening words formerly read:

(3.1) Where, pursuant to sections 231.1 and 231.2, an officer is about to inspect or examine a document in the possession of a lawyer and the lawyer claims that a named client of the lawyer has a solicitor-client privilege in respect of that document, the officer shall not inspect or examine the document and the lawyer shall

(4) Application to judge — Where a document has been seized and placed in custody under subsection (3) or is being retained under subsection (3.1), the client, or the lawyer on behalf of the client, may

(a) within 14 days after the day the document was so placed in custody or commenced to be so retained apply, on three clear days notice of motion to the Deputy Attorney General of Canada, to a judge for an order

(i) fixing a day, not later than 21 days after the date of the order, and place for the determination of the question whether the client has a solicitor-client privilege in respect of the document, and

(ii) requiring the production of the document to the judge at that time and place;

(b) serve a copy of the order on the Deputy Attorney General of Canada and, where applicable, on the custodian within 6 days of the day on which it was made and, within the same time, pay to the custodian the estimated expenses of transporting the document to and from the place of hearing and of safeguarding it; and

(c) if the client or lawyer has proceeded as authorized by paragraph (b), apply at the appointed time and place for an order determining the question.

Related Provisions: Interpretation Act 27(1), (2) — Calculation of days and clear days.

Can.*, [1976] C.T.C. 290 (FCA) (Application to set aside order for delivery of seized documents to officials of Revenue Canada dismissed where neither client nor solicitor applied, under provision, for order determining privilege).

(5) Disposition of application — An application under paragraph (4)(c) shall be heard in camera, and on the application

(a) the judge may, if the judge considers it necessary to determine the question, inspect the document and, if the judge does so, the judge shall ensure that it is repackaged and resealed; and

(b) the judge shall decide the matter summarily and,

(i) if the judge is of the opinion that the client has a solicitor-client privilege in respect of the document, shall order the release of the document to the lawyer, and

(ii) if the judge is of the opinion that the client does not have a solicitor-client privilege in respect of the document, shall order

(A) that the custodian deliver the document to the officer or some other person designated by the Commissioner of Revenue, in the case of a document that was seized and placed in custody under subsection (3), or

(B) that the lawyer make the document available for inspection or examination by the officer or other person designated by the Commissioner of Revenue, in the case of a document that was retained under subsection (3.1), and the judge shall, at the same time, deliver concise reasons in which the judge shall identify the document without divulging the details thereof.

History: Subsec. 232(5) amended to substitute "Commissioner of Revenue" for "Commissioner of Customs and Revenue" by 2005, c. 38, subpara. 140(e)(iv), proclaimed in force December 12, 2005.

Subsec. 232(5) amended to substitute "Commissioner of Customs and Revenue" for "Deputy Minister of National Revenue" by 1999, c. 17, para. 167(c), proclaimed in force November 1, 1999.

"Deputy Minister of National Revenue" substituted for "Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Taxation" in subsec. 232(5), by 1994, c. 13, subsec. 7(1), applicable May 12, 1994.

(6) Order to deliver or make available — Where a document has been seized and placed in custody under subsection (3) or where a document is being retained under subsection (3.1) and a judge, on the application of the Attorney General of Canada, is satisfied that neither the client nor the lawyer has made an application under paragraph (4)(a) or, having made that application, neither the client nor the lawyer has made an application under paragraph (4)(c), the judge shall order

(a) that the custodian deliver the document to the officer or some other person designated by the Commissioner of Customs and Revenue, in the case of a document that was seized and placed in custody under subsection (3); or

(b) that the lawyer make the document available for inspection or examination by the officer or other person designated by the Commissioner of Revenue, in the case of a document that was retained under subsection (3.1).

History: Subsec. 232(6) amended to substitute "Commissioner of Revenue" for "Commissioner of Customs and Revenue" by 2005, c. 38, subpara. 140(e)(iv), proclaimed in force December 12, 2005.

Subsec. 232(6) amended to substitute "Commissioner of Customs and Revenue" for "Deputy Minister of National Revenue" by 1999, c. 17, para. 167(c), proclaimed in force November 1, 1999.

"Deputy Minister of National Revenue" substituted for "Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Taxation" in subsec. 232(6), by 1994, c. 13, subsec. 7(1), applicable May 12, 1994.

(7) Delivery by custodian — The custodian shall

(a) deliver the document to the lawyer

(i) in accordance with a consent executed by the officer or by or on behalf of the Deputy Attorney General of Canada or the Commissioner of Revenue, or

(ii) in accordance with an order of a judge under this section; or

(b) deliver the document to the officer or some other person designated by the Commissioner of Revenue

(i) in accordance with a consent executed by the lawyer or the client, or

(ii) in accordance with an order of a judge under this section.

History: Subsec. 232(7) amended to substitute "Commissioner of Revenue" for "Commissioner of Customs and Revenue" by 2005, c. 38, subpara. 140(e)(iv), proclaimed in force December 12, 2005.

Subsec. 232(7) amended to substitute "Commissioner of Customs and Revenue" for "Deputy Minister of National Revenue" by 1999, c. 17, para. 167(c), proclaimed in force November 1, 1999.

"Deputy Minister of National Revenue" substituted for "Deputy Minister of National Revenue for Taxation" in subsec. 232(7), by 1994, c. 13, subsec. 7(1), applicable May 12, 1994.

(8) Continuation by another judge — Where the judge to whom an application has been made under paragraph (4)(a) cannot for any reason act or continue to act in the application under paragraph (4)(c), the application under paragraph (4)(c) may be made to another judge.

(9) Costs — No costs may be awarded on the disposition of any application under this section.

(10) Directions — Where any question arises as to the course to be followed in connection with anything done or being done under this section, other than subsection (2), (3) or (3.1), and there is no direction in this section with respect thereto, a judge may give such direction with regard thereto as, in the judge's opinion, is most likely to carry out the object of this section of allowing solicitor-client privilege for proper purposes.

(11) Prohibition — The custodian shall not deliver a document to any person except in accordance with an order of a judge or a consent under this section or except to any officer or servant of the custodian for the purposes of safeguarding the document.

(12) Idem — No officer shall inspect, examine or seize a document in the possession of a lawyer without giving the lawyer a reasonable opportunity of making a claim under this section.

(13) Authority to make copies — At any time while a document is in the custody of a custodian under this section, a judge may, on an ex parte application of the lawyer, authorize the lawyer to examine or make a copy of the document in the presence of the custodian or the judge by an order that shall contain such provisions as may be necessary to ensure that the document is repackaged and that the package is resealed without alteration or damage.

(14) Waiver of claim of privilege — Where a lawyer has, for the purpose of subsection (2), (3) or (3.1), made a claim that a named client of the lawyer has a solicitor-client privilege in respect of information or a document, the lawyer shall at the same time communicate to the Minister or some person duly authorized to act for the Minister the address of the client last known to the lawyer so that the Minister may endeavour to advise the client of the claim of privilege that has been made on the client's behalf and may thereby afford the client an opportunity, if it is practicable within the time limited by this section, of waiving the claim of privilege before the matter is to be decided by a judge or other tribunal.

(15) Compliance — No person shall hinder, molest or interfere with any person doing anything that that person is authorized to do by or pursuant to this section or prevent or attempt to prevent any person doing any such thing and, notwithstanding any other Act or law, every person shall, unless the person is unable to do so, do everything the person is required to do by or pursuant to this section.

233.1 [Reporting transactions with related non-residents] — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"reportable transaction" means

(a) in the case of

(i) a reporting person for a taxation year who is not resident in Canada at any time in the year, or

(ii) a reporting partnership for a fiscal period no member of which is resident in Canada in the period, a transaction or series of transactions that relate in any manner whatever to a business carried on in Canada by the reporting person or partnership in the year or period or a preceding taxation year or period; and

(b) in any other case, a transaction or series of transactions that relate in any manner whatever to a business carried on by a reporting person (other than a business carried on by a reporting person as a member of a partnership) or partnership in a taxation year or fiscal period.

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions.

"reporting partnership" for a fiscal period means a partnership

(a) a member of which is resident in Canada in the period; or

(b) that carries on a business in Canada in the period.

"reporting person" for a taxation year means a person who, at any time in the year,

(a) is resident in Canada; or

(b) is non-resident and carries on a business (other than a business carried on as a member of a partnership) in Canada.

"transaction" includes an arrangement or event.

Related Provisions [233.1(1)"transaction"]: 245(1)"transaction" — Parallel definition under general anti-avoidance rule; 247(1) — Parallel definition re transfer pricing.

(2) Reporting person's information return — Subject to subsection (4), a reporting person for a taxation year shall, on or before the reporting person's filing-due date for the year, file with the Minister, in respect of each non-resident person with whom the reporting person does not deal at arm's length in the year and each partnership of which such a non-resident person is a member, an information return for the year in prescribed form containing prescribed information in respect of the reportable transactions in which the reporting person and the non-resident person or the partnership, as the case may be, participated in the year.

Related Provisions: 152(4)(b)(iii) — Reassessment period extended by 3 years re non-arm's length transactions with non-residents; 162(7), (10), (10.1) — Penalty for failure to file; 163(2.4)(a) — Penalty of $24,000 for false statement or omission; 233.2–233.7 — Foreign reporting requirements; 247 — Transfer pricing rules; Canada-U.S. Tax Treaty:Art. IX — Adjustments on non-arm's length transactions.

Forms: T106: Information return of non-arm's length transactions with non-residents.

(3) Reporting partnership's information return — Subject to subsection (4), a reporting partnership for a fiscal period shall, on or before the day on or before which a return is required by section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations to be filed in respect of the period or would be required to be so filed if that section applied to the reporting partnership, file with the Minister, in respect of each non-resident person with whom the reporting partnership, or a member of the reporting partnership, does not deal at arm's length in the period and each partnership of which such a non-resident person is a member, an information return for the period in prescribed form containing prescribed information in respect of the reportable transactions in which the reporting partnership and the non-resident person or the partnership, as the case may be, participated in the period.

Related Provisions: 152(4)(b)(iii) — Reassessment period extended by 3 years re non-arm's length transactions with non-residents; 162(7), (10), (10.1) — Penalty for failure to file; 163(2.4)(a) — Penalty of $24,000 for false statement or omission; 233.1(5) — Tiers of partnerships; 233.2–233.7 — Foreign reporting requirements; 247 — Transfer pricing rules; Canada-U.S. Tax Treaty:Art. IX — Adjustments on non-arm's length transactions.

(4) De minimis exception — A reporting person or partnership that, but for this subsection, would be required under subsection (2) or (3) to file an information return for a taxation year or fiscal period is not required to file the return unless the total of all amounts, each of which is the total fair market value of the property or services that relate to a reportable transaction in which the reporting person or partnership and any non-resident person with whom the reporting person or partnership, or a member of the reporting partnership, does not deal at arm's length in the year or period, or a partnership of which such a non-resident person is a member, as the case may be, participated in the year or period, exceeds $1,000,000.

(5) Deemed member of partnership — For the purposes of this section, a person who is a member of a partnership that is a member of another partnership is deemed to be a member of the other partnership.

History [s. 233.1]: S. 233.1 amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 231, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997. S. 233.1 formerly read:

> 233.1 Information return with respect to certain non-resident persons — Every corporation that, at any time in a taxation year, was resident in Canada or carried on business in Canada shall, in respect of each non-resident person with whom it was not dealing at arm's length at any time in the year, file with the Minister, within 6 months from the end of the year, an annual information return for the year in prescribed form and containing prescribed information in respect of transactions with that person.

233.2 [Reporting transfers or loans to foreign trusts] — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"exempt trust" means

(a) a trust that is governed by a foreign retirement arrangement;

(b) a trust that

(i) is resident in a country under the laws of which an income tax is imposed,

(ii) is exempt under the laws referred to in subparagraph (i) from the payment of income tax to the government of that country,

(iii) is established principally in connection with, or the principal purpose of which is to administer or provide benefits under, one or more superannuation, pension or retirement funds or plans or any funds or plans established to provide employee benefits, and

(iv) is either

(A) maintained primarily for the benefit of non-resident individuals, or

(B) governed by an employees profit sharing plan; or

(c) a trust

(i) where the interest of each beneficiary under the trust is described by reference to units, and

(ii) that complies with prescribed conditions.

Related Provisions: 233.6(2)(a) — No reporting required on distribution from certain exempt trusts.

Regulations: Reg. 4801.1 (prescribed conditions for subpara. (c)(ii)).

"specified beneficiary" at any time under a trust means

(a) any person beneficially interested in the trust who is not at that time

(i) a mutual fund corporation,

(ii) a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(iii) a person (other than a trust) all of whose taxable income for the person's taxation year that includes that time is exempt from tax under Part I,

(iv) a trust all of the taxable income of which for its taxation year that includes that time is exempt from tax under Part I,

(v) a mutual fund trust,

(vi) a trust described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1),

(vii) a registered investment,

(viii) a trust in which all persons beneficially interested are persons described in subparagraphs (i) to (vii),

(ix) a particular person who is beneficially interested in the trust solely because the particular person is beneficially interested in an exempt trust or a trust described in this subparagraph or any of subparagraphs (iv) to (vi), nor

(x) a particular person who is beneficially interested in the trust only because of a right that is subject to a contingency, where at that time the identity of the particular person as a person beneficially interested in the trust is impossible to determine; or

(b) any person described at that time in any of subparagraphs (a)(i) to (x) who is beneficially interested in the trust, where it is reasonable to consider that the person became beneficially interested in the trust as part of a transaction or event or series of transactions or events one of the purposes of which is to limit the reporting in respect of the trust that would, but for this paragraph, be required under subsection (4).

Proposed Repeal — 233.2(1)"specified beneficiary"

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 40(1), will repeal the definition "specified beneficiary" in subsec. 233.2(1), applicable on the same basis as the amendment of subsec. 233.2(2).

Technical Notes: Existing section 233.2 requires certain persons who have made transfers or loans to a "specified foreign trust", or to a non-resident corporation that is a controlled foreign affiliate of such a trust, to file annual information returns with respect to the trust. A "specified foreign trust", as defined in subsection 233.2, includes a trust with a "specified beneficiary" resident in Canada. As defined in subsection 233.2(1), a "specified beneficiary" is generally any beneficiary under the trust with the exception of persons listed in subparagraphs (a)(i) to (x) of the definition. For a return to be required to be filed as a consequence of a transfer or loan, it is necessary to have a "non-arm's length indicator", as set out in subsection 233.2(2), apply in respect of the transfer or loan. One of the cases where a "non-arm's length indicator" applies in respect of a transfer to a trust is where the transferor is a "specified beneficiary" under the trust. Subsection 233.2(3) provides a lookthrough rule so that, where a partnership transfers property, it is considered to have been transferred by members of the partnership.

New section 94 sets out new rules governing the taxation of non-resident trusts. In order to be consistent with the new rules:

- the definitions "specified beneficiary" and "specified foreign trust" in section 233.2 are repealed,
- there is no longer a requirement for a "non-arm's length indicator", so the existing rule in subsection 233.2(2) is repealed,
- except as described below, the definitions and rules of application in subsections 94(1), (2) and (10) to (13) apply because of amended subsection 233.2(2), and
- there is no longer a requirement for an explicit look-through rule for partnerships in section 233.2, given that the rule in paragraph 94(2)(o) applies because of amended subsection 233.2(2). Consequently, subsection 233.2(3) is repealed.

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions; 248(25) — Extended meaning of "beneficially interested".

"specified foreign trust" at any time means a trust (other than an exempt trust) that is non-resident at that time where either

(a) there is a specified beneficiary under the trust who at that time

(i) is resident in Canada,

(ii) is a corporation or trust with which a person resident in Canada does not deal at arm's length, or

(iii) is a controlled foreign affiliate of a person resident in Canada; or

(b) at that time the terms or conditions of the trust or any arrangement in respect of the trust

(i) permit persons (other than persons described in any of subparagraphs (a)(i) to (viii) of the definition "specified beneficiary") who are not beneficially interested in the trust at that time to become, because of the exercise of any discretion

by any person or partnership, beneficially interested in the trust after that time, or

(ii) allow property to be distributed, directly or indirectly, to another trust that immediately after the receipt of the distribution can reasonably be expected to be a specified foreign trust.

Proposed Repeal — 233.2(1)"specified foreign trust"

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 40(1), will repeal the definition "specified foreign trust" in subsec. 233.2(1), applicable on the same basis as the amendment of subsec. 233.2(2).

Technical Notes: See under 233.2(1)"specified beneficiary".

Related Provisions: 248(25) — Extended meaning of "beneficially interested".

(2) Non-arm's length indicators — For the purpose of this section,

(a) a non-arm's length indicator applies to a trust at a particular time with respect to a transfer of property made at an earlier time to the trust or a corporation where

(i) immediately after the earlier time the transferor was

(A) a specified beneficiary under the trust,

(B) a person related to a specified beneficiary under the trust,

(C) an uncle, aunt, nephew or niece of a specified beneficiary under the trust, or

(D) a trust or corporation that had, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, previously acquired the transferred property from a person described in clause (A), (B) or (C),

(ii) the fair market value at the earlier time of the transferred property was greater than the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total fair market value at the earlier time of the consideration, if any, given to the transferor for the transfer of property at the earlier time

exceeds

(B) the portion of the total described in clause (A) that is attributable to the fair market value of an interest as a beneficiary in the trust or a share or debt issued by the corporation,

(iii) the consideration received by the transferor in respect of the transfer included indebtedness on which

(A) interest was not charged in respect of a period that began before the particular time,

(B) interest was charged in respect of a period that began before the particular time at a rate that was less than the lesser of

(I) the prescribed rate that was in effect at the earlier time, and

(II) the rate that would, having regard to all the circumstances, have been agreed on at the earlier time between parties dealing with each other at arm's length,

(C) any interest that was payable at the end of any calendar year that ended at or before the particular time was unpaid on the day that is 180 days after the end of that calendar year, or

(D) the amount of interest that was payable at the end of any calendar year that ended at or before the particular time was paid on or before the day that is 180 days after the end of that calendar year and it is established, by subsequent events or otherwise, that the payment was made as part of a series of loans or other transactions and repayments,

(iv) the property transferred was a share of the capital stock of a corporation or an interest in another trust and a specified beneficiary under the trust is related to the corporation or the other trust or would be so related if paragraph 80(2)(j) applied for the purposes of this subparagraph, or

(v) the transfer was made as part of a series of transactions or events one of the purposes of which was to avoid the application of this paragraph; and

(b) a non-arm's length indicator applies to a trust at a particular time with respect to a loan made at an earlier time where

(i) interest was not charged on the loan in respect of a period that began before the particular time,

(ii) interest was charged on the loan in respect of a period that began before the particular time at a rate that was less than the lesser of

(A) the prescribed rate that was in effect at the earlier time, and

(B) the rate that would, having regard to all the circumstances, have been agreed on at the earlier time between parties dealing with each other at arm's length,

(iii) any interest on the loan that was payable at the end of any calendar year that ended at or before the particular time was unpaid on the day that is 180 days after the end of that calendar year,

(iv) the amount of interest on the loan that was payable at the end of any calendar year that ended at or before the particular time was paid on or before the day that is 180 days after the end of that calendar year and it is established, by subsequent events or otherwise, that the payment was made as part of a series of loans or other transactions and repayments, or

(v) the loan was made as part of a series of transactions or events one of the purposes of which was to avoid the application of this paragraph.

Proposed Amendment — 233.2(2)

(2) Rule of application — In this section and paragraph 233.5(c.1), subsections 94(1), (2) and (10) to (13) apply, except that the references to the expression "(other than a restricted property)" in the definition "arm's length transfer" in subsection 94(1) are to be read as references to the expression "(other than property that is not described in any of subclauses (b)(i)(A)(I) to (III) but to which paragraph 94(2)(g) applies)".

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 40(2), will amend subsec. 233.2(2) to read as above, applicable to returns in respect of trust taxation years that begin after 2006, and to returns in respect of trust taxation years that begin

(a) after 2000, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) after 2001, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) after 2002, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) after 2003, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) after 2004, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) after 2005, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (f) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: See under 233.2(1)"specified beneficiary".

Related Provisions: 233.2(3) — Property transferred or lent by partnership; 248(10) — Series of transactions or events; 252(2) — Extended meaning of "uncle", "aunt", "nephew" and "niece".

Regulations: Reg. 4301(c) (prescribed rate of interest for 233.2(2)(a)(iii)(B)(I) and 233.2(2)(b)(ii)(A).

(3) Partnerships — For the purpose of this section, where property is transferred or lent at any time by a partnership, the property is deemed to have been transferred or lent at that time by each of the members of the partnership.

Proposed Repeal — 233.2(3)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 40(2), will repeal subsec. (3), applicable on the same basis as the amendment of subsec. 233.2(2).

Technical Notes: See under 233.2(1)"specified beneficiary".

(4) Filing information on specified foreign trusts — Where

(a) at any time (in this subsection referred to as the "transfer time") before the end of a trust's taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "trust's year"), property was transferred or lent, either directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by any person (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor") to

(i) the trust, or

(ii) a corporation that, at the transfer time, would have been a controlled foreign affiliate of the trust if the trust had been resident in Canada,

(b) the trust was a specified foreign trust at any time in the trust's year, and

(c) a non-arm's length indicator applied to the trust at the end of the trust's year in respect of the transfer or loan,

the following rules apply:

(d) where the transferor is resident in Canada at the end of the trust's year, the transferor shall make an information return in respect of the trust's year in prescribed form and file it with the Minister on or before the transferor's filing-due date for the transferor's taxation year that includes the end of the trust's year, and

(e) where

(i) the transferor was, at the transfer time, a corporation that would have been a controlled foreign affiliate of a particular person if the particular person had been resident in Canada, and

(ii) the particular person is resident in Canada at the end of the trust's year, the particular person shall make an information return in respect of the trust's year in prescribed form and file it with the Minister on or before the filing-due date for the particular person's taxation year that includes the end of the trust's year.

Proposed Amendment — 233.2(4)

(4) Filing information on foreign trusts — A person shall file an information return in prescribed form, in respect of a taxation year of a particular trust (other than an exempt trust or a trust described in any of paragraphs (c) to (h) of the definition "exempt foreign trust" in subsection 94(1)), with the Minister on or before the person's filing-due date for the person's taxation year in which the particular trust's taxation year ends if

(a) the particular trust is non-resident at a specified time in that taxation year of the particular trust;

(b) the person is a contributor, a connected contributor or a resident contributor to the particular trust; and

(c) the person

(i) is resident in Canada at that specified time, and

(ii) is not, at that specified time,

(A) a mutual fund corporation,

(B) a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(C) a person all of whose taxable income for the person's taxation year that includes that time is exempt from tax under Part I,

(D) a mutual fund trust,

(E) a trust described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1),

(F) a registered investment,

(G) a trust in which all persons beneficially interested are persons described in clauses (A) to (F), or

(H) a person who is a contributor to the particular trust by reason only of being a contributor to a trust described in any of clauses (C) to (G).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 40(3), will amend subsec. 233.2(4) to read as above, applicable on the same basis as the amendment of subsec. 233.2(2). However, for trust taxation years that end on or before July 18, 2005, paras. 233.2(4)(a) and (b) are to be read as follows:

(a) the particular trust is non-resident at the end of that taxation year of the particular trust;

(b) a contribution has been made by the person to the particular trust at any time in that taxation year of the particular trust or in a preceding taxation year of the particular trust; and

A return required to be filed by a person because of subsec. 233.2(4), as amended, is deemed to have been filed with the Minister of National Revenue on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister on or before the person's filing-due date for the person's taxation year that includes the day on which Bill C-10 is assented to.

Technical Notes: Under amended subsection 233.2(4), reporting will generally be required for a taxation year of a person if the person is a "contributor", "connected contributor" or "resident contributor" to a trust that is non-resident at a "specified time" in the taxation year, of the trust, that ends in that taxation year of the taxpayer. Because of amended subsection 233.2(2), the expressions "contributor", "contribution", "connected contributor", "resident contributor" and "specified time" generally carry the same meaning as in new section 94 (including by reference to deeming rules such as, for example, 94(12) and (13)), with most of the same exceptions for "arm's length transfers" contained in the definition of that expression in subsection 94(1). However, the exception in that definition against transfers of "restricted property" (as defined in subsection 94(1)) is extended to apply to most transfers described in paragraph 94(2)(g) (unless the transfer involves, generally, an issuance of a unit or share from a mutual fund trust, a mutual fund corporation or a corporation other than a closely-held corporation, as the case may be), with the result that such transfers do not give rise to an exception to the obligations for reporting under subsection 233.2(4). It should be noted that amended subsection 233.2(2) also applies for the purpose of new paragraph 233.5(c.1).

New subparagraph 233.2(4)(c)(ii) sets out a list of persons for whom reporting obligations are not imposed. This list is consistent with the list of beneficiaries who are not treated as "specified beneficiaries" under the existing rules in section 233.2.

Amended subsection 233.2(4) also exempts contributors from filing information returns under section 233.2 with regard to trusts described in paragraphs (c) to (h) of the new definition "exempt foreign trust" in subsection 94(1). For more information in this regard, see the commentary on that definition.

Related Provisions: 94(7)(b) [proposed] — Limitation on person's liability for trust's tax when return filed; 162(10), (10.1) — Penalty for failure to file; 163(2.4)(b) — Minimum $24,000 penalty for false statement or omission; 220(2.1) — Waiver of filing requirement; 220(3) — Extension of time to file return; 233.2(2) — Presence of non-arm's length indicators; 233.2(4.1) — Similar arrangements; 233.2(5) — Election to use other person's information return; 233.3(3) — Requirement to file return re foreign property; 233.5 — Due diligence exception; 233.6(2)(b) — No return required on distribution from trusts where return required under 233.2; 233.7 — No requirement to file in first year of immigration; 248(25.1) — Transfer to non-resident bare trust.

Forms: T1141: Information return re transfers or loans to a non-resident trust.

Proposed Addition — 233.2(4.1)

(4.1) Similar arrangements — In this section and sections 162, 163 and 233.5, a person's obligations under subsection (4) (except to the extent that they are waived in writing by the Minister) are to be determined as if a transfer or loan were a contribution to which paragraph (4)(b) applied, an arrangement or entity were a non-resident trust throughout the calendar year that includes the time referred to in paragraph (a) and that calendar year were a taxation year of the arrangement or entity, if

(a) the person at any time, directly or indirectly, transferred or loaned the property to be held

(i) under the arrangement and the arrangement is governed by laws that are not laws of Canada or a province, or

(ii) by the entity and the entity is a non-resident entity (as defined by subsection 94.1(1));

(b) the transfer or loan is not an arm's length transfer;

(c) the transfer or loan is not solely in exchange for property that would be described in paragraphs (a) to (i) of the definition "specified foreign property" in subsection 233.3(1) if that definition were read without reference to paragraphs (j) to (q);

(d) the arrangement or entity is not a trust in respect of which the person would, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection, be required to file an information return for a taxation year that includes that time; and

(e) the arrangement or entity is, for a taxation year or fiscal period of the arrangement or entity that includes that time, not

(i) an exempt foreign trust (as defined in subsection 94(1)),

(ii) a foreign affiliate in respect of which the person is a reporting entity (within the meaning assigned by subsection 233.4(1)), or

(iii) an exempt trust.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 40(3), will add subsec. 233.2(4.1), applicable on the same basis as the amendment of subsec. 233.2(2).

Technical Notes: New subsection 94(3) provides that, where a non-resident trust has a resident contributor or resident beneficiary at the end of the trust's taxation year, the trust is generally taxed on its income in Canada for the year as if the trust were resident in Canada. However, the deeming provisions in subsection 94(3) apply only to arrangements that are considered to be trusts for Canadian income tax purposes. In some cases, there may be doubt as to whether a given arrangement is a trust for Canadian income tax purposes.

New subsection 233.2(4.1), in combination with subsection 233.2(4), imposes a filing obligation on contributors to certain entities or arrangements in respect of which reporting is not otherwise required. One of the key objectives of subsection 233.2(4.1) is to ensure that claims that section 94 does not apply can be reviewed by the Canada Revenue Agency.

More specifically, new subsection 233.2(4.1) applies where property has, directly or indirectly, been transferred or loaned by a person to be held

- under an arrangement governed by laws that are not laws of Canada or a province, or
- by a non-resident entity (as defined in subsection 94.1(1)).

The person must, where certain additional conditions are satisfied, file the information return referred to in amended subsection 233.2(4).

New subsection 233.2(4.1) provides that, except as the Minister of National Revenue otherwise permits in writing, the person has obligations under amended subsection 233.2(4) if all of the following conditions are satisfied:

- the transfer or loan is not an arm's length transfer (within the meaning that would be assigned by the definition "arm's length transfer" in subsection 94(1) as amended by subsection 233.2(2));
- the transfer or loan is not solely in exchange for property that would be described in paragraphs (a) to (i) of the definition "specified foreign property" in subsection 233.3(1) if that definition were read without reference to paragraphs (j) to (q) of that definition;
- the entity or arrangement is not a trust in respect of which the person would, without reference to subsection 233.2(4.1) and the explicit exemptions for filing returns contained in subsection 233.2(4), be required to file an information return for a taxation year that includes that time; and
- the entity or arrangement is, for a taxation year or fiscal period that includes that time, not
  - (i) an exempt foreign trust (as defined in subsection 94(1)),
  - (ii) foreign affiliate in respect of which the person is a reporting entity (as defined in subsection 233.4(1)), or
  - (iii) an exempt trust (as defined in subsection 233.2(1)).

Where the above conditions are satisfied, the person's obligations under subsection 233.2(4) and related provisions are determined as if:

- the transfer were a contribution to which paragraph 233.2(4)(a) applied;
- the entity or arrangement were a trust not resident in Canada throughout the calendar year that includes the time of the transfer or loan; and
- the taxation year of the entity or arrangement were that calendar year.

(5) Joint filing — Where information returns in respect of a trust's taxation year would, but for this subsection, be required to be filed under subsection (4) by a particular person and another person, and the particular person identifies the other person in an election filed in writing with the Minister, for the purposes of applying this Act to the particular person

(a) the information return filed by the other person shall be treated as if it had been filed by the particular person;

(b) the information required to be provided with the return by the particular person shall be deemed to be the information required to be provided by the other person with the return;

(c) the day on or before which the return is required to be filed by the particular person is deemed to be the later of the day on or before which

(i) the return would, but for this subsection, have been required to have been filed by the particular person, and

(ii) the return is required to have been filed by the other person; and

(d) each act and omission of the other person in respect of the return is deemed to be an act or omission of the particular person.

History [s. 233.2]: Subpara. (b)(iv) of the definition "exempt trust" in subsec. 233.2(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 232(1), applicable to returns in respect of trusts' taxation years that begin after 1995. Subpara. (b)(iv) of the definition formerly read:

(iv) is maintained primarily for the benefit of non-resident individuals; or

The portion of para. (b) of the definition "specified foreign trust" in subsec. 233.2(1) before subpara. (ii) and para. 233.2(4)(c), amended by the said c. 19, subsecs. 232(2), (3), applicable after November 1997. The portion of para. (b) of the definition "specified foreign trust" before subpara. (ii) and para. 233.2(4)(c) formerly read:

(b) at that time the terms of the trust

(i) permit persons (other than persons described in any of subparagraphs (a)(i) to (viii) of the definition "specified beneficiary") to be added as beneficiaries under the trust after that time who are not beneficially interested in the trust at that time and who may be resident in Canada at the time of being so added, or

233.3 [Reporting foreign property] — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"reporting entity" for a taxation year or fiscal period means a specified Canadian entity for the year or period where, at any time (other than a time when the entity is non-resident) in the year or period, the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the entity of a specified foreign property of the entity exceeds $100,000.

Related Provisions: 233.6(2)(c) — No return required on distribution from certain trusts to reporting entity.

"specified Canadian entity" for a taxation year or fiscal period means

(a) a taxpayer resident in Canada in the year that is not

(i) a mutual fund corporation,

(ii) a non-resident-owned investment corporation,

(iii) a person (other than a trust) all of whose taxable income for the year is exempt from tax under Part I,

(iv) a trust all of the taxable income of which for the year is exempt from tax under Part I,

(v) a mutual fund trust,

(vi) a trust described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1),

(vii) a registered investment, nor

(viii) a trust in which all persons beneficially interested are persons described in subparagraphs (i) to (vii); and

(b) a partnership (other than a partnership all the members of which are taxpayers referred to in any of subparagraphs (a)(i) to (viii)) where the total of all amounts, each of which is a share of the partnership's income or loss for the period of a non-resident member, is less than 90% of the income or loss of the partnership for the period, and, where the income and loss of the partnership are nil for the period, the income of the partnership for the period is deemed to be $1,000,000 for the purpose of determining a member's share of the partnership's income for the purpose of this paragraph.

Related Provisions: 94(1)(c)(i) [to be repealed], 94(3)(a)(vi) [proposed] — Certain trusts deemed resident in Canada; 248(25) — Meaning of "beneficially interested".

"specified foreign property" of a person or partnership means any property of the person or the partnership that is

(a) funds or intangible property which are situated, deposited or held outside Canada,

(b) tangible property situated outside Canada,

Proposed Amendment — 233.3(1)"specified foreign property"(a), (b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 277(1), will amend paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "specified foreign property" in subsec. 233.3(1) by substituting "intangible property, or for civil law incorporeal property, situated" for "intangible property which are situated" in para. (a), and "tangible property, or for civil law corporeal property," for "tangible property" in para. (b), to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(c) a share of the capital stock of a non-resident corporation,

(d) an interest in a non-resident trust or a trust that, but for section 94, would be a non-resident trust for the purpose of this section,

Proposed Amendment — 233.3(1)"specified foreign property"(d)

(d) an interest in a non-resident trust,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 41(4), will amend para. (d) of the definition "specified foreign property" in subsec. 233.3(1) to read as above, applicable to returns in respect of trust taxation years that begin after 2006, and to returns in respect of trust taxation years that begin

(a) after 2000, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) after 2001, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) after 2002, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) after 2003, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) after 2004, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) after 2005, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (f) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Section 233.3 provides reporting requirements in respect of foreign property. In general terms, it provides that certain taxpayers resident in Canada and certain partnerships must file an information return with respect to their "specified foreign property" if the total cost amount of such property exceeds $100,000. For this purpose, "specified foreign property" (as defined in subsection 233.3(1)) includes an interest in a non-resident trust or a trust that would be non-resident were it not for section 94. It does not include an interest in a non-resident trust that was not acquired for consideration by the person or partnership or a related person or partnership.

Paragraph (d) of the definition "specified foreign property" is amended by eliminating the reference to section 94. Under new subparagraph 94(3)(a)(vi), a trust is deemed to be resident in Canada only for the purpose of determining its obligation to file a return under section 233.3. As a result, such a deemed resident trust will be treated as resident in Canada in determining whether it is a specified Canadian entity and a reporting entity for purposes of section 233.3. In respect of the obligations of a person or partnership that has an interest in the trust, new paragraph 94(3)(a) does not apply to deem the trust to be resident in Canada. As a result, an interest in a trust, otherwise deemed to be resident in Canada, will be considered a specified foreign property unless otherwise expressly excluded.

(d.1) an interest in an insurance policy that is deemed by subsection 94.2(11) to be a participating interest in a non-resident entity,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 41(5), will add para. (d.1) to the definition "specified foreign property" in subsec. 233.3(1), applicable to returns for taxation years that begin after 2006.

Technical Notes: Paragraph (d.1) of the definition is introduced so that specified foreign property includes an interest in an insurance policy issued by a non-resident insurer, if the mark-to-market regime in section 94.2 applies in respect of the interest. . . . For further information in this regard, see the commentary on new subsection 94.2(11).

(e) an interest in a partnership that owns or holds specified foreign property,

(f) an interest in, or right with respect to, an entity that is non-resident,

(g) indebtedness owed by a non-resident person,

(h) an interest in or right, under a contract, in equity or otherwise, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to any property (other than any property owned by a corporation or trust that is not the person) that is specified foreign property, and

Proposed Amendment — 233.3(1)"specified foreign property"(h)

(h) an interest in, or for civil law a right in, or a right — under a contract in equity or otherwise either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently — to, any property (other than any property owned by a corporation or trust that is not the person) that is specified foreign property, and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 277(2), will amend para. (h) of the definition "specified foreign property" in subsec. 233.3(1) to read as above, to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(i) property that, under the terms or conditions thereof or any agreement relating thereto, is convertible into, is exchangeable for or confers a right to acquire, property that is specified foreign property,

but does not include

(j) property that is used or held exclusively in the course of carrying on an active business of the person or partnership (determined as if the person or partnership were a corporation resident in Canada),

(k) a share of the capital stock or indebtedness of a non-resident corporation that is a foreign affiliate of the person or partnership for the purpose of section 233.4,

(l) an interest in, or indebtedness of, a non-resident trust that is a foreign affiliate of the person or partnership for the purpose of section 233.4,

Proposed Repeal — 233.3(1)"specified foreign property"(l)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 41(6), will repeal para. (l) of the definition "specified foreign property" in subsec. 233.3(1), applicable on the same basis as the amendment to para. (d).

Technical Notes: Paragraph (l) of the definition is repealed to eliminate a reference to trusts that are treated as foreign affiliates. This reference is no longer necessary in light of new section 94, under which non-resident trusts are no longer treated as foreign affiliates.

(m) an interest in a non-resident trust that was not acquired for consideration by either the person or partnership or a person related to the person or partnership,

(n) an interest in a trust described in paragraph (a) or (b) of the definition "exempt trust" in subsection 233.2(1),

(o) an interest in a partnership that is a specified Canadian entity,

(o.1) a right with respect to, or indebtedness of, an authorized foreign bank that is issued by, and payable or otherwise enforceable at, a branch in Canada of the bank.

(p) personal-use property of the person or partnership, and

(q) an interest in or right to acquire a property that is described in any of paragraphs (j) to (p).

Proposed Amendment — 233.3(1)"specified foreign property"(q)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 277(3), will amend para. (q) of the definition "specified foreign property" in subsec. 233.3(1) by substituting "an interest in, or for civil law a right in, or a right to acquire," for "an interest in or right to acquire", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Related Provisions: 94.2(11)(b) — Application to foreign insurance policies.

(2) Application to members of partnerships — For the purpose of this section, a person who is a member of a partnership that is a member of another partnership

(a) is deemed to be a member of the other partnership; and

(b) the person's share of the income or loss of the other partnership is deemed to be equal to the amount of that income or loss to which the person is directly or indirectly entitled.

(3) Returns respecting foreign property — A reporting entity for a taxation year or fiscal period shall file with the Minister for the year or period a return in prescribed form on or before the day that is

(a) where the entity is a partnership, the day on or before which a return is required by section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations to be filed in respect of the fiscal period of the partnership or would be required to be so filed if that section applied to the partnership; and

(b) where the entity is not a partnership, the entity's filing-due date for the year.

Related Provisions: 94(1)(c)(i) [to be repealed], 94(3)(a)(vi) [proposed] — Application to trust deemed resident in Canada; 94.1(2)(p)–(r), 94.2(2)(d) — Effect of failing to provide information re foreign investment entity; 162(7), (10), (10.1) — Penalty for failure to file; 163(2.4)(c) — Minimum $24,000 penalty for false statement or omission; 220(2.1) — Waiver of filing requirement; 220(3) — Extension of time to file return; 233(2) — Demand for return by partnership; 233.2(4) — Requirement to file return re transfers to foreign trusts; 233.7 — No requirement to file in first year of immigration.

233.4 [Reporting foreign affiliates] — (1) Reporting entity — For the purpose of this section, "reporting entity" for a taxation year or fiscal period means

(a) a taxpayer resident in Canada (other than a taxpayer all of whose taxable income for the year is exempt from tax under Part I) of which a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate at any time in the year;

(b) a taxpayer resident in Canada (other than a taxpayer all of whose taxable income for the year is exempt from tax under Part I) of which a non-resident trust is a foreign affiliate at any time in the year; and

Proposed Repeal — 233.4(1)(b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 42(1), will repeal para. 233.4(1)(b), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 2006, and to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin

(a) after 2000, if the taxation year or fiscal period relates to a trust the taxation year of which begins in 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005 or 2006 and the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) after 2001, if the taxation year or fiscal period relates to a trust the taxation year of which begins in 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005 or 2006 and the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) after 2002, if the taxation year or fiscal period relates to a trust the taxation year of which begins in 2003, 2004, 2005 or 2006 and the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) after 2003, if the taxation year or fiscal period relates to a trust the taxation year of which begins in 2004, 2005 or 2006 and the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) after 2004, if the taxation year or fiscal period relates to a trust the taxation year of which begins in 2005 or 2006 and the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) after 2005, if the taxation year or fiscal period relates to a trust the taxation year of which begins in 2006 and the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (f) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Section 233.4 provides reporting requirements in respect of foreign affiliates. In general terms, it provides that taxpayers resident in Canada (or certain partnerships) of which a non-resident corporation or non-resident trust is a foreign affiliate must file an information return in respect of the affiliate.

Subsections 233.4(1) and (2) are amended to eliminate references to foreign affiliates that are non-resident trusts. These references are no longer necessary in light of new subsection 94(1), under which non-resident trusts are no longer treated as foreign affiliates.

(c) a partnership

(i) where the total of all amounts, each of which is a share of the partnership's income or loss for the period of a non-resident member, is less than 90% of the income or loss of the partnership for the period, and, where the income and loss of the partnership are nil for the period, the income of the partnership for the period is deemed to be $1,000,000 for the purpose of determining a member's share of the partnership's income for the purpose of this subparagraph, and

(ii) of which a non-resident corporation or trust is a foreign affiliate of which[51] at any time in the fiscal period.

History [s. 233.4]: S. 233.4 added by 1997, c. 25, s. 69, applicable to returns for taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1995, except that such a return for a taxation year or fiscal period that ends in 1996, 1997 or 1998 is required to be filed on or before the later of

(a) June 30, 1998, and

(b) the day on or before which the return is otherwise required to be filed.

Definitions [s. 233.4]: "amount" — 248(1); "Canada" — 255; "controlled foreign affiliate" — 94.1(2)(h), 95(1), 248(1); "corporation" — 94(1)(d), 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "filing-due date" — 248(1); "fiscal period" — 249.1; "foreign affiliate" — 95(1), 233.4(2), 248(1); "non-resident" — 248(1); "person" — 248(1); "reporting entity" — 233.4(1); "resident in Canada" — 94(1)(c)(i) [to be repealed], 94(3)(a)(vi) [proposed], 250; "taxation year" — 249; "trust" — 104(1), 248(1), (3).

233.5 Due diligence exception — The information required in a return filed under section 233.2 or 233.4 does not include information that is not available, on the day on which the return is filed, to the person or partnership required to file the return where

(a) there is a reasonable disclosure in the return of the unavailability of the information;

(b) before that day, the person or partnership exercised due diligence in attempting to obtain the information;

(c) if

(i) the return is required to be filed under section 233.2, or

(ii) the return is required to be filed under section 233.4 by a person or partnership in respect of a corporation that is a controlled foreign affiliate, for the purpose of that section, of the person or partnership, it was reasonable to expect, at the time of each transaction, if any, entered into by the person or partnership after March 5, 1996 that gives rise to the requirement to file the return or that affects the information to be reported in the return, that sufficient information would be available to the person or partnership to comply with that section; and

Proposed Amendment — 233.5(c), (c.1), (c.2)

(c) if the return is required to be filed under section 233.2 in respect of a trust, at the time of each transaction, if any, entered into by the person or partnership after March 5, 1996 and before June 23, 2000 that gave rise to the requirement to file a return for a taxation year of the trust that began before 2007 or that affects the information to be reported in the return, it was reasonable to expect that sufficient information would be available to the person or partnership to comply with section 233.2 in respect of each taxation year of the trust that began before 2007;

(c.1) if the return is required to be filed under section 233.2, at the time of each contribution (determined with reference to subsection 233.2(2)) made by the person or partnership after June 22, 2000 that gives rise to the requirement to file the return or that affects the information to be reported in the return, it was reasonable to expect that sufficient information would be available to the person or partnership to comply with section 233.2;

(c.2) if the return is required to be filed under section 233.4 by a person or partnership in respect of a corporation that is a controlled foreign affiliate for the purpose of that section of the person or partnership, at the time of each transaction, if any, entered into by the person or partnership after March 5, 1996 that gives rise to the requirement to file the return or that affects the information to be reported in the return, it was reasonable to expect that sufficient information would be available to the person or partnership to comply with section 233.4; and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 43, will amend para. 233.5(c) to read as above, and add paras. (c.1) and (c.2), applicable to returns in respect of taxation years that begin after 2006, and to taxation years that begin

(a) in 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005 or 2006 if the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) in 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005 or 2006 if the trust makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) in 2003, 2004, 2005 or 2006 if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) in 2004, 2005 or 2006 if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) in 2005 or 2006 if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) in 2006 if the trust makes a valid election under any of paras. (a) to (f) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Section 233.5 provides that, where specified conditions set out in paragraphs 233.5(a) to (d) are met, information required in a return filed under section 233.2 or 233.4 does not include information that is not available to the person or partnership required to file the return. In the case of a return required to be filed by a person or partnership under section 233.2, paragraph 233.5(c) provides that it must be reasonable for the person or partnership to expect, at the time of each transaction entered into by the person or partnership after March 5, 1996 that either gives rise to the requirement to file the return or that affects the information to be reported in the return, that sufficient information would be available to the person or partnership to comply with section 233.2.

Paragraph 233.5(c) is amended so that it applies only in connection with transactions entered into before June 23, 2000 that gave rise to the requirement to file a return for a taxation year of the trust that began before 2003. In connection with trust returns required to be filed for trust taxation years that began before 2003, it must be reasonable for the person or partnership to expect that sufficient information would have been available to the person or partnership to comply with section 233.2 if the proposed amendments to section 94 were not taken into account.

Paragraph 223.5(c) is also amended so that it does not apply to returns required to be filed under section 233.4. It is replaced in this respect by new paragraph 233.5(c.2), without any change in the specified conditions for such returns.

Paragraph 233.5(c.1) is introduced in connection with returns required to be filed under section 233.2 by a person or partnership for a taxation year of the trust that begins after 2006. Where "contributions" (determined with reference to subsection 233.2(2), referred to in the commentary above) are made after June 22, 2000, relief under section 233.5 is available only if it was reasonable for the person or partnership to expect, at the time of each such contribution that either gives rise to the requirement to file the return or that affects the information to be reported in the return, that sufficient information would be available to the person or partnership to comply with section 233.2.

(d) if the information subsequently becomes available to the person or partnership, it is filed with the Minister not more than 90 days after it becomes so available.

Related Provisions: 233.2(4.1) — Foreign arrangements similar to trusts.

History [s. 233.5]: S. 233.5 added by 1997, c. 25, s. 69, applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

Definitions [s. 233.5]: "corporation" — 248(1), Interpretation Act 35(1); "controlled foreign affiliate" — 94.1(2)(h), 95(1), 248(1); "Minister" — 248(1); "person" — 248(1).

233.6 (1) Returns respecting distributions from non-resident trusts — Where a specified Canadian entity (as defined by subsection 233.3(1)) for a taxation year or fiscal period receives a distribution of property from, or is indebted to, a non-resident trust (other than a trust that was an excluded trust in respect of the year or period of the entity or an estate that arose on and as a consequence of the death of an individual) in the year or period and the entity is beneficially interested in the trust at any time in the year or period, the entity shall file with the Minister for the year or period a return in prescribed form on or before the day that is

(a) where the entity is a partnership, the day on or before which a return is required by section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations to be filed in respect of the fiscal period of the partnership or would be required to be so filed if that section applied to the partnership; and

(b) where the entity is not a partnership, the entity's filing-due date for the year.

Related Provisions: 162(7) — Penalty for failure to file; 163(2.4)(e) — Minimum $2,500 penalty for false statement or omission; 220(2.1) — Waiver of filing requirement; 220(3) — Extension of time to file return; 233.6(2) — Meaning of "excluded trust"; 233.7 — No requirement to file in first year of immigration; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death; 248(25) — Extended meaning of "beneficially interested".

Forms: T1142: Information return re distributions from and indebtedness to a non-resident trust.

(2) Excluded trust defined — For the purpose of subsection (1), an excluded trust in respect of the taxation year or fiscal period of an entity means

(a) a trust described in paragraph (a) or (b) of the definition "exempt trust" in subsection 233.2(1) throughout the portion of the year or period during which the trust was extant;

(b) a trust in respect of which the entity is required by section 233.2 to file a return in respect of each taxation year of the trust that ends in the entity's year;

(c) a trust an interest in which is at any time in the year or period specified foreign property (as defined by subsection 233.3(1)) of the entity, where the entity is a reporting entity (as defined by subsection 233.3(1)) for the year or period; and

(d) a trust in respect of which the entity is required by section 233.4 to file a return for the year or period.

Related Provisions [subsec. 233.6(2)]: 233(1) — Demand for return by partnership.

History [s. 233.6]: S. 233.6 added by 1997, c. 25, s. 69, applicable (as amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 91, deemed to have come into force on April 25, 1997) to returns for taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1995, except that

(a) such a return for a taxation year or fiscal period that ended in 1996, 1997 or 1998 is required to be filed on or before the later of

(i) April 30, 1998, and

(ii) the day on or before which the return is otherwise required to be filed;

(b) for taxation years and fiscal periods that began before 1998, subsec. 233.6(2) shall be read without reference to para. 233.6(2)(c); and

(c) for returns for taxation years and fiscal periods that began after 1995 and before 1998, the reference to "specified Canadian entity" in subsec. 233.6(1) shall have the meaning that would be assigned to that expression by subsec. 233.3(1) if it applied for those returns.

Definitions [s. 233.6]: "beneficially interested" — 248(25); "consequence of the death" — 248(8); "excluded trust" — 233.6(2).

233.7 Exception for first-year residents — Notwithstanding sections 233.2, 233.3, 233.4 and 233.6, a person who, but for this section, would be required under any of those sections to file an information return for a taxation year, is not required to file the return if the person is an individual (other than a trust) who first became resident in Canada in the year.

History [s. 233.7]: S. 233.7 added by 1997, c. 25, s. 69, applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

Definitions [s. 233.7]: "individual", "person" — 248(1); "resident in Canada" — 250; "taxation year" — 249; "trust" — 104(1), 248(1), (3).

234. (1) Ownership certificates — Before a bearer coupon or warrant representing either interest or dividends payable by any debtor or cheque representing dividends or interest payable by a non-resident debtor is negotiated by or on behalf of a resident of Canada, there shall be completed by or on behalf of the resident an ownership certificate in prescribed form.

Related Provisions: 162(4) — Failure to complete ownership certificate.

237.1 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"gifting arrangement" means any arrangement under which it may reasonably be considered, having regard to statements or representations made or proposed to be made in connection with the arrangement, that if a person were to enter into the arrangement, the person would

(a) make a gift to a qualified donee, or a contribution referred to in subsection 127(4.1), of property acquired by the person under the arrangement; or

(b) incur a limited-recourse amount that can reasonably be considered to relate to a gift to a qualified donee or a contribution referred to in subsection 127(4.1).

Proposed Amendment — 237.1(1)"gifting arrangement"(b)

(b) incur a limited-recourse debt, determined under subsection 143.2(6.1), that can reasonably be considered to relate to a gift to a qualified donee or a monetary contribution referred to in subsection 127(4.1);

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 185, will amend para. (b) of the definition "gifting arrangement" in subsec. 237.1(1) to read as above, applicable in respect of gifts and monetary contributions made after 6:00 p.m. (EST) on December 5, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 237.1(1) provides definitions of terms that apply for the purpose of tax shelter identification and the definition of "tax shelter investment" in subsection 143.2(1). The definition "gifting arrangement" includes an arrangement in respect of which it may reasonably be expected, having regard to representations made, that if a taxpayer makes a gift or political contribution under the arrangement, a person (whether or not it is the taxpayer) will incur an indebtedness in respect of which recourse is limited. This definition is amended in respect of gifts and contributions made after 6:00 p.m. (EST), December 5, 2003, to also refer to a limited-recourse debt determined under new subsection 143.2(6.1). For additional details regarding limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift, see the commentary to subsection 143.2(6.1).

"tax shelter" means

(a) a gifting arrangement described by paragraph (b) of the definition "gifting arrangement"; and

(b) a gifting arrangement described by paragraph (a) of the definition "gifting arrangement", or a property (including any right to income) other than a flow-through share or a prescribed property, in respect of which it can reasonably be considered, having regard to statements or representations made or proposed to be made in connection with the gifting arrangement or the property, that, if a person were to enter into the gifting arrangement or acquire an interest in the property, at the end of a particular taxation year that ends within four years after the day on which the gifting arrangement is entered into or the interest is acquired,

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) an amount, or a loss in the case of a partnership interest, represented to be deductible in computing the person's income for the particular year or any preceding taxation year in respect of the gifting arrangement or the interest in the property (including, if the property is a right to income, an amount or loss in respect of that right that is stated or represented to be so deductible), or

(B) any other amount stated or represented to be deemed under this Act to be paid on account of the person's tax payable, or to be deductible in computing the person's income, taxable income or tax payable under this Act, for the particular year or any preceding taxation year in respect of the gifting arrangement or the interest in the property, other than an amount so stated or represented that is included in computing a loss described in clause (A),

would equal or exceed

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the cost to the person of the property acquired under the gifting arrangement, or of the interest in the property at the end of the particular year, determined without reference to section 143.2,

would exceed

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any prescribed benefit that is expected to be received or enjoyed, directly or indirectly, in respect of the property acquired under the gifting arrangement, or of the interest in the property, by the person or another person with whom the person does not deal at arm's length.

(a) applicable in respect of property acquired, and gifts, contributions, statements and representations made, after February 18, 2003, and para. (b) applicable in respect of property acquired, and statements and representations made, after February 18, 2003. The definition formerly read:

"tax shelter" means any property (including, for greater certainty, any right to income) in respect of which it can reasonably be considered, having regard to statements or representations made or proposed to be made in connection with the property, that, if a person were to acquire an interest in the property, at the end of a particular taxation year that ends within 4 years after the day on which the interest is acquired,

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) an amount, or a loss in the case of a partnership interest, represented to be deductible in computing income in respect of the interest in the property (including, where the property is a right to income, an amount or loss in respect of that right that is represented to be deductible) and expected to be incurred by or allocated to the person for the particular year or any preceding taxation year, or

(ii) any other amount represented to be deductible in computing income or taxable income in respect of the interest in the property and expected to be incurred by or allocated to the person for the particular year or any preceding taxation year, other than any amount included in computing a loss described in subparagraph (i),

would equal or exceed

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the cost to the person of the interest in the property at the end of the particular year, determined without reference to section 143.2,

would exceed

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any prescribed benefit that is expected to be received or enjoyed, directly or indirectly, in respect of the interest in the property by the person or another person with whom the person does not deal at arm's length, but does not include property that is a flow-through share or a prescribed property.

The definition "tax shelter" in subsec. 237.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 234(1), applicable after November 1994. The definition formerly read:

"tax shelter" means any property in respect of which it may reasonably be considered having regard to statements or representations made or proposed to be made in connection with the property that, if a person were to acquire an interest in the property, at the end of any particular taxation year ending within 4 years after the day on which the interest is acquired,

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) a loss represented to be deductible in computing income in respect of the interest in the property and expected to be incurred by or allocated to the person for the particular year or any preceding taxation year, or

(ii) any other amount represented to be deductible in computing income or taxable income in respect of the interest in the property and expected to be incurred by or allocated to the person for the particular year or any preceding taxation year, other than any amount included in computing a loss described in subparagraph (i),

would exceed

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the cost to the person of the interest in the property at the end of the particular year,

would exceed

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of any prescribed benefit that is expected to be received or enjoyed directly or indirectly in respect of the interest in the property, by the person or another person with whom the person does not deal at arm's length

but does not include property that is a flow-through share or a prescribed property.

Subpara. (a)(ii) of the definition "tax shelter" in subsec. 237.1(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 188(1), to substitute "the particular year or any preceding taxation year" for "the particular year", applicable to interests acquired after August 1989.

Forms: T5001: Application for tax shelter identification number and undertaking to keep books and records.

(3) Identification — On receipt of an application under subsection (2) for an identification number for a tax shelter, together with prescribed information and an undertaking satisfactory to the Minister that books and records in respect of the tax shelter will be kept and retained at a place in Canada that is satisfactory to the Minister, the Minister shall issue an identification number for the tax shelter.

Related Provisions: 237.1(5) — Number is for administrative purposes only.

Information Circulars: 89-4: Tax shelter reporting.

(4) Sales prohibited — No person shall, whether as a principal or an agent, sell or issue, or accept consideration in respect of, a tax shelter before the Minister has issued an identification number for the tax shelter.

Related Provisions: 237.1(7.4) — Penalty for false information or selling shelter without number; 237.2 — Application of s. 237.1.

History: Subsec. 237.1(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 234(4), applicable after December 1, 1994. Subsec. 237.1(4) formerly read:

(4) No person shall, whether as a principal or an agent, sell or issue, or accept a contribution towards the acquisition of, an interest in a tax shelter before the Minister has issued an identification number for the tax shelter.

Information Circulars: 89-4: Tax shelter reporting.

(5) Providing tax shelter number — Every promoter in respect of a tax shelter shall

(a) make reasonable efforts to ensure that all persons who acquire or otherwise invest in the tax shelter are provided with the identification number issued by the Minister for the tax shelter;

(b) prominently display on the upper right-hand corner of any statement of earnings prepared by or on behalf of the promoter in respect of the tax shelter the identification number issued for the tax shelter; and

(c) on every written statement made after 1995 by the promoter that refers either directly or indirectly and either expressly or impliedly to the issuance by the Canada Revenue Agency of an identification number for the tax shelter, as well as on the copies of the portion of the information return to be forwarded pursuant to subsection (7.3), prominently display

(i) where the statement or return is wholly or partly in English, the following:

"The identification number issued for this tax shelter shall be included in any income tax return filed by the investor. Issuance of the identification number is for administrative purposes only and does not in any way confirm the entitlement of an investor to claim any tax benefits associated with the tax shelter."

(ii) where the statement or return is wholly or partly in French, the following:

"Le numéro d'inscription attribué à cet abri fiscal doit figurer dans toute déclaration d'impôt sur le revenu produite par l'investisseur. L'attribution de ce numéro n'est qu'une formalité administrative et ne confirme aucunement le droit de l'investisseur aux avantages fiscaux découlant de cet abri fiscal."

and

(iii) where the statement includes neither English nor French, the following:

"The identification number issued for this tax shelter shall be included in any income tax return filed by the investor. Issuance of the identification number is for administrative purposes only and does not in any way confirm the entitlement of an investor to claim any tax benefits associated with the tax shelter.

(6.2) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments, determinations and redeterminations may be made as are necessary to give effect to subsection (6.1).

Related Provisions: 143.2(15) — Late assessment to implement tax shelter deduction rules.

History: Subsec. 237.1(6.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 234(4), applicable after December 1, 1994.

(7) Information return — Every promoter in respect of a tax shelter who accepts consideration in respect of the tax shelter or who acts as a principal or agent in respect of the tax shelter in a calendar year shall, in prescribed form and manner, file an information return for the year containing

(a) the name, address and either the Social Insurance Number or business number of each person who so acquires or otherwise invests in the tax shelter in the year,

(b) the amount paid by each of those persons in respect of the tax shelter, and

(c) such other information as is required by the prescribed form unless an information return in respect of the tax shelter has previously been filed.

Related Provisions: 237.1(7.1)–(7.3) — Administrative requirements for returns; 237.2 — Application of s. 237.1.

History: Subsec. 237.1(7) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 234(4), applicable after December 1, 1994 except that the reference in para. (a) to "business number" is applicable after June 17, 1998.

(7) Every promoter in respect of a tax shelter from whom an interest in the tax shelter was acquired, who accepted a contribution in respect of an acquisition of an interest in the tax shelter or who acted as an agent in respect of an acquisition of an interest in the tax shelter in a calendar year shall, in the prescribed form and manner, make an information return for that year containing

(a) the name, address and Social Insurance Number of each person who so acquired an interest in the tax shelter in the year,

(b) the amount paid by each such person for the interest, and

(c) such other information as may be required by the prescribed form, unless an information return in respect of the acquisition has previously been made.

(7.1) Time for filing return — An information return required under subsection (7) to be filed in respect of the acquisition of an interest in a tax shelter in a calendar year shall be filed with the Minister on or before the last day of February of the following calendar year.

Related Provisions: 237.1(7.2) — Return required within 30 days of discontinuing business or activity.

History: Subsec. 237.1(7.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 234(4), applicable after December 1, 1994.

(7.2) Time for filing — special case — Notwithstanding subsection (7.1), where a person is required under subsection (7) to file an information return in respect of a business or activity and the person discontinues that business or activity, the return shall be filed on or before the earlier of

(a) the day referred to in subsection (7.1); and

(b) the day that is 30 days after the day of the discontinuance.

History: Subsec. 237.1(7.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 234(4), applicable after December 1, 1994.

(7.3) Copies to be provided — Every person required to file a return under subsection (7) shall, on or before the day on or before which the return is required to be filed with the Minister, forward to each person to whom the return relates 2 copies of the portion of the return relating to that person.

History: Subsec. 237.1(7.3) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 234(4), applicable after December 1, 1994.

(7.4) Penalty — Every person who files false or misleading information with the Minister in respect of an application under subsection (2) or, whether as a principal or as an agent, sells, issues or accepts consideration in respect of a tax shelter before the Minister has issued an identification number for the tax shelter is liable to a penalty equal to the greater of

(a) $500, and

(b) 25% of the total of all amounts each of which is the consideration received or receivable from a person in respect of the tax shelter before the correct information is filed with the Minister or the identification number is issued, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 161(11)(b.1) — Interest on penalty; 163(2.9) — Where partnership is liable to penalty; 227(10)(b) — Assessment of penalty at any time; 237.1(6.1) — No deduction allowed while tax shelter penalty unpaid.

History: Subsec. 237.1(7.4) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 234(4), applicable after December 1, 1994.

(8) Application of sections 231 to 231.3 — Without restricting the generality of sections 231 to 231.3, where an application under subsection (2) with respect to a tax shelter has been made, notwithstanding that a return of income has not been filed by any taxpayer under section 150 for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which an amount is claimed as a deduction in respect of the tax shelter, sections 231 to 231.3 apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, for the purpose of permitting the Minister to verify or ascertain any information in respect of the tax shelter.

Proposed Amendment — 241(1) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 241(1) to substitute "no official or other representative of a government entity" for "no official", in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsections 241(1), (2), (5), (6), (10), and paragraph 241(4)(l) are amended and new subsections 241(9.2) to (9.4) are added to facilitate greater use of the Canada Revenue Agency Business Number (BN) by other levels of government (BN Partners), with a view to reducing paper work and duplication of effort for business and government alike. Specifically, these amendments provide for:

- broadening the BN-related information that may be shared with BN Partners;
- expanding the type of government entities that qualify as BN Partners; and
- allowing for the publication of the BN by BN Partners in connection with programs and services provided by the BN Partners.

Subsection 241(1) prohibits the use or communication of taxpayer information by an official, except as authorized by section 241. The preamble to subsection 241(1) is amended to add a reference to a representative of a government entity, consequential on the introduction of the new definition "representative" in subsection 241(10). This ensures that representatives of a government entity are also prohibited from the unauthorized use or communication of taxpayer information. The amendment also ensures that the offence for contravening subsection 241(1), provided for in subsection 239(2.2), applies to a representative of a government entity as well.

For more information regarding the new definition "representative" of a government entity readers may refer to the explanatory notes below [under 241(10) — ed.].

(a) knowingly provide, or knowingly allow to be provided, to any person any taxpayer information;

(b) knowingly allow any person to have access to any taxpayer information; or

(c) knowingly use any taxpayer information otherwise than in the course of the administration or enforcement of this Act, the Canada Pension Plan, the Unemployment Insurance Act or the Employment Insurance Act or for the purpose for which it was provided under this section.

Related Provisions: 122.64(2) — Communication of Child Tax Benefit information to provinces; 122.64(3) — Communication of name and address for enforcement of family support orders; 149.1(15) — Charities — information can be communicated; 230.1(4) — Reports to chief electoral officer; 237(2)(b) — Communication of Social Insurance Number; 239(2.2) — Offence; 241(3) — Communication of information; 241(3.2) — Charities — additional information that may be communicated; 241(4) — Exceptions; 241(11) — Meaning of "this Act".

(3.2) Registered charities — An official may provide to any person the following taxpayer information relating to another person that was at any time a registered charity (in this subsection referred to as the "charity"):

(a) a copy of the charity's governing documents, including its statement of purpose;

(b) any information provided in prescribed form to the Minister by the charity on applying for registration under this Act;

(c) the names of the persons who at any time were the charity's directors and the periods during which they were its directors;

(d) a copy of the notification of the charity's registration, including any conditions and warnings;

(e) if the registration of the charity has been revoked or annulled, a copy of the entirety of or any part of any letter sent by or on behalf of the Minister to the charity relating to the grounds for the revocation or annulment;

(f) financial statements required to be filed with an information return referred to in subsection 149.1(14);

(g) a copy of the entirety of or any part of any letter or notice by the Minister to the charity relating to a suspension under section 188.2 or an assessment of tax or penalty under this Act (other than the amount of a liability under subsection 188(1.1)); and

(h) an application by the charity, and information filed in support of the application, for a designation, determination or decision by the Minister under subsection 149.1(6.3), (7), (8) or (13).

Proposed Amendment — 241(3.2)(h)

(h) an application by the charity, and information filed in support of the application, for a designation, determination or decision by the Minister under subsection 149.1(5), (6.3), (7), (8) or (13).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 186(1), will amend para. 241(3.2)(h) to read as above, applicable to documents that are sent by the Minister of National Revenue, or that are filed or required to be filed with that Minister, after May 13, 2005.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 241(3.2)(h) permits a government official to release information that a registered charity has filed in support of an application for special status or an exemption under the Act, as well as any response to such an application (e.g., a request for permission to accumulate assets). Paragraph 241(3.2)(h) is amended, applicable upon Royal Assent, to include information relating to an application made under subsection 149.1(5) for an amount to be deemed an expenditure on charitable activities carried on by the charity.

Related Provisions: 149.1(6.4) — Rule applies to registered national arts service organizations; 149.1(15) — Disclosure permitted of information in public information return.

History: Para. 241(3.2)(e) amended, and paras. (f) to (h) added, by 2005, c. 19, s. 51, applicable to documents that are sent by the Minister of National Revenue, or that are filed or required to be filed with that Minister, after May 13, 2005 (Royal Assent). Para. (e) formerly read:

> (e) if the registration of the charity has been revoked, a copy of any letter sent by or on behalf of the Minister to the charity relating to the grounds for the revocation.

The opening words of subsec. 241(3.2) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 186(1), in force June 14, 2001. The opening words formerly read:

> (3.2) An official may provide to any person the following taxpayer information relating to a charity that at any time was a registered charity:

Subsec. 241(3.2) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 65, in force June 18, 1998.

Registered Charities Newsletters: 8 (increased transparency).

Forms: T1235: Directors/trustees worksheet.

Proposed Addition — 241(3.3)

(3.3) Information may be communicated — The Minister of Canadian Heritage may communicate or otherwise make available to the public, in any manner that that Minister considers appropriate, the following taxpayer information in respect of a Canadian film or video production certificate (as defined under subsection 125.4(1)) that has been issued or revoked:

(a) the title of the production for which the Canadian film or video production certificate was issued;

(b) the name of the taxpayer to whom the Canadian film or video production certificate was issued;

(c) the names of the producers of the production;

(d) the names of the individuals in respect of whom and places in respect of which that Minister has allotted points in respect of the production in accordance with regulations made for the purpose of section 125.4;

(e) the total number of points so allotted; and

(f) any revocation of the Canadian film or video production certificate.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 186(2), will add subsec. 241(3.3), in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: New subsection 241(3.3), which applies on Royal Assent, is added to provide authority to the Minister of Canadian Heritage to publish certain information relevant to the Canadian film or video production tax credit program. The information includes the title of a film or video production in respect of which a certificate has been issued or revoked by that Minister, as well as the names of producers and artists in respect of which that Minister has allotted "points" in determining whether the production is a "Canadian film or video production" under proposed section 1106 of the Regulations.

(4) Where taxpayer information may be disclosed — An official may

(a) provide to any person taxpayer information that can reasonably be regarded as necessary for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of this Act, the Canada Pension Plan, the Unemployment Insurance Act or the Employment Insurance Act, solely for that purpose;

(b) provide to any person taxpayer information that can reasonably be regarded as necessary for the purposes of determining any tax, interest, penalty or other amount that is or may become payable by the person, or any refund or tax credit to which the person is or may become entitled, under this Act or any other amount that is relevant for the purposes of that determination;

(c) provide to the person who seeks a certification referred to in paragraph 147.1(10)(a) the certification or a refusal to make the certification, solely for the purposes of administering a registered pension plan;

(d) provide taxpayer information

(i) to an official of the Department of Finance solely for the purposes of the formulation or evaluation of fiscal policy,

(ii) to an official solely for the purposes of the initial implementation of a fiscal policy or for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of an Act of Parliament that provides for the imposition and collection of a tax or duty,

(iii) to an official solely for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of a law of a province that provides for the imposition or collection of a tax or duty,

(iv) to an official of the government of a province solely for the purposes of the formulation or evaluation of fiscal policy,

(v) to an official of the Department of Natural Resources or of the government of a province solely for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of a program of the Government of Canada or of the province relating to the exploration for or exploitation of Canadian petroleum and gas resources,

(vi) to an official of the government of a province that has received or is entitled to receive a payment referred to in this subparagraph, or to an official of the Department of Natural Resources, solely for the purposes of the provisions relating to payments to a province in respect of the taxable income of corporations earned in the offshore area with respect to the province under the Canada–Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act, chapter 28 of the Statutes of Canada, 1988, the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, chapter 3 of the Statutes of Canada, 1987, or similar Acts relating to the exploration for or exploitation of offshore Canadian petroleum and gas resources,

(vi.1) to an official of the Department of Natural Resources solely for the purpose of determining whether property is prescribed energy conservation property or whether an outlay or expense is a Canadian renewable and conservation expense,

(vii) to an official solely for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province,

(vii.1) to an official solely for the purpose of the administration or enforcement of the Canada Education Savings Act or a program administered pursuant to an agreement entered into under section 12 of that Act,

(vii.2) to an official solely for the purposes of the administration and enforcement of Part 1 of the Energy Costs Assistance Measures Act,

(vii.3) to an official solely for the purposes of the administration and enforcement of the Children's Special Allowances Act or the evaluation or formation of policy for that Act,

(vii.4) to an official solely for the purposes of the administration and enforcement of the Universal Child Care Benefit Act or the evaluation or formation of policy for that Act,

(vii.5) to an official solely for the purposes of the administration and enforcement of the Canada Disability Savings Act,

(viii) to an official of the Department of Veterans Affairs solely for the purposes of the administration of the War Veterans Allowance Act, the Canadian Forces Members and Veterans Re-establishment and Compensation Act or Part XI of the Civilian War-related Benefits Act,

(ix) to an official of a department or agency of the Government of Canada or of a province as to the name, address, occupation, size or type of business of a taxpayer, solely for the purposes of enabling that department or agency to obtain statistical data for research and analysis,

(x) to an official of the Canada Employment Insurance Commission, the Department of Human Resources and Skills Development or the Department of Social Development, solely for the purpose of the administration or enforcement of the Employment Insurance Act, an employment program of the Government of Canada or the evaluation or formation of policy for that Act or program,

(xi) to an official of the Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food or of the government of a province solely for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of a program of the Government of Canada or of the province established under an agreement entered into under the Farm Income Protection Act,

(xii) to an official of the Department of Canadian Heritage or a member of the Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board solely for the purposes of administering sections 32 to 33.2 of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act,

(xiii) to an official solely for the purposes of setting off against any sum of money that may be due or payable by Her Majesty in right of Canada a debt due to

(A) Her Majesty in right of Canada, or

(B) Her Majesty in right of a province, or

(xiv) to an official solely for the purposes of section 7.1 of the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act;

Proposed Addition — 241(4)(d)(xv), (xvi)

(xv) to a person employed or engaged in the service of an office or agency, of the Government of Canada or of a province, whose mandate includes the provision of assistance (as defined in subsection 125.4(1) or 125.5(1)) in respect of film or video productions or film or video production services, solely for the purpose of the administration or enforcement of the program under which the assistance is offered, or

(xvi) to an official of the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission, solely for the purpose of the administration or enforcement of a regulatory function of that Commission;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 186(3), will add subparas. 241(4)(d)(xv) and (xvi), in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Subsection 241(4) authorizes the limited communication of information to government officials outside of the Canada Revenue Agency.

New subparagraph 241(4)(d)(xv) allows information in respect of film or video productions to be communicated to officials of an office or agency of the government of Canada or of a province that provides a program of assistance for such productions. The information may be communicated only for the purpose of administration or enforcement under the program. New subparagraph 241(4)(d)(xvi) extends this authority to communicate information to an official of the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission, solely for the purpose of the administration or enforcement of a regulatory function of that Commission.

(e) provide taxpayer information, or allow the inspection of or access to taxpayer information, as the case may be, under, and solely for the purposes of,

(i) subsection 36(2) or section 46 of the Access to Information Act,

(ii) section 13 of the Auditor General Act,

(iii) section 92 of the Canada Pension Plan,

(iv) a warrant issued under subsection 21(3) of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act,

(v) an order made under subsection 462.48(3) of the Criminal Code,

(vi) section 26 of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act,

(vii) section 79 of the Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act,

(viii) paragraph 33.11(a) of the Old Age Security Act,

(ix) subsection 34(2) or section 45 of the Privacy Act,

(x) section 24 of the Statistics Act,

(xi) section 9 of the Tax Rebate Discounting Act, or

(xii) a provision contained in a tax treaty with another country or in a comprehensive tax information exchange agreement between Canada and another country or jurisdiction that is in force and has effect;

Proposed Amendment — 241(4)(e)(xii)

(xii) a provision contained in a tax treaty or in a listed international agreement;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 186(4), will amend subpara. 241(4)(e)(xii) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Subparagraph 241(4)(e)(xii) is amended to provide that an official may provide taxpayer information, or allow the inspection of or access to taxpayer information under and solely for the purposes of a provision contained in a tax treaty or in a listed international agreement.

A "listed international agreement" is newly defined in subsection 248(1) to mean the Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters, concluded at Strasbourg on January 25, 1988 and the Convention between the Government of Canada and the Government of the United Mexican States for the Exchange of Information with Respect to Taxes, signed at Mexico City on March 16, 1990. A "tax treaty" is defined in subsection 248(1) to mean a comprehensive agreement for the elimination of double taxation on income between the Canadian and foreign government that has the force of law in Canada at that time.

(f) provide taxpayer information solely for the purposes of sections 23 to 25 of the Financial Administration Act;

(f.1) provide taxpayer information to an official for the purposes of the administration and enforcement of the Charities Registration (Security Information) Act, and where an official has so received taxpayer information, the official may provide that information to another official as permitted by subsection (9.1);

(g) use taxpayer information to compile information in a form that does not directly or indirectly reveal the identity of the taxpayer to whom the information relates;

(h) use, or provide to any person, taxpayer information solely for a purpose relating to the supervision, evaluation or discipline of an authorized person by Her Majesty in right of Canada in respect of a period during which the authorized person was employed by or engaged by or on behalf of Her Majesty in right of Canada to assist in the administration or enforcement of this Act, the Canada Pension Plan, the Unemployment Insurance Act or the Employment Insurance Act, to the extent that the information is relevant for the purpose;

(i) provide access to records of taxpayer information to the Librarian and Archivist of Canada or a person acting on behalf of or under the direction of the Librarian and Archivist, solely for the purposes of section 12 of the Library and Archives of Canada Act, and transfer such records to the care and control of such persons solely for the purposes of section 13 of that Act;

(j) use taxpayer information relating to a taxpayer to provide information to the taxpayer;

(j.1) provide taxpayer information to an official or a designated person solely for the purpose of permitting the making of an adjustment to

(i) a social assistance payment made on the basis of a means, needs or income test, or

(ii) a payment pursuant to a prescribed law of a province in respect of a child within the meaning of the prescribed law, where the purpose of the adjustment is to take into account the amount determined for C in subsection 122.61(1) in respect of a person for a taxation year;

(k) provide, or allow inspection of or access to, taxpayer information to or by any person otherwise legally entitled to it under an Act of Parliament solely for the purposes for which that person is entitled to the information;

(l) provide the business number, name, address, telephone number and facsimile number of a holder of a business number to an official of a department or agency of the Government of Canada or of a province solely for the purpose of the administration or enforcement of an Act of Parliament or a law of a province, if the holder of the business number is required by that Act or that law to provide the information (other than the business number) to the department or agency;

Proposed Amendment — 241(4)(l)

(l) subject to subsection (9.2), provide to a representative of a government entity the business number of, the name of (including any trade name or other name used by), and any contact information, corporate information and registration information in respect of, the holder of a business number (other than an excluded individual), if the information is provided solely for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of

(i) an Act of Parliament or of a legislature of a province, or

(ii) a by-law of a municipality in Canada or a law of an aboriginal government;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(3), will amend para. 241(4)(l) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 241(4) sets out circumstances in which, and the purpose for which, taxpayer information may be disclosed.

Paragraph 241(4)(l) allows an official (as defined in subsection 241(10)) to provide the business number, name, address, telephone number and facsimile number of the holder of the business number to another official of a department or agency of the government of Canada or of a province solely for the purpose of the administration or enforcement of an Act of Parliament or a law of a province. This information can only be provided if that Act or law requires the holder of the business number to provide the information (other than the business number itself) to that government department or agency.

Paragraph 241(4)(l) is amended to broaden both the information that an official may share and the types of officials that may gain access to that information. The amendment allows an official to share with a representative of a government entity (as newly defined in subsection (10)) the following types of information:

- the business number and the name (including any trade name or other name used) of the holder of a business number; and
- "contact information", "corporate information" and "registration information" — all as defined in subsection (10) — in respect of the holder of a business number.

A common feature of this type of information is that it is generally publicly available such as through provincial corporate registries.

An official may provide information contained in paragraph 241(4)(l) to a representative of a government entity in connection with a program, an activity or service provided or undertaken by the entity only if the business number is used as an identifier in connection with the program, activity or service.

To protect the privacy of individuals who do not own a business, an official cannot share under this paragraph information regarding "excluded individuals" (as defined in subsection (10)).

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Feb. 26, 2008: Business Number Initiative

The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) uses the Business Number (BN) as the main identifier for a specific business or organization and for tracking information relating to that business or organization. The BN is also used to determine eligibility for government programs and promote voluntary compliance with the tax law. The use of the BN ensures reduced compliance costs for businesses through integrated service delivery and greater government efficiency by sharing information and computing resources.

The BN and BN-related information cannot be disclosed to anyone by CRA without express statutory authorization. Currently CRA is able to share a limited amount of BN-related information with certain federal and provincial government departments (BN Partners).

As part of the government's initiative to reduce the paper burden on small business, Budget 2008 proposes to:

- broaden the scope of the BN-related information that may be shared with BN Partners to include a range of relevant contact, identification and status information;
- expand the type of government entities that qualify as BN Partners to include other levels of government in Canada such as municipalities and Aboriginal governments; and
- allow for the publication of the BN by BN Partners in connection with programs or services provided by the BN Partner.

While this measure promises to improve efficiency and reduce paper burden on businesses, it will involve more information sharing by government. Privacy considerations regarding this initiative have been carefully considered. The CRA will be precluded from sharing any personal information naming individuals except where it relates to a business activity and, in any case, only the business name and business number may be released to the public. All other BN-related information will be available only to BN Partners.

In addition, CRA sharing of BN-related information with BN Partners will occur only pursuant to a Memorandum of Understanding with the BN Partner to ensure that security issues have been addressed and that the information is used by the BN Partner only in relation to the intended program or activity.

The legislation to implement this measure will be developed in the coming months, in consultation with the Office of the Privacy Commissioner.

Related Provisions: 241(9.2) — No disclosure unless other government uses the Business Number.

(m) provide taxpayer information to an official of the government of a province solely for use in the management or administration by that government of a program relating to payments under subsection 164(1.8);

(n) provide taxpayer information to any person, solely for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of a law of a province that provides for workers' compensation benefits;

(o) provide taxpayer information to any person solely for the purpose of enabling the Chief Statistician, within the meaning assigned by section 2 of the Statistics Act, to provide to a statistical agency of a province data concerning business activities carried on in the province, where the information is used by the agency solely for research and analysis and the agency is authorized under the law of the province to collect the same or similar information on its own behalf in respect of such activities;

(p) provide taxpayer information to a police officer (within the meaning assigned by subsection 462.48(17) of the Criminal Code) solely for the purpose of investigating whether an offence has been committed under the Criminal Code, or the laying of an information or the preferring of an indictment, where

(i) such information can reasonably be regarded as being necessary for the purpose of ascertaining the circumstances in which an offence under the Criminal Code may have been committed, or the identity of the person or persons who may have committed an offence, with respect to an official, or with respect to any person related to that official,

(ii) the official was or is engaged in the administration or enforcement of this Act, and

(iii) the offence can reasonably be considered to be related to that administration or enforcement; or

(q) provide taxpayer information to an official of the government of a province solely for the use in the management or administration by that government of a program relating to earning supplementation or income support.

Proposed Amendment — 241(4) — Social Insurance Number disclosure

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 17, 1999:

Dear [xxx]

This is in reply to your letter of March 12, 1999 to Simon Thompson with respect to the transfer of Social Insurance Numbers and business numbers from [xxx] to a nominee.

We understand that [xxx] plans to put in place an arrangement under which legal ownership of shares will, in many cases, be with a nominee of the shareholders. The nominee will receive dividend payments on the shares for which it is the registered owner, and will then distribute each dividend to the beneficial owners of the shares. As a consequence, the nominee will have an independent tax-reporting obligation under subsection 201(2) of the Income Tax Regulations. Under the existing law and the proposed amendments to it that were released on December 15, 1998, we agree that it may not be technically possible for [xxx] to provide Social Insurance Numbers and business numbers of beneficial owners to the nominee.

Given the reasons for the creation of the nominee in these circumstances, and in the interests of ensuring timely and complete reporting with regard to Social Insurance Numbers and business numbers, we are prepared to recommend an amendment to the Income Tax Act. The amendment would, in the circumstance set out in your letter, allow the transfer of this information to the nominee for the purpose of allowing the nominee to comply with tax reporting requirements.

Thank you for writing.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(iii) to an official of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources or to the government of a province solely for the purposes of administering or enforcing a prescribed program of the Government of Canada or of the province relating to the exploration for or exploitation of Canadian petroleum and gas resources,

(iv) to an official of the appropriate department or agency of the Government of Canada solely for the purpose of administering subsection 127(11.3) and the definitions "approved project" and "approved project property" in subsection 127(9),

(v) to the government of a province that has received or is entitled to receive a payment referred to in this subparagraph or to an official of the Department of Energy, Mines and Resources solely for the purposes of the provisions relating to payments to a province in respect of the taxable income of corporations earned in the offshore area with respect to the province under the Canada–Nova Scotia Oil and Gas Agreement Act, chapter 29 of the Statutes of Canada, 1984, the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, chapter 3 of the Statutes of Canada, 1987, or similar Acts relating to the exploration for or exploitation of offshore Canadian petroleum and gas resources, and

(vi) to an official of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions solely for the purpose of providing the Minister with advice with respect to any matter relating to pension plans;

(f.1) communicate or allow to be communicated information obtained under this Act or the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act to an official of the Department of Veterans Affairs solely for the purposes of administering the War Veterans Allowance Act or Part XI of the Merchant Navy Veteran and Civilian War-related Benefits Act;

(g) communicate or allow to be communicated information obtained under this Act or the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act as to the name, address, occupation or size or type of business of a taxpayer to an official of a department or agency of the Government of Canada or of a province, solely for the purpose of enabling that department or agency to obtain statistical data for research and analysis;

(h) communicate or allow to be communicated information obtained under this Act or the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act to an official of the Canada Employment Immigration Commission or the Department of Employment and Immigration solely for the purposes of administering, evaluating or enforcing the Unemployment Insurance Act or a prescribed employment program;

(h.1) communicate or allow to be communicated to a taxpayer information obtained under this Act, regarding expenses in respect of which a deduction is denied under subsection 18(2) or (3.1) to any other taxpayer, that is necessary for the purpose of determining the cost or adjusted cost base, as the case may be, to the taxpayer of any property;

(h.2) communicate or allow to be communicated to a taxpayer information obtained under this Act from a corporation that previously owned or had an interest in property of the taxpayer that relates to the control of the corporation or the question whether the corporation was exempt from tax under Part I on its taxable income if it is necessary for the purposes of determining under this Act whether a gain from a disposition of the property accrued while the property was a property of a corporation controlled directly or indirectly in any manner whatever by one or more non-resident persons or of a corporation exempt from tax under Part I on its taxable income;

(i) communicate or allow to be communicated, pursuant to an order made under subsection 462.48(3) of the Criminal Code, information obtained under this Act;

(j) communicate or allow to be communicated to an official, solely for the purposes of administering or enforcing the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province,

(i) information obtained under this Act

(A) as to the identity of a pension plan in respect of which application for registration for the purposes of this Act has, at any time, been made,

(B) as to the names and addresses of the persons who are, have been or will be responsible for the administration of a pension plan referred to in clause (A),

(C) as to the names and addresses of the employers who participate, have participated or will participate in a pension plan referred to in clause (A),

(D) as to the terms of a pension plan referred to in clause (A), a trust deed, insurance contract or other document relating to the funding of benefits under such a plan or an amendment or proposed amendment to such a plan or document, or

(E) as to the date of termination or partial termination of a pension plan referred to in clause (A),

(ii) information as to whether a pension plan is or was a registered pension plan,

(iii) the date of registration of a pension plan that is or was a registered pension plan, or

(iv) in the case of a pension plan the registration of which under this Act has been refused or revoked, the date of the refusal or revocation and the reason therefor;

(k) communicate or allow to be communicated information obtained under this Act to an official of the Department of Agriculture or to an official of the government of a province solely for the purposes of administering or enforcing a program of the Government of Canada or of the province established under an agreement entered into pursuant to the Farm Income Protection Act;

(l) communicate or allow to be communicated information obtained under this Act to an official of the Department of Communications or a member of the Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board, solely for the purpose of administering the provisions of sections 32 and 33 of the Cultural Property Export and Import Act; or

(m) communicate or allow to be communicated information obtained under this Act to an official or authorized person for the purpose of setting off against any sum of money that is due or payable by Her Majesty in right of Canada a debt due to

(i) Her Majesty in right of Canada, or

(ii) Her Majesty in right of a province on account of taxes payable to the province where an agreement exists between Canada and the province under which Canada is authorized to collect the taxes on behalf of the province.

Para. 241(4)(f.1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. IV (1992, c. 24), s. 16, to substitute "Merchant Navy Veteran and Civilian War-related Benefits Act" for "Civilian War Pensions and Allowances Act", deemed to have come into force July 1, 1992.

Para. 241(4)(g) amended to substitute "size or type of business" for "type of business", and "for the purpose of" for "for the purposes of", and paras. (l), (m) added, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 190(1), (2).

(4.1) Measures to prevent unauthorized use or disclosure — The person who presides at a legal proceeding relating to the supervision, evaluation or discipline of an authorized person may order such measures as are necessary to ensure that taxpayer information is not used or provided to any person for any purpose not relating to that proceeding, including

(a) holding a hearing in camera;

(b) banning the publication of the information;

(c) concealing the identity of the taxpayer to whom the information relates; and

(d) sealing the records of the proceeding.

Related Provisions: 239(2.2) — Offence with respect to confidential information; 238(1) — Punishment for failing to comply.

History: Subsec. 241(4.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 137(1).

(5) Disclosure to taxpayer or on consent — An official may provide taxpayer information relating to a taxpayer

Proposed Amendment — 241(5) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(4), will amend the opening words of subsec. 241(5) to substitute "official or other representative of a government entity" for "official", in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 241(5) provides that an official may provide taxpayer information relating to a taxpayer to the taxpayer or to other persons, if the taxpayer consents to the disclosure.

Subsection 241(5) is amended to extend its application to a representative of a government entity, in respect of taxpayer information legally obtained by that representative of a government entity.

(a) to the taxpayer; and

(b) with the consent of the taxpayer, to any other person.

Related Provisions: 238(1) — Punishment for failing to comply; 241(4)(j) — Disclosure to taxpayer permitted.

History: Subsec. 241(5) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 137(1). Subsec. (5) formerly read:

(5) Return of copy of books, etc. — Notwithstanding anything in this section, the Minister may permit a copy of any book, record, writing, return or other document obtained by or on behalf of the Minister for the purposes of this Act or the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act to be given to the person from whom the book, record, writing, return or other document was obtained or the legal representative of that person, or to the agent of that person or of the legal representative authorized in writing in that behalf.

Selected Cases [subsec. 241(5)]: McAvan Holdings v. BDO Dunwoody Ltd., [2003] 4 C.T.C. 90 (Ont Master) (Documents in possession of Minister were nevertheless under taxpayer's control and ordered produced on discovery).

Transfer Pricing Memoranda: TPM-04: Third-party information.

Forms: T1013: Authorizing or cancelling a representative.

(6) Appeal from order or direction — An order or direction that is made in the course of or in connection with any legal proceedings and that requires an official or authorized person to give or produce evidence relating to any taxpayer information may, by notice served on all interested parties, be appealed forthwith by the Minister or by the person against whom the order or direction is made to

Proposed Amendment — 241(6) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(5), will amend the opening words of subsec. 241(6) to substitute "official, other representative of a government entity" for "official", in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 241(6) provides that an official or authorized person may appeal an order or direction made in the course of or in connection with any legal proceeding requiring them to disclose taxpayer information. Subsection 241(6) is amended to extend its application to a representative of a government entity, in respect of taxpayer information legally obtained by that representative of a government entity.

(a) the court of appeal of the province in which the order or direction is made, in the case of an order or direction made by a court or other tribunal established by or pursuant to the laws of the province, whether or not that court or tribunal is exercising a jurisdiction conferred by the laws of Canada; or

(b) the Federal Court of Appeal, in the case of an order or direction made by a court or other tribunal established by or pursuant to the laws of Canada.

History: That portion of subsec. 241(6) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 137(2). That portion formerly read:

(6) An order or direction made in the course of or in connection with any legal proceedings requiring an official or authorized person to give evidence relating to any information or produce any book, record, writing, return or other document obtained by or on behalf of the Minister for the purposes of this Act or the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act, may, by notice served on all interested parties, be appealed forthwith by the Minister or by the person against whom the order or direction is made to

(7) Disposition of appeal — The court to which an appeal is taken pursuant to subsection (6) may allow the appeal and quash the order or direction appealed from or dismiss the appeal, and the rules of practice and procedure from time to time governing appeals to the courts shall apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to an appeal instituted pursuant to that subsection.

(8) Stay of order or direction — An appeal instituted pursuant to subsection (6) shall stay the operation of the order or direction appealed from until judgment is pronounced.

(9) Threats to security — An official may provide, to an official of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police or of the Financial Transactions and Reports Analysis Centre of Canada,

(a) publicly accessible charity information;

(b) designated taxpayer information, if there are reasonable grounds to suspect that the information would be relevant to

(i) an investigation by the Canadian Security Intelligence Service of whether the activity of any person may constitute threats to the security of Canada, as defined in section 2 of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act,

(ii) an investigation of whether an offence may have been committed under

(A) Part II.1 of the Criminal Code, or

(B) section 462.31 of the Criminal Code, if that investigation is related to an offence under Part II.1 of that Act, or

(iii) the prosecution of an offence referred to in subparagraph (ii); and

(c) information setting out the reasonable grounds referred to in paragraph (b), to the extent that any such grounds rely on information referred to in paragraph (a) or (b).

Related Provisions: 241(4)(f.1) — Provision of information permitted; 241(9.1) — Use of information by RCMP or CSIS.

History: Subsec. 241(9) added by 2006, c. 12, subsec. 45(2), proclaimed in force February 10, 2007.

(9.1) Threats to security — Information — other than designated donor information — provided to an official of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service or the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, as permitted by paragraph (4)(f.1), may be used by such an official, or communicated by such an official to another official of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service or the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for use by that other official, for the purpose of

(a) investigating whether an offence may have been committed, ascertaining the identity of a person or persons who may have committed an offence, or prosecuting an offence, which offence is

(i) described in Part II.1 of the Criminal Code, or

(ii) described in section 462.31 of the Criminal Code, if that investigation, ascertainment or prosecution is related to an investigation, ascertainment or prosecution in respect of an offence described in Part II.1 of that Act; or

(b) investigating whether the activities of any person may constitute threats to the security of Canada, as defined in section 2 of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act.

History: Subsec. 241(9.1) added by 2006, c. 12, subsec. 45(2), proclaimed in force February 10, 2007.

Proposed Addition — 241(9.2)–(9.4)

(9.2) Restrictions on information sharing — No information may be provided to a representative of a government entity under paragraph (4)(l) in connection with a program, activity or service provided or undertaken by the government entity unless the government entity uses the business number as an identifier in connection with the program, activity or service.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 241(9.2) precludes an official from disclosing information described in paragraph 241(4)(l) in connection with a program, activity or service provided or undertaken by a government entity (as newly defined in subsection 241(10) unless the government entity uses the business number as an identifier in connection with the program, activity or service.

(9.3) Public disclosure — The Minister may, in connection with a program, activity or service provided or undertaken by the Minister, make available to the public the business number of, and the name of (including any trade name or other name used by), the holder of a business number (other than an excluded individual).

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 241(9.3) allows the Minister to make public the business number and name of (including any trade name or other name used by) the holder of a business number in connection with a program, activity or service provided or undertaken by the Minister.

Related Provisions: 241(9.4) — Disclosure by other government.

(9.4) Public disclosure by representative of government entity — A representative of a government entity may, in connection with a program, activity or service provided or undertaken by the government entity, make available to the public the business number of, and the name of (including any trade name or other name used by), the holder of a business number (other than an excluded individual), if

(a) a representative of the government entity was provided with that information pursuant to paragraph 4(l); and

(b) the government entity uses the business number as an identifier in connection with the program, activity or service.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 241(9.4) allows a representative of a government entity to make public the business number and the name of (including any trade name or other name used by) the holder of a business number in connection with a program, activity or service undertaken by the government entity if the representative of the government entity was provided with that information pursuant to paragraph 241(4)(l) and the government entity uses the business number as an identifier in connection with the program, activity or service.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(6), will add subsecs. 241(9.2) to (9.4), in force on Royal Assent.

(10) Definitions — In this section,

Proposed Addition — 241(10)"aboriginal government"

"aboriginal government" means an aboriginal government as defined in subsection 2(1) of the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(8), will add the definition "aboriginal government" to subsec. 241(10), in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "aboriginal government" has the same meaning as under subsection 2(1) of the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act. That Act defines an aboriginal government to mean an Indian government, an Inuit government or a Métis government, or the "council of the band" as defined in subsection 2(1) of the Indian Act. That provision of the Indian Act in turn defines a council of the band as,

- in the case of a band to which section 74 of the Indian Act applies, the council established pursuant to that section; and
- in the case of a band to which section 74 of the Indian Act does not apply, the council chosen according to the custom of the band, or where there is no council, the chief of the band chosen according to the custom of the band.

"authorized person" means a person who is engaged or employed, or who was formerly engaged or employed, by or on behalf of Her Majesty in right of Canada to assist in carrying out the provisions of this Act, the Canada Pension Plan, the Unemployment Insurance Act or the Employment Insurance Act;

Related Provisions: 241(11) — Meaning of "this Act".

History: The definition "authorized person" in subsec. 241(10) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 236(10), deemed to have come into force on June 30, 1996. The definition formerly read:

> "authorized person" means a person who is engaged or employed, or who was formerly engaged or employed, by or on behalf of Her Majesty in right of Canada to assist in carrying out the provisions of this Act, the Canada Pension Plan or the Employment Insurance Act;

The definition of "authorized person" in subsec. 241(10) amended by 1996, c. 23, para. 187(d), to substitute "Employment Insurance Act" for the "Unemployment Insurance Act", in force June 30, 1996.

"Authorized person" in subsec. 241(10) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 137(3). That definition formerly read:

> "authorized person" means any person engaged or employed, or formerly engaged or employed, by or on behalf of Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province to assist in carrying out the purposes and provisions of this Act or the Petroleum and Gas Revenue Tax Act;

"business number" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "business number" in subsec. 241(10) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 236(9), in force June 18, 1998. The definition formerly read:

> "business number" means the number (other than a Social Insurance Number) used by the Minister to identify
>
> (a) a corporation or partnership, or
>
> (b) any other association or taxpayer that carries on a business or is required by this Act to deduct or withhold an amount from an amount paid or credited or deemed to be paid or credited under this Act;

The definition "business number" added to subsec. 241(10) by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 59(2), applicable June 20, 1996.

Proposed Addition — 241(10)"contact information", "corporate information"

"contact information", in respect of a holder of a business number, means the name, address, telephone number, facsimile number and preferred language of communication of the holder, or similar information as specified by the Minister in respect of the holder, and includes such information in respect of one or more

(a) trustees of the holder, if the holder is a trust,

(b) members of the holder, if the holder is a partnership,

(c) officers of the holder, if the holder is a corporation, or

(d) officers or members of the holder, if the holder is not described by any of paragraphs (a) to (c);

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "contact information" in respect of the holder of a business number defines one subset of information that an official may, under amended paragraph 241(4)(l), share in respect of the holder of the business number. The definition refers to the name, address, telephone number, facsimile number and preferred language of communication of the business number holder and any other specified similar information obtained by the Minister. To accommodate cases where the business number holder is not a natural person, contact information also includes this information in respect of one or more of the holder's trustees, members or officers, as appropriate.

"corporate information", in respect of a holder of a business number that is a corporation, means the name (including the number assigned by the incorporating authority), date of incorporation, jurisdiction of incorporation and any information on the dissolution, reorganization, amalgamation, winding-up or revival of the corporation;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "corporate information" in respect of a holder of a business number defines a second subset of information that an official may share with a representative of a government entity in respect of a corporation under paragraph 241(4)(l). "Corporate information" means the name (including the number assigned by the incorporating authority), date of incorporation, jurisdiction of incorporation and any information on the dissolution, reorganization, amalgamation, winding-up or revival of the corporation.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(8), will add the definitions "contact information" and "corporate information" to subsec. 241(10), in force on Royal Assent.

"court of appeal" has the meaning assigned by the definition "court of appeal" in section 2 of the Criminal Code;

History: "Court of appeal" in subsec. 241(10) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 137(3). That definition formerly read:

> "court of appeal" has the meaning assigned by paragraphs (a) to (j) of the definition "court of appeal" in section 2 of the Criminal Code;

"designated donor information" means information of a charity, or of a person who has at any time made an application for registration as a registered charity, that is directly attributable to a gift that has been made or proposed to be made to the charity or applicant and that is presented in any form that directly or indirectly reveals the identity of the donor or prospective donor, other than a donor or prospective donor who is not resident in Canada and is neither a citizen of Canada nor a person described in subsection 2(3);

History: The definition "designated donor information" added to subsec. 241(10) by 2006, c. 12, subsec. 45(3), proclaimed in force February 10, 2007.

"designated person" means any person who is employed in the service of, who occupies a position of responsibility in the service of, or who is engaged by or on behalf of,

(a) a municipality in Canada, or

(b) a public body performing a function of government in Canada,

or any person who was formerly so employed, who formerly occupied such a position or who was formerly so engaged;

History: The definition "designated person" added to subsec. 241(10) by 1998, c. 21, subsec. 97(3), in force on June 18, 1998.

"designated taxpayer information" means taxpayer information — other than designated donor information — of a registered charity, or of a person who has at any time made an application for registration as a registered charity, that is

(a) in respect of a financial transaction

(i) relating to the importation or exportation of currency or monetary instruments by the charity or applicant, or

(ii) in which the charity or applicant has engaged a person to whom section 5 of the Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Act applies,

(b) information provided to the Minister by the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police or the Financial Transactions and Reports Analysis Centre of Canada,

(c) the name, address, date of birth and citizenship of any current or former director, trustee or like official, or of any agent, mandatary or employee, of the charity or applicant,

(d) information submitted by the charity or applicant in support of an application for registration as a registered charity that is not publicly accessible charity information,

(e) publicly available, including commercially available databases, or

(f) information prepared from publicly accessible charity information and information referred to in paragraphs (a) to (e);

History: The definition "designated taxpayer information" added to subsec. 241(10) by 2006, c. 12, subsec. 45(3), proclaimed in force February 10, 2007.

Proposed Addition — 241(10)"excluded individual", "government entity"

"excluded individual" means an individual who is a holder of a business number solely because the individual is required under this Act to deduct or withhold an amount from an amount paid or credited or deemed to be paid or credited;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "excluded individual" refers to an individual who holds a business number for non business-related reasons. An excluded individual includes, for example, a person who has a business number solely because he or she employs a nanny or a gardener, or solely because she or he is a foster parent.

An excluded individual is specifically excluded from the application of paragraph 241(4)(l), so that an official cannot share the business number-related information with a representative of a government entity under that paragraph.

"government entity" means

(a) a department or agency of the government of Canada or of a province,

(b) a municipality in Canada,

(c) an aboriginal government,

(d) a corporation all of the shares (except directors' qualifying shares) of the capital stock of which are owned by one or more persons each of which is

(i) Her Majesty in right of Canada,

(ii) Her Majesty in right of a province,

(iii) a municipality in Canada, or

(iv) a corporation described in this paragraph, or

(e) a board or commission, established by Her Majesty in right of Canada or Her Majesty in right of a province, that performs an administrative or regulatory function of government, or by one or more municipalities in Canada, that performs an administrative or regulatory function of a municipality;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "government entity" means any of several types of federal, provincial, municipal and aboriginal entities. A "government entity" includes a department or agency of the Government of Canada or of a province, a municipality in Canada or an aboriginal government. It also includes a corporation all the shares of which are owned by one or more persons each of which is Her Majesty in right of Canada, Her Majesty in right of a province, a municipality in Canada or another such corporation. It further includes a board or commission established by Her Majesty in right of Canada, or Her Majesty in right of a province, that performs an administrative or regulatory function of government. Lastly, it includes a board or commission established by one or more municipalities that performs an administrative or regulatory function of a municipality.

This definition is used for the purposes of the definition "representative" of a government entity.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(8), will add the definitions "excluded individual" and "government entity" to subsec. 241(10), in force on Royal Assent.

"official" means any person who is employed in the service of, who occupies a position of responsibility in the service of, or who is engaged by or on behalf of,

(a) Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province, or

(b) an authority engaged in administering a law of a province similar to the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985,

or any person who was formerly so employed, who formerly occupied such a position or who was formerly so engaged and, for the purposes of subsection 239(2.21), subsections (1) and (2), the portion of subsection (4) before paragraph (a), and subsections (5) and (6), includes a designated person;

History: The closing words of the definition "official" in subsec. 241(10) amended by 1998, c. 21, subsec. 97(2), in force on June 18, 1998. The closing words formerly read:

> or any person who was formerly so employed, who formerly occupied such a position or who was formerly so engaged;

"Official" in subsec. 241(10) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 137(3). That definition formerly read:

> "official" means any person employed in or occupying a position of responsibility
>
> (a) in the service of Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province, or
>
> (b) in the service of an authority engaged in administering a law of a province similar to the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985
> or any person formerly so employed or formerly occupying a position therein.

Application Policies: SR&ED 95-04: Conflict of interest.

"publicly accessible charity information" means taxpayer information that is

(a) described in subsection (3.2), or that would be described in that subsection if the words "that was at any time a registered charity" were read as "that has at any time made an application for registration as a registered charity",

(b) information — other than designated donor information — submitted to the Minister with, or required to be contained in, any public information return filed or required to be filed under subsection 149.1(14), or

(c) information prepared from information referred to in paragraph (a) or (b);

History: The definition "publicly accessible charity information" added to subsec. 241(10) by 2006, c. 12, subsec. 45(3), proclaimed in force February 10, 2007.

Proposed Addition — 241(10)"registration information", "representative"

"registration information", in respect of a holder of a business number, means

(a) any information pertaining to the legal form of the holder,

(b) the type of activities carried on or proposed to be carried on by the holder,

(c) each date on which

(i) the business number was issued to the holder,

(ii) the holder began activities,

(iii) the holder ceased or resumed activities, or

(iv) the business number assigned to the holder was changed, and

(d) the reasons for the cessation, resumption or change referred to in subparagraph (c)(iii) or (iv);

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "registration information" in respect of a holder of a business number defines a third subset of information that an official may share with a representative of a government entity under paragraph 241(4)(l). "Registration information" in respect of a holder of a business number means any information pertaining to the legal form of the business number holder (i.e. whether the business number is held by a natural person, a partnership, an incorporated entity, etc.), the type of activities carried on or proposed to be carried on by the holder, the date on which the business number was issued to the holder, the date on which the holder began activities, the date on which the business number assigned to the holder was changed, and whether the holder is carrying on business activities or has ceased or resumed to carry on these activities (including the date and reason for doing so).

"representative" of a government entity means a person who is employed in the service of, who occupies a position of responsibility in the service of, or who is engaged by or on behalf of, a government entity, and includes, for the purposes of subsections (1), (2), (5) and (6), a person who was formerly so employed, who formerly occupied such a position or who formerly was so engaged;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "representative" of a government entity generally means a person who is employed in the service of, who occupies a position of responsibility in the service of, or who is engaged by or on behalf of a government entity. An official may now share information with a representative of a government entity under paragraph 241(4)(l).

A person who was formerly employed in the service of, who formerly occupied a position of responsibility in the service of, or who was formerly engaged by or on behalf of a government entity is also considered a representative of a government entity, but only for the purposes of subsections 241(1), (2), (5) and (6). This ensures among other things that, if such a person has obtained confidential information and contravenes subsection 241(1), the offence provided in subsection 239(2.2) applies to them as well.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(8), will add the definitions "registration information" and "representative" to subsec. 241(10), in force on Royal Assent.

"taxpayer information" means information of any kind and in any form relating to one or more taxpayers that is

(a) obtained by or on behalf of the Minister for the purposes of this Act, or

(b) prepared from information referred to in paragraph (a),

but does not include information that does not directly or indirectly reveal the identity of the taxpayer to whom it relates.

Proposed Amendment — 241(10)"taxpayer information" closing words

but does not include information that does not directly or indirectly reveal the identity of the taxpayer to whom it relates and, for the purposes of applying subsections (2), (5) and (6) to a representative of a government entity that is not an official, taxpayer information includes only the information referred to in paragraph (4)(l);

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 75(7), will amend the closing words of the definition "taxpayer information" in subsec. 241(10) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): "Taxpayer information" generally refers to information of any kind and in any form relating to one or more taxpayers that is obtained by or on behalf of the Minister of National Revenue (the "Minister") for the purposes of the Act, or prepared from such information.

The definition "taxpayer information" is amended to specify that for the purposes of applying subsections 241(2), (5) and (6) to a representative of a government entity, taxpayer information includes only the information provided in paragraph 241(4)(l) (i.e. business number-related information that the representative of a government entity has obtained from an official).

Related Provisions: 122.64(1) — Confidentiality of information; 241(11) — Meaning of "this Act".

History: "Taxpayer information" added to subsec. 241(10) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 137(3).

PART XVI — TAX AVOIDANCE

245. [General Anti-Avoidance Rule — GAAR] — (1) Definitions — In this section,

"tax benefit" means a reduction, avoidance or deferral of tax or other amount payable under this Act or an increase in a refund of tax or other amount under this Act, and includes a reduction, avoidance or deferral of tax or other amount that would be payable under this Act but for a tax treaty or an increase in a refund of tax or other amount under this Act as a result of a tax treaty;

History: The definition "tax benefit" in subsec. 245(1) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 52(1), deemed, for the purpose of s. 245, to thave come into force on September 13, 1988, and applicable with respect to transactions entered into after September 12, 1988. The definition formerly read:

> "tax benefit" means a reduction, avoidance or deferral of tax or other amount payable under this Act or an increase in a refund of tax or other amount under this Act;

Advance Tax Rulings: ATR-41: Convertible preferred shares; ATR-44: Utilization of deductions and credits within a related corporate group.

"tax consequences" to a person means the amount of income, taxable income, or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by or refundable to the person under this Act, or any other amount that is relevant for the purposes of computing that amount;

"transaction" includes an arrangement or event.

Related Provisions: 233.1(1)"transaction" — Parallel definition for reporting non-arm's length transactions with non-residents; 247(1) — Parallel definition re transfer pricing.

(4) Application of subsec. (2) — Subsection (2) applies to a transaction only if it may reasonably be considered that the transaction

(a) would, if this Act were read without reference to this section, result directly or indirectly in a misuse of the provisions of any one or more of

(i) this Act,

(ii) the Income Tax Regulations,

(iii) the Income Tax Application Rules,

(iv) a tax treaty, or

(v) any other enactment that is relevant in computing tax or any other amount payable by or refundable to a person under this Act or in determining any amount that is relevant for the purposes of that computation; or

(b) would result directly or indirectly in an abuse having regard to those provisions, other than this section, read as a whole.

Related Provisions: ITCIA 4.1 — Application of GAAR to tax treaty interpretation.

History: Subsec. 245(4) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 52(2), applicable with respect to transactions entered into after September 12, 1988. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) Where subsec. (2) does not apply — For greater certainty, subsection (2) does not apply to a transaction where it may reasonably be considered that the transaction would not result directly or indirectly in a misuse of the provisions of this Act or an abuse having regard to the provisions of this Act, other than this section, read as a whole.

(5) Determination of tax consequences — Without restricting the generality of subsection (2), and notwithstanding any other enactment,

(a) any deduction, exemption or exclusion in computing income, taxable income, taxable income earned in Canada or tax payable or any part thereof may be allowed or disallowed in whole or in part,

(b) any such deduction, exemption or exclusion, any income, loss or other amount or part thereof may be allocated to any person,

(c) the nature of any payment or other amount may be recharacterized, and

(d) the tax effects that would otherwise result from the application of other provisions of this Act may be ignored, in determining the tax consequences to a person as is reasonable in the circumstances in order to deny a tax benefit that would, but for this section, result, directly or indirectly, from an avoidance transaction.

History: The portion of subsec. 245(5) before (c) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 52(3), applicable with respect to transactions entered into after September 12, 1988. The portion formerly read:

(5) Without restricting the generality of subsection (2),

(a) any deduction in computing income, taxable income, taxable income earned in Canada or tax payable or any part thereof may be allowed or disallowed in whole or in part,

(b) any such deduction, any income, loss or other amount or part thereof may be allocated to any person,

(6) Request for adjustments — Where with respect to a transaction

(a) a notice of assessment, reassessment or additional assessment involving the application of subsection (2) with respect to the transaction has been sent to a person, or

(b) a notice of determination pursuant to subsection 152(1.11) has been sent to a person with respect to the transaction, any person (other than a person referred to in paragraph (a) or (b)) shall be entitled, within 180 days after the day of mailing of the notice, to request in writing that the Minister make an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment applying subsection (2) or make a determination applying subsection 152(1.11) with respect to that transaction.

PART XVI.1 — TRANSFER PRICING

247. (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"arm's length allocation" means, in respect of a transaction, an allocation of profit or loss that would have occurred between the participants in the transaction if they had been dealing at arm's length with each other.

Related Provisions: 9(1) — Normal computation of profit.

History: The definition "arm's length allocation" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

"arm's length transfer price" means, in respect of a transaction, an amount that would have been a transfer price in respect of the transaction if the participants in the transaction had been dealing at arm's length with each other.

History: The definition "arm's length allocation" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

Information Circulars: 87-2R: International transfer pricing.

"documentation-due date" for a taxation year or fiscal period of a person or partnership means

(a) in the case of a person, the person's filing-due date for the year; or

(b) in the case of a partnership, the day on or before which a return is required by section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations to be filed in respect of the period or would be required to be so filed if that section applied to the partnership.

History: The definition "documentation-due date" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

Transfer Pricing Memoranda: TPM-09: Reasonable efforts under section 247.

"qualifying cost contribution arrangement" means an arrangement under which reasonable efforts are made by the participants in the arrangement to establish a basis for contributing to, and to contribute on that basis to, the cost of producing, developing or acquiring any property, or acquiring or performing any services, in proportion to the benefits which each participant is reasonably expected to derive from the property or services, as the case may be, as a result of the arrangement.

Related Provisions: 247(4) — Contemporaneous documentation.

History: The definition "qualifying cost contribution arrangement" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

Transfer Pricing Memoranda: TPM-07: Referrals to the transfer pricing review committee.

"tax benefit" has the meaning assigned by subsection 245(1).

History: The definition "tax benefit" in subsec. 247(1) amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 53, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997. The definition formerly read:

> "tax benefit" means a reduction, avoidance or deferral of tax or other amount payable under this Act or an increase in a refund of tax or other amount under this Act.

The definition "tax benefit" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

"transaction" includes an arrangement or event.

Related Provisions: 233.1(1)"transaction" — Parallel definition for reporting non-arm's length transactions with non-residents; 245(1) — Parallel definition for general anti-avoidance rule.

History: The definition "transaction" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

Transfer Pricing Memoranda: TPM-06: Bundled transactions.

"transfer price" means, in respect of a transaction, an amount paid or payable or an amount received or receivable, as the case may be, by a participant in the transaction as a price, a rental, a royalty, a premium or other payment for, or for the use, production or reproduction of, property or as consideration for services (including services provided as an employee and the insurance or reinsurance of risks) as part of the transaction.

History: The definition "transfer price" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

Information Circulars: 87-2R: International transfer pricing.

"transfer pricing capital adjustment" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the total of

(a) all amounts each of which is

(i) ½ of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of a capital property (other than a depreciable property) is reduced in the year because of an adjustment made under subsection (2),

(ii) ¾ of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of an eligible capital expenditure of the taxpayer in respect of a business is reduced in the year because of an adjustment made under subsection (2), or

(iii) the amount, if any, by which the capital cost to the taxpayer of a depreciable property is reduced in the year because of an adjustment made under subsection (2); and

(b) all amounts each of which is that proportion of the total of

(i) ½ of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to a partnership of a capital property (other than a depreciable property) is reduced in a fiscal period that ends in the year because of an adjustment made under subsection (2),

(ii) ¾ of the amount, if any, by which the adjusted cost base to a partnership of an eligible capital expenditure of the partnership in respect of a business is reduced in a fiscal period that ends in the year because of an adjustment made under subsection (2), and

(iii) the amount, if any, by which the capital cost to a partnership of a depreciable property is reduced in the period because of an adjustment made under subsection (2),

that

(iv) the taxpayer's share of the income or loss of the partnership for the period

is of

(v) the income or loss of the partnership for the period,

and where the income and loss of the partnership are nil for the period, the income of the partnership for the period is deemed to be $1,000,000 for the purpose of determining a taxpayer's share of the partnership's income for the purpose of this definition.

History: The definition "transfer pricing capital adjustment" in subsec. 247(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 187(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000 except that, for a taxation year of a taxpayer that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, or began after February 28, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the reference to the fraction "½" shall be read as a reference to the fraction in para. 38(a), as amended by 2001, c. 17, that applies to the taxpayer for that year. The definition formerly read:

> "transfer pricing capital adjustment" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the total of Information Circulars: 87-2R: International transfer pricing.

"transfer pricing capital setoff adjustment" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the amount, if any, that would be the taxpayer's transfer pricing capital adjustment for the year if the references, in the definition "transfer pricing capital adjustment", to "reduced" were read as "increased".

History: The definition "transfer pricing capital setoff adjustment" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

"transfer pricing income adjustment" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which an adjustment made under subsection (2) (other than an adjustment included in determining a transfer pricing capital adjustment of the taxpayer for a taxation year) would result in an increase in the taxpayer's income for the year or a decrease in a loss of the taxpayer for the year from a source if that adjustment were the only adjustment made under subsection (2).

History: The definition "transfer pricing income adjustment" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

"transfer pricing income setoff adjustment" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which an adjustment made under subsection (2) (other than an adjustment included in determining a transfer pricing capital setoff adjustment of the taxpayer for a taxation year) would result in a decrease in the taxpayer's income for the year or an increase in a loss of the taxpayer for the year from a source if that adjustment were the only adjustment made under subsection (2).

History: The definition "transfer pricing income setoff adjustment" in subsec. 247(1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

(2) Transfer pricing adjustment — Where a taxpayer or a partnership and a non-resident person with whom the taxpayer or the partnership, or a member of the partnership, does not deal at arm's length (or a partnership of which the non-resident person is a member) are participants in a transaction or a series of transactions and

(a) the terms or conditions made or imposed, in respect of the transaction or series, between any of the participants in the transaction or series differ from those that would have been made between persons dealing at arm's length, or

(b) the transaction or series

(i) would not have been entered into between persons dealing at arm's length, and

(ii) can reasonably be considered not to have been entered into primarily for bona fide purposes other than to obtain a tax benefit,

any amounts that, but for this section and section 245, would be determined for the purposes of this Act in respect of the taxpayer or the partnership for a taxation year or fiscal period shall be adjusted (in this section referred to as an "adjustment") to the quantum or nature of the amounts that would have been determined if,

(c) where only paragraph (a) applies, the terms and conditions made or imposed, in respect of the transaction or series, between the participants in the transaction or series had been those that would have been made between persons dealing at arm's length, or

(d) where paragraph (b) applies, the transaction or series entered into between the participants had been the transaction or series that would have been entered into between persons dealing at arm's length, under terms and conditions that would have been made between persons dealing at arm's length.

Related Provisions: 115.2(4) — Non-resident investment or pension fund deemed not to deal at arm's length with Canadian service provider; 142.7(4) — Deemed value of property on rollover from foreign bank subsidiary to branch; 152(4)(b)(iii) — Reassessment deadline extended by 3 years; 247(3) — Penalty; 247(6) — Tiers of partnerships; 247(7) — Exclusion for loan to subsidiary; 247(7.1) — Exclusion for guarantee provided to subsidiary; 247(10) — Adjustment only if appropriate; Canada-U.S. Tax Treaty:Art. (3) Penalty — A taxpayer (other than a taxpayer all of whose taxable income for the year is exempt from tax under Part I) is liable to a penalty for a taxation year equal to 10% of the amount determined under paragraph (a) in respect of the taxpayer for the year, where

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of

(A) the taxpayer's transfer pricing capital adjustment for the year, and

(B) the taxpayer's transfer pricing income adjustment for the year

exceeds the total of

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of the taxpayer's transfer pricing capital adjustment or transfer pricing income adjustment for the year that can reasonably be considered to relate to a particular transaction, where

(A) the transaction is a qualifying cost contribution arrangement in which the taxpayer or a partnership of which the taxpayer is a member is a participant, or

(B) in any other case, the taxpayer or a partnership of which the taxpayer is a member made reasonable efforts to determine arm's length transfer prices or arm's length

allocations in respect of the transaction, and to use those prices or allocations for the purposes of this Act, and

(iii) the total of all amounts, each of which is the portion of the taxpayer's transfer pricing capital setoff adjustment or transfer pricing income setoff adjustment for the year that can reasonably be considered to relate to a particular transaction, where

(A) the transaction is a qualifying cost contribution arrangement in which the taxpayer or a partnership of which the taxpayer is a member is a participant, or

(B) in any other case, the taxpayer or a partnership of which the taxpayer is a member made reasonable efforts to determine arm's length transfer prices or arm's length allocations in respect of the transaction, and to use those prices or allocations for the purposes of this Act, is greater than

(b) the lesser of

(i) 10% of the amount that would be the taxpayer's gross revenue for the year if this Act were read without reference to subsection (2), subsections 69(1) and (1.2) and section 245, and

(4) Contemporaneous documentation — For the purposes of subsection (3) and the definition "qualifying cost contribution arrangement" in subsection (1), a taxpayer or a partnership is deemed not to have made reasonable efforts to determine and use arm's length transfer prices or arm's length allocations in respect of a transaction or not to have participated in a transaction that is a qualifying cost contribution arrangement, unless the taxpayer or the partnership, as the case may be,

(a) makes or obtains, on or before the taxpayer's or partnership's documentation-due date for the taxation year or fiscal period, as the case may be, in which the transaction is entered into, records or documents that provide a description that is complete and accurate in all material respects of

(i) the property or services to which the transaction relates,

(ii) the terms and conditions of the transaction and their relationship, if any, to the terms and conditions of each other transaction entered into between the participants in the transaction,

(iii) the identity of the participants in the transaction and their relationship to each other at the time the transaction was entered into,

(iv) the functions performed, the property used or contributed and the risks assumed, in respect of the transaction, by the participants in the transaction,

(v) the data and methods considered and the analysis performed to determine the transfer prices or the allocations of profits or losses or contributions to costs, as the case may be, in respect of the transaction, and

(vi) the assumptions, strategies and policies, if any, that influenced the determination of the transfer prices or the allocations of profits or losses or contributions to costs, as the case may be, in respect of the transaction;

(b) for each subsequent taxation year or fiscal period, if any, in which the transaction continues, makes or obtains, on or before the taxpayer's or partnership's documentation-due date for that year or period, as the case may be, records or documents that completely and accurately describe each material change in the year or period to the matters referred to in any of subparagraphs (a)(i) to (vi) in respect of the transaction; and

History: Subsec. 247(5) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable with respect to adjustments made under subsec. 247(2) for taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998, except that subsec. 247(5) does not apply to transactions completed before September 11, 1997.

(6) Deemed member of partnership — For the purposes of this section, where a person is a member of a partnership that is a member of another partnership,

(a) the person is deemed to be a member of the other partnership; and

(b) the person's share of the income or loss of the other partnership is deemed to be equal to the amount of that income or loss to which the person is directly or indirectly entitled.

History: Subsec. 247(6) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

(7) Exclusion for loans to certain controlled foreign affiliates — Where, in a taxation year of a corporation resident in Canada, a non-resident person owes an amount to the corporation, the non-resident person is a controlled foreign affiliate of the corporation for the purpose of section 17 throughout the period in the year during which the amount is owing and it is established that the amount owing is an amount owing described in paragraph 17(8)(a) or (b), subsection (2) does not apply to adjust the amount of interest paid, payable or accruing in the year on the amount owing.

History: Subsec. 247(7) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 79, applicable to taxation years that begin after February 23, 1998. The subsec. formerly read:

(7) Exclusion for loans to subsidiary — Subsection (2) does not apply to a transaction that is a loan referred to in subsection 17(3).

Subsec. 247(7) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 238, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1997.

Proposed Addition — 247(7.1) [subject to further amendment per January 2005 letter below]

(7.1) Exclusion for guarantees in respect of certain controlled foreign affiliates — Subsection (2) will not apply to adjust the amount of consideration paid, payable or accruing to a corporation resident in Canada (referred to in this subsection as the "parent") in a particular taxation year of the parent for the providing of a guarantee of the repayment, in whole or in part, of an amount owing by a non-resident person to a person or partnership (referred to in this subsection as the "lender"), if

(a) the parent provided the guarantee pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into with the lender or with a person or partnership related to the lender,

(b) the non-resident person is a controlled foreign affiliate of the parent for the purpose of section 17 throughout the period in the particular year during which the amount owing is owing, and

(c) it is established that the amount owing would, if the amount owing were an amount owing to the parent, be an amount owing described in paragraph 17(8)(a) or (b).

Application: The draft legislation accompanying a March 11, 2003 comfort letter will add subsec. 247(7.1), applicable to taxation years of a taxpayer that begin after "Announcement Date", except that, if the taxpayer so elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day on which the amending legislation is assented to,

(a) subsec. 247(7.1) applies to taxation years of the taxpayer that begin after 1997,

(b) in applying subsec. 247(7.1) to taxation years that begin before February 24, 1998, s. 17 shall be read as it read on "Announcement Date", and

(c) in applying subsec. 247(7.1), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under that Act for any of those taxation years of the taxpayer that begin before ["Announcement Date" + 1] shall, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), be made that is necessary to take the election into account.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 11, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to your letter dated December 19, 2002 in which you requested that an amendment be made to the transfer pricing rules in section 247 of the Income Tax Act to exclude explicitly from the ambit of those rules, certain loan guarantees provided by Canadian resident corporations in respect of their controlled foreign affiliates.

In your letter, you noted that subsection 247(7) of the Act provides an exception, from the ambit of the transfer pricing rules, for certain loans made by a Canadian resident parent corporation to its controlled foreign affiliates. Specifically, that subsection provides that where a non-resident person owes an amount to a corporation resident in Canada, the non-resident person is a controlled foreign affiliate of the corporation for the purposes of section 17 of the Act and the amount owing is described in either paragraph 17(8)(a) or (b), subsection 247(2) will not apply to adjust the amount of interest paid, payable or accruing in the year on the amount owing. In general terms, an amount owing is described in paragraph 17(8)(a) or (b) if it arose as a loan, or advance of money, that was used by the affiliate to earn active business income or if it arose in the course of an active business carried on by the affiliate.

We agree that it would be appropriate in tax policy terms to provide for a parallel exception to the transfer pricing rules for guarantees provided by Canadian resident corporations in respect of controlled foreign affiliates. Accordingly, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended to provide that subsection 247(2) of the Act will not apply to adjust the amount of consideration paid, payable or accruing to a corporation resident in Canada (the "parent") in a particular taxation year of the parent for the providing of a guarantee of the repayment, in whole or in part, of an amount owing by a non-resident person to a person or partnership (the "lender"), if

- the parent provided the guarantee pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into with the lender or with a person related to the lender,
- the non-resident person is a controlled foreign affiliate of the parent for the purpose of section 17 of the Act throughout the period in the particular year during which the amount owing is owing, and
- it is established that the amount owing would, if the amount owing were an amount owing to the parent, be an amount owing described in paragraph 17(8)(a) or (b).

If these recommendations are acted upon, I would anticipate that the amendment would be included in a future technical bill.

We will recommend that the amendment apply prospectively, with taxpayers having an option to also apply it to taxation years that begin after 1997. For taxation years that begin before February 24, 1998, the above-noted definition (of "controlled foreign affiliate") and descriptions from section 17, as it currently reads, would be applied.

I wish to thank you for raising this matter with us.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber, General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Jan. 24, 2005:

Dear [xxx]

I am writing in response to your letter dated October 27 and 28, 2004 in connection with section 247 of the Income Tax Act (the "Act").

In a comfort letter dated March 11, 2003 issued on behalf of the Tax Legislation Division, we indicated that we were prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance an amendment to the Act in connection with section 247. The March 11, 2003 letter was drafted to address particular sets of circumstances.

In your correspondence, you ask that our recommended amendments to the Minister be modified to address a broader range of circumstances under which a corporation resident in Canada may guarantee an amount owing by a non-resident but not provide that guarantee in writing. To support your request, you cite examples of where a corporation resident in Canada could provide a guarantee of a non-resident's debt without written agreements between the corporation resident in Canada and the lender.

We concur with your view. Accordingly, we are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended so that subsection 247(2) of the Act will not apply to adjust the amount of consideration paid, payable or accruing to a corporation resident in Canada (the "parent") in a particular taxation year of the parent for the provision of a guarantee of the repayment, in whole or in part, of an amount owing by a non-resident person, if

- the non-resident person is a controlled foreign affiliate of the parent for the purpose of section 17 of the Act throughout the period in the particular year during which the amount owing is owing, and
- it is established that the amount owing would, if the amount owing were an amount owing to the parent, be an amount owing described in paragraph 17(8)(a) or (b).

If these recommendations are acted upon, I would anticipate that the amendment would be included in a future technical bill.

We will recommend that the amendment apply prospectively, with taxpayers having an option to also apply it to taxation years that begin after 1997. For taxation years that begin before February 24, 1998, the above-noted definition (of "controlled foreign affiliate") and descriptions from section 17, as it currently reads, would be applied.

In your correspondence, you also suggested that the Act be amended to provide that subsection 247(2) of the Act not apply to adjust the amount of consideration paid, payable or accruing to a corporation resident in Canada for the giving of a guarantee of the amounts owing by a controlled foreign affiliate of the corporation resident in Canada as lessee under a lease of property. Although there may be some similarities as between a guarantee relating to a debt obligation and a guarantee relating to a lease obligation, I am not prepared, at this time, to recommend such an amendment without comprehensive review of the facts and information concerning the lease arrangements referred to in your letter. Should you provide the required facts and information, we will study your suggestion as part of our ongoing review of the provisions of the Act.

Thank you for your correspondence.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(8) Provisions not applicable — Where subsection (2) would, if this Act were read without reference to sections 67 and 68 and subsections 69(1) and (1.2), apply to adjust an amount under this Act, sections 67 and 68 and subsections 69(1) and (1.2) shall not apply to determine the amount if subsection (2) is applied to adjust the amount.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 44(1), will add para. (b.1) to the definition "amount" in subsec. 248(1), applicable to dividends declared on or after July 18, 2005.

Technical Notes: The expression "amount" is defined in subsection 248(1) to mean money, rights or things expressed in terms of the amount of money or the value in terms of money of the right or thing. A number of special definitions, that apply in limited circumstances, of "amount" are set out in paragraphs (a) to (c) of the definition.

The definition "amount" is amended to add new paragraph (b.1). New paragraph (b.1) of that definition provides that in the case of a stock dividend paid by a non-resident corporation, the amount of any stock dividend is, except where subsection 95(7) applies to the dividend, the greater of two amounts. The first is the amount by which the paid-up capital of the corporation that paid the dividend is increased by reason of the payment of the dividend. The second is the fair market value of the share or shares paid as a stock dividend at the time of payment.

(c) in any other case, the "amount" of any stock dividend is the amount by which the paid-up capital of the corporation that paid the dividend is increased by reason of the payment of the dividend;

(b) would be the parent of a child of whom the taxpayer is a parent, if this Act were read without reference to paragraphs 252(1)(c) and (e) and subparagraph 252(2)(a)(iii), and, for the purposes of this definition, where at any time the taxpayer and the person cohabit in a conjugal relationship, they are, at any particular time after that time, deemed to be cohabiting in a conjugal relationship unless they were not cohabiting at the particular time for a period of at least 90 days that includes the particular time because of a breakdown of their conjugal relationship;

Proposed Amendment — 248(1)"common-law partner"

"common-law partner", with respect to a taxpayer at any time, means a person who cohabits at that time in a conjugal relationship with the taxpayer and

(a) has so cohabited throughout the 12-month period that ends at that time, or

(b) would be the parent of a child of whom the taxpayer is a parent, if this Act were read without reference to paragraphs 252(1)(c) and (e) and subparagraph 252(2)(a)(iii),

and, for the purpose of this definition, where at any time the taxpayer and the person cohabit in a conjugal relationship, they are, at any particular time after that time, deemed to be cohabiting in a conjugal relationship unless they were living separate and apart at the particular time for a period of at least 90 days that includes the particular time because of a breakdown of their conjugal relationship;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 187(1), will amend the definition "common-law partner" in subsec. 248(1) to read as above, applicable in determining whether a person is, for 2001 et seq., a common-law partner of a taxpayer, except that the amendment does not apply to so determine whether a person is a common-law partner of a taxpayer for a taxation year to which a valid election, made under s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act, applied before February 27, 2004. However, after February 26, 2004, no such election may be made to affect a current or subsequent taxation year.

Technical Notes: An individual becomes the common-law partner of another individual once they have cohabited in a conjugal relationship for at least one year. Paragraph (a) of the definition "common-law partner" in subsection 248(1) is amended, effective for the 2001 and subsequent taxation years, to clarify that, for an individual to be considered the common-law partner of another person at a particular time, the individual and that other person need to have cohabited in a conjugal relationship throughout the twelve-month period that ends at that particular time.

History: The definition "common-law partner" added to subsec. 248(1) by 2000, c. 12, subsec. 139(2), applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000.

Ss. 144 to 146 of 2000, c. 12 provide the following transitional rules:

144. Where a taxpayer and a person who would have been the taxpayer's common-law partner in the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation year, if sections 130 to 142 applied to the applicable year, jointly elect in respect of that year by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in prescribed manner on or before their filing due date for the year in which this Act receives royal assent, those sections apply to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years.

145. Where, but for the application of sections 130 to 142, paragraphs 56(1)(b) and 60(b) of the Income Tax Act would not apply to amounts paid and received pursuant to an order or a written agreement made before the coming into force of this section, those paragraphs do not apply unless the payor and the recipient of the amounts jointly elect to have those paragraphs apply to those amounts for the 2001 and following taxation years by notifying the Minister of National Revenue in prescribed manner on or before their filing due date for the year in which this Act receives royal assent.

146. Despite subsections 152(4) to (5) of the Income Tax Act, the Minister of National Revenue may make any assessment or reassessment and additional assessment of tax, interest and penalties and may make any determinations and redeterminations that are necessary to give effect to section 144 for any taxation year.

"cost amount" to a taxpayer of any property at any time means, except as expressly otherwise provided in this Act,

(a) where the property was depreciable property of the taxpayer of a prescribed class, the amount that would be that proportion of the undepreciated capital cost to the taxpayer of property of that class at that time that the capital cost to the taxpayer of the property is of the capital cost to the taxpayer of all property of that class that had not been disposed of by the taxpayer before that time if subsection 13(7) were read without reference to paragraph 13(7)(e) and if

(i) paragraph 13(7)(b) were read as follows:

"(b) where a taxpayer, having acquired property for some other purpose, has commenced at a later time to use it for the purpose of gaining or producing income, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired it at that later time at a capital cost to the taxpayer equal to the fair market value of the property at that later time;", and

(ii) subparagraph 13(7)(d)(i) were read as follows:

"(i) if the use regularly made by the taxpayer of the property for the purpose of gaining or producing income has increased, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have acquired at that time depreciable property of that class at a capital cost equal to the proportion of its fair market value at that time that the amount of the increase in the use regularly made by the taxpayer of the property for that purpose is of the whole of the use regularly made of the property, and"

(b) where the property was capital property (other than depreciable property) of the taxpayer, its adjusted cost base to the taxpayer at that time,

(c) where the property was property described in an inventory of the taxpayer, its value at that time as determined for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income,

(c.1) where the taxpayer was a financial institution in its taxation year that includes that time and the property was a mark-to-market property for the year, the cost to the taxpayer of the property,

Proposed Addition — 248(1)"cost amount"(c.2)

(c.2) where the cost at that time to the taxpayer of the property is determined under subsection 94.2(13), the cost so determined,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 44(3), will add para. (c.2) to the definition "cost amount" in subsec. 248(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2006, except that it also applies to a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes: This definition is used throughout the Act, particularly in provisions relating to the transfer of properties to and from corporations, trusts and partnerships.

New paragraph (c.2) of the definition provides that, where a cost of property to a taxpayer is determined as of any time under new subsection 94.2(13), that cost is also the "cost amount", under subsection 248(1), of the property to the taxpayer at that time.

(d) where the property was eligible capital property of the taxpayer in respect of a business, 4/3 of the amount that would, but for subsection 14(3), be determined by the formula

where

A is the cumulative eligible capital of the taxpayer in respect of the business at that time,

B is the fair market value at that time of the property, and

C is the fair market value at that time of all the eligible capital property of the taxpayer in respect of the business,

(d.1) where the property was a loan or lending asset (other than a net income stabilization account or a property in respect of which paragraph (b), (c), (c.1) or (d.2) applies), the amortized cost of the property to the taxpayer at that time,

(d.2) where the taxpayer was a financial institution in its taxation year that includes that time and the property was a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the year), the tax basis of the property to the taxpayer at that time,

(e) where the property was a right of the taxpayer to receive an amount, other than property that is

(i) a debt the amount of which was deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that ended before that time,

(ii) a net income stabilization account,

(iii) a right in respect of which paragraph (b), (c), (c.1), (d.1) or (d.2) applies, or

(iv) a right to receive production (as defined in subsection 18.1(1)) to which a matchable expenditure (as defined in subsection 18.1(1)) relates, the amount the taxpayer has a right to receive,

(e.1) where the property was a policy loan (within the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12)) of an insurer, nil,

(e.2) where the property is an interest of a beneficiary under a qualifying environmental trust, nil, and

(f) in any other case, the cost to the taxpayer of the property as determined for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income, except to the extent that that cost has been deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for any taxation year ending before that time; and, for the purposes of this definition, "financial institution", "mark-to-market property" and "specified debt obligation" have the meanings assigned by subsection 142.2(1), and "tax basis" has the meaning assigned by subsection 142.4(1);

"disposition" of any property, except as expressly otherwise provided, includes

(a) any transaction or event entitling a taxpayer to proceeds of disposition of the property,

(b) any transaction or event by which,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 187(3), will amend subpara. (b)(i) of the definition "disposition" in subsec. 248(1) to read as above, applicable to redemptions, acquisitions and cancellations that occur after December 23, 1998 and, where a particular redemption, acquisition or cancellation occurs before December 21, 2002, any assessment of a taxpayer's tax, interest and penalties payable under the Act for a taxation year that includes the time at which the particular redemption, acquisition or cancellation occurred shall, notwithstanding subsecs. 152(4) to (5), be made that is necessary to take into account the application of the amendment.

Technical Notes: The expression "disposition" is used throughout the Act, particularly in provisions relating to transactions involving property.

The definition "disposition" was added to subsection 248(1) by S.C. 2001, chapter 17, ss. 188(5) [formerly Bill C-22] [2001 technical bill — ed.]. In general, that definition is applicable to transactions and events that occur after December 23, 1998. The former definition "disposition" was contained in section 54, applicable to transactions and events that occurred before December 24, 1998.

Under the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1), a "disposition" of any property includes a transaction or an event described in any of paragraphs (a) to (d) of that definition but does not include a transaction or an event described in any of paragraphs (e) to (m) of that definition.

Under subparagraph (b)(i) of that definition, a disposition of a property includes any transaction or event by which, where the property is a share, bond, debenture, note, certificate, mortgage, agreement of sale or similar property, or an interest in it, the property "is redeemed in whole or in Part or is cancelled".

The definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) is amended in the following ways.

First, subparagraph (b)(i) of the definition now provides that a disposition of property includes any transaction or event by which, where the property is a share, bond, debenture, note, certificate, mortgage, agreement of sale or similar property, or an interest in it, the property "is in whole or in Part redeemed, acquired or cancelled". This amendment makes it clear that a disposition will also include a transaction or event by which the property is acquired. . . .

In connection with redemptions, acquisitions and cancellations that occur before December 24, 1998, see the commentary to new subsection 248(1.1).

(ii) where the property is a debt or any other right to receive an amount, the debt or other right is settled or cancelled,

(iii) where the property is a share, the share is converted because of an amalgamation or merger,

(iv) where the property is an option to acquire or dispose of property, the option expires, and

(v) a trust, that can reasonably be considered to act as agent for all the beneficiaries under the trust with respect to all dealings with all of the trust's property (unless the trust is described in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1)), ceases to act as agent for a beneficiary under the trust with respect to any dealing with any of the trust's property,

Proposed Addition — 248(1)"disposition"(b.1)

(b.1) where the property is an interest in a life insurance policy, a disposition within the meaning of section 148,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 44(4), will add para. (b.1) to the "disposition", applicable to taxation years that begin after 2006, except that it also applies to a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins before 2007 if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to that taxation year of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes: The definition "disposition" is amended to add new paragraph (b.1). New paragraph (b.1) of the definition ensures that, where a property is an interest in a life insurance policy, what would constitute a disposition for the purposes of section 148 will also constitute a disposition for the entire Act.

Related Provisions: 148(9)"disposition" — Disposition of life insurance policy.

(c) any transfer of the property to a trust or, where the property is property of a trust, any transfer of the property to any beneficiary under the trust, except as provided by paragraph (f) or (k), and

(d) where the property is, or is part of, a taxpayer's capital interest in a trust, except as provided by paragraph (h) or (i), a payment made after 1999 to the taxpayer from the trust that can reasonably be considered to have been made because of the taxpayer's capital interest in the trust,

but does not include

(e) any transfer of the property as a consequence of which there is no change in the beneficial ownership of the property, except where the transfer is

(i) from a person or a partnership to a trust for the benefit of the person or the partnership,

(ii) from a trust to a beneficiary under the trust, or

(iii) from one trust maintained for the benefit of one or more beneficiaries under the trust to another trust maintained for the benefit of the same beneficiaries,

(f) any transfer of the property as a consequence of which there is no change in the beneficial ownership of the property, where

(i) the transferor and the transferee are trusts,

(ii) the transfer is not by a trust resident in Canada to a non-resident trust,

Proposed Amendment — 248(1)"disposition"(f)(i), (ii)

(i) the transferor and the transferee are trusts that are, at the time of the transfer, resident in Canada,

(ii) [Repealed]

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 187(4), will replace subparas. (f)(i) and (ii) of the definition "disposition" in subsec. 248(1) with subpara. (f)(i), applicable to transfers that occur after February 27, 2004.

Technical Notes: Third, the definition "disposition" in subsection 248(1) is also amended by restricting the circumstances in which a transfer of property between trusts will not be treated as a disposition. In particular, paragraph (f) of the definition is amended so that a transfer of property from a trust to another trust will avoid, under that paragraph, characterization as a disposition only if both trusts are, at the time of the transfer, resident in Canada.

(iii) the transferee does not receive the property in satisfaction of the transferee's right as a beneficiary under the transferor trust,

(iv) the transferee held no property immediately before the transfer (other than property the cost of which is not included, for the purposes of this Act, in computing a balance of undeducted outlays, expenses or other amounts in respect of the transferee),

(v) the transferee does not file a written election with the Minister on or before the filing-due date for its taxation year in which the transfer is made (or on such later date as is acceptable to the Minister) that this paragraph not apply,

(vi) if the transferor is an amateur athlete trust, a cemetery care trust, an employee trust, an inter vivos trust deemed by subsection 143(1) to exist in respect of a congregation that is a constituent part of a religious organization, a related segregated fund trust (in this paragraph having the meaning assigned by section 138.1), a trust described in paragraph 149(1)(o.4) or a trust governed by an eligible funeral arrangement, an employees profit sharing plan, a registered disability savings plan, a registered education savings plan, a registered supplementary unemployment benefit plan or a TFSA, the transferee is the same type of trust, and

(vii) the transfer results, or is part of a series of transactions or events that results, in the transferor ceasing to exist and, immediately before the time of the transfer or the beginning of that series, as the case may be, the transferee never held any property or held only property having a nominal value,

(g) [Repealed]

(h) where the property is part of a capital interest of a taxpayer in a trust (other than a personal trust or a trust prescribed for the purpose of subsection 107(2)) that is described by reference to units issued by the trust, a payment after 1999 from the trust in respect of the capital interest, where the number of units in the trust that are owned by the taxpayer is not reduced because of the payment,

(i) where the property is a taxpayer's capital interest in a trust, a payment to the taxpayer after 1999 in respect of the capital interest to the extent that the payment

(i) is out of the income of the trust (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) for a taxation year or out of the capital gains of the trust for the year, if the payment was made in the year or the right to the payment was acquired by the taxpayer in the year, or

(ii) is in respect of an amount designated in respect of the taxpayer by the trust under subsection 104(20),

Proposed Amendment — 248(1)"disposition"(i)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, March 7, 2003: See under 132.11(4).

(j) any transfer of the property for the purpose only of securing a debt or a loan, or any transfer by a creditor for the purpose only of returning property that had been used as security for a debt or a loan,

(k) any transfer of the property to a trust as a consequence of which there is no change in the beneficial ownership of the property, where the main purpose of the transfer is

(i) to effect payment under a debt or loan,

(ii) to provide assurance that an absolute or contingent obligation of the transferor will be satisfied, or

(iii) to facilitate either the provision of compensation or the enforcement of a penalty, in the event that an absolute or contingent obligation of the transferor is not satisfied,

(l) any issue of a bond, debenture, note, certificate, mortgage or hypothecary claim, and

(m) any issue by a corporation of a share of its capital stock, or any other transaction that, but for this paragraph, would be a disposition by a corporation of a share of its capital stock;

Proposed Addition — 248(1)"disposition"(n)
